JUDGE A. E. SILK, WHITSTABLE.

This Strain of Norwich is the best in United Kingdom. Show reports stand for little. Find out where the winners at the shows originally came from. THAT IS THE GREATEST POINT....Don't be led into buying birds with no blood relation to the winners, and have no real strain in them. Winners can be bought, but winners cannot be bred unless you have the right stock birds. To get the right stock you must Send to the Fountain Head.

Some excellent Match Pairs, properly matched by an expert, from 20/- to 80/-. Grand Hens from 10/- to 40/-. Cocks, 10/- to 40/-. Approval with pleasure. It is to your interest to note carefully the address.

JUDGE SILK, WHITSTABLE.

CRYSTAL PALACE

Feb. 6th to 10th, 1914.

To all old friends and new I extend a cordial invitation to pay a visit to my stall at the Palace Show on any of the above dates. I hope to have a choice selection of birds for sale, also breeding cages, and bird-room requisites. I shall be pleased to meet any Fanciers requiring birds for stock or exhibition, and will personally book their requirements. To those unable to come and see me, I shall be pleased to send any birds they may require on 10 days' approval at my sole risk.

As regards the quality of my stock, it is surely sufficient to say that I have won during the present season over 400 prizes at champion shows all over the Kingdom. These include Firsts and Specials at all the leading shows, also numerous Cups, Medals, and Trophies offered for competition by the Specialist Clubs.

These are facts which cannot be disputed, and need no comment. I am now offering marvellous value in the following varieties:—

CHAMPION NORWICH, THE BULLDOG STRAIN.

Grand, short, thick-set birds, cocks or hens, at 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-, 60/- each upwards. Matched pairs, personally selected by me for breeding winners, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-, 60/- to 100/- per pair. Blood is sure to tell in the end, and I am prepared to give a written guarantee that the above are bred by me from my noted strain of winners. I have also a few real good robby birds bred from other well-known strains at the following prices: Cocks, in full song, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 17/6, 20/- each. Grand cobby hens, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- each. Matched breeding pairs, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 17/6, 20/-, 25/- per pair.

CHAMPION YORKSHIRES.

Grand, lengthy Yorkshire Cocks, with good position, and in full song, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/- each. Erect, racy hens, feathered to perfection, 3/6, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 10/- each. Matched pairs, personally selected, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/- per pair.

EXHIBITOIN YORKSHIRES.

I have a few specially goood birds, ready for immediate benching, that can easily win their cost in prize-money. Cocks or hens, in clears, ticks, or marked, at 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/- each. Also a few specially matched pairs, bred from the best blood in the Fancy, and personally matched by me for breeding winners, at 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-, 60/- per pair. I have also a few of this season's open winners for sale at a working-man's price. Write for particulars.

CRESTS AND CRESTED-BRED.

I am offering wonderful value in this variety, as follows: Crested Cocks, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/- each. Crested Hens, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/- each. Crest-bred Cocks, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/- each. Crest-bred Hens, 7/6, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/- each. Matched Pairs at 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/- per pair upwards. The above are large, massive, feathery birds, and will give satisfaction anywhere.

PURE SEIFERT ROLLERS.

I have a very large stock of these marvellous songsters, and am in a special position to give satisfaction to all Roller Fanciers. Kindly note the following prices: Cocks, thoroughly trained and in full rolling song, with many changes of tours, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 17/6, 20/- each. Genuine Schoolmasters, specially trained for contest singing, 20/-, 26/-, 30/-, 40/- each upwards. Hens, guaranteed same pure strain, 3/-, 4/-, 5/-, 7/6 each.

Am also offering a limited number of hens bred from one of the best strains in England, at 7/6 and 10/- each. These are worth treble to any breeder. All B.R.C.C. rung. Full particulars on application.

Grand, healthy, Sib, hens, for muling, 3/-, 3/6, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6 each; Goldfinch Mules, in full song, 7/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/- each; Linnet Mules, in full song, 7/6, 10/-, 12/6 each.

Travelling Cages 3d. extra in all cases.

I have also a splendid selection of Border Fancies, Lancashires, Scotch Fancies, Lizards, etc., etc.

Kindly remember, I issue an open invitation to all fanciers to call at any time and inspect my stock. You need not announce your visit; come at any time (except Sundays). You will be sure of a hearty welcome and will be shown round my rooms whether desiring to purchase or not.

Any fancier requiring stock is invited to come and make his own selection. To those unable to come I am prepared to send one or more birds to any address in the kingdom at my sole risk. I will send on 7 or 10 days' approval anywhere, and will guarantee absolute satisfaction to every customer or cash returned in full.

EASY PAYMENTS can be arranged to suit the convenience of genuine fanciers who are not in a position to pay cash. Send a postcard for my free illustrated catalogue, containing much useful information concerning the cage bird hobby.

MENAI BRIDGE AND DIST. C.B.S

Committee meeting held Jan. 22, Mr. R. W. Roberts presiding over a well-attended meeting. Present: Treas., A. Jones, A. W. Huxley, W. H. Williams, J. Wilson (Llangoed), J. Jones, W. Williams, W. Jones. The committee has hired the Council School for the forthcoming show (Easter Monday), an ideal room, with plenty of light, free from draughts, and can be heated if required. Seventeen classes in all (2 novices), special in each class, and extra specials in sections. Mr. A. C. Brotherhood judge. We hope that North Wales fanciers will give us their best support. Schedules will be ready shortly, and will be sent to all known exhibitors.—W. Nolan, Hon. Sec.

VALE OF LEVEN C.B.C.

Annual meeting held in village schoolroom, Alexandria, Jan. 13. Pres. Donaldson (chair). After wishing those present the compliments of the season, he feelingly referred to the death of Mr. William Taylor, and sec. was requested to write a letter of condolence to his widow. The annual report having been read, showing the membership to be one hundred and six, and the income much greater than any previous year, was unanimously passed. Election of office-bearers: Hon. pres., A. Gilmour; hon. vice-pres., J. W. Bell, Esq., R. Watkinson, Esq.; Pres. Donaldson being of opinion that honours should go round, proposed Vice-Pres. W. B. Gillies as Pres., who, being unanimously appointed, proposed a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Donaldson, which was unanimously accorded. Mr. McLean intimated he should like to be relieved of sec. and treasurership, desired another to be appointed; as the meeting refused to appoint another, he consented to act for another year. Messrs. J. Hannay and W. A. Donaldson were appointed auditors, and J. Campbell, A. Clemson (Alexandria), J. Hannah, J. McEwan, Radhill, P. McAdam and G. McColl, Ballach, W. Bennie and J. Roxburgh, Renton, J. McBride and D. McIntyre, Dunbarton, Wm. Bavidson, Helensburgh, as district representatives. Agreed to hold pair Canary show Feb. 16, Messrs. J. Hannah, J. McEwan, and J. Campbell judges Specials were kindly promised as follows: Mr. J. Hannah, best pair Nor.; Mr. A. W. Donaldson, best pair Crests; Mr. J. McEwan, best pair Borders; Mr. J. Campbell, best pair of Scotch Fancies; Mr. P. McAdam, best pair Yorks.; silver medal by secy. to be best pair Canaries. Special by president to second best pair. W. H. McLean, Hon. Sec.

ST. JAMES-THE-LESS (Bethnal Green).

Annual general meeting, held in Men's Club, St. James' Road, Jan. 13. The balance-sheet showed £10 in hand; 16 new members were elected: Messrs. A. Sage, J. E. Goldsmith (Hackney), H. Pimm, S. Bromley, H. Castle, T. A. Taylor (Bow), J. Goodwin (Homerton), E. Booth (Old Ford), F. E. May, A. Young, H. Stowers, F. Wiggins (Dalston), E. Kelly (Clapton), Cornish (Bethnal Green), R. W. Ford, L. G. Rhode (Stoke Newington) and the following nominated for membership: G. Hart (Old Ford), G. H. Seamer (Stoke Newington), E. Wood (Dalston) R. Warner (Bow). The executive comprises pres. and treas., Rev. J. L. Watts-Ditchfield, M.A.; chair., Rev. T. H. Falkiner; vice-chair., Mr. W. Godfrey; vice-treas., Mr. G. Longcroft; hon. secs., Messrs. Thos. G. Bransford and F. L. Adams; show sec., Mr. H. Bromley. Messrs. S. Forecast and Bacon were added to the list of vice presidents; committee, Messrs. W. Lazell, F. H. Marhoff, A. W. Vagg, J. Reese, H. Bull, J. Neale, J. Colwell, W. Paffey, C. Brichard, J. Goodwin, E. A. Suter, F. Trew; auditors, J. E. Goldsmith and W. Stevens. During the evening Mr. Geo. Longcroft received a present as a mark of esteem from an appreciative member. Committee meeting Feb. 2nd, young stock show Sept. 19, annual Nov. 21.—Thos. G. Bransford, Hon. Sec.

WEST LONDON F.A.

25th annual general meeting, held Hampshire House Club, Hammersmith, Jan. 8. Owing to the wretched night it was not a large gathering of members, but those who faced the elements had plenty to do, also to hear. Sec. read several letters from members, apologising for not being able to attend. Balance-sheet for the past year, and the auditor's report were read. Mr. Gibbons, auditor, said he had never seen such clear and clean books. They were a credit to Mr. Dewhurst, the hon. sec., and to our Society. To cut down expenses it was passed that no balance sheet be printed, but the sec. said that in order that all members should have one he would type some free of charge. A hearty vote of thanks was given for officers' services in the past year. Patrons and officers for ensuing year were elected. Patrons, Leopold de Rothschild, Esq., H. Grey, Esq., M.R.C.V.S.; Pres., Dr. W. Roberts; vice-pres., Messrs. J. Turner; W. G. Gibbons, J. Freeman, J. Bray, H. Peveral, J. C. Warren, R. L. Crisp, T. Crust, J. Dewhurst, T. Jonas, W. J. Lethbridge, W. A. Shepherd, A. J. Lack, W. H. Mugford; chair., H. H. Gibbons; vice, A. J. Lack; hon. treas., J. Turner; hon. vet. surg., H. Grey, M.R.C.V.S.; auditors, W. G. Gibbons, J. Bray; press corres., A. Beavington. Mr. Dewhurst having resigned secretaryship, his son, Mr. J. W. Dewhurst, who had assisted his father so well in the past, was elected, members thinking they were lucky to have such a qualified member to fill such a responsible position. Committee elected: Mrs. Thynne, Mrs. Bowell, Messrs. G. Butterfield, T. Annison, T. Yeo, W. S. Bennett, Smith, R. Jonas, Shorratt, F. Knight, T. Stone, Easterling, A. Beavington. Judge for coming shows, J. Robson. The next item was most important. Decided to move to the Windsor Castle Hotel, King Street, Hammersmith, a beautiful large, well-lighted room, lifted with electric light and all modern improvements, with separate committee room. Buses and trams pass the door, and the Tube and Met. Railway are within five minutes. The committee are endeavouring to make this society and the show this year a success, therefore they had to find ways and means. It was proposed to add to the list of special prizes, besides the valuable silver cups, special for most points during the year for the three sections, champion, amateur and novice. That being agreed, Mr. W. G. Gibbons, Mr. T. Crust, Mr. A. Beavington, all guaranteed a silver plated teapot to be won outright. Mr. J. W. Dewhurst, junr., promised a hand-painted diploma for most points during the year, to be won three times, not necessarily in succession. These were accepted, amid applause. In presenting the cups and diplomas the chairman made a few encouraging remarks to each winner: Mr. Bennett, Yorks. cup, won outright; Mr. Franz, Crest cup; Mr. Butterfield, Nor. cup; Mrs. Thynne, Foreign cup; Mr. Dewhurst, Buff cup, also cup presented by W. A. Shepherd, Esq. Mr. Bennett won shield for runner-up Yorks. cup. Diplomas: Champ., Mr. Turner, best up Yorks. cup. Diplomas: Champ., Mr. Turner, best in show, Mr. Willers, Nor.; Mrs. Crest, also best in show, Mr. Willers, Nor.; Mrs. Bennett, Yorks., Amat., Mr. Hart; Nor., Mr. Clark; Yorks., Nov., Mrs. Bowell, Yorks.; Mr. A. Beavington, Nor., Mrs. Thynne, For.; Mr. Dewhurst, Brit. These diplomas were all specials given by Mr. J. W. Dewhurst. A hearty vote of thanks to Chairman and Sec. terminated the meeting. The opening of the new quarters will be duly announced.—A. Beavington.

CRAGHEAD C.B.S.

First annual show will be held Feb. 14, at Mr. R. Lawson's, Black House. Judge, Mr. J. Stanger, Pelton Fell. 24 classes for Canaries and British birds. Sec. has got a good number of good specials, and we are sure to have a big show. All fanciers are heartily invited to visit our show.—Alf. Dawson, Sec.

BISHOP AUCKLAND C.B.S.

Meeting held Y.M.C.A. Hall, on Jan. 28; Mr. Button, chairman, presided. There was only a moderate number present. Decided to hold members' pair show, Feb. 14; birds staged 4 p.m.: members are requested to attend and bring plenty of entries. Fee, 6d. per cage. Points gained at table shows count for Boothroyd cup, and to be decided at open show, under society's special rules. Five new members were proposed and accepted, which is very encouraging and a good start for 1914. Election of officers will take place at this gathering, time permitting.—R. Elliott, Hon. Sec.

SOUTHAMPTON C.B.S.

General meeting held Feb. 2, headquarters; 25 present. Four new members were made, Messrs. Slade, Love, Matson, and Hockley. Our numbers steadily increase at each meeting, which is very satisfactory. Members are very enthusiastic about our first members' show, Kingsland Assembly Hall, Feb. 25. Mr. Martin Cook, Bournemouth, is judging, and 25 classes have been provided; prize-money on sliding scale. We have a hard working band of fanciers, who are all ready to help, and our society's prospects look particularly bright at present. W. L. Page, Hon. Sec.

LEINSTER O.S.

Meeting held Jan. 27, Mr. J. J. Cloke, Esq., chair. Unanimously decided to hold the club's first annual dinner and social at the Four Courts Hotel, Feb. 18. Fanciers desirous of joining the company should notify the hon. sec. at once, as arrangements have to be made for the occasion; tickets, 3/6. Second annual show has been fixed for Oct. 27 and 28 next. The schedule of 1913 will be adhered to, excepting that Field-moulted Linnet and Finch classes will probably be deleted unless guaranteed. Subs. for 1914 are now due.—C. Holley, Hon. Sec., 66, Fitzroy Avenue, Dublin.

EASTLEIGH AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

We have made a good start with our new society; members are steadily coming in. We have secured the support of some first-class fanciers, and there is every possibility of making our society a big success. Fanciers will do well by joining.—J. Aldersladé, Sec., 64, Dreshore Road, Eastleigh.

MIDDLESBRO' & TEES-SIDE C.B.S

Annual pair and British show held Grangetown Hotel, with some keen competition. Mr. Marwood judged, his awards giving general satisfaction. Entries totalled 115, a most enjoyable evening was spent.

YORKS (10): 1, 2, Rand; 3, Taylor; 4, Fox. NOR. (11): 1, 2, 4, Bibby; 3, Wake. A.O.V. CAN.: 1, 2, 3, Appleyard; 4, Gibson. MULING PAIRS: 1, Wake; 2, 4, Wells; 3, Appleyard. HYB. LONGTON C.B.S.

Meeting held Jan. 28, Rochuck Hotel, Mr. J. Davies chair, before a good meeting. Mr. Davies presented Mr. N. Leese with the rose bowl, and hoped he would still continue his winning career. The other specials were given out as well. Decided that we have a pair show next meeting, headquarters, 8, Mr. C. Degg judge. 6d. entry; 2d. per cage, for soc.'s funds. Classification: Nor., Yorks., Muling, Hyb., Goldf., Linnet, A.O.V. Brit. Hardbill, Nor. single, Yorks single. Members please classify from this. Next meeting is the annual meeting, and I want to have the season's working settled up, so kindly all turn up and oblige.—P. L. Barker, Hon. Sec.

WOOD GREEN F.F.A.

Annual meeting, held Jan. 13, brought a most successful year to a close; 30 new members joined during the year, bringing the total to 144. The accounts leave a balance in hand, and assets value £20, but our best asset is the enthusiasm and good feeling amongst the members. During the evening the Hon. Sec., Mr. G. T. Harris, was presented with a cheque as a token of the members' appreciation of his past services. The cups won at the annual show were presented to the winners. The cage birds cup was won by Mr. Higgins. Officers elected:—Pres., A. J. Heinze; chair, A. Brand; vice, H. Betts; Hon. Sec., G. T. Harris; show Secs., Easton Bros., and a strong committee of 18. The meeting closed with a hearty vote of thanks to the Fancy Press for the many favours received during the past year. Members requiring advertisements in our year book please notify sec. at once; subs. for 1914 are due. T. Callegari.

HIGHGATE, HAMPSTEAD, C.B.S.

Sixth annual general meeting held headquarters, Spencer Hall, Jan. 26, when there was a good muster. Sec. read balance-sheet, which showed a total turnover of £49 14s. 3d. Although having no balance, the society has succeeded in removing the deficit on last year's account, while the assets in cup, staging material, etc., amounted to £19. Besides the grand challenge cup presented by the President, Mr. Geo. A. Touche, M.P., we have been presented with three additional, one to be won outright in 1914, two by Mr. J. P. Ayres, one by Mr. G. E. Weston, while a sign that the society is again flourishing is that 11 members have joined during 1913, with 8 more to start the year (a record for one night). Messrs. G. Ewer, Alton M. Jones, H. Bailey, Langley, H. L. Pennell, W. Sherratt, J. North, and H. Humphreys. Terms of membership are 1/- on nomination, and 3/- subs. For full particulars, apply to Sec., 1, Raydon-st., South Highgate, N. Officers were elected for 1914: Pres., Mr. Geo. A. Touche, M.P.; vice-pres., Mr. C. W. Law; chair, Mr G. Gardiner; vice-chair, Mr. R. T. Dann; treas., Mr. F. Sparks; auditors, Mr. W. Shearer and Mr. W. J. Kent; sec., J. Hyde; asst. sec., Geo. Street; committee, Messrs. J. P. Ayres, Mound, Johnston, W. Knight, Large, Withers, Wills, Bush, Carrington, H. T. Jones, Shakespeare, and A. Knight. J. Hyde, Hon. Sec.

CUMBERLAND AND WESTMORLAND YORKS C.C.

Annual meeting held at Workington show, with a very fair attendance; Mr. J. Nixon, chair, when reading of balance-sheet by treasurer finished, a very satisfactory year. The committee of 1913 were re-elected. We have every prospect of a better year, as we have made several new members, and there are a few fanciers desirous of joining. Mr. G. Tweedie won cup for best young bird bred by a member. Mr. F. Coulson secured gold medal most points with three highest birds in champion section, and gold medal for same in novice section went to J. H. Buchanan. Other medal winners are Messrs. Tweedie, Stewart, Coulson, Palmer, Burns, Bostock, and Buchanan. Medals are in hands of makers, and will be despatched immediately they are finished. I shall be very pleased to have the names of any fanciers who wish to join.—J. Huntington, Hon. Sec., 19, Nelson-rd., Maryport.

NORTH-WEST GLASGOW C.B.S.

Annual general meeting, held "Blythswood Halls," 283, Gt. Western-rd., Jan. 29, Mr. Phillips presiding over a good attendance. Financial statement by sec. was considered satisfactory. The following were elected office bearers for 1914: Pres., Mr. R. B. Gibb; vice-pres., Messrs. P. Houston, P. Thorn; sec. and treas., Wm. Lean, Northbank, Coach-house, Kelvinside Gardens, N.; committee, Messrs. M. Findlay, snr., J. D. Brown, J. G. Adams, G. Cumming, E. Graham, J. Pipnick, J. Phillips, J. Houston, A. SKELMANTHORPE C.B.S.

We have had our general meeting and officers for year 1914 were elected as follows: Pres., J. Helliwell; vice-pres., Dr. Douglas Bell, J. Aroutey, A. Radley, W. Everett, G. Shaw, W. Hutchinson; sec., F. Hampshire; treas., F. Dyson; delegates to Yorks. Union, F. Hampshire, P. Taylor. F. Hampshire, Hon. Sec.

ARDWICK & MANCHESTER C.B.S

5th annual general meeting held January 20, St. Thomas's Schoolroom, Ardwick. Mr. W. Robinson presided over a good attendance. Secretary presented the report and balance-sheet for 1913, which showed an increase of membership, 52 paid-up members being on the books. Although this has been an expensive year, we were able to carry forward a balance of £3 18s. 4d. After the auditors had given their report, the balance-sheet was passed as read. In the election of officers for 1914 all the members showed a great interest, and this made the voting very keen. The following were elected: Pres., Dr. Twigg; chair, Mr. W. Robinson; vice-pres., Rev. E. E. Gaul, Rev. J. W. Wragg, Dr. J. Kindon, Messrs. W. Downing, H. Boothman, R. Booth, A. E. Long, J. Vint, E. H. Fulcher; treas., Mr. A. E. Thorpe; sec., Mr. J. Spencer; auditors, Messrs. R. Booth, S. Greaves, A. E. Long; committee, Messrs. Greaves, Walshaw, Parish, Holland, Salthouse, Masheder; Press corres., Mr. R. Booth. The date of opening social fixed for Feb. 1st, at St. Thomas's Schools. The committee appointed having met since this will give their report at the next meeting; a good attendance is asked for, as the arrangements are being pushed forward. Table show of Norwich and Yorks. next meeting night. Mr. Boothman judges Norwich, and Mr. Atkinson Yorks. Nor. yell. cock, ditto buff, yell. hen, buff hen, Nor. inflig., Yorks. yell. ck., buff cock, yell. hen, buff hen, Yorks. inflig., A.O.V. Can. Members, rally round and see if we cannot improve on last year's grand report.—R. Booth, Press Correspondent.

USHAW MOOR (Workmen's) Club.

Monthly meeting, held Jan. 31. Mr. Thos. Hanson presided. Chairman made presentations to late sec. and assist.-sec., now sec., handing to Mr. H. Briggs a silver-mounted walking stick, and a pipe and case to Mr. A. Teasdale. Both kindly responded. Then Mr. Hanson gave some good advice to the members. The one or two who were absent missed a treat.—A. Teasdale, Sec.

SUNDERLAND C.B.A.

Fortnightly meeting held Jan. 31, Mr. Farrer presiding over a good attendance. Messrs. Fraser and P. Johnson were admitted to membership. On a motion to consider the question of extending our rodius, it was decided that same be put on the agenda of annual meeting. Decided to pay 3s. per class to member's section of open show. Prize-money paid to members present. Messrs. Swan and Brown elected auditors. Messrs. Brown, Swan, Connerton, and Sec. were appointed as a sub-committee, with a view to arranging a social gathering, or as may be suggested by them. Annual meeting Feb. 14.—John Peacock, Hon. Sec.

NORTHERN YORKS. C.C.

The various competitions were brought to a close at Sunderland Show. Competition has been very keen, and the members are to be congratulated on the success of their efforts to popularise the variety in the north country. Societies having the club's patronage have every reason to be satisfied with the support given to the section, entries averaging about 16 per class throughout the six selected shows. Congratulations also to Mr. T. C. Crawhall on winning points championship the second year in succession with a record number of points. Miss E. E. Pyman (our only lady member) as runner-up for the trophy is deserving of the highest praise. Truly a very fine performance for a first attempt. Mr. M. Wigglesworth won challenge cup for best young bird bred by a member. Mr. W. Thurston won Ramsden's Cup for second best young bird, also Crawhall Cup for most points with three nominated birds, and Mr. Cattell's sp. for two highest birds, same conditions as per cup, a very fine achievement for a novice. Novice trophy was won by Mr. F. Mirley. Points gained in the various competitions: Championship Trophy: T. C. Crawhall 99, Miss E. E. Pyman 88, J. Stewart 75, E. Deighton 70, R. Hattler 41, W. Mather 40, M. Wigglesworth 32, G. Tweedie 17, C. Cattell 14, G. W. Cuthbertson 14, G. O'Hagen 7, H. Lyall 4, S. C. Dix 5. Novice Trophy: F. Mirley 25, W. Thurston 27, I. Smith 26, E. Kennerson 26, J. W. Witherley 20, T. Hedley 18, W. Studholme 12, E. Harrison 6, D. W Scott 3, S. Barrell 2. The Crawhall Cup (open to champion and novice): W. Thurston 27, M. Wigglesworth 21, E. Deighton 16, W. Mather 15, I. Smith 6, J. W. Witherley 3, E. Kennerson 2. Winners of Medals.—Champion Section: Miss E. E. Pyman, gold medal; J. Stewart, gold-centre silver medal. Winners of silver medals for most points with three birds at each of six selected shows: Newcastle, T. C. Crawhall; Hartlepool, Miss Pyman; Blaydon, J. Stewart; Chester-le-Street, E. Deighton; Gateshead, M. Wigglesworth; Sunderland, C. Cattell. Novice section: W. Thurston, gold medal; silver medals, Newcastle, W. Studholme; Hartlepool, E. Kennerson; Blaydon, F. Mirley; Chester-le-Street, I. Smith; Gateshead, W. Thurston; Sunderland, T. Hedley. Mr. Cattell's special for most points gained by a novice over table shows was won by T. Hedley. If any mistakes appear in above list will members please let me know as early as possible? I should like to make an appeal to all fanciers of the Yorkshire variety in the northern district to support our club. The entrance fee is only one shilling, and the annual subscription 2s. 6d. Mr. Crawhall (our president) has intimated to me his intention of returning to the club the value of the trophy he has won this year, so as to give an even larger number of specials to next season's competition. I am myself giving a silver cup for most points over table shows. Anyone desirous of becoming a member please write to me at 6, Gill Street, Benwell, Newcastle.—P. Tindale, Hon. Sec.

CITY OF BRADFORD O.S.

Presentation of members' prizes by Mr. H. H. Towers, Jan. 31, at the Flying Dutchman, before a very large gathering of members and wives and friends. Mr. Towers said he was rather surprised to see the large number of valuable specials, and that he would not take up a lot of time by talking as no doubt those present would prefer to listen to the songs. These were ably given by Messrs. Wilcock, Watson, Birbeck, Medley, and Towers. Mr. T. Elsegood was worth a lot in a recitation entitled "King Robert of Sicily." Everything went off in good order, and all were agreed that they had spent a most enjoyable evening; only one note of sorrow sounded, and that was at the absence of our esteemed friend, Mr. H. J. Chittenden, who was kept away with illness. All present wished him a speedy recovery; he had sent word that though not with us in person he would be with us in mind. The usual votes of thanks having been given, and responded to, brought the evening to a close.—W. Helliwell, Sec.

GATESHEAD C.B.S.

Meeting, held Jan. 14. Chairman Mr. Holden presided over a fair attendance. After several letters had been read, the best thanks of the members were given to all those who had helped in our late show, and also Messrs. Lawson and McGuire for washing the stands, etc., previous to the show. Sec. was instructed to write to Mr. and Mrs. Petterson thanking them for the use of a room during the week of our show, and also to Mr. Greason for cutting the timber, etc., to and from the show free gratis. Decided to hold next annual show Dec. 18 and 19. Selection of judges at next meeting. Members please attend. Also decided to have a social evening, and the following members were elected to make arrangements for same: Messrs. Petterson, Hawkins, Rowan, Holden, Greason, Peirson, Welshmey, Almond, and Curry. A meeting of the Social Committee was held Jan. 16 at Mr. Petterson's house, when it was decided that the social take the form of a whist drive and dance in the Bewick Hall, High West Street, Feb. 25, from 7.30 till 1 a.m. Tickets, 1s. 6d. single, 2s. 6d. double, including refreshments. We extend a hearty invitation to fanciers, and their wives (or sweethearts), to join us, as we are looking forward to having a jolly time. Tickets can be had from any of the above members. Mr. Tate, Gateshead, was elected a member. As there are a lot of fanciers around our district who are not members of any cage bird society I extend a hearty invitation to them to join, or anyone else who would like to become members of the Palace of the North. Entrance fee, 1s. Annual subs., 2s. 6d. For particulars, etc., apply W. Curry, 6, Roxburgh Place, Newcastle.

The increasing popularity of

for Canaries and other Cage Birds is due entirely to their superiority.

¶ Whether you keep your Birds as pets, as songsters, or for profit, always remember that it is in your best interests to give them only those foods which are sold in Spratt's original packets—packets upon which the name is plainly printed—the name which guarantees quality—SPRATT'S.

¶ Only the choicest seeds are used in the various mixtures which we supply for Cage Birds, and these are carefully blended and entirely free from dust, being treated by a special process to secure absolute purity. Further, all our manufactured foods are also of the highest quality and every ingredient entering into their composition specially selected.

Will Mr. Philip Fallon please send his full address, so that the book ordered can be sent him.

Windsor one-day open show will be held Oct. 28. Mr. H. Norman has again been engaged to judge.

We hear from Miss Irene Kirk-Bullock, hon. sec., that the date of the 16th annual show of the Hastings and St. Leonards C.B.S. has been fixed for Nov. 17, 18.

The annual open show of the Oxford C.B.S. has been fixed for Oct. 22, writes Mr. A. F. Fifield; Mr. Robson judge. Will secs. in the neighbourhood please note, and avoid clashing.

Will fanciers please note that W. G. Taylor and F. Wright of Southall have now joined hands, and in future will exhibit as Taylor and Wright, of 128, Regina Road, Southall, Middlesex.

I have sent out over 500 schedules to known fanciers, writes Mr. George Reed, sec., 35, Newcastle Street, Brandon Colliery, Durham. Anyone being overlooked can have one by applying.

In Mr. Matthes' report of S.N.P.C. cup competition you give W. Collings, Plymouth, as winner. It should be Devonport, as they are trying to take our birthright from us, writes Mr. W. Collings, Devonport.

Mr. Joiner has resigned the secretaryship of the Portsmouth and Southern Counties C.B.S., and Mr. G. T. Hall, 54, North End Grove, Portsmouth, has been appointed in his place. All correspondence should be addressed accordingly.

Owing to the resignation of Mr. G. F. Crawford, I have been appointed sec. of the South London Col. and Fan. Association, and all correspondence should in future be addressed to me, writes Mr. Geo. Burton, 126, Lee Road, Lee Green, S.E.

For our great open show on Oct. 23 and 24 next, write Messrs. Metcalfe and Green, secs. Liverpool O.S., we have engaged the services of Messrs. Mundell, Cowgill, J. C. Barnes, C. Houlton, and Geo. Large, who are specialists in the varieties they adjudicate upon.

Brechin C.B.S. have engaged the following well-known fanciers to judge their annual show on Nov. 7, writes Mr. J. Crabb, sec.: Norwich, Mr. E. Barron, Glasgow; Borders, Mr. J. Hamilton, Eskbank; British, Mr. C. Sykes, Musselburgh. With these well-known gentlemen we ought to be assured of a bumping entry.

I have been appointed sec. of the Openshaw, Gorton, and Dist. C.B.S., in succession to Mr. Washbourne, writes Arthur W. Newton, and all correspondence respecting the society should be addressed to me at 165, Ashton Old Road, Ardwick, Manchester. I trust that all members will continue to take the same interest in the future as in the past.

Crested C.C. Meeting at Palace.

The annual general meeting of the Crested C.C. will be held in the Board Room on Saturday, Feb. 7. Agenda:—(1) To receive balance sheet and annual report. (2) Mr. Franz will move that "All birds must wear the closed ring to enable them to compete for all specials and bowls, and that birds must be bred by exhibitor." (3) Mr. G. C. Ley will move the revision of counting points. (4) To discuss ways and means of raising a cup fund, one member having promised £10 if the remaining members will find £40. Lack of interest by the secretary and all the members for not supporting shows better, compels the suggestion that a share out of the fund take place at the annual general meeting. In this case members will regret not attending. Any other business.—J. Tyson, hon. sec.

CLOTH THAT WEARS LIKE LEATHER.

A many-times-proof cloth that will not tear, and yet looks exactly as the finest tweed and serges, has been discovered by the Holeproof Clothing Co., 31, Theobald's Road, London, W.C. They make from these wonderful cloths a well-cut man's suit for only 14s. 9d., breeches 6s., or a pair of well-fitting trousers for 4s. 6d., and if a hole appears within six months another pair is given. See advertisement on page 108, and write for patterns, &c.

In Mr. Bugg's (of Holbeach) advertisement in our last issue, the word Goldfinches should have read Greenfinches.

The following gentlemen have been selected to judge at our annual open show, Nov. 20 and 21, writes Mr. W. Tallantyre, sec. Haltwhistle C.B.S.:—Messrs. W. C. Duncan and T. C. Crawhall, Newcastle, and Mr. A. Holden, Gateshead.

It is with much regret that, owing to the pressure of business, I am compelled to relinquish my position as secretary of the Dulwich and Peckham C.B.S., writes Mr. W. Hodson. Mr. Geo. Cant, 30, Henslow Road, East Dulwich, has been elected to fill the position. I trust that fanciers will extend to him the same kind support that I myself have received during the nine years I have held the position. Mr. Cant is a keen fancier and a hard worker, and I wish him every success in his new post.

OBITUARY.

Miss Richards.

It is with deep regret, writes Mr. A. W. Newton, Sec. Openshaw, Gorton, and Dist. Cage Bird Society, I have to inform you of the sad loss sustained by our esteemed member, Mr. T. Richards, who has lost his youngest daughter at the age of 13 years. I feel sure that all fanciers will extend sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Richards and family in their sad bereavement.

"Kindly thank applicants who answered my advert. re Exchange Norwich for Yorkshire Pair. I had so many replies that I could only answer those who enclosed stamp."—J. W. DALZELL (Oldham).

Something New in Parrots.

I think it would interest readers to know, writes Mr. B. J. Moore, that Mrs. B. J. Moore is showing a Sallé's Amazon at the Crystal Palace bird show; this Parrot has not been seen on the show bench before, we believe.

Sale of Noted Norwich.

I have sold my champion yellow cock, winner of eight 1sts this show season, including 1st and best Norwich at the Scottish National, to Mr. Crawshaw of Accrington. I wish him every success.—W. McGinn, Walker-on-Lyne.

Clashing of Shows in Scotland.

We have fixed our show date for the first Saturday in November, a date on which we have held our show for the last 14 years, writes Mr. J. Lindsay, hon. sec. Markinch C.B.S., yet I see by your show dates fixed that Kelty and Blairadam have fixed their show for the same date, which we consider will be good for neither.

Two George Browns in one Town.

I notice in the Border Fancy advertisement column, writes Mr. Geo. Brown, 8, Elm Place, Leith, an advertiser named George Brown, 8, Springfield Street, Leith, and, as I have been asked several times if it is myself, I would feel greatly obliged if you would put in "Twitterings" that I have no connection with that gentleman.

Thirteen Years in a Cage and Still Happy.

One of the features of the recent Pair Show held by the City and Suburban A.C.B. was a thirteen years-old Goldfinch exhibited by Mr. W. Clark, which gained vhc and a special for the best vhc in seven classes. This bird was in lovely plumage, and in the pink of health, and but for the scales upon its feet might have gone higher. The pity of it is, writes Mr. V. Wynn, hon. sec., that a few of those who decry the keeping of birds in captivity were not there to see for themselves how happy he was after all those years, for it certainly would have given them food for reflection.

Charity Show at Leicester.

The second annual charity show of the Leicester Hand in Hand and Leicester C.B. Societies will be held Feb. 14, at Vaughan's Working men's College. We hope fanciers in the county of Leicester will give their support to make the show a success by sending as many entries as possible, write Messrs. Hardbattle and Freestone, hon. secs., 79, Clarendon Street, Leicester. Schedules will be posted to any address on receipt of a post card. Prizes will be awarded from the entry fees (3d. per cage) on a sliding scale, and all the gate money will be handed to the funds of the Leicester Children's Hospital. It is with confidence we make this appeal to the Leicestershire fanciers to show their appreciation of the grand institution which does so much for the suffering.

"I had 20 replies to my advert. Have sold out, and am still receiving letters."—T. H. V. HAYTER (Beeston).

"Kindly thank all those replying to my advertisement. I have had over 40 replies, and it has been impossible or me to answer every one."—F. JAMES (Netherfield).

OUR BIRTHDAY NUMBER.

We have now for sale a few copies of the recent phenomenally successful Birthday Number of CAGE BIRDS, complete with illustrated Supplement and Coloured Plates, so that Any reader can obtain this Birthday Number for 4d. post free, or 6d. packed flat in boards.

by sending stamps or postal order to the Publisher, CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C. Early application should be made, as the supply is very limited.

A grand Birthday Number.—A. E. Draeup (Nottingham).

Your Birthday Number is indeed grand.—W. Schofield (Ipswich).

Please accept my congratulations for the fine Birthday Number of CAGE BIRDS.—A. Herbert (Leyton).

Allow me to congratulate you upon the Birthday Number; it was magnificent.—M. Ogden (Durham).

Was very pleased with Birthday Number. It was grand.—H. R. Gadd (Saxmundham).

I wish your Birthday Number every success. The plates are splendid. F. J. Beers (Ystrad Rhondda).

May I be allowed to congratulate you on such a superb Birthday Number? Wishing you and CAGE BIRDS a very prosperous New Year.—Winnie Lashbrook (Sidmouth).

You are to be congratulated upon your Birthday issue—it was simply delightful. You promise your readers a "treat," and you apparently spare no pains in order to accomplish that end.—D. E. Judd (Enfield).

Many thanks for the beautiful calendar given with your Christmas Number. I have your Birthday Number to hand, and I am sure it surpasses any of the bumper numbers you have given us yet. The plates are exquisite.—Harold F. Kettlewell (Snaith).

I must say this, that your Birthday Number surpasses all previous numbers in excellence, in anything pertaining to bird topics. Enclosed find stamp for a few advt. forms: if you like you can send a few Calendars, which I can distribute. W. Clough (Sutton Mill).

THE GREAT CRYSTAL PALACE SHOW.

"CAGE BIRDS" SPECIAL PRIZES.

To deal with points which may arise out of the judging for, or awards made in, our Championship Competition at the Palace Show, a special committee of four well-known fanciers has been appointed, and the decisions they arrive at will be final. Any protests, or claims, etc., must be lodged with the Editor of CAGE BIRDS by first post Monday next (Feb. 9th) (or be left at CAGE BIRDS' stall) or they will be too late to receive consideration. The awards made will be (of course) subject to scrutiny.

Our novice rule, we should like to point out, applies to each section (i.e., Canaries, Hybrids, British and Foreign) separately, and does not mean, for instance, that a champion in Foreign birds must be a champion in Canaries: this, of course, is understood by the Manager of the Palace Show; the novice rule at this fixture is, in fact, in effect the same as our own.

PORTRAITS OF WINNERS.

Exhibitors who wish to have their birds (winners or otherwise) at the Palace show sketched by one of our artists (Mr. Norman or Mr. Goodchild) should notify the attendant at CAGE BIRDS' stall, who will give terms and all particulars; or write or telegraph to us direct to our offices (telegrams, "Aviculture, London").

"CAGE BIRDS" STALL.

CAGE BIRDS will have its usual stall at the Palace, and we shall be pleased to welcome visitors, to greet old friends and to make new friends. Our "Visitors' Book" will be in the usual place on the stall, and we trust everyone present will make a point of leaving their signatures and addresses therein. Any of our publications may be purchased of the attendant in charge. If you do not happen to see what you want, ask our attendant for it.

ROUTES FOR VISITORS AND EXHIBITORS.

For convenience of visitors and exhibiters, we append the best routes to the Palace from the various railway termini:—

MOTOR 'BUS, Service No. 3, runs from Camden Town (Tube) Station, right to the Crystal Palace. It can be joined at the junction of Hampstead and Tottenham Court Roads (convenient for Euston, St. Pancras, King's Cross, Baker Street, and Marylebone stations), at Charing Cross, Kennington Road, Brixton Station, and any other place en route. This 'bus service affords an excellent opportunity of getting reasonably sized packages of birds to or from the Palace.

PADDINGTON (G.W.R.).—Take the Underground from Praed Street to Victoria; then the Chatham Railway to the Crystal Palace High Level Station. Or take the Bakerloo tube (see from Marylebone).

MARYLEBONE (G.C.R.).—Bakerloo tube to Elephant and Castle; then transfer to Chatham Railway to High Level Station. Or go to Baker Street Station and take the train to Victoria, and thence via London and Brighton (Low Level) or Chatham (High Level) Railways.

EUSTON (L.N.W.R.). Passengers stopping at Willesden at or about two o'clock should enquire if there is a train due for the Palace, as it is possible to save an hour or more this way.

ST. PANCRAS (M.R.). & KING'S CROSS (G.N.R.), Underground to Aldersgate Street; or 'bus to Ludgate Hill or Holborn Viaduct, and then Chatham Railway to Palace. Or take the City and South London (tube) Railway to London Bridge, and thence via the London and Brighton Railway to the Palace.

LIVERPOOL STREET (G.E.R.).—Rail direct, via New Cross; or 'bus to London Bridge, Holborn Viaduct, or Ludgate Hill, and then by L.B. and S.C. or Chatham Railway.

WATERLOO (L. and S.W.R.).—Take half-penny car to Elephant and Castle (or the Bakerloo tube), then transfer to Chatham Railway.

Victoria, Ludgate Hill, St. Paul's, Snow Hill, Holborn Viaduct, Moorgate Street, and London Bridge. Rail direct to the Palace from these stations, which offer, perhaps, the best means of reaching it.

Direct trains to the Palace also run frequently from Clapham Junction.

ADDITIONAL RAILWAY EXCURSIONS.

Since last week's issue went to press, we have received notice of the following excursions running into London on the dates of the Palace Show:—

LANCASHIRE AND YORKS. RAILWAY.—Sowerby Bridge and stations to Todmorden, also Colne, Nelson, Burnley, Accrington, Great Harwood, Clitheroe, Blackburn, Darwen, Bolton, Salford, Bacup, Rawtenstall, Bury, Rochdale, Southport, Wigan, Swinton, Shaw, Oldham, Manchester, and stations in the vicinity of the above, for 1, 3, 4, or 6 days, on Friday night. On Saturday morning, excursion for 1, 3, 4, or 6 days from Clitheroe, Blackburn, Darwen, Bolton, Preston, Southport, Wigan, Burnley, Accrington, Bury, Todmorden, Rochdale, Oldham, Ashton, Manchester, and stations in the vicinity of the above.

CAMBRIAN RAILWAY.—On Saturday, for 3, 4, or 6 days, from Pwllheli, Criccieth, Portmadoc, Harlech, Dolgelly, Barmouth, Aberdovey, Aberystwyth, Machynlleth, Brecon, Builth Wells, Newtown, Montgomery, Llanfyllin, Oswestry, Wrexham, Ellesmere, and stations in the vicinity of the above.

GREAT NORTHERN.—On Saturday, half-day Stamford, Essendine, Grantham. Half and one day, Nottingham, Sleaford, Ancaster, and neighbourhood. One day, Doncaster, Retford, Grimsby, Skegness, Boston, Lincoln, Sleaford, and neighbourhood, York, Selby, Newark, Derby, Ilkeston.

LONDON AND NORTH WESTERN.—On Friday night or Saturday for 1, 3, 4, or 6 days, from Liverpool, Birkenhead, Chester, Southport, St. Helens, Prescot, Runcorn Widnes, Wigan, Warrington, Crewe, Nantwich, Stafford, and stations in the vicinity of the above. On Saturday, for 3, 4, or 6 days, from Holyhead, Bangor, Llandudno, Rhyl, Denbigh, Llanrwst, and stations in the neighbourhood.

The Master Singer of the Canary Tribe ☘

By J. TOMLINSON

How to keep the Roller Canary in health, to breed for pleasure and profit, and train for exhibition.

A TUTOR of the same strain as your own birds is desirable, but it is not always convenient to obtain such a teacher, and the next best substitute has to be given a trial. You will only require one schoolmaster, and this will be quite sufficient to teach any number of young cocks that could be placed in an average-sized bird room, or, to be more exact, say a room eight or nine feet square, and there are not many rooms of more than this size devoted entirely to the purpose. I mention this because you may hear some advocate the use of a tutor to every six or nine young cocks. The idea is a capital one, but where may we obtain the number of birds good enough to act as tutors? Not from amongst one breeder's stud. He has only one, his best singer, and this one he will use for the purpose, if he wishes to give the youngsters the best tuition; a condition that should appeal to all.

In other cases want of success may be traced to the unsuitableness of the song that is bred in the hen to blend with the song of the cock she is mated to. It is not often we see any discussion taking place on the subject where the hen is concerned. The average fancier is too reticent, yet he knows that it is one of an equal importance to the choosing of the cock bird. As a rule he does not make a rule of purchasing hens unless he is certain that he can obtain better quality than that he has already. He prefers to improve the quality of his own hens, and selects a sufficient number for his own purpose from amongst those that are the closest related to his best singers. Or again, he may have bred good quality birds, and by retaining only those that come up to the required standard, he knows exactly the tours and the way of singing those tours that are bred in them. In purchasing new blood he will introduce it on the cock side, as this will in some instances save time and disappointment. From the quality of the cock's song he knows whether it is short, or broken, or on the other hand well connected and of sufficient merit to warrant it being mated to his own hens.

The Value of the Ladies.

This subject reminds me of a double question I was asked a short time ago. It was—What is a reasonable price to give for a good Roller hen canary; and why do the prices vary for hens represented to be all of one strain, and coming from the same breeder's room? It seemed a very simple question to ask, yet how like some of the questions from the younger generation. My thoughts went at once to a loft of famous flying Homers. The notable birds in this loft were of a peculiar colour and could be traced back to one particular hen. In another case connected with our hobby, a Roller hen was picked up accidentally and obtained at the price of a common hen, and this hen bred numerous winners for its owner. Hens such as these are worth their weight in gold, but they are exceptions, and not of everyday occurrence.

In replying to the first question I answered: "There are good birds, and good birds; one hen could be purchased for 3s. or 4s. and be a good bird in its own class. You would pay 5s., 7s. 6d., 10s. or even £1 1s. for a hen, and yet each one may be put at a reasonable price for its quality; but in answering your next question about the different prices asked for birds of one strain, you will better understand the why and wherefore if I quote you instances of two cocks, A and B. As a young bird A won numerous prizes, as a yearling he bred youngsters, and was left with the hens from the time they were paired until they commenced to sit. The show season came again, and A was again amongst the prizes, to be followed by another season in the breeding cage; was again on the show bench and was still able to win. B was bred and owned by a fancier who could not tell one tour from another, and won time after time as a young bird; it was used for breeding; was again on the show bench, winning every time out, with one exception, and afterwards again in the breeding cage. They are both alive, and the song of B is I believe no worse than what it was when the bird had finished its first year's breeding. Now you will agree that hens bred from these two cocks are worth more money to a breeder than those that are bred from a cock that can only win on the show bench as a youngster. After the first year its song may deteriorate, yet it may still be useful as a breeder, but are hens bred from this cock worth as much as those from A and B?"

Classical Songsters; and Others.

My questioner had not looked at the matter from this point of view, and was inclined to think they were exceptions; they were not, and I was willing to quote him numerous other instances. This discussion will appeal to the novice, as also will the following one that appeared of late in the Fancy Press: "What is a reasonable price to pay for a good Roller cock?" The writer said it was a simple question to ask, yet up to the time of my writing this, no one has answered the query. I am in the habit of writing literally, meaning what I say, nothing more, nothing less, and I should regret very much indeed if any should misconstrue my meaning; and so I take it that this question was asked in all good faith. Yet it was incomplete, inasmuch that the purpose for which this good Roller cock was intended was not stated.

If a classical bird was meant, then a good price can be obtained for these birds at all times during the year, and the price may vary according to the value set on it by its owner. I could quote instances where a bird has been sold for £3, whereas another of similar merits has fetched £6, showing that a great deal depends on the demand, and whether the owner is really anxious to sell.

This variegated Yorkshire cock is a member of the excellent stud owned by Messrs. Forse & Son, of Leyton, and secured first prize at Leytonstone.

In another instance a bird was claimed on the show bench at £10. The buyer at the time thought it was not worth so much, yet it suited his requirements.

The prices of cocks of a moderate quality, or cheap birds, will fluctuate according to the season of the year, and will be the cheapest between September and December. The imported German birds are divided into three classes. Birds of Class 1 are sold at about 12s. 6d.; 2, at about 10s. 6d.; and 3, at about 7s. 6d., while contest birds can be purchased from 30s. upwards. After December the prices will advance, and it is only under exceptional circumstances that birds can be got from our breeders in the breeding season, because it is usual to dispose of the surplus stock before the breeding commences.

A GROUP OF BEAUTIES FROM FOREIGN CLIMES.

An article specially written round Mr. Goodchild's charming coloured plate published with our Birthday Issue Jan. 17.

Red Sunbird (Aethopyga scheriae).

THIS lovely "feathered exquisite" is a native of the Himalayas, ranging up to 7,000ft. in the summer, and is found at lower altitudes at all seasons. This species is the Himalayan Yellow-backed Sunbird of Oates, and the Himalayan Red Honey-Sucker of Jerdon. With the coloured figure on our plate for reference, I shall not describe the male in detail, but merely remark that the closed wings cover up the rump, bright yellow; and upper tail-coverts, metallic green. The female is dull green above, variegated with dark ashy on the crown, and suffused with russet-yellow on the back and upper tail-coverts; chin, throat and upper breast, crimson; remainder of lower plumage, pale russet-yellow on sides body, neck and throat, and pale greenish-grey in centre of body from lower breast to vent.

Mr. Ezra's beautiful specimen of this species will be well known to most of my readers, and his success in keeping them is well known, so I cannot do better than give here his methods of treatment. All his Sunbirds are kept in roomy cages in a large bright room, which is kept at an even temperature of about 60 degrees F. They are fed on syrup, fruit (mostly grapes) and they get tiny green flies (blight). The syrup consists of Mellin's Food, Nestle's milk, and honey, a teaspoonful of each in a cupful of boiling water. Sometimes Horlick's Malted Milk is used instead of Nestle's. The beautiful condition of Mr. Ezra's specimens, when on exhibit, are an eloquent testimony that the treatment cannot be well improved upon, though different aviculturists may vary the ingredients of the syrup a little.

From a Paris correspondent I received a letter by the same post as the request for this article. He has no less than nine species of Sunbirds, three species of Sugarbirds, and Indian White-eyes, all flying together in a large indoor aviary—two pairs of some of the species, and included in the series is a Red Sunbird, in which the rich crimson of the male has become a brick-red; of course, at the next moult the former brilliance may return, but time alone will show.

The Rainbow Bunting (Cyanospiza leclancheri).

When I state that the genus Cyanospiza includes the well-known Nonpareil and Indigo Buntings, as well as the subject of these notes, and others equally beautiful, yet new to aviculture, it will readily be understood what a fine group they form. The Rainbow Bunting has all the gorgeousness of a Tanager, yet only requires the simple dietary of a Finch, or, to use a common term, a hard-bill.

Mrs. K. Leslie Miller possessed the first living specimen of this species; it came into her possession in April, 1909, and was first exhibited by her at the Horticultural Hall, in November of the same year, where its exquisite beauty took all bird-lovers by storm. The chaste harmony of its soft coloured, yet rainbow-hued, garment, is not surpassed by any other species. During the later portion of last year quite a few of them were on the market, and a fair number of fanciers now possess a specimen.

Mr. C. W. Beebe, Curator of Ornithology at the New York Zoo, met with it in its native haunts, and in his fascinating book, "Two Bird Lovers in Mexico," he thus describes his experience:—"The most beautiful of all small birds was a Bunting. We christened him the Rainbow Bunting, but the books call him the Leclancher Bunting. These little Finches flitted through the underbrush in pairs, searching for insects and seeds among the leaves, or mounting to the top of a small bush and giving voice to their joy in a little ditty, the attempt at which was most to be admired, for the twittering ended in promise. Their beauty and vivacity evade all description. A photograph would convey nothing of their charm.

THE ART OF STAGING BRITISH BIRDS.

By C. PRIOR (Ropley).

THE specifications for an ideal show cage then, to accommodate any British seedeater except Hawfinch or Corn Bunting, may be summarised approximately as follows:—Body of cage: Height, 10in.; length, 11in.; width, 5in. or 5½in. Seed trough (right hand end of cage): Height, 1in.; width, 1¼in. to 1½in.; thickness, ⅜in. to ½in. Perches (of thickness to fit the foot): 3½in. from left end, 3½in. apart, 3in. up. Front: (entirely detachable in one piece): Top rail, ½in. wide; bottom rail, 1½in. wide; wires, ⅜in. to ⅝in. apart, 16 or 17 gauge; drinking hole between second and third wire at right hand end of cage; cross bar (punched) 3in. from bottom, otherwise 1½in. from top of bottom rail. Colour: Inside and front, holly or emerald green, or any intermediate shade; outside black. These dimensions will require to be increased to accommodate the big fellows, and this must always be done without losing sight of proportionateness.

Cagemakers nowadays have abandoned the old attitude of passive resistance to improvements, and have brought themselves right into line with modern requirements. Any up-to-date cagemaker will undertake to turn out the correct article in workmanlike style at a quite moderate figure, while some of the more enterprising ones keep exactly what you want in stock. Indeed, one well known London firm recently confided to me that they regarded the advertisement gained by stamping the backs of their show cages with their name and address as part of the profit on that particular line; and deplored, surely not without justice, the strange lapse of courtesy which led some exhibitors to efface their stamp. The old difficulty of getting proper show cages other than by making them at home being thus no longer existent, there is now less excuse than ever for slipshod methods in staging.

So far this article has dealt mainly with the staging of British seedeaters. The insectivorous species, particularly the small and delicately plumaged ones, offer an entirely different proposition, and the near approach to standardization towards which the staging of hardbills is heading is quite out of the question where softbills are concerned. The relative disparity in size between, for instance, a Nightingale and a Treecreeper, is not much greater than that between a Linnet and a Siskin; but whereas, with a possible modification in the thickness of the perches, the same show cage will do service for either of the last named, it would be impossible to contrive a show cage which would be equally as suitable to the Treecreeper as to the Nightingale.

It is not my intention to make any attempt to solve the problem of staging the small Softbills to the best advantage; this is clearly a subject that lends itself, more than any other branch of exhibiting, to the exercise of individual talent. I will not presume to expound an art which I have never practised, so what follows under this heading will take the form of suggestion rather than the advocacy of concrete principles.

The skill and patience required to bring these lovely little pets to the show bench in perfect condition and health—as brought they are—is proof of enthusiasm on the part of their owners worthy of the highest meed of praise. Such enthusiasm will assuredly not falter at the task of working out every detail that leads to the final consummation—a perfectly staged exhibit. Even the temperament of the individual specimens is taken into account, and occasionally what appears to be an unsuitable show-cage has to be employed, for the good and sufficient reason that the occupant declines to make itself at home in any other. The aspiring novice cannot do better than to visit one or two of the leading exhibitions and mark, learn and inwardly digest the object lessons there on view of the highest practice of the art.

As with Hardbills, the axiom relating to proportionateness of dimensions may confidently be advanced for consideration in planning show-cages for Softbills. The same range of colours will be found difficult to improve upon. An even wider range of diversity presents itself in the matter of perches, both as regards manufacture and material. The dominating feature of the whole scheme will be the substitution of artifices copied from nature in place of the usual mechanical fittings when these latter fail to do justice to the subject—and only then.

The practice of decorating the cage with an artistic rendering of the environments of the species in the wild state is in every way commendable, providing it does not hinder the bird's movements and a free and uninterrupted view of them. As a work of art the exhibit will appeal tremendously to the visitors, and it will be appreciated by the judge, but the merits of the bird, and his facilities for displaying them to that much abused individual will determine the position it is to occupy in the prize list.

That is the note which the closing lines of this article will echo. Its endeavour has been to differentiate between what is desirable in staging in order to enable a good specimen to do himself justice, and what is inimical to that end. Do not let it be imagined that good staging is sufficient by itself to lift a bird to the top of his class. It is not. On the other hand do not let it be overlooked that careless staging will almost inevitably hold a good bird back.

The Birds of Flamborough Headland.

By J. FEW (Wigan).

STANDING on the high chalk cliffs of Bempton in June last, and taking a glance in every direction, I was surprised to find no trace of its feathered inhabitants. In order to get a more comprehensive view, I advanced as near to the edge of the awe-inspiring perpendicular sea wall as I dare with a strong wind blowing from the land, and, with the aid of field-glasses, I made a searching survey northwards and southwards of the cliffs and then of the waters of the North Sea, where I naturally expected to find some birds fishing. The result was the same; not a solitary example being in evidence.

Very strange! Is this really the nesting haunt of the countless hosts of sea-fowl of the Flamborough headland, which has been famous for centuries? If so, where are the birds? Is it possible that they have all returned home and are ensconced from the gale and from sight in front of the cliffs? These queries flashed through my mind.

What are these small holes in the turf about every yard or so? Undoubtedly they are the prints of the iron spikes used by the intrepid rock climbers. So without more ado I get down on my hands and knees and crawl to within about two yards of the edge of the cliff. Then, lying flat down, so as to incur no risk of being blown over and precipitated more than 400 feet into the sea below, I gradually draw myself nearer and nearer the edge, till at last I peer over. What an extraordinary sight! Myriads of sea-fowl: the ledges and crannies of the great wall crowded; the air immediately in front of the cliffs alive with tens of thousands; and below, deep down, on the surface of the water an innumerable throng of floating birds.

The hordes of quaint-looking Auks arrive during the months of April and May, and after breeding return to the open sea accompanied by their young, finally quitting the neighbourhood about the end of August. They do not come ashore again till the next breeding-season, most of the birds spending the winter months on the Atlantic Ocean, while some frequent the inland seas.

"The seabirds that by night
Sleep on the dull dark ocean, by day
Float on the sunny billows, and they see
Where'er they go the self same images,
The sun's white glory far within the deep,
And the blue vale of water 'twixt the waves,
Ever the same, yet ever chang'd: no mark,
No sign, whereon to fix a local love."—Faber.

The Common Guillemot is unquestionably the main item in the bird life of the cliffs, there being row upon row and tier upon tier of this species, with here and there, on separate ledges and crannies, Razorbills with their darker mantles, white-cheeked Puffins with exceedingly thick orange-red bills, and legs and feet of the same colour, beautiful grey-and-white adult Herring Gulls and Rock and Stock Doves with their shining iridescent necks. The whole forms a splendid avian spectacle—with the background of pure chalk and tufts of green here and there, where vegetation has found a footing—that gives one pleasure to look upon.

An animated scene is this when the birds are on the wing. Common Guillemots in tens of thousands; Puffins and Razorbills in abundance; Carrion Crows and Jackdaws; Cormorants, easily identified by their larger size; Herring and Kittiwake Gulls, very conspicuous amongst the dark-mantled birds; and Stock and Rock Doves, the latter species being readily distinguished by the white patch on the croup. Then below this immense swarm are myriads of birds on the white-crested waves of the brilliant blue waters of the North Sea.

HEN BEARDED TIT.

Winner of 3rd prize at the Horticultural Hall Show for Miss J. A. E. Smyth, of Catford. It will be noticed that the hen lacks the black "moustaches" which are so marked a feature of the male bird.

ROTHERHAM C.B.S.

Pair show held Jan. 31, at the Mail Coach Inn. The entry was very good, 45 pairs being put down by 11 members. Norwich classes were very well filled, some very promising stock being put down by Mr. Bagnell and Mr. Stafford, who claimed the first three awards. Mr Brotherton put down some nice stock pairs in Yorkshires. Mr. Jones showed some very fine Britishs. Mr. J. Warrender, of Hoyland, judged, and his awards gave every satisfaction.

PARKHEAD NEW C.B.S.

First meeting, held in I.L.P. Halls, Ewan Place, Jan. 29. Mr. W Henderson presided over a well-attended meeting. Office-bearers elected: Pres., Mr. W. Henderson; Vice-pres., Mr. W. King; Sec., Mr. M. Kean; Committee, Messrs. W. McLaren, T. Stewart, J McAlean, R. Somers, A Whitelaw, T. Tennant, J Irvine. We enrolled 20 members, a very good beginning, and I may venture to say that by our next meeting our membership will be doubled, as the applications are flowing in freely. Badi is was settled to be three miles from Parkhead Cross. Meetings will be held in the I.L.P. Halls, Ewan Place, Parkhead, last Thursday of each month, at 7.45. We extend a hearty invitation to all fanciers inside the radius to join our new club; no dealers eligible. For full particulars apply to Matthew Kean, Secretary, 1238 Duke Street, Parkhead Cross. [Please write on one side of the paper only. Ed.]

RAWTENSTALL F.S.

The next show and meeting will be held Feb. 6, at headquarters, Mission Room, Hall Street, Rawtenstall, at 7.30. A.V. cock, ditto hen, A.V. Brit., cock or hen. Judge, Mr. John Rukin. All rare bird fanciers in the district are cordially invited to be members, and make the cage bird section a strong one. Herbert Kershaw, Sec.

DON'T MISS
NEXT WEEK'S "CAGE BIRDS."

PENDLEBURY & SWINTON S.C.

Meeting held Jan. 29. Mr. G. Judson was elected Pres.; Messrs. W. Lloyd and T. Sharples, Vice-pres.; Mr. J. B. Dixon, treas.; Committee, Messrs. Tate, J. Jackson, Robinson, Hall. Decided the rules brought forward by the Secretary be accepted, and that we give the novices an idea of a Linnet sing at next meeting, anyone to bring a bird, no prize money.—Alex. Donnelly, 70, Cheetham Rd., Swinton.

MARKINCH P.P. AND C.B.S.

General meeting, held Lister's Rooms. Sec. gave his report of recent show. Balance-sheet was read, and found to be very satisfactory, and a good balance left on hand after one of our most successful shows. Mr. Geo. Mitchel, late sec., was appointed chairman, and Mr. David Summers vice-chair, Mr. John Lindsay sec., and Mr. Jas. Thomson assist. sec., Mr. A. Dewar treas.; the rest of the committee were all re-elected. Next show date fixed for first Sat. in Nov., a date on which we have held our show for the last 14 years, and yet I see by your show dates fixed that Kelty and Bairadam have fixed their show date for the same Saturday, which we consider will be good for neither. John Lindsay.

LONDON C.B.A.

Annual general meeting held "El Vino," Jan 27; pres., Mr. R. L. Crisp chair. There was a good attendance. Votes of thanks were accorded to the officers for their services for the past year. Sec. reported on the last year's work, etc., and read balance-sheet; this was agreed to stand over till next meeting, the secretary stating that he hoped to have the accounts duly audited and a balance-sheet sent to each member. Result of election of officers: Pres., Mr. R. L. Crisp; chair, Mr. J. Robson; auditors, Messrs. Cook and Boxall; treas., Mr. T. R. Trower; hon. sec., Mr. Jas. Bray, junr. The names of the committee will be published at next meeting, as several of the elected were not present, and the sec., in consequence, had to notify same. Diplomas, awards of merit, and prize cards were distributed by the president to winners. The remainder of the evening was taken up with the revision of the rules. Owing to the date of the next meeting falling on one of the days of the Palace show, it was agreed to postpone same till the second Tues. in March Committee meeting, third Tues. in Feb. The L.C.B.A. annual dinner, held in conjunction with the F.B.E.L. and N.B.H. and M.C., will take place Feb 9, at Frascati's Restaurant, Oxford-st. It is hoped all members will endeavour to be present. A cordial invitation is offered to all visitors and friends. Tickets can be obtained from Mr. John Tyson, 169, Sloane-st. (4/6 each). After a vote of thanks to chairman, meeting was adjourned till next meeting night.—F. Knight, Press Corres.

BARRY F. AND F.S.

First annual meeting, held headquarters, Bosser's Restaurant, Holton Road, Barry Dock, Jan. 6. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Chair, Mr. W. W. Marshall; vice-chair, Mr. W. P. Greenham; treas., Mr. F. Edmonds; committee, Messrs. W. Shead, J. Channings, W. Mote, H. Olney, F. Matravers, W. L. Scandrell, and A. Woodruffe. It has been arranged to have a series of short lectures and table shows at our monthly meetings; next meeting Feb. 7, 7.30. After ordinary business has been transacted the public are heartily welcomed.—H. P. Thomas, Sec., Coldbrook Road, Cadoxton.

CHELTENHAM C.B.S.

Annual meeting held Jan. 28, Lamb Hotel. President, Mr. W. W. Theobald, chair, with a good attendance. In presenting the annual report and balance sheet, the hon. sec. said that on the whole the year had been a successful one, the average attendance at the meetings had been kept up, and although the annual pair show was down in numbers, the F.F. show was very good, both in quantity and quality. He appealed to the novices to come out of their shells, and to attend the meetings and shows more. The great event of the year, viz., the open show, had been from an exhibition point of view a very great success, although the numbers were about 100 down on the previous year, quality was everything that could be desired. Referring to the balance sheet, he regretted that there was a considerable adverse balance, and some scheme would have to be found for wiping it off. The expenses of the society were cut to the finest point, and it was unfortunate that owing to circumstances over which we had no control we have not made ends meet. The auditors having spoken of the excellent manner in which the accounts of the society were kept, and several questions answered, balance sheet was passed as read. According to rules, all officers retire annually, but are eligible for re-election. The president was again elected, and the Sec. read a letter he had received from Mr. Lewis, who for the last two years had successfully guided the society, that he did not wish to be elected to any office this year. The following were elected: Chair, Mr. J. Madagan; vice-chair, Mr. L. Short; auditors, Messrs. G. Stevens and J. Houghton; assist. hon. sec. and show manager, Mr W. Ponnsett; hon. sec. and treas., Mr. A. S. Treasure. Upon a further discussion on the deficit, it was decided to have a dance, and whip round, the president promising a guinea towards it. Annual pair show will be held Feb. 28. The dance will be held at the Oddfellows' Hall, Feb. 9, and it is hoped that all members will attend, and also do their best to sell tickets. —A. S. Treasure.

PROVINCIAL ROLLER C.C.

Annual general meeting held Jan. 31, Old Boar's Head Hotel, Corporation Street, Manchester. Mr. Warring presided over a moderate number. Six new members were elected, and balance-sheet, which shows a balance of £13 1ss. 6d., was adopted. Election of officers took place; Mr. Warring was re-elected pres.; Messrs Massey, Kilshaw, Leach, Foulds, and Brooks, vice-pres.; Mr. A. Percival re-elected sec. and treas.; Messrs. McKown and Kilshaw, auditors. A hearty vote of thanks was passed to the retiring officers. A dinner was arranged for March 28, when members can bring ladies; more details next month. Members are requested to keep this date open, when medals and cups will be presented. Considering the importance of the meeting, it is regrettable that so few turned up. It is hoped that much better attendances of members will be evidenced during the coming year. A hearty vote of thanks to the president brought an enjoyable meeting to an end. A. Percival, Hon. Sec.

DULWICH AND PECKHAM C.B.S.

Annual general meeting, held at headquarters on Jan. 27, Mr. L. J. Richardson chair. The attendance was not so large as it ought to have been, especially the most important meeting of the year. Sec. read correspondence, which included the resignations of several members, which were accepted with regret. Several fanciers wrote wishing to become members, and were duly elected. Letter was read from the sec. of the London Federation of C.B. Societies notifying its reconstruction, and inviting the society to rejoin. After discussion it was decided that we rejoin the Federation. Balance-sheet for 1913 was brought forward, and adopted as correct. Officers for 1914 elected as follows: Patrons, Fred Hall, Esq., M.P., A. Laing, Esq.; pres., J. B. Crowe, Esq., vice-pres., Messrs. J. W. Cranfield, E. S. Lugg, J. Robson, A. Silver, J. B. Waterman, C. H. Whitlock; hon. solicitor, H. R. B. Tweed, Esq.; hon. auditors, Mr. F. Cole, Mr. W. Hodson; hon. treas., Mr. Geo. Cant. Ballot for committee resulted as follows: Messrs. C. Austin, F. Cole, J. Carpenter, J. S. Fairman, C. H. Grendell, W. Hodson, J. Hazell, M. Pratt, L. J. Richardson, D. Reeks, H. W. Tomsett; sec., Mr. G. Cant. Mr. J. S. Fairman brought forward a proposal that the secretary be paid a sum of not less than £2 per year; this was seconded by Mr. Reeks, and carried unanimously. A vote of thanks was unanimously tendered to Mr. Hodson for services rendered to the club as sec. for the past nine years, who, owing to business arrangements, found himself unable to fill the position again this year. Vote of thanks to Chair closed the meeting.—W. Hodson.

A Stolen Yorkshire Recovered.

Sir, I have had the good fortune of finding my Yorkshire hen which was stolen at Merthyr show, held Oct. 2. I must give my best thanks to Merthyr Society for the way they had worked in helping to find the bird. The bird will not be any use for breeding this year, as it is in a very poor condition. Wishing CAGE BIRDS every success.

Cup Running at Shows in Ireland.

Sir, The treatment for novices and champions is not fair in Ireland; the novice gets no chance to see birds prepared for the bench, unless he has a long pocket, which was greatly seen to advantage at some of the shows for the novice cup this season. Now the Irish Yorkshire Society should remedy this, as when you join they hold out great promises to the novices to show them how to stage and prepare their stock, and they did. (I don't think.) So much for the men on the Council; they grant patronage of their society to societies they never get a bird from; the novice, as well as champions must support these shows. We had shows clashing this season with loss to both; if it is sport, then let all the societies in Ireland subscribe and get a trophy, and a council of one member from each society, and draft rules for the competition for novices and champions and we will have no shows clashing, and all well supported in the competition.

Failure of Yarm C.B.S. Show.

SIR,—In your correspondence column, Mr. Wilson, secretary of Yarm Society, writes: "We are of opinion that more care should be taken by committees promoting their annual show, in having same announced," etc. As our Association is the chief concern in his letter, I think the following facts will convince him that not only do we agree with his statement, but also that we acted up to it:—(1) Our show date was fixed, and announced to the Fancy, as far back as March of last year. (2) Since then the date has been quoted at least a dozen times in CAGE BIRDS club reports and "Twitterings." (3) The dates corresponded with those on which the show was held last year, and not a week earlier, as was the impression of several fanciers who visited our show this year. It was very unfortunate that Yarm show should clash with Sunderland, but as they altered their date from January 10th to the 17th, with only an "impression" that the date was open in the N.E. district, I cannot see that our Committee were to blame for the failure of Yarm show, particularly in regard to announcement of show dates in Fancy Press. At the same time I was sorry to hear that their show had been cancelled, knowing full well the great amount of work, time, and expense that the same would entail, and after all, to no purpose. The sympathy of my committee is extended to the Yarm officials, and we hope that their next venture will be more successful.

A Combined Rain-Screen and Gutter.

Sir,—The accompanying sketch shows an easily-constructed shoot and rain-screen for outdoor aviaries. Procure a six- or seven-inch board and two three-inch battens the length of the aviary. Nail one batten at right angles to one edge of the board, and the other batten to the top of the front of the aviary, under the roof projection, as in illustration; then hinge the shoot to this. Next, get a piece of thin wood, and notch it underneath, the notches being large enough to go over a screw, and fix it as shown in the end view. This contrivance makes a good combined shoot and rain-screen, and the joint is easily made watertight by painting or tarring. I hope the idea will prove as useful to fellow-fanciers as it has done to myself. A, hinges; B, guide; C, batten.

Sir, I notice a letter re the above signed "Fair Play." I have looked the catalogue through, but cannot find anyone of that name exhibiting in the class for natural colour. If he will sign his name I may answer the questions required. I have no doubt those that were exhibiting in the class for natural colour wanted fair play.

Suggested Society for Port Talbot.

Sir,—In answer to "Taibach," re society for Port Talbot, I believe there are a great number of fanciers here, and if we could get a few together I think we could form a nice society. I have been ill three weeks, and likely to be for another such time, but if "Taibach" cares to call I should be pleased to give him a helping hand.

London Federation of Cage Bird Societies.

SIR,—I should have liked the heading to have read "London and Provincial Federation of Cage Bird Societies." If a Federation is good for the Metropolitan district, it would be equally good, to my mind, for the Provinces, and I believe it would be a good thing for the cage bird Fancy if all cage bird societies were under the control of a governing body like the above, only with more stringent rules, and with those rules strictly adhered to. Not that I complain of the London Federation Council in this respect, or any other, but I remember a now defunct governing body which brought about its own undoing by not sticking hard and fast to its rules. Will the Council of the London Federation think the matter over, or have they done so already? If so, I have overlooked report of same if it has appeared in CAGE BIRDS columns.

How to Keep Young Birds Warm

Sir,—As a help to amateurs who have, say, only a couple of pairs, with one sitting and the other with young, that would not cover her offspring, to keep them warm, but would feed when the young were strong enough to come up for food, and not having another hen, to transfer them to, the following idea may prove useful, as I myself had such a hen during 1912 season. She would not cover her young day nor night, and not having a hen vacant I tried the following, and successfully reared a nest of three Canaries, which are at present alive and healthy. I obtained a 3lb. earthenware jam jar, round the outside I folded some nesting felt, to retain heat, filling same with boiling water. I placed an ordinary nest pan (after filling the holes up with plaster, so the steam could not get through), which fitted quite close to the top of jar. I put same into the cage, and the hen went about her duties as if nothing had happened. By this method I retained heat from six to eight hours and saved the young. Trusting this will assist fanciers if they have such hens.

Visit to a Woking Fancier.

Sir,—Whilst staying at Chobham, near Woking, it came to my notice that we had two great friends of our feathered birds living at Woking. After walking about five miles I came to the house I had been looking for; on enquiring, I found it to be Mr. H. Horncastle, "Lindesaye," Woking. The birds are looked after there in the best possible way—shell-nests, box-nests, water-troughs, and they are fed with mixed seed and poultry meal mixed together, half bushel being ordered at the time, and in frosty weather the good lady of the house buys fat meat and gives to them, and as it was very frosty while I was staying there, the birds were being well cared for. I must say that I saw some very fine birds—Blackbirds, Thrushes, Robins, Tits, Chaffinches, and many other kinds—they seemed very contented with their lot, while some I saw away were looking rather seedy. I found out that about six Yellowhammers come and feed near the window, and I hope that good may come of it. The birds are almost sure to nest in the gardens; that will be ample repayment for their benefactors. I hope to see more scraps thrown out to our songsters, instead of in the dust-bins, as the winter is very trying for those who have to seek for their living, and when the cost is totalled it comes very small, and I am sure our readers will be pleased to know of Mr. H. Horncastle and his wife's thoughtfulness in providing food for our birds.

Some Questions and Some Suggestions.

SIR,—Several questions seem to be troubling the Fancy at present: (1) "Why don't shows pay?"; (2) "Are specialist societies doomed"; (3) "What do exhibitors want?", and such like. The short answer to the first is—Because there are too many shows and too many societies. What, then, is the remedy? I say let the weaker societies, who have probably got rid of all their funds, and have, therefore, a precarious existence, amalgamate with the better established societies. My answer to the second is—"I hope not." Provided they behave themselves. I have been in at the start of more than one specialist society, and the position in the Fancy before the start was somewhat chaotic, both in judging to type and also in classification. Specialist societies have done good work in systematising judging to type and in classification, and if they will only avoid making foolish cast-iron rules which cannot be carried out to advantage by local societies, in other words, stop being afflicted with the fault of giving too little and asking too much, they may survive. They are in a more awkward position as regards amalgamation than local societies. Some specialist societies when started, covered all England, but it has been found too difficult for a secretary in one centre to keep up interest over so large a district; consequently, local specialist societies have sprung up, and herein lies a danger, for, in some varieties at least, we find judging done to different types in different districts, so much so, that, for instance, Northern exhibitors object to show under Southern judges, and vice versa. This tells against the shows, and I consider ought to be remedied at once by specialist societies of each variety combining to have judging done to one type, and by ousting any judge who does not judge to their combined type and points. Another difficulty some of them have to contend against is all or nearly all the judging being done by one or by very few judges. The ideal position is for every show supported by a specialist society to be judged by a different judge, and the nearer the specialist societies get to this the better it will be for them.

I think the third question should read—"What do amateurs want," My opinion is that novices are, on the whole, well treated, and champions generally get the credit of being able to take care of themselves, but what do the societies do for the large body of exhibitors known as "amateurs"? Perhaps I might with advantage review the history of amateur classes as far as I know it. Back, I should think, in the early nineties, the Norwich amateur classes were by far the most important in the Norwich show. At that time, if I remember rightly, the champion Norwich classes were mainly filled by such exhibitors as Mackley Bros., Yallop, Spilman, Howard, and others, people who were dealers rather than breeders. (I cannot say what was the society's qualification for a champion as distinguished from an amateur.) Several societies elsewhere followed the example of Norwich, but the general result was that the amateurs were found wanting, and the amateur classes, which did not answer, were turned into limit classes, which have answered fairly well, and which are, presumably, run mainly for the benefit of the amateur. But now societies are troubled because they cannot keep the amateurs, and complain that many after leaving the ranks of the novices try for a short time in the limited open classes, but eventually lose hope and retire. What is the remedy for this? It is suggested that all societies, at least important ones, should again give three sets of classes; viz.: champion, amateur, and novice, at least in the more popular varieties. Societies must, no doubt, consider how their open champion classes are going to pay, but I think that in these days, when there are so many shows, amateurs might with advantage be even more liberally treated than suggested by Mr. J. W. Ramsden, and, considering that an amateur might easily to-day take three first prizes, three consecutive week-ends with one extra good bird, I think that an amateur should not become a champion until he has taken, say, five, or even more, first prizes.

If my views are right, I think I may assume that the amateurs are responsible for many of the new and unnecessary societies that are started: they feel that they cannot win in the hottest competition, and they aid in starting a society which they expect to be a happy hunting-ground, and they frequently run a show with most of the classes limited in one way or another. A number of weak societies are also started through foolish quarrels, and high-handed action on the part of some official. However, I think that more liberality to amateurs on the part of important societies would probably tend to a diminution of unnecessary and weak societies. I am doing no more than describing what has happened in the district I am best acquainted with, and I do not wish to be too dogmatic, especially when one considers that societies which have hitherto only given champion and novice classes would have to take an increased risk as regards prize money. However, societies which have been running limit classes would probably consider it unnecessary to continue them.

New Society for West London.

Sir,—The new West London Society held its inaugural meeting Jan. 29. It was attended by many prominent local fanciers, who decided that the new society should be known as the Quintin's Park, Kensington and Dis. Fur and Feather Society: it will include poultry, pigeons, rabbits, cavies and cage-birds. The following officers were elected:—Vice-president, E. Thorp; chairman, H. Goldsmith; vice-chairman, T. Last; treas., W. Tarrant; hon. sec., A. J. Foy. Next meeting Feb. 12, at 235, Portobello Road, W., at 8. Agenda: Election of committee, formation of rules and election of new members. I shall be pleased to hear from any fancier wishing to join. Annual sub., 4s.; no entrance fee.

Proposed Tribute to Mr. Martin Jamieson.

Sir,—I had much pleasure in reading Bailie Lambie's letter re testimonial for our late esteemed hon. sec., Mr. Martin Jamieson, who after 21 years' faithful service, has been compelled, through ill-health, to resign. He has, through his untiring efforts, raised the club to its present state of efficiency, both as regards membership and finance, and if Bailie Lambie (who, I have no doubt, will be willing to act as secretary towards the testimonial), opens a subscription list I am sure the members of the B.F.C. Club and others who have made the personal acquaintance of Mr. Jamieson, will be pleased to send him their donations to mark their esteem for one who has spent his lifetime for the advancement of the wee gems of the Canary tribe.

J. W. BRUCE.

Coldstream.

Mr. T. Arnott's Views.

It was with great pleasure that I noticed in your last issue of CAGE BIRDS a letter by that esteemed fancier Mr. Robert Lambie, concerning Mr. Jamieson's retiring from the office of secretary to the above-mentioned club, after a long and faithful service of 21 years. The reason, I believe, that this was not discussed at the club meeting on New Year's Day was because our business is generally somewhat hurried through. Personally I noticed this being passed by without the recognition it deserved, and I made up my mind then that I would write the new sec., Mr. Walter B. Smart, Loanhead, in the form of a resolution, that we as members of the Border Fancy Club owe Mr. Jamieson for his long and devoted service to that club much more than words of praise and a small yearly remuneration. Therefore I have pleasure in suggesting that we mark his faithful service with a present out of the funds of the club. I hope that present in whatever form it is will be as liberal and reasonable as the funds will permit. I also hope Mrs. Jamieson will not be forgotten, as no doubt she, like other fanciers' wives, will have assisted materially her husband's efforts towards the success that the club has attained. One could not have met a more able, painstaking, and courteous official. I hope his health will improve rapidly, and that he will be long spared to see the Border Fancy Club of Scotland the flourishing institution his untiring efforts have been so instrumental in making to day.

The Secretary's Message.

Sir,—In answer to Mr. R. Lambie, re testimonial to Mr. Jamieson after 21 years' faithful service to the B.F.C.C., I may say that a large number of members present at the general meeting arranged with me that I get up same immediately after the books of the club were handed over, not only for the secretary, but that the past president (Mr. G. B. Richardson) should also be recognised for the very keen interest he has always taken in the club. Now that this has come to the Press I trust that every member of the club will do his best to show that the services of the retiring officials have been warmly appreciated, and I hope they will be long spared to enjoy their hobby, and also take an interest in the welfare of the club. Arrangements for the above will be made when the books are handed over, and notice of same will be sent to CAGE BIRDS.

WALTER B. SMART.

Send Lists Out?

Sir, I am pleased to see Mr. R. Lambie's letter re Mr. Jamieson's long services to the Border Fancy Club. The members and Fancy at large are much indebted for his services. He has worked faithfully for the Club, and has also been the means of bringing the wee gems to what they are at the present time. The best way would be to have lists sent out of the delegates of each district, and let them collect what they can get. The members have appreciated his services for 21 years, and will only be too ready to join in and get something up suitable for the occasion

Affairs in Abertillery.

Sir,—In your Club Notice column in CAGE BIRDS of the 24th ult., re Abertillery C.B.S., and their annual meeting, I notice remarks by their president about Mr. A. E. Moule, re collecting all monies for the Melmerry trophy, also other monies. Now, in my opinion the one thing most important has been omitted, re amount (which if his work is fully appreciated, should not be left out). As a contributor to the above society, I know that this gentleman collected close upon £19 in all, of which £6 11s. went to general funds, and he also sold a good number of tickets. Now all will agree with me this takes doing. With all due respects to the Abertillery C.B.S. in general, I think it nothing but right to have every detail published as regards to the work done by members "in full," so that there would be no misleading. I notice re officers elected for 1914, his name is not selected. I consider he should have been foremost, taking into consideration the great amount of work done by him, on behalf of the above society. As regards him being elected on committee, I think it nothing but a farce, seeing a new member was elected that night also on committee. I may say, as regards the Melmerry trophy referred to, I think it second to none in Wales.

A Water Paint that Won't Come Off.

SIR,—In reply to "Mason" re water paint that won't come off, I suggest that he should use "Petraline," obtainable at most ironmongers' or colour shops. It should be used as follows: To each pound add one pint of boiling water, and stir with a stick until free from lumps. The solution so formed may be applied at once with an ordinary brush, and will dry hard and very quickly.

H. G. HOWELLS.

Sponges Marks Off.

Sir,—I would recommend the inquirer to use "Walpamur." I have used it with great success, and find after it has been on a few weeks you can sponge any dirty marks off, and it is to be got in almost any shade. Trusting your inquirer will find this a great advantage to him, and it may also be of some use to other fanciers.

F. SCOTHARD.

Another Word for "Walpamur."

Sir,—Your correspondent will no longer be troubled with water paint coming off if he uses "Walpamur Water Paint," which is stocked by most painters. When getting it, ask them to put in a little of the liquid which is used for mixing it. It looks well, and will stand washing with cold water, so that you need not be afraid of it rubbing off. Be sure that all old colouring is well cleaned off before applying "Walpamur."

G. LAWTON.

Still Another "Walpamur."

Sir,—The best water paint on the market is called "Walpamur" it costs 3d. per lb. and can be had at any good painter's shop. Its covering power is eight square yards to the pound. To use it make up with warm water to the thickness of ordinary paint and apply with a flowing coat; give two coats, with a day between each coat. This will wash with hot water three days after application. It may be obtained in any colour.

JAS. B. COOPER.

What about "Duresco"?

Sir,—In reply to "Mason," asking for a good water-paint. He states he has used the best, but it rubs off on his clothes. Well, during the last few years the market has been flooded with water-paints of all kinds, and there are few amongst them that do what is expected of them. My idea of a good water paint is one that can be easily applied, and that will not peel off, rub off, or wash off; in fact, give similar results as an ordinary oil paint. I have had experience with nearly all the leading brands, and the only one to give me satisfaction is "Duresco," which is a real washable water paint. In fact, the longer it has been on, the harder the surface becomes, and you can wash it like ordinary oil painted work. It is non-poisonous, a good deodorizer, and can be rightly called a sanitary paint. Of course, to obtain the best results the surface should be cleaned as free as possible of all previous coatings of distempers, etc., and only the Duresco petrifying liquid should be used for diluting it to a free working consistency. This particular liquid contains, I believe, certain silicates which preserve the timber, and render it fire resisting. That is to say, timber treated in this way will resist the action of fire for a reasonable length of time. "Duresco" works out fairly cheap, because a little covers a large surface. It is sold by the hundredweight, or can be had in 7lb. kegs. It is made in all colours, price according to colour, white being the cheapest. You can buy it at almost any large colour dealers. If not, ask a local builder you know if he would oblige you with some.

REPEATING OF ADVERTISEMENTS

The Much-Discussed Hybrid.

Sir,—I notice in last week's CAGE BIRDS Mr. Parlett is soft-soldering the Scottish National Committee, and promises not to interfere with them, which is very good of him, after having accused them of not taking proper care of his bird, and allowing fanciers to handle the cage! I wonder what our Scottish fanciers would say if they were to be prevented from lifting cages at the shows. I had almost decided to stay away from the Palace Show this time, being afraid of the enormous crush which was anticipated, owing to the public notice, given a fortnight ago, that the one and only Canary-Greenfinch-Bullfinch Hybrid would certainly be at the Palace, but the best laid schemes, etc. So the owner now proclaims to the world that his rarity will not be on view. After him writing so much in praise of his bird it is rather a pity his courage has failed him at the critical moment. He appears to believe that discretion is the better part of valour; the bird would certainly have been very carefully examined, and discussed, by quite a number of the most experienced Hybrid breeders. And to find that he hadn't the courage to face the ordeal! Well, well, well! Yet I am not surprised, seeing that he dare not reply to my previous letter. Although we are to be deprived of the pleasure of seeing the light Hybrid at the Palace, I am in hopes of seeing its brother, which, being dark, shows unmistakably that it is a Greenfinch-Bullfinch-Hybrid, but, oh! I forgot. I believe it is said that this is only a half-brother to the light one, which, of course, may be correct. I have often bred dark and variegated birds from the same parents, but never suspected that they might be only half-brothers.

No, Mr. Parlett, I am not ashamed of either my country or my name, nor am I lacking in courage, which some have found out. But I am not seeking a free advertisement for myself, or my birds, nor seeking to intimidate judges or secretaries, like some I could mention. The Editor has my name and address, so to you, for the present, I am still

Is it the Same?

Sir,—When I first wrote to Mr. Parlett, asking for the body of his Greenfinch Mule (in the event of its death) I had no idea of being drawn into any public controversy or of otherwise seeking notoriety by claiming to be the breeder of that Mule, but in CAGE BIRDS this week I seem to be challenged to come forward and support my claim. Now in the first place, what I should like to know is. Is the Greenfinch-Mule the same bird that won 1st at Sunderland, four or five years ago, for Mr. Fred Myers, of Yeadon, and which was claimed for two guineas at that show by Mr. Somerfield? I have always understood it was. I have seen it, and believing it to be the same, have followed its career with deep interest, but upon the answer to that question rests my claim as breeder. If this is not the same Mule, can Mr. Somerfield tell me what became of that bird? I can furnish particulars as to the breeding of it, and produce evidence, too, if required.

JAMES LUNN.

Mr. Metcalfe Recants.

Sir,—I notice in your last issue above bird will not be exhibited again this show season. As I was the judge that "wrong-classed" it, and this Hybrid having been recognised as a genuine specimen of a Canary-Bullie by the leading authorities on Mules and Hybrids, I am not so high-minded to think I am right and they are wrong. So I give in to their superior judgment. There are none of us infallible, and at the time I was convinced it was not a Canary-Bullie. I trust the breeder will again be successful in bringing forward a sensation for next year, and that the present owner may gain many more triumphs.

J. W. METCALFE.

Birds in Captivity.

Sir,—Having made a life long study of birds in the wild state and their requirements in captivity, I shall be glad if you will kindly find me space for a few remarks dealing with the matter. The sentimentalists have had a great deal to say about the cruelty of keeping birds in captivity. They have had plenty of time in which to show what a little they know about the subject, and they have done this thoroughly. It is time now that we who have studied the subject of birds all our lives should let these people know that there are thousands of aviculturists, exhibitors, and lovers of birds who keep them as pets, who can certainly teach these people a great deal that they are not aware of. I detest actual cruelty to birds or anything else; when a dealer or other person is acting cruelly I am always pleased to see him punished for it. The sentimentalists see a case of cruelty somewhere; they go away with their minds brim full of it, then turn round and tar everybody else with the same brush. This is a gross injustice. If any persons keep fowls in a filthy or half-starved condition, do they immediately want to stop everyone else from keeping fowls? Certainly not, and why should they want to interfere with those who keep birds that are in perfect health, perfectly content and undoubtedly happy in captivity. The ridiculous nonsense written by some people on birds, especially in these days, is extraordinary. There is no cruelty whatever in keeping birds, provided they are properly fed and attended to by those who understand the subject, and birds so treated have a much better chance of living to a greater age in captivity than in the wild state. There are many instances of birds so living and practically dying of age in captivity. Proof of this is simple. Age in birds is indicated by the legs growing rough and scaly, their claws grow long, and often twisted, and their mandibles become overgrown and rough in texture. Let any one capture say two hundred wild birds and examine them. I can safely say they will be lucky indeed if they find two per cent. showing these conditions; there are too many enemies to encounter in the wild state. If further proof of a bird being happy and better off in captivity is needed, again it is simple. Take for instance a Thrush, properly treated and well looked after, in a good sized cage, often singing beautifully even in winter when snow is on the ground: go out and look at the poor wretched Thrushes and other species in the snow, dying by hundreds of slow starvation. Is anyone with the ordinary amount of common sense going to tell me that the captive Thrush in lovely condition and full song is not infinitely better off; and remember birds do not sing in captivity because they are unhappy, for if that was so then how abominably unhappy they must be in the wild state: the song is exactly the same in cage as in the open, you get a good or inferior songster in both cases. The reason why birds are contented and happy in captivity, and are seen in such superb condition at the exhibitions is because, in addition to the careful treatment their owners bestow upon them, the food question has been thoroughly studied. Years ago hemp and a few other seeds were thought sufficient. Now the seed-eaters can be provided with all the natural wild seeds that they themselves feed upon when at large, and for the insectivorous species various live insect foods can be bought in quantities, even fresh ant cocoons, which they are passionately fond of. Since the protection of birds has taken place, the commoner species are becoming so numerous that unless the fruit grower bestirs himself, he will find his fruit growing business at an end; it is only a matter of time. I said when this protection began that that is what would occur, for certain. There have been no old-fashioned winters for years, which keep birds down, so they have increased greatly. I have only to go a few miles from here, Caversham, Oxon, to witness the wholesale destruction of the fruit crops. Thrushes, Blackbirds, Missel-thrushes, and Starlings visit the orchards directly the cherries begin to ripen, and they never leave them until the fruit is finished. To hear the noise of clappers, turning round on the trees and the frequent fire of guns, one would think it would keep the birds away, but they become so used to the noise that they simply fly out of the tree by hundreds, circle round, and as often as not settle in the next tree. Any quantity of cherries are knocked down by the birds and spoilt. One man told me last summer that he did not know what the end would be, if the destruction of his fruit crops went on. He lost many pounds' worth of cherries, many of his trees that had been loaded were almost stripped, and not worth putting a ladder up to; consequently he had finished cherry gathering nearly a fortnight sooner than he ought to have done. As soon as the cherries are over, the birds then attack raspberries, currants, and even gooseberries. Last season the same man and his sons were away during an afternoon, and the birds during that short time stripped his raspberry canes of nearly every berry that was ripe. After the soft fruits are over, the birds turn their attention to the apples and pears, pecking large holes in them, the wasps come along and scoop out the fruit, leaving a shuck hanging to a stalk. This is no fairy tale, but can be seen by anyone who chooses to visit the orchards during the fruit gathering season here. In France last year the birds had done so much damage to the parks, etc., that men were employed to destroy the birds' eggs. Yet if anyone took one of those eggs for his cabinet he would probably be looked upon by the sentimentalist almost as a criminal. I think it is abominable.

More Limit Classes Wanted.

Sir,—With reference to the letter in your issue of Jan. 3, also the reply by Mr. Thomas in this week, Jan. 24, I have been thinking as to whether "Interested" is a novice or a champion. His remarks are rather misleading to a "Raw Novice," especially at this portion of his letter. "Limit" states: Take a Mule class, do we not know at the first show where we are? I ask "Novice" to note the following, experienced by myself: Some few years since my chances were to purchase a four-pointed (yellow) Goldie-Canary Mule at 10 weeks of age. I struck the bargain, and exhibited this Mule, unflighted, with rather poor results. However, I did not exhibit it in a limit class, but put it through the second moult, giving it plenty of pepper, etc., and my mule came through a blaze of colour. My hopes were very high. Purchasing a new show cage, and doing all that may be desired re staging, I entered my Mule to an early show (October month), this being the first time out of its second year's test. It returned quite safe—my word, and cardless at that! However, I wrote to the secretary asking if my Mule was benched, and received a reply that it was, and it was the hottest class of Mules that he (one of the stewards) had seen outside the Palace. So-and-So's was 1st, etc. (my old Palace Linnet-Mule being in it as well), and the letter concluded in great sympathy. "I hope you will not run against such hot stuff when exhibiting your Mule next." However, I entered on to Eastbourne next as no one could shatter my hopes but that my Mule should win. The following are his honours as sent out that very season: Eastbourne, 1st, spl. (hot stuff included); Bristol, open, 1st; Frome, 4th (Hybrids included, and under same judge as he was when cardless); Maesteg, 1st, spl., medal for best in show; Morriston, 1st, spl.; Bristol C.B.S., open, 2nd; Abertillery, 1st; Pontypridd, 2nd (wanted tubbing); Kingswood, open, Hybrids included and 1st withheld, 3rd. Sold to a well-known exhibitor at my reserved price, and taking premier honours with him as that of with myself.

My chances were to purchase his brother the year following, which I did. A bird with better properties as regards size, but not so well balanced in markings. This Mule I entered at Clapham, it being his first test after the second moult result, 4th, and three buffs being placed in front of him. I was satisfied, it being under the same judge as that of his brother when cardless. Next time out: Portsmouth, 1st; Paignton, 1st, spl.; Bristol, he, then minus of a patch of feathers at nape of the neck, and in trying to grow new feathers my treatment was the means of its joining the majority, I very much regret to state. Now as a novice I advise "Raw Novice" to hold on to any bird he may have, if, of course, showing any good signs, and put it through the second moult. Further test it under, say, two or three different judges, and keep the price up. Many a novice bird, as it were, has turned into a champion.

Is it Cruel to Cage Birds?

Sir,—I have read with much interest the articles appearing in the "Daily Express" on the problem of whether it is, or is not, cruel to keep birds in cages. I am very much in accord with all you have said upon the matter, and am certainly very much inclined to doubt the authenticity of the remarks attributed to the bird catcher by the Countess Serkoff. It is beyond belief that a man of this description should make such a statement. I am a great admirer of birds, and have during the past twenty years kept birds of every description in cages. I have had several experiences, too, which have proved to my mind that it is not cruel to keep birds in cages. Some few years back I put a Goldfinch in a cage into the garden, and a few minutes later saw another Goldfinch trying to get into the cage, so I put some seed into the bottom of another cage, and put it close to my Goldfinch's cage, and in a few minutes the newcomer went into same, and I walked out into the garden, and closed the door on it, and kept this bird for a number of years. Of course, this was not a wild bird. I could see at once that it had been a caged bird, but it proved, to me at any rate, that he was not very much disgusted with cage life. On another much earlier occasion, in fact, when I was a schoolboy, I set a trap cage, and caught a hen Greenfinch. It was in the winter time. I used this as a call bird for about a week; then, having a number of cock Greenfinches, I let the hen go. She flew into a tree in the garden, and within five minutes was caught in the self same trap again. I took her out and let her go, and she came back again. So I thought after that I would keep her. She got so tame that I could do almost anything with her, and not until the spring came did she attempt to go away, and then I even hoped she might return, but she did not do so; perhaps she was trapped by someone else.

DINGWALL C.B., Etc., S.

Thirty-first annual show held Masonic Hall Jan. 28. Silver medal for best Plainhead was won by W. McKay; the silver medal best Bord., R. McLeod. Mr. Junor, Tomatin, scored in Yorks., winning with his Inverness and Keith winners, looking as gay as a Guardsman. The mule and hybd. class was well patronised, "Highland Leader" again scoring here, and still fit to battle for his owner. Goldfinches, although not strong in number, were a nice lot. Mr. E. Harcombe's winning Goldie showing better than ever, rather late of moulting, but now fit to battle in a good class. The sec., Mr. Wm. Sinclair, had everything in A1 order, and was backed up by a comm. of willing fanciers: Bailie George McCallum at the helm as Pres., and Messrs. D. Munro, McPherson, Gair, Campbell, George McKenzie Murray, McLean, J. McKenzie. Mr. F. Stanford, Inverness, judged, and gave entire satisfaction.

NOR.: 1, 2, McKay, winner medal for best Nor. P.H., foul yell., fine chubby shape, full of col. and qual., grand, wide skull and neck; 2, buff, fine all-round bird, plenty size and subs., nice carr. throughout; 3, vhc, hc, Murray, buff, not quite size of winners, but yet a nice stock bird; hc, Scott. VARIEG.: 1, McKenzie, buff variegs., fine type and qual., grand head and neck, A1 wing carr.; 2, D. Murray, head and wing mkd., fine chubby shape, full of col. and qual., not much between them; 3, Chisholm, similar to 2nd in markings, but lacks subs. of winner; vhc, J. Murray. YORKS.: 1, 2, Junor, Inverness and Keith winner, C.F. yell., beauty for type and feather, stands well on legs, wins; 2, tapering shape, full of qual., well carried wings, good second; 3, D. Murray, yell., nice length, fine long wings and tail, presses hard; vhc, Junor; hc, Bruce; c, Murray. BORD.: 1, 3, McLeod, medal best Bord., cinn., even mkd., nice type, head, and front, lovely carr., close fitting wings, rich level col.; 2, vhc, E. Harcombe, yell., grand size and type, feathered like wax, rare jaunty carr., hard lines here; 3, McLeod, buff, grand size, well rounded back and front, very stylish, fails in subs. to winners, HYBD. OR MULE.: 1, 3, vhc, hc, c, Duncan, winner well known Linnet mule, "Highland Leader," comments unnecessary, often described; 2, Junor, well known Redpoll-Greenie, showing parentage to advantage, in A1 cond.; 3, Goldfinch mule, grand size and col. GOLDF.: 1, E. Harcombe, well-known winner, true Britisher, nice size and shape, expansive blaze of rich col., well tanned chest, lovely bars and buttons; 2, Junor, nice size, square cut blaze, rare body col., beaten in finish; 3, MacRitchie Scott, largest in class, showing plenty of col. and subs., but requires some handling, rather nervous. BRIT., SMALL: 1, Junor, Siskin, grand rich col., nice black head and bib, splendid flank markings, wins; 2, Fraser, Bullf., capital size and shape, broad, dense cap, sound breast col., a picture; 3, Duncan, mealy Redpoll, rare size and shape, bold head, neat bib, splendidly mkd. flanks; vhc, Duncan; hc, Bain.

BIRKENHEAD C.F.A.

Annual general meeting held Dec. 20, Mr. Burns chair. Having a show same evening, there was a full attendance. Balance-sheet was read, and considered satisfactory, showing a surplus for the year of £5 5s. 11d. Mr. Burns for the 12th time was re-elected to the chair with applause. All last year's officers agreed to stand by for another year, with Messrs. Cooper, Redgate, and Cave added to the committee. Agreed to hold a pair show Feb. 17, Mr. Burns judge; classes, Canaries, and muling pairs; and that 1/- a class for most points be given as special from the society's funds. Mr. Philips was elected a member. Mr. G. Benson, who judged fit our show, received hearty applause from the members for the able manner he had handled the birds. The society is to be congratulated on its sound financial position, so well have the shows been patronised by the members and public, that we were able to give the whole of the members' subs., amounting to £6 10s., as special prize money, run our society, and have a balance of £5 5s. Will be pleased to join new members any meeting night.—G. Morton, Sec.

GLASGOW (Queen's Park) C.B.S.

Annual general meeting, held Marie Stuart Halls, Crosshill, Jan. 28. Pres., Mr. Andrew Hunter, chair, and a record attendance of over forty. Financial statement submitted by sec., and passed as very satisfactory, a credit balance of £6 0s. 5d. being carried forward to 1914. In connection with any alteration of rules, a special committee was selected to go over these, and submit them to the February meeting to be adopted. Any member desiring to make alterations should communicate with secretary in writing on or before Feb. 18, so that they can be placed before special committee. Office-bearers for 1914 elected:—Pres., E. Holliday; vice-president, G. Gentle; sec. and treas., R. Heggie, 27, McLennan Street, Mount Florida; committee, Messrs. A. Forman, J. Fulton, Arthur Hunter, R. Jeffrey, A. Hardie, G. Morgan, W. Robertson, A. Steel, and R. Galbraith; auditors, Messrs. A. W. Naismith and R. B. Cairns. Date for annual show fixed same as last year, first Sat. in Dec., in Victoria Rooms, Victoria Road, Crosshill. Pair show arranged to be held in Marie Stuart Halls, next meeting, Feb. 25, at 7.30; Nor., Yorks., Bord., Crest or C.B.'s, Mule and Hyb. In Canaries, pairs must be yellow and buff, no double yellows or buffs allowed. A handsome lot of specials were promised, and it is to be hoped that members will take advantage of these. Table show was held for surplus stock, nearly 50 birds turning up. Mr. R. B. Cairns judged, and gave entire satisfaction. Principal winners were Messrs. Cuthbert, Robertson, A. W. Naismith, Morgan, Edward, Munro, Ross, Deans, McGavin, Jeffrey, and Steel. The chairman made special reference to the excellent social and concert held Jan. 16, when over 100 members and friends were present. The chairman receiving the usual vote of thanks, closed a very enjoyable meeting.—R. Heggie, Sec.

A SENSATIONAL SPECIAL

PALACE SHOW NUMBER

OF "CAGE BIRDS" WILL INCLUDE

THE most exhaustive and authoritative report of this classic event ever produced — specially illustrated. A huge staff of Great Britain's best bird experts has been engaged to describe with photographic accuracy all the cracks of the Kingdom, and the winners of CAGE BIRDS Diplomas and Specials will receive special attention.

The eyes of the Bird World will be focussed on the Palace next week and upon CAGE BIRDS the Friday following. In addition to the full report the number will contain a big budget of interesting reading matter, many extra illustrations, and useful tips for bird-keepers.

So successful was our last letter competition that we offer another prize of 10s. 6d. for the best letter (not longer than 200 words) reaching us by Tuesday, February 10. The Editor's decision on all questions arising out of this competition will be final.

Advertisers Should Note that the very last day for receiving advertisements is Tuesday next, February 10, and that this Crystal Palace number will provide the very finest opportunity for disposing of surplus stock or to get in new blood for the breeding season. The reputation of CAGE BIRDS as an advertising medium is acknowledged on all sides to be unassailable. For every bird sold through other sources a thousand are sold solely through CAGE BIRDS.

Send your advertisement at once, and give a bold display to your announcement. Spend time and money on it and it will bring you returns. Order your Palace CAGE BIRDS at once, and tell your newsagent to lay in a good stock, for there is sure to be a big demand—and unless you order beforehand you may be disappointed.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE (East End) C.B.S.

Meeting and table show held Jan. 28 at Foster's Cafe, Shield's-rd. Mr. McPartling presided at a grand meeting, over 40 members being present; 24 new members were proposed and balloted for, all being accepted, bringing membership up to 75. Mr. J. G. Hutchinson judged all classes in table show, owing to Mr. T. Robson not being able to get to the meeting in time, his awards giving satisfaction. NOR. (14): 1, 3, Morrison; 2, Matthewson. BORD.: 1, Young, A.O.V. (5): 1, Morrison; 2, Coutts; 3, Young. BRIT. (6): 1, 2, 3, Coltman. Decided to hold another table show at next meeting for breeding pairs of Canaries, classes confined to novices, Nor., Bord., Yorks., and A.O.V., with one open class for muling pairs. 3d. entry. Judges, Messrs. T. Robson, McGinn, Young, Parker, and McPartling.—J. W. Coutts, Sec.

N. COUNTIES NORWICH P.C.

Meeting held Jan. 29, Mr. R. Topping, chair, before a good number of members. Decided to join in with the other Northern specialist clubs in holding a smoking concert for distribution of special prizes, R. Topping and F. W. Laidlow to act as delegates for this society in making arrangements for same. Next meeting Feby. 18, to choose medals, also to try and get a cup for young birds for the coming show season, so members turn up and lend us a hand in getting same, and bring a few birds, as we intend also to hold a pair show. Four classes—two champions, two novices; judge, Mr. A. Herniston. Our chairman, Mr. R. Topping, is giving a special of 2/6 for most points; we were all very sorry that he is selling all his birds owing to his removal from the town, but he is not going to leave the Fancy altogether, and we all expect that some day he will be as brisk as ever again. Points gained at the six patronage shows were as follows: W. H. Butler, 107; F. W. Laidlow, 64; J. Pierson, 64; C. Snowdon, 56; H. Wellsbury, 47; W. McGinn, 46; C. McKay, 38; G. Dobinson, 35; A. Holden, 36; R. W. Smith, 16; T. Fletcher, 11. Novice: R. Topping, 44; S. Lindsey, 25; J. Wood, 25; J. Lumley, 11; J. G. Hodson, 10; R. Hope, 10. Fanciers, remember next meeting.—F. W. Laidlow (Sec.).

DOUBTS AND DIFFICULTIES SOLVED BY SPECIALISTS

CANARY QUERIES

Answered by CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

BREEDING MULING HENS (Ochy Coo).—I am not sure whether I quite grasp the meaning of your first query. It reads a trifle vague, and you do not say what kind of mules you want the hens to produce—light or dark. If it is richness of colour and quality of feather you want, one of the surest and quickest means of getting it is to mate a clear yellow cock with a rich buff cinnamon hen in the first year, and the following year select the deepest and richest coloured from among the clears and ticked, or the lightest marked, to mate among themselves and back to the yellow cock. Clears may be exceptionally scarce from the first mating, but any that do turn up should be tried before being disposed of. The progeny of the second season mating should give you some birds of excellent colour and quality, which should turn out some good dark Mules. To work from the pure green, which, however, will give you colour without the fine quality that is got from the cinnamon, mate a clear buff hen, bred from double-yellows to a yellow-green cock with neat and clear pencilling and a bright and clear ground colour. The clear and ticked or very lightly marked progeny from this mating may be used the following season for breeding Mules of the dark order. (2) For pink-eyed sibs get a clear yellow pink-eyed cock and a ticked buff hen bred from two yellows, also pink-eyed, from the same strain, but not closely related. Mate these together, and in the next season select from among the progeny the richest buff hen, clear or slightly ticked, and mate back to the original cock, and the richest clear yellow cock to mate back to the parent hen. The remainder of the clears and ticked mate among themselves. In the third season you may begin to test the hens by mating them for a nest of Mules, and retain especially for future breeding those which throw Mules with light plumage. However small the amount of light plumage thrown will show that the tendency to breed light Mules is there, and those hens should be carefully preserved for future breeding of the strain. To continue the strain of sibs in the third year mate the progeny of the brother and sister matings of the former season back to the grandparents and among their progeny of the second year. After this if you find the birds losing much size it will be necessary to introduce some fresh blood, which you should do by introducing a fresh hen from the same strain as the original pair came from.

should consult St. John's "Canary Breeding for Beginners" (7d.); House's "Canary Manual" (1/2); Battye's "Yorkshire Canaries" (1/12); House's "Norwich Canaries" (1/1); Weston's "Stock Book" (7d.); Dr. Clarke's "Septic or Bird Fever" (7d.); Dr. Creswell's "Hygiene of Bird-keeping (1/1); Norman's "Aviaries, Bird-rooms, and Cages" (2/3); Ramsden's "Colour-feeding" (2½d.); "Seeds and Foods for Cage Birds" (1/2); or the "Nutshell" booklets (2½d. each), No. 5 "The Pet Canary," No. 6 "Ailing Birds and How to Cure Them," No. 9 "The Disinfection of Cages, Bird-rooms, etc.," No. 10 "The Roller," No. 23 "The Border Fancy," No. 24 "Green Canaries." All thoroughly practical and instructive. Prices quoted are post free, from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

TWO NORWICH HENS (R.C.).—I suspect these particular hens are more than usually susceptible to the extreme changes of weather we have had of late. If the weather has become mild with you, place them in the cosiest part of your room, which should be a sufficient protection, but otherwise I would advise you to remove them to a rather warmer room for a time, but you need not keep them very warm. Then give a staple of plain canary seed as now, and in addition give every second day, separately, half a teaspoonful of scalded summer rape, and a morsel of banana, and on the alternate days give a similar quantity of crushed sponge cake with two drops of cod liver oil emulsion and four of sherry mixed in it, and, if you have any available, give also on these days two fat mealworms, killed, and fastened to the end of a perch. Give a small spray of watercress four times a week. Limit the diet to this for two or three weeks. In the water give ten drops of syrup of buckthorn daily for three days, and afterwards 20 drops of the following mixture two days in every three for a fortnight. If birds are not quite well in that time, please write again, and I will advise you further.

OUT OF CONDITION (Old Joe).—Possibly the cock in question is getting beyond his first youth, and, maybe, a trifle overfed, which would account for his keeping out of condition rather longer than usual. In addition to the staple of plain canary seed, give a morsel of bread and milk sprinkled with soft sugar every second day for a fortnight, and on the alternate days give half a teaspoonful of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet, teazle, and black rape, and a small spray of watercress, or a morsel of banana as a substitute when greenstuff is not available. Add ten drops of syrup of buckthorn to the water for three consecutive days, and afterwards give four drops each of tincture of gentain, tincture of calumba, and dilute sulphuric acid every second day for a week. See it is in a nice bright position; keep cage floor strewn with clean gritty sand, and offer a bath thrice a week when weather is mild.

MAKES SQUEAKY NOISE (Idwal). The symptoms you describe are quite characteristic of a cold, which may be more or less severe, so if you are right in your assumption that it has not been exposed to any draught, the probability is that its nearness to the window has made it susceptible to the extreme changes of temperature we have had of late. It would be wise to remove it to a more equable place and a fairly cosy, but not necessarily very warm, temperature for a week or two until it has succeeded in throwing off the effects. In addition to its present diet give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with two drops of cod liver oil emulsion and four of sherry well mixed in it every second day for a fortnight, and on the alternate days add 20 drops of whisky, five each of oxymel of squills, and ipecacuanha wine, and two of eucalyptus oil, to the water, and shake well together.

WILL NOT SING (J. Bell). You omit to say whether the bird was in song when you first bought him. If he was not, I should be rather inclined to doubt his sex. Although you say he is in very good health, I am further inclined to think that this is not quite the case, as the way in which you say the bird behaves is not usually significant of a high condition of health. Its behaviour when you go near is due to sheer fright, as that it is evidently of a very highly strung nervous temperament. The only way in which you can hope to overcome this trait is to deal with the bird with the greatest gentleness and method at all times, so as to win its confidence and enable it to get over nervousness, which some birds quickly do, whilst others never really get over it, and are always in more or less danger of dying suddenly at any slight shock. Add a pinch of Epsom salts to the drinking water every second day for a week, and afterwards give by the same means 20 drops of Chemical Food four or five times a week for a month or so. In addition to the usual seed diet, give a morsel of stale bread sopped in cold milk, drained, and sprinkled with soft sugar every second day for a fortnight, and on the alternate days a pinch of a mixture of equal parts maw, sesame, and gold of pleasure seeds, and also a small spray of watercress. Keep the bird in a bright, healthful place, and offer it a bath about every third day in mild weather.

SWELLING ON ABDOMEN (J.D., Edin.).—It is difficult to say what the swelling is without seeing it, though it is most probably an encysted tumour, which any veterinary or your medical man could very easily remove. You might try the effect of painting it slightly once with a small camel hair pencil dipped in tincture of iodine. If this does not cause it to be absorbed naturally, then wait until it seems "ripe," and get it removed. If the bird continues to be in good sound health generally, I see no reason why you should not breed with it when the proper season arrives by which time I expect the substance will have been removed, and the bird quite recovered from the operation.

NIBBLES ITS FEATHERS (Novice).—This may be due to the bird being pestered by insects, either red mites or grey lice. Examine the cage well, paying particular attention to any crevices about it, and to its immediate surroundings, and if any mites are found continue your efforts to expel them until you are successful. Also examine the bird itself, and if you find any evidence of grey lice give the bird two hand-washings with an interval of a week between, and to the first two waters used on each occasion add a little creolin, in the proportion of a teaspoonful of the fluid to a pint of water. Should you find no trace of insects, then give the bird a morsel of bread and milk sprinkled with soft sugar every second day for a week or so, and if you have any mealworms available, give one each day, killed, and fastened to the end of a perch. In the water add a small pinch of Epsom salts every second day for a week, and afterwards give four drops each of tincture of gentain, tincture of columba, and aromatic sulphuric acid every second day for a week or fortnight, as may seem necessary.

A DAMAGED TOE (K.K.).—If the toe has really been broken, as you say, it is probably too late to do anything by the time this can appear, as the part that was turned black will probably have sloughed off. It is a mistake to bathe a supposed fractured limb daily, as the act of catching the bird and the bathing are extremely likely to increase the mischief enormously. The best advice I can give you in these circumstances is to leave the bird alone as much as possible, and leave Nature to repair the mischief in her own way. Put in some soft wood perches, placed quite comfortably, and of proper size to give the bird a very firm and easy grip, so as to aid it to get about on one foot as much as it likes. Keep it in a quiet place, and disturb it as little as possible. If the foot that is peeling seems sore, catch the bird when at rest in the evening twice each week, and very gently anoint both feet with Lanecyllin. More than this I do not advise you to do.

SORE FEET (Mrs. C.).—First see if the claws are overgrown so as to hamper the bird's movements and cause tenderness. If they are, cut them back with a small pair of nail scissors to a proper length after first bathing them with the boracic solution mentioned below. Also see that the perches are of a proper size to give the bird a firm and comfortable grip, and that they are made of a nice soft wood. Having attended to these points, catch the bird daily for a few days and bathe the feet with a luke-warm solution of boracic acid for a few minutes each time. Make the acid solution by dissolving a small teaspoonful of boracic acid in a teacupful of warm water. After bathing, dry gently, and smear the feet and shanks with Lanecyllin, finally wiping off any surplus grease, to prevent it collecting any dirt or sand from the cage floor.

CUTTING CLAWS (Grateful).—You are quite correct in your surmise that the vein in the claw extends only about an eighth of an inch beyond the end of the horn. But in cutting the claws you must not cut right back to the visible end of the vein, which tapers gradually to a practically microscopic termination. If you hold up the claw to the light and cut, say, a sixteenth of an inch short of the ending of the vein you can see, you will be on the safe side, and need have no fear of doing the bird any injury. If you should by accident get a little too close so that a speck of blood shows after a few moments, there is no cause for alarm, and no necessity for any treatment unless drops of blood should appear one after another, when you should touch the claw with a drop of Friar's Balsam. But if you confidently carry out above directions, the latter event will never occur.

A DUET (Northumberland). (1) Keep cage floor, perches, and all food and water vessels as clean as possible. It would assist in this to strew the floor with clean dry sawdust until the looseness has ceased. Add as much sulphate of soda as will cover a sixpence to the water for one day only. Then give in addition to the staple diet a morsel of bread sopped in milk and dusted with carbonate of bismuth every second day for a week or so, and on the alternate day give half a teaspoonful of good sound hemp and a morsel of banana. Give no green food for the present. In the water, after the preliminary dose of soda, add six drops of tincture of iodine and four of tincture of opium for three or four days as may seem necessary. (2) No, if the Cinnamon hen you propose mating with the pink-eyed cock is a self, you may expect to get a certain proportion of fawn and cinnamon cocks among the progeny. The proportion may be small, but will depend upon the nearness of the relationship of both parents to cinnamon cells. The majority of the young will probably be cinnamon locked, variegated, and clear pink-eyed.

LOSING FEATHERS (Novice). It is not clear from your letter whether the bird is moulting the feathers or plucking or knocking them out. If the former is the case, feed generally as you will see in "Canary Breeding for Beginners," and for the next fortnight give half a teaspoonful of sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion well mixed in it every second day, and on the alternate days give a morsel of banana and half a teaspoonful of a mixture of equal parts hemp, millet, and teazle. Also dissolve half a drachm of ammoniated citrate of iron and quinine in an ounce of sherry, add a teaspoonful of glycerine, and give 20 drops of this mixture in the water two days in every three until the feathers cease dropping.

MAKING STRAIN AND MARKINGS (Kebrab). (1) It is quite possible for you to go on for several years breeding a strain of robust, healthy birds from the two sister hens and two unrelated cocks, but you can hardly expect to go on indefinitely without introducing fresh blood. By mating the parents in the second year with nephews and nieces respectively you might reasonably go on for four years without fresh blood, but beyond this it may not be wise to go. As to whether you could build up a good strain from these birds must, of course, depend upon whether the birds themselves are well bred. But perhaps you meant a healthy strain, which is answered in the above remarks. It is not necessarily always detrimental to mate cousins. It is the too frequent repetition of such mating, and using weakly or unsound stock birds for the purpose, that is the most detrimental. (2) You have hold of a wrong idea in asking this question. It would be exceedingly difficult to take any given Yorkshire, cock or hen, in these days, and say it had no trace of cinnamon blood in it. But assuming you had such a cock and mated it with a cinnamon-marked or pink-eyed hen, the result would most certainly not be all hens. You would get birds of both sexes, but no cinnamon or cinnamon-marked among them. But supposing the sexes were reversed, and the cinnamon blood was in the cock, then you might get some cinnamon-markings in the young, but every bird showing cinnamon colour would be a hen. You would, however, still get birds of both sexes, but all the cocks and doubtless some of the hens, would be green or green-marked.

BIRDS GOING BLIND (Q. Eddy).—You say the eyes appear full and normal until some days after the blindness has occurred, when they shrink. Does this mean that there is no apparent inflammation or discharge at any stage? If so, I should be strongly inclined to think that some accidental or violent cause was at work. Are the affected birds caged together? If they are, I would advise you to watch them closely to see if there is a spiteful one among them that is responsible for these injuries, and also see if is probable that they are being caused by some jagged end of wire or other projection about cage or food or water vessels. Should neither of these surmises appear correct, immediately isolate any future case which may occur. Make a decoction by infusing six or eight camomile flowers, obtainable at any chemist's, in a teacupful of boiling water for 20 minutes, allow to stand till cold, strain off the clear liquid, add 30 drops of tincture of opium, and bathe the eyes morning and night with this liquid, using a little fresh liquid and a new wad of wool each time, or for each bird. After bathing, dry carefully, and place a tiny speck of ointment, made by well mixing four grains of red oxide of mercury in half an ounce of spermaceti in each eye, and hold the bird a few moments to allow it to melt and work its way beneath the eyelid. The chemist will mix the ointment for you. Let me hear the result in a month hence.

A TRIPLET (E.B.). (1) Yes, certainly when birds are so pestered by mice that you can see two or three in the seed glasses at the same time; it is going to militate very considerably against success in breeding. Your only hope lies in clearing them out, and in your circumstances you cannot do better than apply the Virus remedy, which you will see advertised in our columns for this purpose. (2) Keep the birds caged until the middle of March now before you give them their liberty. Then let the hens fly about, and a fortnight later release the cocks. In this way you will do much to prevent them going to nest before the weather is suitable for them to do so. (3) I do not remember the size of your aviary, but if there is plenty of space in it I see no material objection to placing the Christmas tree in to provide roosting places for the birds. If well covered with leaves it might be useful to provide secluded nesting sites also. The chief objection to these ornamental shrubs in confined places is that they are so apt to become eyesores on account of the droppings of the birds adhering to the foliage.

STARTING THE FANCY (C.H.E.). It is rather a difficult matter to say definitely what amount anyone should spend in first starting in the Fancy. Save in general instances it is best for each one to settle this question in his own mind, after giving due thought to the possibilty of failure, with partial or complete loss of first outlay. A matter of £2 or £3 may quite possibly be of no more concern to one beginner than as many shillings would be to another. So I can only say that the price you name is by no means excessive for a pair of stock birds from a well-established strain of trained songsters such as you suggest the birds in question are; therefore, if cash is not a very great consideration with you, it is only for you to consider whether you care to take the risk of spending so much with the risk of getting little or even no return at the end of the first season. There is, of course, also the chance of your making a successful season and doing well out of the matter, and as you are studying "Canary Breeding for Beginners," you certainly have a good chance of coming out all right. The cock would probably be quite good enough to train, or assist in training, the youngsters if he kept in good song, but all cocks do not keep in their best song during the breeding season, and this, added to the risk of any particular bird going out of condition for a longer or shorter period, makes it a very risky proceeding to trust entirely to a single cock both for breeding and training the young to sing. If you get a second hen it would be advisable to have one of the same type of song, though it is not essential to be of the same strain. Doubtless the breeder from whom you got the pair would tell you of a strain that would mix well with his birds if you asked him.

METAL CAGES AND AVIARY (Budgi). (1) For personally I do not like all metal cages. They are, to my mind, even when well enamelled, much too cold and chilly to be comfortable at all times, and I do not think they are any easier to keep free from red mites, provided wood cages are given the same amount of attention. It may be only an idiosyncrasy, still, I prefer wood. (2) As you are building the room evidently from the commencement, I would advise you to line it with lath and plaster or cement, as you suggest, in preference to wood. The former should be the most durable and cosy, being less likely to become affected by damp etc., or warp and crack, and it will certainly afford less encouragement for insects to form harbours. It would also be good policy in your circumstances to have the radiator extended to the aviary whilst you are having it fixed so close to it, as you could then choose between using it or not, whereas if you do not make the extension you would have no choice but to do without it, however much you may want it at any particular time. Your scheme of ventilation seems quite OK, and I have no alteration to suggest in it. (3) I see no advantage in keeping the two moulting pairs in the greenhouse section unless the aviary proper was rather overcrowded, in which case the extra quietude would be advantageous, but the extra moisture from the plants would probably be a still greater detriment.

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES AND HYBRIDS.

Answered by H. NORMAN.

YOUNG BLACKBIRDS (W. C. G.). You say one of your young Blackbirds is black, and the others have not moulted. In this I think you must have made a mistake. The explanation is that they have all moulted, that the black one is a cock bird, and the other two are hens. There is not a lot of difference to the uninitiated between hens in their nest feathers, and after the moult, and as there was no decided change, I expect you have been under the impression that they had not moulted. If properly treated they should soon commence to warble, when you would be able to verify this. Are you anywhere where you can see Blackbirds at liberty? If so, compare them with the brownish mottled ones that you see in the open. These are the hen birds. (2) Our booklet No. 4, "Song Thrush and Blackbird," 2½d., from this office, is the one you want.

ROLLER CANARIES FOR HYBRID BREEDING (J.H.C.). You have omitted to send your name and address. Will you please send us these on a post card? You could, if you like, use Roller Canary hens with a cock Goldfinch or Linnet, but the young Hybrids would no doubt be small ones. This would not matter, if you wanted them for singing purposes only. For exhibition, one must have large birds to be of any use, size is such an important factor towards success. If you have the Roller hens in stock, and as you are quite a novice at breeding, I would advise you to use them; anyway for this next season. It would be experience for you that would be useful later on. Most Hybrid breeders use large yellow Norwich hens; from these they get birds of size and colour.

RED MITE TROUBLE (Geo. Wall). If you have done all the things you say you have, I am afraid the red mite have had rather a rough time of it. If fanciers generally were all as thorough, there would soon be a dearth of insects. If you continue your methods, you are sure to get rid of them, although I am afraid you are treating your birds rather too roughly. Wash your cages in fir tree oil as much as you like, but not the birds. If these are washed with ordinary soap, it is quite sufficient to clean them; besides, the insects do not live on the birds, but in the cracks of the cages. Now, although you have thoroughly dressed your cages, you have made the mistake of putting them back in the same position, consequently the insects left on the wall and around the nail find their way back again, and, of course, a warm kitchen is just the place to cause them to multiply. Find a fresh place for the cages, if you can, and in a cooler spot than the kitchen, if you can possibly manage it. If you are obliged to hang them in the same position, get some small corks and fasten on the back of the cage, so as to keep them away from the wall; these corks can be dressed with insecticide, which will prevent the mites getting on to the cage again from the wall. I expect the birds are suffering from irritation of the skin, caused by your rather drastic treatment. Just touch the bare place with a little warm kerol ointment, for three or four days in succession.

BLACKBIRD SNEEZING. The fact of your young Blackbird not growing or retaining all its feathers since the moult, is, in my opinion, a reason why you should give him an entire change of diet. The food you are giving him now evidently does not agree with him. Procure some good insectile food, such as is used for Nightingales and small Warblers; give him this for a fortnight, and then vary it with your usual food. Mix it with scraped raw carrot, mashed potatoes, chopped watercress, or other green food. Offer him a piece of apple or banana. My experience is that the better you treat these birds, the less trouble you have with them, and the more song you get out of them. Keep his cage scrupulously clean, and let him bathe frequently in the early mornings. For medicine, give a couple of pieces of Glauber Salts, the size of a pea, in his drinking water, for one day only, then make a mixture of equal quantities of fresh lemon juice, honey and whiskey, and give twenty drops in the drinker until the cold has disappeared. If no better, repeat the salts in about 4 or 5 days. Touch the bare places with kerol ointment, or even a little pure lard, without salt in it. Do this for three or four days in succession, then wait a week, and apply it again, wearing the way of the feathers.

SOFTBILL WITH SORE FEET (W. Wolf). Sore feet in softbill birds is always a difficult ailment to cure, and one that requires a good deal of perseverance. The old saying that "prevention is better than cure," applies to this as much as any bird ailment I know of. If cages are not very carefully fed, and given an occasional aperient, there is sure to be trouble if they manage in any way to injure the foot as yours have done. You must keep his blood cool by judicious feeding, letting him have plenty of fruit, and his food made damp, with scraped carrot or chopped watercress. This treatment will make him somewhat loose, so you should clean him out daily, and also give him a fresh perch, while the other one is being scrubbed and dried. In the case of the injured foot, you cannot do better than touch the sore part with a little neat witch hazel, put on with a clean camel hair brush, after bathing. This is very healing. Continue the same treatment for the Sprosser, but if his feet are unduly tender and the skin not broken, you could try soaking them in a solution of alum, and then anointing with vaseline, wiping them before returning the bird to its cage. Get him some perches made of the very softest wood you can procure, or peel them with cloth for a time. As I said before, these cases are not quickly cured; one must persevere, and be careful in the general treatment.

BREEDING WILD BIRDS IN CAPTIVITY (E. T. Rancocas). All the birds you mention have been bred in captivity at different times, but I cannot say positively that if you put certain pairs into an aviary that they will breed; it all depends upon the accommodation the birds, and your general treatment. Your aviary should contain some rough bushes, with plenty of nesting boxes, and wicker cages, and old nests placed in inviting situations. The birds you put in should be either house-moulted, tame specimens, or hand-reared birds. Your best subjects for trial would be English Goldfinches, Linnets, Redpolls, and Greenfinches, in pairs, with no odd birds among them, or you will have no end of quarrelling. If you write again, giving particulars of aviary, and the birds you are putting into it, I shall be pleased to assist you, and help you in anything you want to know. If you are quite a novice, our British Bird Manual, Part I., Hardbills, would be useful to you; price 1s. 1d., from this office.

TROUBLE WITH LINNET (Novice). You have not done badly if you have had three years' good singing out of your bird. He must have a rest sometimes. According to your description, I should say he has grey lice. You had better catch him and hold him in the hand for a few minutes, and if he has any you will soon see them. Then you must thoroughly dress him with sulphur powder, working it into the feathers, but be careful you do not get any in his eyes. Give him a warm carbonate of soda bath, will cover a sixpence in the drinking water for one day only. Let him have this twice a week for a fortnight. Put him in a large cage, feed on plenty of green food; you can get chickweed, groundsel, and watercress at this time of the year, and a little later on you will be able to procure dandelion both the leaves and seed pods. Reduce the hemp, and give as much good teazle as you do canary. With this treatment he should improve and soon be in song again. An hour or two in the sunshine outdoors on fine mild days would be beneficial.

MAKING A STRAIN (British). You should take particular care of your hen and not overwork her, so that she may last you another season or two. Your best mate for her would be a clear buff cock bred in the same way that is related to her; perhaps you could get her father or half brother. If not, procure a clear Norwich cock bird from clear birds. If you have to do this, I would advise you to get a yellow, as by that means you would breed more yellows, which are, or ought to be, invaluable for Hybrid production. Among the young ones you may have a buff cock, and if he is of good size and healthy, pair him back to his mother; the young from this pairing will be clear, pass her blood, which is what you want to retain, as she throws clear. Do not part with the other young one; try some with Finches and the others pair together so as to get up a good stock. Be sure you only pair healthy birds. Be careful to get a cock bird for your hen that is bred from clears, if for two or three generations, so much the better. Blow up his feathers about the thighs and see that he is clear to the skin. Respecting the hen, if you have any other Canaries, I would advise you to let them rear the young ones so as to nurse her strength; by doing so you will find she will last you a season longer, which is a great consideration. She would probably lay an extra clutch of eggs, if you did not allow her to sit; but this would not weaken her so much as rearing. Do not force her with a lot of egg food; let her come along naturally.

RED BREASTED LINNET (C. Hobbes).—The rich crimson colour on the breast of the cock Linnet is only acquired in the breeding season. The hen bird does not have this; she is always more or less of a greyish brown, according to the season. (2) A Linnet-Canary Hybrid should be large, with a head in proportion to its body; a bird with a small pinched head on a big body seldom gets very high in the prize list. He should stand up boldly on the perch, be well rounded, with good wing and tail carriage, of rich brown colour shading off in buff on the light parts, his breast and flanks should be marked somewhat in the manner of the Linnet, but these markings are not so important as size, colour, and shape. A good seed mixture for a Linnet-Canary is two parts canary, one part each of rape and teazel. Make another mixture of linseed, hemp, maw, and niger, give him a spoonful of this once a week, and twice a week you could let him have the same quantity of a good wild seed mixture, which you can procure in packets at most corn dealers'.

BUNTING WITH GROWTH (D. R. Swainson). The first thing you should do is to slightly improve your mode of feeding. Procure a packet of wild seed mixture and give him a little of this two or three times a week. He may not eat much of it, but if he picks up even so little it is a help. Then buy some best ants' eggs and also some insectile food as used for warblers, soak a spoonful of the ants' eggs in hot milk, lay them on a sheet of paper to drain, and then give them to the bird in a little glass or china vessel. When he will eat these just damp a small quantity of the insectile mixture, and put into the vessel with the soaked ants' eggs on top, he will in time promptly eat both; when he does, you can give him this two or three times a week in addition to his seed. When he will eat the food freely, make it damp by mixing a little scraped raw carrot with it. You should also give him a mealworm or other insects, such as small beetles, caterpillars, green fly, etc.—not a lot at once, but whenever you can procure them. He should have a large cage to exercise in, and be allowed to bathe. Into his drinking water put a crystal of Glauber salts the size of a big pea, and give him this for one day, then miss a day, and give again, repeating in a week. Paint the growth with a camel hair brush that has been dipped in iodine; do this three days in succession, and then wait a week, and paint again if required.

TROUBLE WITH GOLDFINCH (S. Handel).—I have carefully read your letter, and I am inclined to think that all the trouble with your bird arises from derangement of the liver, and if you can remedy this he will come round again. Give him an aperient first, a crystal of Glauber Salts in his drinking water is as good as anything, then a couple of days after give as much carbonate of soda as will cover a sixpence. Let him have this to drink for one day only, miss a couple of days, and give again. Repeat again, missing a couple of days between each. Give the salts once to every twice of the soda. Collect some dandelion root, bruise a piece of it, and put in his drinking water on the days he is not having the medicine. As you are not giving him any hemp seed, he should have some sunflower. If he has not had any before, you will need to crack and open some for him until he gets the flavour of them, when he will probably manage it himself. Let him have as big a cage as you can possibly spare for him, and don't be afraid of the green food; you can still get seeding chickweed, groundsel, and watercress. There is no reason why you should not breed with him when he has recovered from his present indisposition.

TROUBLE WITH BUNTING (F.).—You certainly tell me what is the matter with your bird, but you say nothing as to your manner of feeding and general treatment, which is of vital importance, especially in your case, as I expect the feeding is at the root of the trouble. My advice is to give the bird as much Glauber Salts as will lay on a shilling in his drinking water, and repeat the dose in three days' time. Read the advice given to "Swainson" in this issue, and feed your bird on similar lines; he is probably over-fat. Exercise and the bath will all assist to recovery.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S

WILL IT DO FOR FINCHES? (A. J. S.).—Your aviary will certainly do for Finches, Waxbills, etc., if you get rid of the Budgerigars, and I also advise parting with the Cockatiels, as though they would do no harm to the small birds, they would disturb, as they are largish birds on the wing in a rather narrow aviary. A wood flight is not always a desideratum for an outdoor flight, but if you can keep it dry, it will be all right; but if not, then take up the wood floor (flight only) and fill in with earth. It will be better to refurnish for the Finches. Take out all existing perches and branches; then all round the interior of shelter-house and back of flight form a fairly thick hedge of pea sticks or similar material. Any kind of branches will do. The branches can go to top of aviary, but their bases should be 12 inches above floor level. Also put up a good supply of small boxes, rush nests, coconut shell nests, of which there ought to be at least double the number that you have pairs of birds. These can be suspended from roof and fixed to the walls at the back of the branches. Hay, grass, and a little moss will suffice now for nesting material. You could get one pair each of all the birds named in your letter; they would all agree together, and some of them would breed—all should breed, but not necessarily so in the same season. Foreign species are a bit irregular, even in the "best regulated" aviaries. You are most likely to succeed with only one pair of Zebra Finches. You could add to your list a pair each of Red-billed Weavers, Rufous-tailed and Long-tailed Grenadines, the two latter probable breeders.

PENNANT'S PARRAKEET (C.S.D.). I should stop the egg-food, otherwise your diet is about right. Bring it into the warmest quarters you can arrange for it, and try and let it have a little wing exercise outside its cage as soon as it cares to take it. You might give it a little plain arrowroot biscuit, broken up to about size of hemp seed, or a little larger, slightly moisten this with a mixture of boiling water and Scott's cod liver oil emulsion in equal parts. Give a little of this daily till its strength is renewed, when it would be better stopped. Keep its bowels moving quite freely by giving Dinneford's Magnesia (one teaspoonful in the drinking water) as often as required. On other days continue the use of the Chemical Food. Bathing the legs and feet in hot water (not hot enough for discomfort), drying with a soft cloth, and then painting same with neat whisky, will give the bird some relief. Treated as above the bird should gradually recover strength. As soon as the warm weather comes, a period in the outdoor aviary will benefit it greatly, if you can put it there without danger to the other inmates. Shall be pleased to hear how it progresses.

AVIARY QUERIES (M.B.).—(1) You are very favourably situated both as regards country, soil, and pure air. The conditions could not be more favourable. It will be quite right for you to follow all the details of the plan referred to, but I must emphasise one or two points. The shelter must be roomy enough to provide roosting accommodation for all your birds if they use it, and when the front is partly blocked, the interior should be as light as any ordinary living room, and the details re flight given in previous reply cannot very well be improved upon. (2) 7½ft. would answer the purpose, but 9ft. would be far better, as then birds have plenty of room for flight above your head, and are not scared when you are in the aviary. If you have any further trouble with egg-binding, try dry-heat—the temperature of birds is so high that they can stand even 100 degs. for a considerable period which will give relief, though in some cases the egg may not be passed for a day or two. This treatment has been used by my friend, Mr. H. Gray, M.R.C.V.S., for some time with great success. In giving drugs to small birds in the drinking water, an apparently large dose is really the reverse, as only a portion of the daily supply of water is drunk by the birds. Thus, if a bird drinks say one-half of the bulk supplied, and 40 minims was the dose, the bird only gets about 20 minims, or pro rata, according to the quantity consumed.

GARDEN AVIARY (T.H.H.H.).—Foreign and British species of birds do well in a suitably arranged garden aviary, and mostly soon become tame, even with species which naturally skulk amid dense undergrowth. I must, however, warn you that two of our most beautiful indigenous species—Goldfinch and Bullfinch—will speedily kill any deciduous trees and bushes growing within a limited space, by a continued process of disbudding. I am also equally sure that Budgerigars and Cockatiels will speedily kill any living trees and bushes in your aviary, and where any species of Parrakeets are kept, grass and rough herbage are the only living greenery that is permitted to survive, and this may need annual renewal. I must emphasise the conditions already given by the secretary of "C.B. League" that each aviary (for all the year round occupation) must consist of a weather proof shelter, as well lighted as an ordinary living-room, and the flight should have one-third of its length roofed in, also the north and east sides or ends of the flight should be, for at least a portion of the height, the north and east sides of an aviary are better boarded up. As regards birds to keep I fear the Goldfinches and Bullfinches will ultimately come to grief; Parrakeets, however small, are mischievous and even a playful nip from their beaks means a broken leg, wing, or other injury. The Pekin Nightingales (Robins), Red-crested and Green Cardinals, Grey and White Java Sparrows, and some species of Starling and Thrush (only one pair of each) would do well with your birds, but sooner or later small finches would be maltreated by the Budgerigars. The Cockatiel I have never found to injure the smallest Waxbill, though they sometimes disturb them in nesting by nibbling at the nests.

GREEN AMAZON (F. Drew). You really ought to have continued feeding this bird for a time as it had been fed before coming into your possession. Also you should have informed me how you had been feeding or how can I arrive at any conclusion as to the cause of its indisposition. Our Nutshell, "The Grey Parrot," would help you, as the treatment for two species is very similar, the Nutshells are 2½d. post free from our manager. As regards diet, a seed mixture of one quart each canary and white millet; one pint each dari, oats, and hemp; half-a-pint each of shelled nuts, sunflower, wheat, maize, and a gill of chillies—well mix the whole and keep a supply in cage. Ripe fruit daily, and plain biscuit, plain cake, stale crusts, and various nuts may be given at intervals to vary the diet. Water, grit, cuttlebone, and pieces of wood for the bird to gnaw up must be regularly supplied. The temperature of any living room will suffice, but while it must have light and air it must not be subjected to draught. You had better put one teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia in the drinking water every fourth day for three weeks, then only once a week for another month. On the days you are not giving the magnesia put half a teaspoonful of Byno-phosphates in the drinking water. Report progress in a few weeks, or at once if it suddenly becomes worse, but you must give full details if you are to get a helpful reply.

MANNIKINS (M. J. C.).—It is a matter of diet I expect, largely. I should catch them up and put them in a roomy cage, give them a bath daily, use a bath apparatus which will hang over the open door of cage. Every fourth day, for a month at least, put one teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia in the drinking water, and when not giving the magnesia put half a teaspoonful of Byno-phosphates in the water. Keep the cage in a warmish place, yet not away from light and air, but give full protection against draught and cold air. As regards diet, give them canary and millet in equal parts, and keep a millet spray in the cage, renewing it as required. Give them a leaf of fresh, tender lettuce to pick at as opportunity occurs. Also keep cage tray covered with gritty sand, and supply a little grit (not sand) sprinkled on top of sand regularly, and keep cuttlebone hanging in the cage. If the magnesia does not keep the bowels moving freely (not watery-loose), then give two drops of tasteless castor-oil direct to the beak till the desired effect has been obtained—the magnesia afterwards will keep them sufficiently regulated. As soon as a piece of turf (similar to a lark turf) is obtainable free from frost, supply same for them to pick over if they will take a few dried ants' eggs, supply these regularly, and a pinch of maw seed twice a week at this season will be beneficial, but I have had Mannikins that would not touch it.

TO PUT UP AN AVIARY (F. B., Beginner).—As regards the roof, I should have it half covered in and half wire netting (½-inch mesh); front and right end can also be open netting; make it as high as you conveniently can; you must form a portion of the covered part of the roof into a shelter, enclosed all round, except for an open doorway leading into the flight; it must also have a window in, sufficiently large to make the interior fairly light, or the birds will not use it. If there are any rats in your own or neighbours' premises you must carry wire netting into the ground for a depth of 18in. all round the aviary to keep them out. The next step is fixing a good stout skirting board all the way round; to this you can nail the upright standards (2 x 2in. sq.), connect these at the top and across with tie pieces (2 x 1½in.), and then stretch the netting, or cover in with boarding. To furnish, put in some tree branches, thick and thin, and under the open wire netting top of flight grow grasses and cereals. If you care to send me a plan of ground, with positions of wall, bird-room, and N.S.E.W. marked out on it, and a stamped addressed envelope, I shall be pleased to send you a diagram showing how best to proceed. Nutshell No. 18, 2½d. post free, from our Manager, would help you.

FOR INDOOR AVIARY (Sheffield Blade).—If you include English seed-eaters, it will limit numbers much; for instance, there is only accommodation for at the most 12 birds the size of a Norwich Canary, but you could keep comfortably half as many again of the small ornamental Foreign Finches. The Lesser Redpoll could be included instead of the foreign species if you preferred it. If you limit it to foreign species put in a pair each of: Fire Finches, Cordon Bleus, and Grey Singing Finches, Orange-cheeked, Grey, and Golden-breasted Waxbills, Zebra Finches (7s. 6d.), Silverbills, Bib Finches and Avadavats. The foregoing are all cheap—2s. 6d. to 4s. 6d. per pair, except where otherwise priced. "Foreign Birds for Beginners," 1s. 1½d., or Nutshells No 16 and 20, 2½d. each post free, from our Manager, would help you greatly as to treatment, etc.

BUDGERIGARS (R. G. B.).—Feather plucking is a vice with Parrakeets, both large and small, and once acquired is seldom entirely eradicated. My advice is, give it to some friend who has got a garden aviary, or if you don't know anyone having such, wait till the grass is flowering and seeding, and take it to the open fields and give it its liberty. I am afraid it is hopeless to attempt anything with it within the limits of a cage—temporary improvement is usually followed by a relapse, and the former is only secured after much time and patience has been spent upon it. The birds would be better in an unheated room having a sunny aspect than in your kitchen. I should get rid of the hen at once and get another in good feather. In addition to the seed diet, they should get green food (piece of apple is good at this season), grit and cuttlebone should be given regularly. Our Nutshell No. 18, 2½d. post free, from our Manager, would help you as to general treatment.

FOR INDOOR AVIARY (Bird Lover).—With the proviso that you only add cocks to your present stock, the following would meet your case, and should not exceed the value you name: Grey Singing Finch, Green Singing Finch, Alario Finch (7s. 6d. or little higher), Gold-breasted Waxbill, Cordon Bleu, St. Helena Waxbill—these all have distinctive plumage and all sing a little, the first three are really good songsters, and the latter have some sweet notes, but do not sing much during the breeding season. You could put a cock Canary in with them safely, but I should choose one of the smallest varieties for the purpose. Two seed mixtures—one of canary and rape, and the other of white and Indian millet, will about meet their need as to seeds, with green food, grit, cuttlebone and water for drinking and bathing regularly. A millet spray hung up twice a week for them, supplies healthy occupation and a slight change in the menu. While weather permits, a small turf of seeding grass is about the best manner of supplying green food, they also get much exercise and many an odd insect therefrom, and all this helps to their general well-being.

BLUE-FRONTED AMAZON (B. F. A.).—The colour arrangement of this species is very variable, that is, as to the extent of the areas of blue and yellow, especially. I incline to the opinion that the one of yours that differs is a young Blue-front, unless of course you have had it for some time, in which case it cannot be a young bird, but I am still of the opinion that it is a usually coloured Blue-front—they vary much in size, too. At one time they had quite a row of this species in the Parrot House of the London Zoo, and they varied to such an extent that the extremes looked like different species, and I think you may safely take it that yours is a Blue-front.

BREEDING IN CAGES (Novis). (1) There is not a single foreign species I know that can be spoken of as "quite free breeders in a Canary-breeding cage"; the following have all bred and you are likely to have some measure of success with them: Zebra (7s. 6d.), Bib, Ribbon, Alario (15s.), Grey Singing and Long-tailed Grass (20s.) Finches, St. Helena Waxbill, White Java Sparrows (12s. to 15s.), Bengalese, Silverbills and Budgerigars. There are others which have been bred, but the above are the most likely for you to begin with. Your chances will be greatly enhanced if you give each pair a "double-breeder with the partitions removed. (2) Rush nests, small boxes (closed all round and a hole cut for entrance), coconut husks, etc. (3) Canary seed, white and Indian millet, and spray millet will meet the requirements of most of them; with green food, grit, cuttlebone, and water—when breeding, dry insectile mixture, dry ants' eggs, and for some of them live insects. (4) Except for those priced, 2s. 6d. to 5s. 6d. per pair. (5) Impossible to answer, as this varies with the species; with such as Zebra and Ribbon Finches and Budgerigars you would get most probably two or three or perhaps more, broods per year, with some of the others lucky to get one, perhaps. Your queries cover so much ground that I can only just indicate what is required; moreover, these species vary with their requirements—you must choose your species and then put a query through re the definite kinds. I should advise you to get "Foreign Birds for Beginners," 1s. 1½d., post free, from our Manager, and thoroughly master its contents before you make a start—a sort of going slow to make haste!

GENERAL.

Answered by THE EDITOR.

Length of Canary (W. Hilton).—Are you joking with us, or has somebody been joking with you? Certainly no Canary is 16ins. long. Divide the length by two, and you would be 8ins., near the mark.

Cutting (J. Morrison). Thanks for cutting; we are utilising the same.

Bethesda Show (W. Cullen). Your letter is of too personal a nature to be published.

GREEN CANARY ASSOCIATION.

Club show, held at Liverpool, Jan. 17th, an entry of 400 turned up, including most of the cracks of this show season. This was the first show held under the secretaryship of Mr. Fred Handley, and everything was carried out in a thorough manner; it must have been a hard day's work, as very few turned up in the morning to give him a hand. Everyone was at work in the afternoon, and all railway birds were away in good time. Unfortunately one of Mr. Harding's (Wellingborough) exhibits arrived dead, and we believe it is one of his very best. He has the sympathy of all the G.C.A. members. The coveted President's prize for best Green bred by exhibitor was carried off by Mr. F. Handley with his noted yell. Nor. cock. The runner-up also belongs to this gentleman. Hyde's special was won by Mr. Metcalfe; best cl. Yorks., Mr. Skilling, also cup for most points novices; best cl. Nor. Mr. Lomax; best Bord., Mr. Middleton; best nov. Bord., Mr. Brotherton. The majority of exhibitors were paid their prize money, and the whole show reflects great credit on the go-ahead secretary. Mr. R. G. Helliwell (Halifax) judged Yorks. classes, and Mr. A. G. Davies (Manchester) the remainder, and their awards were well received.

CHAMP. YORKS. GR., SELF or FOUL YELL. (9): 1, 2, 3, Metcalfe, leader self, racy, erect and fearless, charming col., dark legs and beak, wins; 2nd, foul tail, plenty of size, well filled in top, wedge shape, nice grass green; 3rd, foul tips of wings, full of type and col., plenty of legs, shooty in carr.; vhc, Handley; hc, Benson and Young; c, McDermott. BUFF (9): 1, hc, Metcalfe, rare big one, grand tone of col., leggy, nice top end, ideal stock bird, getting strong for show; 2, c, Handley, self, smart, full of swank, well moulded, lovely col. and nicely tapered away; 3, vhc, Benson and Young, self, capital type, wonder for colour, shooty top, well balanced wings, any of above could win. YELL. HEN (8): 1, Benson and Young, self, the old Palace winner, looking as well as ever, marvel for col. and type, an ideal Yorkie throughout; 2, 3, vhc, hc, Metcalfe, capital team, often described, all looking fit; c, Moreueul. BUFF (5): 1, Morecuel, big slashing hen, most brilliant col. for a hen, rare back and taper, easy win; 2, 3, Benson and Young, selfs; 2nd, smart Yorkie, capital lacing to vent, pencilling of the best; 3rd, smaller, but full of type and col., should make a good one next year; vhc, McDermott; hc, Metcalfe. NOR. GR. YELL. CK. (9): 1, President's prize, Handley, self, noble head and neck, charming col., fit, and staged like a hero; 2, Lawson, foul tail, close up, stout front, lovely shade of col., robby and compact; 3, vhc, Harding, self, bit down, but grand col. and type, broad back, clean cut; hc, c, Walker. BUFF CK. (14): 1, 2, Ball, selfs, capital brace, Edinburgh winners, looking well, ideal shape and col., short wings and tails, very little between them, well staged; 3, c, Walker, wonderful col. and shape, broad back, all front, bold head and neck, a good one, vhc, Harding; hc, Bache. YELL. HEN (12): 1, Handley, foul, storming type, sweetly cut, broad round head, well carried wings and tail, Bradford winner; 2, Ball, self, not a big one, but full of type, and the right col., should fill out; 3, Harding, self, more subs., correct col., bit loose at sides, or might go up; vhc, Woods; hc, c, Walker. BUFF (9): 1, Ball, self, bouncing lady, all qual. and col., capital shape and style, closely carried wings and tail; 2, Harding, enormous head and neck, very happily clean cut, runs winner close; 3, vhc, Walker another of the right sort, nobby style, perfect col. and pencilling, three grand hens; hc, Handley; c, Lawson. NOR. BORD. YELL. CK. (8): 1, Carruthers, wonder for col. and pencilling, round head, well carried wings and tail, as clean cut as canoe, in rare vigour; 2, Johnston, even better col., neat head and full of style, wing carr. not quite perfect to-day; 3, c, Middleton, again lifer for col., sweetly moulded, jaunty, moves well from perches; vhc, Little. BUFF (9): 1, hc, Middleton, sp. best Bord., ideal show bird, marble shaped head, shading tone of col., glorious cond.; 2, Johnston, well up to winner in col. and pencilling, smart, but loses at girth; 3, c, Howcroft, sweet little chap, all of style, brilliant shade of grass green col., well taged; vhc, Carruthers. YELL. HEN (7): 1, Carruthers, smart lady, sweetly moulded, nice taper, capital wing carr., full of Border properties; 2, vhc, Middleton, lovely exhibit, teeming with col., ideal type, very jaunty; 3, vhc, Howcroft, bit longer, but exquisite feather, nice tone of col., moves well; vhc, hc, Little; c, Montgomery. BUFF (5): 1, 3, Middleton, compact, all there for type, A1 qual., pencilling and lacing, well defined Border properties throughout; 3rd, lovely contour, rare type, just a bit flat in col.; 2, vhc, Montgomery, well head, well braced wings and tail well fitted, dazzler for col.; vhc, Little. THATTO HEATH.

4th annual members' show held in the Bowling Pavilion, Railway Hotel, Jan. 24. A record entry turned up. A grand Crest (Hesketh) won sp. best bird. Norwich were excellent, and a grand tkd. yell. cock won sp. for best nov. Can. Yorks. were nice, particularly the greens. Borders, especially greens, were very good indeed, and a very level lot. Nor. green were good, too. A few very nice Mules and British Birds were staged, and specials here went to Messrs. Ashall, best nov. and best vhc open, Woodward. Mr. Cuttler, the hon. sec., is a young enthusiast who does his duties in prompt style. Membership is increasing, and we hope to see greater strides made as time goes on. A great rush of fanciers and local enthusiasts attended the show, which was in every way a great success. Mr. C. Houlton judged, and fanciers seemed well satisfied.

CREST, ETC.: 1, sp. best in show, 2, Hesketh, fine Crest of all-round merit, and heavy-feathered C.B. 2nd, both in good order. NOR. YELL. CK. (8): 1, sp. best Nov. BIRKENHEAD C.F.A.

Show held Abbott's Cafe, Jan. 20. There was a very nice collection, most of the birds having been winners at shows in the district during the season. Mr. Benson judged, and his awards gave satisfaction to all. No novice classes being provided, it was rather hard on the novices having to compete with the champion, but they managed to get in the prizes in many of the classes.

BLACKWOOD.

First open show held, in Drill Hall, Jan. 6, a capital place for a show, being quite free from draught. The birds were nicely arranged on the platform on the 5-tier lean-to system, well thought out and executed. The closing of entries in the festive season and stopping show advt. a week too soon resulted in the loss of several teams, and half of those who did enter left it so late that they could not be got into catalogue. Notwithstanding this, however, a record entry for the district was obtained. The stewards, Messrs. Palmer, Davies, Parsons and Pennhaana, headed by the much esteemed Chairman, though not old at the game, worked admirably. We regret to learn that on the morning of the show the Treasurer, Mr. Neale, had the misfortune to break his leg through the snapping of a ladder while putting up some posters. The Fancy will all join in wishing him a speedy recovery. Of the Secretary, Mr. Coleman, we cannot speak too highly good tempered and obliging to a degree under all conditions and at all times. An unlighted class in the Nor. and Yorks. section and also one or two Novice classes would be desirable additions to the classification, for here the youngsters had to compete with the older ones in both cases. The gate promised to be great, and we trust the result will spell success. The judge, Mr. E. J. Davies, Cardiff, was very late starting owing to several cases not arriving till nearly 11 o'clock, but ultimately everything passed on very pleasantly. Winners of points specials were Edwards, Phillips, Jeffreys.

CITY AND SUBURBAN A.C.B.

With a record number of entries (235) and specials (61) the association started the season's shows with their pair show, Jan. 24, at the Church Institute, 60, Paddington Street, Marylebone. Norwich were an especially fine collection, both in quality and numbers, totalling 43 pens (26 pairs in the novice class); so good were they that the three silver medals for the best champion, amateur and novice, all went to that section. Yorks., though not so numerous, were well represented, and found appearance round for any thing short of prodigy capable of maintaining our northern reputation. Crests were quite in the ascendant, there being one wonderfully staged pairs with grand head properties. Mention, too, must be made of the stride that Borders have made these last two years, as evidenced in a gratifying array of matt typical birds. Hybrid pairs were not so numerous, neither was there such an entry of British and foreign birds as was confidently expected. The Norwich Cup was won by F. J. Makin; Bord., H. Hobden; Wynn Cup, A. Beavington; Mrs. Weston Cup, B. Thrower; novice teapot, Mrs Hobden; and Champion Trophy, Mrs. Thynne. The secretary was ably assisted by Mrs. and Mr. Thynne, F. Knight, A. Beavington, and J. Overman, besides the staging stewards, Messrs. C. G. Rolls and W. Witchers, who did yeoman service. Messrs. J. Robson and J. Frodick judged, and gave every satisfaction.

LONDONDERRY.

Annual open show held Union Hall, Jan. 15. Entries created a record of 75 above previous years. This was brought about by a hard-working lot of fanciers, who have spared no pains to make the show second to none in the North of Ireland. The hall is about the finest it has been our lot to see. Rare top light, absolutely free from draughts, and of a nice temperature all day long. The birds were staged on the three-tier principle all round the room, which left a nice space in the centre for the visitors, who turned up well from all parts of the North. Sec., Mr. Matt Kerr, is one of those jovial Irishmen who make everyone feel at home. He carried his duties out in A1 style, and ran the show on the most modern lines. He has great help in Mr. Neill, the worthy president, and Mr. Nevin, the society's banker. The committee worked well together to make the show pay its way, and have received their just reward. Crests opened the ball—49 in four classes, an example to English fanciers, and they compared favourably with our Crests. Mr. Creighton (Belfast) had quite a field day in the section, closely followed by Mr. John Moore. Nor. were an eye-opener for size and type combined. Mr. Thompson (Belfast) had his first team out, and scooped the pool. Yorks were the feature of the show in numbers and quality, the majority of the spoils going to Dublin. Messrs. O'Reilly, Hyland, Fleming, and Woods put out rare teams. British came out fairly well. The A.V. British class was a sight to be seen. Mr. Creighton accounted for the best British with his Yellow Bunting, while Mr. Longhead won members' cup for best unlighted. Mr. J. W. Metcalfe (Liverpool) judged, and his awards gave entire satisfaction.

SCOTCH FANCY (3): 1, 2, Dunlop, leader spanking good Buff, soon gets into pos., rare circle; 2, Yellow, grand top, tail well under, nice depth through shoulder; 3, Lavery, pied gr., lovely pos., when up, but unsteady. LEIGH C.B.S.

Successful table show of matched pairs held headquarters, Railway Hotel, Jan. 24. Mr. J. W. Cleminson, Preston, judged, and also gave a lecture on the Norwich Plainhead. Mr. Dawson took the chair in the absence of Mr. Taylor. We had a good muster of members and friends, several coming over from Bolton. After prize money was paid out we settled down to hear the lecture. The chairman said he felt glad to see so many present, and hoped that everyone would pay strict attention to Mr. Cleminson, so that they would be ready to ask questions. At the finish of the lecture Mr. Cleminson said that he would be pleased to answer any questions. The Chairman then invited questions, and several were asked, which Mr. Cleminson readily and suitably answered. Mr. Ordish moved that the best thanks of this meeting go to Mr. Cleminson for the able manner in which he had dealt with the various points connected with the Norwich Plainhead. Mr. W. Hulme seconded the vote, which all readily supported. Mr. Cleminson suitably responded, and a very well-spent and enjoyable evening closed.—R. Charleson, Sec.

KELTY AND BLAIRADAM C.B.A.

Annual club show, held Masonic Hall, Jan. 17. Entries numbered 120, with keen competition in all sections. A feature of this show is the gift classes, members giving away to the public 18 birds. This should do something to increase the membership by having more breeders in the district. Messrs. J. Sneddon, P. McCue, and J. Adamson, all of Lochgelly, judged. There was no prize money or special prizes, all the benefit going to the funds of the association.

BURNLEY O.S.

2nd annual show, held Star Inn, Church-street. The show was capitably managed by Mr. G. Whittaker, sec., and Mr. West, steward. Owing to illness of several members, entries (about 100) were not up to expectations, but quality was of the best. The show was opened by Mr. Johnson, who remarked that it gave him the greatest of pleasure. He congratulated Mr. T. Lingard upon winning the challenge cup (a magnificent piece of silver), also Mr. H. Patlow, the runner-up. Both favourably responded. He also congratulated Mr. G. Whittaker, sec., and Mr. T. West, upon the way in which they did their work in preparing the show. He then handed the cup over to the winner. Mr. T. Edwards proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. Johnson, and Mr. A. Hirst, judge, who did his work to everybody's satisfaction.

NORTH SHIELDS C.B.C.

Third annual show, held Dec. 26, Co-operative Hall. There was a record entry of 280; competition in many classes was very keen, but the awards were satisfactory and encouraging. The open classes, Larks and Linnets, were a special feature. The Linnet class was headed with comparative ease by the worthy chairman, Mr. W. Hunter, with a fine specimen, rich in col. markings and plumage. Mr. Wilkinson being a good 2nd with a fine bird, slightly less marked. The Lark class was won by Mr. Scott, with a magnificent bird, lovely col., very heavily mkd., and well staged; 2, 3, Potts, being slightly inferior in colour to 1st. The class was one of the best ever seen in the district. Canaries were a splendid lot, Borders being in prominence. The principal winners were NOR, Armstrong and Couchman, and Newton. YORKS, Wigglesworth, Bainbridge, and Seal. BORD., Dalziel, Little, Armstrong, Couchman, Bainbridge, Beevor, and Fiddler. CRESTS, Bewicke, Hands, Newton, and Morgan. Messrs. Wilson and Buglass had a few fine foreign birds on view, as had Mr. Dunn, who also exhibited a very fine Nightingale. British were well represented, the following taking chief honours:—GOLDF.: 1, 4, McVay; 2, Dixon; 3, Little, all splendid specimens, in a good class. BULLF.: 1, McVay; 2, 3, W. Hunter. GREENF.: 1, 3, 4, McVay; 2, Dixon, very strong class. LINNET, H.M.: 1, 2, 3, Hunter; 4, Couchman. F.M.: 1, 2, 3, Hunter. SISKIN or REDPOLL: 1, 3, Buglass; 2, fine Lesser Redpoll; 2, Hunter, good Siskin. CHAFF. or BRAMBLEF.: 1, 2, McVay; 3, Couchman, the winner has had ten years on the show bench, a fine old Chaffinch. BUNTING: 1, Hunter; 2, McVay; 3, Buglass. LARK., H.M.: 1, 3, McVay; 2, Potts. F.M.: 1, Scott; 2, 3, Potts, a fine lot. SOFTBILL.: 1, Dunn; 2, Wilson; 3, Hunter. The show was a grand success, although the weather had a big hand in spoiling the gate. The judging was ably carried out by Mr. Johnson, Wallsend. The show was most ably conducted, great credit being due to the following members for services rendered:—Mr. McVay, show manager; Messrs. Wilson, Buglass, Couchman, and Armstrong, stewards; and last but not least the worthy sec., Mr. R. P. Fox, 3½, West St., North Shields, whose untiring efforts went a long way towards making the show the success it was.

CLUB RUNG ROLLERS

Randall's Strain

The best blood in the Fancy. Cocks, 10/-; Schoolmasters, 12/-, 15/-; hens, same strain, 3/6, two 6/6. All 1913 B.R.C.C. rung, and on approval. Established 50 years.—SANDIFORD, Bird Specialist, Preston.

AMONG SO MANY

advertisements it is rather difficult for the intending purchaser to make a final selection. However well off a man may be, he does not like the idea of not getting fullest value, does he? For many years I have publicly stated that the Leipsig Roller, as imported by myself, is far and away better value than any Roller on the market, and have invited all intending purchasers to test the truth of this statement by testing a Leipzig Roller against any other costing up to three times the price, and have repeatedly published letters from persons who have done this. I now hold an enormous stock (over 900) of genuine Weber's Leipzig Roller cocks, all in full song, day and gas light, with long hollow and double rolls, sweet silvery trills, soft roulades, water bubble runs, piccolo trills, jug-jug of Nightingale, bell, harp, gong and flute notes, etc., and guaranteed entirely free from any harsh objectionable notes whatever; price 7/6 and 8/6 each. Special bandmasters, which excel in the deep bass and hollow bell tours, 10/6 and 12/6 each; hens same strain, 2/6 each; 4/6 couple. I also have a splendid lot of loud, free singing Hartz cocks in full vigorous song at 5/6 each; hens 2/- each, 3/6 couple. These Hartz cocks are specially suitable for public bar or coffee house and those who like a noisy songster. Special travelling cages, 3d. extra. Singing box cages, 1/6 each. Special Roller singing cabinet cages, with folding doors and loose fronts, made specially for Rollers, 3/- and 4/- each. Kindly note full name and address, also date of following letters. I have thousands similar, open to inspection at any time:—"Kibworth, Jan. 6.—Sir,—Leipzig Roller arrived today and began singing at once. I am well pleased with him.—Yours, B. Green." "27, Porchkerry-rd., Barry, Jan. 10.—Sir,—Received bird on Tuesday in grand condition, and consider it excellent value.—Yours, M. Gibbs." "Springvale, Ballywater, Ireland, Jan. 9.—Sir,—Birds arrived safe and cock is singing splendidly.—Yours, Alex. McCormick." "10, St. Andrew-st., Dublin, Dec. 29.—Sir,—Please let me know if you have few more of your famous Rollers for friends who have heard the one I had from you four years ago. I have just sold him at double the price, and he is better now than ever.—Yours, T. Heury." "43, Talbot Grove, Notting Hill, London, Jan. 9.—Sir,—Am well pleased with Roller, and thank you very much for sending such a nice bird. He started singing soon as unpacked.—Yours, W. Burt." "24, George-st., Burnbank, Hamilton, Jan. 19.—Sir,—I got a Roller from you seven years ago, and it has just died. It was as good as ever right up to the last. Please send another. P.O. enclosed.—Yours, T. Armstrong." "22, Stafford-st., Stockton-on-Tees.—Sir,—Received Roller on Tuesday, and am highly satisfied. Please send two hens.—Yours, J. Kemp." "20, Park View, Tredegar, Dec. 28.—Sir,—Received Roller safe at 4.30 on 24th; it was singing splendidly up to 12 o'clock same night. I am more than delighted with it.—Yours, R. Lane." "Sunnyside, Whitwell, Mansfield, Dec. 24.—Sir,—Just a line to let you know that both my friend and self are highly satisfied with our Rollers. Thanking you for straightforward and honest dealing.—Yours, S. Wilson." "80, Beaumont Terrace, Westerhope, near Newcastle, Jan. 14.—Sir,—Roller you sent me is singing grand, and I am well pleased.—Yours, W. Henderson." Please note, all birds are sent on full week's trial solely at my own risk during which time either on receipt of cash or "Cage Birds" deposit system, and fullest satisfaction guaranteed or money instantly refunded in full. I am sole importer of Weber's Leipzig Rollers, and all cocks are stamped on wing, "Hans Weber, Leipzig." Among the advantages of the Leipzig Rollers is the fact that they retain their song for life, not merely one season, as is the case with many Rollers. The breeders of Leipzig Rollers have been improving the strain for past 20 years, and the result is round about perfection. I care not how hard a person is to please, I am convinced that I can do so. If any person would like to hear a Leipzig Roller sing and cannot call at my premises to do so, I will willingly send them one on week's approval (even if they have no intention of purchasing). I only ask that they will deposit price of bird with Editor of "Cage Birds." Let me remind you that I am sole importer of this strain, and no other dealer can sell unless he first purchases from me. What a great meaning there is in the following seven words—

"The Best Value I Have Ever Had."

Rotherham, 1st Feb., 1914.—Birds arrived safe. I am sure they are the best value in birds I have ever had by sending away for such. I shall tell all bird fanciers I know to send to you. I shall be sending again shortly.—J. Johnson to W. Rudd.

I can and will give the best value in Yorkshires ever before known.

The present stock comprises winners that will be sold at stock bird prices. This is a fact that will take some beating. Also for those wanting to improve size in their stock, I have some giants. Have on approval, and be convinced. Don't take my word without you like. Cocks, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 15/-, 20/-, 30/-. Hens, 3/-, 3/6, 4/6, 6/6, 8/6. Who is the Champion

Exhibitor of Yorkshires? My winnings each season for the past five years have far exceeded any other exhibitors. Again winning the National Green Marked Y.C.C. Ten-guinea Trophy and Gold Medal for 1913-14, also the Y.C.C. Challenge Cup, 1913-14, in addition to several Diplomas for best Yorkshire at Sunderland, Scottish National, etc., etc., and over 70 firsts at all the leading shows, a record that cannot be approached by any other exhibitor. In addition to above I have bred and sold over 100 winners to my customers each season. This is not empty bounce, but a few solid facts that cannot be denied. Another fact I would like to mention. I have sold hundreds of birds during the past few years through "C.B." deposit system, and never had a single deposit to return. What better proof can I give of the class of birds I breed and sell? I have still a fine stock for sale, including several winners, that for length, type, and quality I defy competition, and at prices to suit all. Pairs, mated personally by me, not haphazard, to breed big winners, at 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-, 60/- per pair, in clears, ticked, or marked. All cocks on full song, and every bird cold room bred and kept, and in the pink of condition. Odd cocks from 6/- each. Hens from 4/- each. Travelling cages 3d. extra. I cordially invite you to come and see them, and remember that my rooms are acknowledged by all as the finest in the Fancy. Or please state wants, and I will send any bird on seven days' approval, at my sole risk, either on receipt of cash, or deposit system, with pleasure. Easy payments arranged to suit the convenience of any genuine fancier. Price list containing scores of recent testimonials, post free. Correspondence a pleasure: L. Dykes, Reliable Aviaries, Shann-st., Bolton Woods, Bradford.

"I CONSIDER IT A SPLENDID BOOK."

112, Edwards Road, Erdington, Birmingham.

Dear Sir,—I consider "Our Canaries" a splendid book, just the thing we have been in want of to make the breeding of Canaries quite successful for new beginners. It is honestly worth the money you ask for it, and I consider everybody that keeps birds ought not to be without the book.

I am confident I shall have a more successful year next year than I have had this season, thanks to your splendid book.

I remain, Yours faithfully,
A. W. PYATT.

Advt. Manager. "Cage Birds."

ALWAYS USE OUR

DEPOSIT SYSTEM.

We are not responsible for the statements made in advertisements, nor of the bona-fides of either buyers or sellers in all transactions the adoption of our Deposit System should be insisted upon

IMPORTANT.

SEND THE FULL COMMISSION.—If the full commission does not accompany the deposit, the vendor will not be notified of its receipt until the amount deficient, plus the extra postage incurred, has been paid to us.

HOW TO REMIT.—Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post-dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

RULES.

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchase (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller, stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2.—END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained by us until we hear from both parties that the transaction has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3.—AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which we must be advised) is agreed upon by both parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit will be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expiration of three days.

7.—FRESH TRANSACTION.—In case no sale be effected, a deposit is available for purposes of a fresh transaction, provided another deposit fee be paid.

8.—GOODS IN TRANSIT. Goods in transit are at the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor. We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting questions of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.

10.—DISPUTES.—In case of a dispute, the decision of the Editor is final.

NOTICE TO BIRD PURCHASERS.
It is advisable that all newly-purchased birds, especially foreign birds, be kept isolated from established stock for a week or ten days, until by their condition they establish the fact that they are thoroughly healthy.

Details of this GREAT GIFT SCHEME.

If you were up at the "Palace" you saw some tip-top Canaries this year, regular beauties. You've the year before you—go in for a "first" at next year's Show. Now is the time to start. We can help you not only by recommending the right book, but by making you a valuable present. It is no "worthless trifle" that is offered quite free to Canary keepers, but something of real, lasting value to them—a help in their hobby, a practical guide in the form of a Sectional Model of a Canary.

Neatly bound in a grey cover, this ever useful model unfolds to display every part of the organism of the Canary. The model is in five distinct plates, each one in true-to-life colours, and it has 105 numbered and named parts. The plates unfold layer after layer, so as to show first the visible feathered contours, then the bony structure or skeleton is seen, duly numbered and named. Another plate delineates all the blood vessels—arteries and veins—and yet another the internal organs of the canary A great advantage is that each plate is in actual life colour, and is in exact proportional size as well as being in correct position Altogether, this graphic and expensive model, with the incidental textual matter, form a source of interest and instruction that will be of life-long use to the canary keeper—a gift well worth accepting.

WRITTEN BY MR. JOHN ROBSON.
EDITED BY MR. S. H. LEWER (Feathered World.)

FULL OF MAGNIFICENT COLOUR AND BLACK AND WHITE PICTURES.

THE BREEDER or EXHIBITOR WHO HAS "CANARIES" IS A LUCKY MAN.

Every Aspect of the Hobby is dealt with in this massive and superb volume, and by men who are well-known experts. The book is therefore the most authoritative ever written, exhaustive in scope, effective in handling.

It Saves You from Mistakes

by explaining which birds in each of the classes dealt with are the best, and why they are the best, whether as to song or other qualities. The novice often gets wrong with his birds for want of the right information at the right time. Here everything is clearly set forth.

The First Thing

a bird-keeper has to assure himself of is that his birds are properly housed and properly fed. This book will show him just what to do under all conditions and with every kind of bird, and at the least possible outlay.

Every Detail of Cost.

In the matter of cost it is easy to go astray. The specialists who have written the work are all men of large practical experience, to whom every detail of cost is known. Furthermore, wherever the bird-keeper can with success construct his cages and aviaries for himself he is here shown the way to do it in such explicit illustrated detail that there would hardly seem to be a possibility of his going wrong.

Describes All the Points.

It is, in the highest degree desirable that the bird-keeper should know what particular points constitute the perfect bird in each class. To attain good results, certain natural conditions have to be ensured, and here we have the requisite information fully given, making it easy for the bird-keeper to breed birds of perfect points. A valuable section is devoted to the troubles and ailments of Canaries. There's plenty of profit in breeding, exhibiting, and selling. On all these points the information given is practical and based on the most economical lines. Thousands of breeders are making money all the time, and this book explains how it is done.

Use DITCHFIELD'S Famous Bird Medicines as supplied to the London Zoo.

Ditchfield's Bird Medicines have been used for over six years by most leading fanciers, and have been proved to be the most reliable. We have over 2,000 testimonials, and are receiving letters every day from fanciers, telling us of the marvellous results of our Bird Medicines. The proof of the value of these Medicines is given in the repeat orders and ever-increasing sales. In 1911 we sold nearly 1,000 bottles; in 1912 over 3,000 bottles; during 1913 we sold over 5,000 bottles. Fanciers we want a trial; we have confidence we can give you satisfaction. Every order is given prompt and personal attention. We do not send you one medicine to cure all diseases, but give every customer our careful attention, and where an extra bottle or Powders are required, we enclose them free. Our Medicines are perfectly safe, and can be given with confidence to all classes of cage birds.

SPECIAL OFFER.—If you have any birds you are relying upon for the coming breeding season that are not singing, or have gone into the soft moult, we guarantee you a perfect cure. We have the grandest medicine ever introduced for bringing birds into breeding condition. Ditchfield's Tonic Drops are a guaranteed cure for soft moult, not singing, going light, feather plucking, diarroea, and inflammation of the bowels. In 7d., 1/1, 2/-, and 5/- bottles. We guarantee every customer perfect satisfaction, or return full money. For Bronchitis, Wheezing, and Hoarseness, get Ditchfield's special Lung Tonic. It is the grandest Medicine ever offered for chest and lung affections in cage birds. Also in 7d., 1/1, and 2/- bottles. For cases of Constitutional Weakness and Debility get Ditchfield's Famous Revivo. There is nothing to equal it for giving new life and vigour to the birds. As a pick-me-up for birds before and after showing. Revivo is absolutely unequalled. In 7d., and 1/1 bottles. Special Notice.—All our Medicines can be given in the drinking water, and the birds take them freely with marvellous results. When ordering Medicine, kindly mention for what complaint, as in some cases an extra bottle is required, which we enclose free. As an advertisement, we will send two 7d. bottles of any of the above medicines for 1/-, three for 1/6, or two 1/1 bottles any kind for 1/9, three for 2/6. All medicines are sent, post free, per return. All bottles broken in transit replaced. Also two valuable Seed Recipes: How to Feed Linnets and Rollers for Song, given free to all Purchasers of our Medicines. Hull's Leading Naturalist with the largest and best collection of birds in the North of England; two minutes' walk from Paragon Station; if you follow the crowd it will lead you to Day's, the largest establishment of its kind in Yorkshire; all birds are kept in large out-door bird rooms, and large, clean aviaries; and every bird sent out is in the pink of health and feather, and just as advertised. I have hundreds of testimonials from satisfied customers. I am sending over 400 testimonials to the Editor of this paper. Anyone can call and inspect them. All received within three months. I have just received another large order from Mr. Reade, of Beckton, for Siberian birds; this makes the third order from this gentleman. I am also supplying the new aviaries at East Park as soon as they are ready for birds. I have also a large order from Mr. Watkerson, of Filey, to stock his large aviaries with British and Foreign birds. Why do they send to me when they want birds in large quantities? Because they know I have them in stock. Mine is not a paper collection, but alive; can be seen at any time; and the value you get is incomparable, as I am direct importer of these birds, and no one has a chance of picking best from them. I do not buy in half dozens, but in hundreds, and can supply any dealer with any quantity weekly. I have just received another large consignment; over 400 birds, in the pink of health, and feathered like wax. Siberian Bullfinches, the biggest and finest seen this year, cocks 3/6, 4/6, 5/6, and a few that can win anywhere and will moult winners 7/6, 10/6 each; hens, 4/6, 5/6, 6/6, and a few real monsters, with not a broken feather, they are like wax-work, 7/6 and 10/6 each. I dare say some of you have been disappointed in your previous purchase. I don't want your cash; send it to the Editor and your order to me. Siberian cock Goldfinches, in grand health and feather, 3/6, 4/6, 5/6, and a few extra specials that can win and will moult winners, 7/6 and 10/6 each; nearly all these birds are on full song and will make grand Mule breeders. Pink-eyed hen Canaries for light muling, fine large birds, 3/6, 4/6 and 5/6 each. I also have some grand Siberian Pine Grosbeaks, very large, fine birds, 5/6, 6/6, 7/6 and 10/6 each, and some of the largest and best yellow cock Siskins seen this year, with dense black caps, large bibs and grandly laced at thighs, 5/6, 6/6 and 7/6. Very large Waxwings expected shortly, so save your orders, as they will be all picked specimens that can win. I can get plenty of small ones, but they do not give satisfaction, therefore I will not buy them. When you see me advertise Waxwings you will know they are the best money can buy. I have a few very large yellow Siberian cock Greenfinches, will moult out winners and just right for muling, 1/6, 2/6 and 3/6 each. Bramblefinches, real giants, nicely brambled, will moult winners, 1/6, 2/6. Chaffinches, 1/-, 2/-. Mealy Redpolls, extra large, with large bibs, nicely laced, 1/-, 2/- and 3/- each, and a grand Yellow Bunting, picked from dozens, 1/6; also a Lesser Redpoll, field moulted, won second only time shown, a real gem, only 2/6. Over 100 British cock Goldfinches in stock, 3/6, 4/6, and extra specials, on hard song, for muling and to moult out for show, 5/6 and 6/6 each; these are all extra large birds, not wasters, nor hens, as sent out by some for cocks. If I am 6d. higher than some in price the quality I send you is 2/6 better. Cock Linnets, on full loud song, 1/-, 1/6 each. Over 50 cage-moulted cock Linnets, singing quality notes, can run like Roller Canaries, 7/6 and 10/6 each; a few good Mule breeders, 4/6, 5/6, 6/6; these are ready to be paired at once. Muling hens, buffs or yellows, 2/-, 3/-, 4/- and 5/- each; size according to price. Roller hens, 2/-, 2/6; take a dozen, 18/-. Border Fancy, 6/6, 7/6 pair; Crests, cocks, 5/6, 7/6, 10/6; hens, Crestbred, 4/6, 5/6 each; Norwich Plainheads, from winning strain, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6 pair; Norwich or Yorkshire songsters, on full song, yellows or buffs, 5/6, 6/6 and 7/6 each; high-class Roller cocks, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6 and 12/6 each. I have also just bought the entire stock of two of the most noted Yorkshire breeders and exhibitors of the day; over 300 birds in all; also breeding, flight and show cages that are a credit to any bird room. These birds have been got together regardless of cost. I have not bought their wasters, but everything their rooms contained. I will now offer them to you at the ridiculous low prices as follows: pairs, yellow and buff, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6; cocks and hens, guaranteed 7-in. long and bound to breed winners, 10/6, 12/6, 15/- and 20/- a pair. If you pay double you get no better than these; several winners amongst them; send your orders at once as it's a chance that seldom comes; a cage given with every pair. Cock Goldfinch Mules, on full Finch song, 5/6, 6/6, 7/6 each; Linnet Mules, 6/6, 7/6; cock Siskin Mules, full song, 3/6, 4/6, 5/6; a monster cock Greenfinch Mule, on full song, 7/6; hen Mules, 1/- each; two British cock Bullfinches, the largest seen for years, with large skulls, very rich colour, grand wing bars and finger-tame, 7/6 and 10/6; these are picked from this season's catch, and I have eleven catchers supplying me with all they get. If you are starting an aviary with British or Foreign birds write to me. I can also stock parks and ponds with birds and water-fowl of every description. Birds, cages, seeds and all appliances can be had on the easiest of easy terms by joining my Bird Club. Distance no object. Full particulars on receipt of stamped addressed envelope. Everything on approval; cash or deposit: John Day, Importer and Exporter, The Aviaries, Porter-st., Hull. (1320)

COCK Bramblefinches, 3/- doz.; hens, 2/- doz.; a few fine specimens, 2/6 each; Chaffinches, Yellowhammers, Greenfinches, Redpolls, Larks, Redpolls, Robins, selected cocks 1/-, three for 2/6; cash or deposit; old customers old terms: Ashton, 5, Mafeking-st., Gateshead. (1306)

REDUCING stock, prior to breeding; Twite, H.M., 5/-; Yellowhammer, H.M., 7/6; Chaffinch cock, 5/-; Mealy Redpoll, F.M., 3/6; two Lesser Redpolls, 2/6 each, one 4/-; three pairs Borders; exchange either or part for Hawfinch hen or Waxwing cock: Campbell, Rolland-st., Dunfermline. (1302)

RED-breasted cock Linnets, 3 for 1/6, 5/- dozen; warranted cock Larks, 3/- dozen, half 1/9; Greenfinches, 1/6; hen Linnets, 1/- dozen; Goldfinches, cocks 2/6, hens 1/-; cock Twites, 6d. each; only healthy, clean birds, well on seed, sent out: J. Whiteley, Boston-rd., Holbeach. (1318)

EXHIBITORS: 100 Britishers, all varieties, including all my winners; also field-moulted birds that were selected for next show season; also show and stock cages: reason for selling, no time to look after them in summer; state wants; stamp reply: Gentleman, Avonbridge, Stirlingshire. (1309)

SELECTED cock Goldfinches, 3/- and 4/-; ditto Linnets, 2/- to 5/-; lovely Greenfinch cock, 2/-; Yellowhammer, 2/-; Mealy Redpoll, exhibition, 2/6; another, 1/6; also three dark exhibition Mules, Linnet, Goldfinch, Siskin, cheap, lot 25/-; approval: M. Cook, Myrtle Villa, Purbeck-rd., Bournemouth.

JUST ARRIVED

On Sunday, Feb. 1st, I received the last consignment for this season of the real Siberian Goldfinches, Bullfinches and Siskins. These birds are all in magnificent trim, and consignment consists of 850 cock Goldfinches, 200 cock Bullfinches, 130 hen Bullfinches, 240 cock Siskins and 80 hen Siskins. (No Hawfinches or Linnets this time.) I guarantee all above to have come to me direct, and offer the sum of £100 to any person in the United Kingdom who can prove he ever saw one of them before myself. I advertise these birds as what they really are, viz., genuine Siberians, and not Russians palmed off as Siberians, and offer £100 to any dealer who can prove I have bought a single Russian bird during past season. I offer splendid Siberian cock Goldfinches in full song at 4/6 each, seven 24/6. Picked jonques for muling and showing in minor competition, 7/6 each. Superb exhibition specimens with full complement of show points, and guaranteed fit for keenest competition, 10/6 each. Magnificent Siberian cock Bullfinches, 5/- each, seven 28/-. Exhibition specimens, fit for keenest competition, 7/6 and 10/6 each. Siberian hen Bullfinches, 5/-, 7/6 and 10/6 each. Cock Siskins, in splendid condition, 2/6 each. Picked yellows, with full bib, 5/-: few extra good, 10/6 each. Hen Siskins, 1/- each. Few yellows, well laced, 1/6 each. Please note, all above are birds of last year's breeding, and being steady and well used to cage-life, should readily breed in captivity. All will be sent on approval on receipt of cash or CAGE BIRDS deposit system. Fullest satisfaction guaranteed or money fully refunded. I make no boast of the winners I have supplied, but merely mention that I have probably sold more winners than three men alive, including winners at Palace and Scottish National in Goldfinches, Bullfinches and Siskins. I never supply any person with my exhibition specimens unless he pays full retail price, so that every buyer has an equal chance of getting the finest specimens. Intending purchasers should place their orders without delay to avoid disappointment.

JUDGE A. E. SILK, WHITSTABLE.

This Strain of Norwich is the best in United Kingdom. Show reports stand for little. Find out where the winners at the shows originally came from. THAT IS THE GREATEST POINT. Don't be led into buying birds with no blood relation to the winners, and have no real strain in them. Winners can be bought, but winners cannot be bred unless you have the right stock birds. To get the right stock you must Send to the Fountain Head.

Some excellent Match Pairs, properly matched by an expert, from 20/- to 80/-. Grand Hens from 10/- to 40/-. Cocks, 10/- to 40/-. Approval with pleasure. It is to your interest to note carefully the address.

JUDGE SILK, WHITSTABLE.

The Great Show at Norwich

IS AT W. RUDD'S.

Can be seen by appointment—I say, appointment because mine is not a 6d. bazaar or shop. I employ no Girl or Boy labour, but Men, and they are paid to work. But I shall be pleased to personally see those desiring to inspect with a view to purchase, but have no time to do this for amusement.

One Proof of Value.

West Stanley, Durham,
Feb., 1914.

"Cheap at Double."

"Received bird in grand condition; very pleased with him. I consider he would be cheap at double the price he cost me."—W. Lousley to W. Rudd. Hundreds of others could be given that have been received during the present month.

Most decided Canary bargains on earth at present time.

Crystal Palace, 1914.
4 Firsts, 2 Thirds, Etc.

Once again my birds have wound up the show season by securing highest honours at the Great National Show (see report of Palace Show in this issue). That they have won consistently all through the season is shown by the fact that they have secured 76 Specials, 89 Firsts, 74 Seconds, and 60 Thirds This Season, in open champion classes, in hottest competition at all the leading shows. They have also won the N.P.C. Champion Trophy, the O.N.P.C. Champion Trophy, 3rd in Y.C.C. Competition, also several Silver Cups and Bowls, Gold and Silver Medals, Diplomas, and numerous other trophies.

I have also supplied birds that have won highest honours for my clients, including winners of this year's Palace show, in very strong classes. I have letters filed here for anyone to see in proof of this; also a large number of letters from fanciers who have bred winners from stock bred and sold by me.

These are FACTS, needing no comment. They speak for themselves, and they cannot be disputed. I am now offering marvellous value in the following varieties:—

CHAMPION NORWICH, THE BULLDOG STRAIN.

Grand, short, thick-set birds, cocks or hens, at 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-, 60/- each upwards. Matched pairs, personally selected by me for breeding winners, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-, 60/- to 100/- per pair. Blood is sure to tell in the end, and I am prepared to give a written guarantee that the above are bred by me from my noted strain of winners. I have also a few real good cobby birds bred from other well-known strains at the following prices: Cocks, in full song, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 17/6, 20/- each. Grand cobby hens, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- each. Matched breeding pairs, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 17/6, 20/-, 25/- per pair.

CHAMPION YORKSHIRES.

Grand, lengthy Yorkshire Cocks, with good position, and in full song, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/- each. Erect, racy hens, feathered to perfection, 3/6, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 10/- each. Matched pairs, personally selected, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/- per pair.

EXHIBITION YORKSHIRES.

I have a few specially good birds, ready for immediate benching, that can easily win their cost in prize-money. Cocks or hens, in clears, ticks, or marked, at 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/- each. Also a few specially matched pairs, bred from the best blood in the Fancy, and personally matched by me for breeding winners, at 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-, 60/- per pair. I have also a few of this season's open winners for sale at a working-man's price. Write for particulars.

CRESTS AND CRESTED-BRED.

I am offering wonderful value in this variety, as follows: Crested Cocks, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/- each. Crested Hens, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- 25/- each. Crest-bred Cocks, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/- each. Crest-bred Hens, 7/6, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/- each. Matched Pairs at 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/- per pair upwards. The above are large, massive, feathery birds, and will give satisfaction anywhere.

PURE SEIFERT ROLLERS.

I have a very large stock of these marvellous songsters, and am in a special position to give satisfaction to all Roller fanciers. Kindly note the following prices: Cocks, thoroughly trained and in full rolling song, with many changes of tours, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 17/6, 20/- each. Genuine Schoolmasters, specially trained for contest singing, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/- each upwards. Hens, guaranteed same pure strain, 3/-, 4/-, 5/-, 7/6 each.

Am also offering a limited number of hens bred from one of the best strains in England, at 7/6 and 10/- each. These are worth treble to any breeder. All B.R.C.C. rung. Full particulars on application.

Grand, healthy, Sib, hens, for muling, 3/-, 3/6, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6 each; Goldfinch Mules, in full song, 7/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/- each; Linnet Mules, in full song, 7/6, 10/-, 12/6 each.

Travelling Cages 3d. extra in all cases.

I have also a splendid selection of Border Fanciers, Lancashires, Scotch Fancies, etc., etc.

Kindly remember, I issue an 'open invitation to all fanciers to call at any time and inspect my stock. You need not announce your visit; come at any time (except Sundays). You will be sure of a hearty welcome and will be shown round my rooms whether desiring to purchase or not.

Any fancier requiring stock is invited to come and make his own selection. To those unable to come I am prepared to send one or more birds to any address in the kingdom at my sole risk. I will send on 7 or 10 days' approval anywhere, and will guarantee absolute satisfaction to every customer or cash returned in full.

EASY PAYMENTS can be arranged to suit the convenience of genuine fanciers who are not in a position to pay cash. Send a postcard for my free illustrated catalogue, containing much useful information concerning the cage bird hobby.

AMONG SO MANY

advertisements it is rather difficult for the intending purchaser to make a final selection. However well off a man may be, he does not like the idea of not getting fullest value, does he? For many years I have publicly stated that the Leipsig Roller, as imported by myself, is far and away better value than any Roller on the market, and have invited all intending purchasers to test the truth of this statement by testing a Leipzig Roller against any other costing up to three times the price, and have repeatedly published letters from persons who have done this. I now hold an enormous stock (over 900) of genuine Weber's Leipzig Roller cocks, all in full song, day and gas light, with long hollow and double rolls, sweet silvery trills, soft roulades, water bubble runs, piccolo trills, jug-jug of Nightingale, bell, harp, gong and flute notes, etc., and guaranteed entirely free from any harsh objectionable notes whatever; price 7/6 and 8/6 each. Special bandmasters, which excel in the deep bass and hollow bell tours, 10/6 and 12/6 each; hens same strain, 2/6 each; 4/6 couple. I also have a splendid lot of loud, free singing Hartz cocks in full vigorous song at 5/6 each; hens 2/- each, 3/6 couple. These Hartz cocks are specially suitable for public bar or coffee house and those who like a noisy songster. Special travelling cages, 3d. extra. Singing box cages, 1/6 each. Special Roller singing cabinet cages, with folding doors and loose fronts, made specially for Rollers, 3/- and 4/- each. Kindly note full name and address, also date of following letters. I have thousands similar, open to inspection at any time:—"Kibworth, Jan. 6.—Sir,—Leipzig Roller arrived today and began singing at once. I am well pleased with him.—Yours, B. Green." "27, Porchkerry-rd., Barry, Jan. 10.—Sir,—Received bird on Tuesday in grand condition, and consider it excellent value.—Yours, M. Gibbs." "Springvale, Ballywater, Ireland, Jan. 9.—Sir,—Birds arrived safe and cock is singing splendidly.—Yours, Alex. McCormick." "10, St. Audrew-st., Dublin, Dec. 29.—Sir,—Please let me know if you have few more of your famous Rollers for friends who have heard the one I had from you four years ago. I have just sold him at double the price, and he is better now than ever.—Yours, T. Henry." "43, Talbot Grove, Notting Hill, London, Jan. 9.—Sir,—Am well pleased with Roller, and thank you very much for sending such a nice bird. He started singing soon as unpacked.—Yours, W. Burt." "24, George-st., Burnbank, Hamilton, Jan. 19.—Sir,—I got a Roller from you seven years ago, and it has just died. It was as good as ever right up to the last. Please send another. P.O. enclosed.—Yours, T. Armstroug." "22, Stafford-st., Stockton-on-Tees.—Sir,—Received Roller on Tuesday, and am highly satisfied. Please send two hens.—Yours, J. Kemp." "20, Park View, Tredegar, Dec. 28.—Sir,—Received Roller safe at 4.30 on 24th; it was singing splendidly up to 12 o'clock same night. I am more than delighted with it.—Yours, R. Lane." "Sunnyside, Whitwell, Mansfield, Dec. 24.—Sir,—Just a line to let you know that both my friend and self are highly satisfied with our Rollers. Thanking you for straightforward and honest dealing.—Yours, S. Wilson." "80, Beaumont Terrace, Westerhope, near Newcastle, Jan. 14.—Sir,—Roller you sent me is singing grand, and I am well pleased.—Yours, W. Henderson." Please note, all birds are sent on full week's trial solely at my own risk during whole time either on receipt of cash or "Cage Birds" deposit system, and fullest satisfaction guaranteed or money instantly refunded in full. I am sole importer of Weber's Leipzig Rollers, and all cocks are stamped on wing, "Hans Weber, Leipzig." Among the advantages of the Leipzig Rollers is the fact that they retain their song for life, not merely one season, as is the case with many Rollers. The breeders of Leipzig Rollers have been improving the strain for past 20 years, and the result is round about perfection. I care not how hard a person is to please, I am convinced that I can do so. If any person would like to hear a Leipzig Roller sing and cannot call at my premises to do so, I will willingly send them one on week's approval (even if they have no intention of purchasing). I only ask that they will deposit price of bird with Editor of "Cage Birds." Let me remind you that I am sole importer of this strain, and no other dealer can sell unless he first purchases from me. The Shows.

HAWARDEN.

Hawarden and Dis. C.B.S. annual show, Glynne Arms, Jan. 17. Mr. A. Wellings judged, and gave general satisfaction. The hon. sec., Mr. J. S. Lloyd, had the arrangements well in hand, and the committee all worked splendidly to secure the success they undoubtedly achieved. The cup for most points went as follows: H. Johnson (Yorks.), T. Redfern (Nor. and Brit). Other special winners were Messrs. H. Smith, H. Butler, and H. Burrows.

YORKS. YELL.: 1, Butler, grand feather, clean cut, good pos.; 2, H. Johnson, shade slim, fails in neck, otherwise good; 3, Geo. Johnson, fine pos., bit coarse on thighs; 4, Harrison; vhc, c, F. Johnson; he, T. Boswell. BUFF.: 1, Redfern, real gem for quality and pos., wins well; 2, Harrison, full of qual., but fails in legs to winner; 3, Butler, big, reachy bird, bit coarse in feather; 4, F. Johnson; vhc, he, Geo. Bellis; c, Geo. Johnson. TKD. OR VARIEG. YELL.: 1, Butler, fine pos., good wings, well drawn; 2, vhc, F. Johnson, short in legs, fails pos.; 3, Redfern, good carr., nice feather, bit weak in neck; 4, H. Johnson. BUFF: 1, 2, H. Johnson, splendid head and neck, good wings, well finished, 2 full of qual., nice reach, fails in neck; 3, Burrows, rather short in body; 4, vhc, Bellis; he, Butler; c, F. Johnson. YELL. HEN: 1, Johnson, real gem, fit for open competition; 2, F. Johnson, little to choose for the first place; 3, Johnson, close on winners, but showing little frill; 4, F. Johnson; vhc, Geo. Johnson; he, Redfern; c, Boswell. BUFF HEN: 1, Johnson, tight as wax, good wings, and tail; 2, Johnson, another gem, but a little smaller than winner; 3, F. Johnson, fails quality coarse under; 4, Geo. Johnson; vhc, Redfern; he, Johnson; c, Butler. NOR., CL. OR TKD. YELL.: 1, and Sandiford's, Redfern, good head and neck, nice feather; 2, Jones, little to choose for 1st; 3, Harrison, good size and front, in body feather on head; 4, J. Jones. BUFF: 1, Redfern, plenty of size, good head, but thick on vent; 2, H. Jones, equal to winner, except the feet, bit large; 3, Johnson; 4, Johnson; vhc, J. Jones; he, Geo. Johnson. TKD. OR VARIEG. YELL.: 1, H. Jones; 2, J. Jones; 3, Boswell; all fail in qual. BUFF: 1, Jones, grand feather and head, good wings, bit fat; 2, J. Harrison, bit more front wanted here, slim; 3, Geo. Johnson, good type, but in bad feather on back; 4, H. Johnson. YELL. HEN.: 1, J. Jones, nice front, good wings, short tail; 2, Johnson, fat on chest, spoils the run; 3, H. Jones, coarse feather. BUFF HEN: 1, Redfern, shown in grand form, nice feather; 2, J. Harrison, close on 1st, full of quality; 3, Redfern, bit coarser in feather; 4, H. Johnson; vhc, Jones; he, H. Jones; c, Geo. Johnson. A.O.V. CAN.: 1, Harrison, green Norwich, fit to go out in stronger competition; 2, Boswell, Yorks. Green, good col., bit small; 3, Smith, cinnamon, short in subs. GOLDF., BRIT.: 1, Smith, good deep face, well mooned, deep in tanning; 2, Redfern, tight race, beaten in under blaze; 3, Harrison, running the others very close, little short in face; 4, Jones; vhc, Durham; he, Bellis; c, Johnson. LINNET: 1, Boswell, Norwich type, good front and pencilling; 2, Johnson, nicely mkd., good wings, bit wild; 3, Harrison, best col. in class, but small, no front; 4, Durham; vhc, c, Durham; he, Johnson. GREENFINCH: 1, 2, Redfern, two grand ones, deep col. and type; 3, Johnson, not steady, no doubt will make a good one; 4, Bellis. BULLFINCH: 1, Smith, good cap, deep col., and nice back; 2, Johnson, just beaten in col., good cap; 3, Harrison, fails in cap, going narrow at back; 4, Boswell. A.O.V. BRIT.: 1, Jones, Hawfinch, in good feather, good bib and wing bars; 2, Boswell, Yellowhammer, not one of the best, fails in marking; 3, Smith, Siskin, short on thigh markings; 4, Redfern; vhc, Harrison; he, Smith. MULE OR HYB.: 1, Redfern, Goldfinch-Can.; 2, F. Johnson, Linnet-Can.; 3, Smith, Greenfinch-Can.; 4, Boswell; vhc, Geo. Johnson. YORKS., UNFLIG.: 1, Redfern; 2, Johnson; 3, Johnson; 4, he, Butler; vhc, Butler; he, Butler; c, Harrison. NOR. UNFLIG.: 1, 2, Redfern; 3, Jones; 4, Johnson; vhc, Jones; he, Redfern; c, Johnson. NOVICE YORKS. YELL.: 1, 2, 3, Burrows.

BIGGAR C.B.S.

Sixth annual show, held in Wilson's, Westend Hall, Jan. 28. The hall is well suited for a show as it is of a nice size, and the staging was well arranged to show off the birds to perfection. Mr. D. Lawson, pres., and Mr. M. Rae, sec., worked hard, and were well backed up by a hard-working committee. D. Lawson won sp. for best Canary, with a nice Crest, and T. Porteous, sp. best British bird, with a Goldfinch of nice quality. A. Williamson won sp. most points Canary section. There would have been a little difference in the awards if some of the exhibits had been better staged. Mr. J. F. Dewar, Edinburgh, judged, and gave entire satisfaction. The show was well attended an hour before closing. The president presented the prizes and specials to the successful exhibitors.

PENCLAWDD.

First annual open show held Jan. 31. Entries greatly exceeded expectations with the result that the rooms engaged were taxed to their utmost to contain the exhibits, and even then the secretary's office had to be utilised to stage one class. Financially the show should prove an unqualified success, the attendance being splendid. The Sec., Mr. J. Rosser, was a very able and obliging official Mr. Sylvester judged.

CANARY (8): 1, vhc, Owens, Yorks, grand length, well up on leg, nice col. and qual.; 2, 3, Davies and Jones, Nor., both good col. and qual., very cobby, shown in A1 form; he, Muscott; c, Jenkins. ROCHDALE C.B.S.

2nd annual show, held Jan. 24. Judge, Mr. E. Bumskill, Southport. There was an entry of 200, which is far in excess of previous years, and quality was good all round, many of the birds being well known winners in open shows. About 50 classes were put on, including 13 novices, but the latter section was very poorly supported. No doubt we shall try to find a solution to this question, as far as we, as a society, are concerned. Lancashires had a good entry, 14 facing the judge in the 1913 class, and a good even lot they were. Lizards were only fair, being practically confined to about four exhibitors. Some good Norwich Crests and C.B. were staged. Yorks. were very good. British also came up well, and were of great interest to the many fanciers and friends who visited the show. A perusal of the prize list will no doubt prove of interest, many well-known names being amongst the winners. Mr. Jameson, Bury, won sp. for best bird with a buff coppy, a Manchester winner. Section prizes were given by Messrs. Hadern (2), Naylor, Collinge, Schofield, Blincoe, Woods, Dutton, and Francis.

PARTICK.

Annual breeding pairs show held Feb. 6, in Foresters' Hall, Dumbarton Road. Crests were quite the outstanding feature, and the judge found some difficulty in picking out the winners, the leading birds being hard to separate. Plainheads made a good show, and many good specimens were staged. Borders also made a gallant effort, and many hot specimens of the "wee gems" put in their appearance. Yorks. came next in rotation, and the slim ones had the satisfaction of providing the largest entry of the evening. This variety is becoming very popular in these parts. Hybrid pairs made up the show, and many interesting crosses were on view, and should anything be accomplished by the members in breeding, some new crosses will be on exhibition in another season. The judges were: Crests and Plainheads, Mr. A. Sloan, Possilpark; Bord. and Hyb., Mr. J. Laurie, Govan; Yorks. and A.O.V., W. Heggie, Monnt Florida. The undernoted kindly granted special prizes, viz.: Messrs. A. Marwell, J. F. Park, J. McMillan, T. Fraser, and were suitably thanked for same.

CREST PAIRS: 1, sp., 3, 4, McMillan, grand pair, Crest cock, C.B. hen, former good crest, of grand formation, good centre fine veiny feather, C.B. hen grand size, rare subs., well lashed, in grand order; 2, 5, 6, Nimmo, similarly matched, not much to choose between the leaders, staged in spanking form. YELL. CK., BUFF HEN: 1, Henry, rare matched pair, put down in rare order; 2, McMillan, well staged and placed; 3, Fraser, rattling pair, many thought might have taken leading pos. BUFF CK., YELL. HEN: 1, Park, cock of good size, rare head and neck, mated to a slashing yell. hen, grand type and qual., put down in breeding form; 2, Henry, very creditable pair; 3, Fraser, another neat pair, in fine bloom. B.F., YELL. CK., BUFF HEN: 1, Aikenhead, natty pair, that some considered lucky; 2, Walker, nice pair, all there for type and qual.; 3, Fairweather, our choice for 1st place, a grand matched pair, ck. real typical, grand head and neck, best of wing carr., nicely tajered, a good one, hen a sweet little lady, clothed in her best. BUFF CK., YELL. HEN: 1, Aikenhead, good pair, well put down; 2, Walker, presses hard; 3, Fairweather, sweet pair, well placed and staged. YORKS. YELL. CK., BUFF HEN: 1, Aikenhead, stylish cock, of good size, well put on legs, sweet head and neck, well braced wings, mated to a good hen, free from frill, a grand pair; 2, Park, good pair; 3, Coats, nicely matched, in grand bloom; 4, Sinclair; 5, Aikenhead. BUFF CK., YELL. HEN: 1, Park, buff cock, Glasgow and district winner, mated to a slashing yellow hen; 2, Sinclair, hard luck to run against such a pair; 3, Park, in fine feather; 4, Aikenhead; 5, Coats; 6, Sinclair. A.O.V.: 1, Walker, cinn. Bord.; 2, Walker, same variety; 3, Coats, Yorks., Greens, grand type and qual., might have gone up, rare bloom. HYB. PAIRS: 1, 2, 3, Fraser, a grand trio, leading with a grand Goldfinch cock, mated to a slashing Bullfinch hen, grand cap and col., 2 Goldf. cock, Greenf. hen, well placed here, 3 Greenf. cock, Bullf. hen, well put down, all in grand order and bloom.

Nests of Birds, Poultry, etc., should be regularly sprinkled with KEATING'S POWDER, especially when hens are sitting. Don't forget to do this just previous to the eggs hatching, to destroy the Red Mite. Kills all insects. Harmless to everything else.

FORT WILLIAM.

Twelfth annual show held Town Hall, Feb. 4 open to Inverness and Argyle, including districts of Ramoch, Bridge of Orchy, Tyndrum, Crianlarich in Yorks., Mr. W. H. McDougal won sp. for best bird. Bords. were very good, Mr. Harper carrying off all the plums, his yellow cock, one of the best going, being runner-up for best. British were an excellent lot. The entry greatly exceeded that of last year. President ex-Provost Young was unavoidably absent. Sec. Mr. P. C. McGhan performed his duties in a highly satisfactory manner, and was well backed up by treas., Mr. Alex. McKenzie. Mr. A. M. Gardiner judged, and gave entire satisfaction.

NOR. CK. (1): 1, Cameron, non fed, best of cond., nice head and neck, fine wings and tail, grand qual.; 2, McDougall, better shape, but loses in cond., crosses wings at time; 3, McPherson, variegated head and neck, best shape in class, needs a wash; 4, Cameron. HEN (9): 1, 2, 3, Mrs. Weston, 1st nice head and neck, short and compact body, fine wings and tail, nice lady, 2 not so good in head, but grand type, trifle loose at waist, 3 more slim got up, nice style, good head and qual. of feather, 4, McCallum; 5, Cameron; 6, 7, McPherson. YORKS (16): 1, 2, 3, 5, McDougall, 1st and sp. best in hall, non-fed leading, straight upstanding, well filled up, grand wings and tail, lovely qual., a gem, 2 similar stamp, better col., but a shade smaller, trifle open in front, 3 true Yorkie, difficult to separate; 4, Cameron; 6, Harper. BORD. CK. (6): 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, Harper, 1 best of type and qual., rare cond., fine jaunty carr., runner-up to best bird, 2 nice type and col., good style, 3 presses hard. HEN (6): 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, Harper, 1 fine type, close compact wings and tail, a little stiff when moving, 2 beaten in type, not so round, fine jaunty carr., 3 fine stylish lady, a team the owner may be proud of. PAIRS (3): 1, McDougal, Yorks., well matched; 2, Boyd, fine large cock to nice typical hen, with luck ought to do some good; 3, Harper. A.O.V. (3): 1, Mrs. Weston, Lanes. coppy, nice type, a little open in back of head, fine length, could have been better staged; 2, Miss Davidson, Common Can., in spanking cond.; 3, McGhan, Comm. Can., larger, but not so good cond. MULE OR HYB. (3): 1, McDougal, well-known Twite-Can., in rare order, often described; 2, Fraser, Goldf.-Can., shows parentage well, some feathers out of place; 3, McPherson. GOLDF. (6): 1, McCallum, nice size and shape, very rich col., fine blaze, plenty of rich tan on body, one of the best, easy winner; 2, 6, McGhan, larger, big blaze, but lacks cond. and tanning of leader; 3, McCallum, smaller size, well up in col., steady; 4, Harper. GREENF. Hope; 7, Cameron.

WOLVERHAMPTON C.B.S.

Final members' show, held Jan. 31, at Duke of York, Princess Street, the last of the three for the society's cup, and a keen struggle was expected, for over 90 birds competed, and quality was grand, as these were the birds which has won for the society the Midland Inter-club Cup. Messrs. Crundell and Rowley won sp. for best Canary in show with their well-known winning buff Norwich, and Mr. J. A. Touks sp. best Brit. with a grand Goldie, which also is not a stranger to the show bench. Grand teams were staged by Messrs. Loach, Gibbons, Touks, Crundell and Rowley, Weaver, Hall, and Hampton. Mr. J. Gibbons won the society's cup for the second time, the runner-up being F. A. Loach, who made a desperate fight for it. Mr. G. Baker, Birmingham, judged, and his awards were very well received.

Pearce, Wiseman, Jenkins, Plank, Saunders, Green, Pegg, Culham, Sneek, Onslow, Lathbury, Clayden, Madagan, G. H. Pratt, A. J. Pratt, Newley, Moore, Thynne, and F. W. Burton. Balance sheet was presented, and a copy of same will be printed in the 1914 handbooks, and sent to every member. The financial position is very strong, the cash balance in hand at the end of the year being £5 9s. No one who was present could doubt that the club has come to stay. The enthusiasm of the members was unbounded, and the way they spoke of what the club was going to do showed that there was little fear of their ardour abating. The proposal of Mr. G. Burton re alteration of the definition of a tick was carried with a slight alteration in the wording. This definition now reads: "A ticked bird is one with a patch of dark feathers not larger than a sixpence on an otherwise clear body. It can also have one technical mark on eye, wing, or tail, but only one such mark, in addition to the body or head mark." It was proposed to extend the classification for the ensuing year, but owing to the late secretary's notes not being complete I cannot give the classification agreed upon; every member will be informed in due course. Mr. Jenkins offered to guarantee an uneven marked class at each patronage show, and Mr. Newley made the same offer with regard to an amateur class. Both offers were warmly received, and it was decided to let the committee take the matter in hand and obtain the opinion of the members. Decided that the financial year of the club should end on Jan. 21 in each year, so that auditors should have time to go through the books and prepare them in time for a balance-sheet to be presented at the Palace Show. Mr. Newley kindly offered another special, value two guineas, for the ensuing year. Mr. G. H. Pratt also offered to give two breakfast cruets, one for champion and one novice, for those making most entries and gaining least points at the patronage shows. Mr. Moore offered a guinea for a sealed handicap, and other members signified their intention of giving specials during the year. The election of officers resulted as follows: Pres., Rev. H. A. Soames; vice-pres., Mr. D. Jenkins; chair, Mr. H. Norman; vice-chair, Mr. J. McGuffie; treas., Mr. R. A. Newley; auditors, Messrs. J. Robson and H. Hobden; London committee, Messrs. G. Burton, Gollop, Harrison, Freeman, Onslow, Green, Plank, and Lathburry; provincial committee, Messrs. Madagan, Gwilliam, Bacon, W. J. Saunders, G. H. Pratt, A. J. Pratt, Roberts, and Clayden; sec., F. W. Burton, 91, Forest Road, Dalston, N.E., to whom all correspondence should be addressed. Chairman then presented the cups and spoons. Mr. G. H. Pratt won the S.B. and C. Cup, the Newley Cup, marble clock, and two spoons, this being the number to which each member was limited; Mr. W. J. Saunders won the novice cruet, a goodly number of his points being gained after he passed into the champions. Other spoon winners were: Madagan (2), W. J. Saunders (1), Roberts (1), Burton Bros. (1). The winners of cash specials and diplomas I cannot give as there was some doubt expressed as to whether the points had been correctly counted. Sec. earnestly appeals for the support of members to make the ensuing year better than the past one, good as that was, and he assures them that he will not rest until he has placed the Southern Border F.C. in the front rank of specialist societies. Provincial members can rest assured that if they will communicate their wishes to their sec. they will receive the same attention as if they were at the meeting to place their views before the members themselves.—F. W. Burton. Hon. Sec.

GT. HORTON (Good Intent) O.S

Lecture on Canaries, given Feb. 7 by Mr. R. Halliday, Shipley. He started by saying that the room has a lot to do with the success of any breeder; it should be dry, for if the room is damp and clammy it will not do at all. Canaries should have a good variety of seeds, and not too much egg food. In buying seed get the best, as this is cheapest in the long run. Give the white seed separate, with the mixed fancy seeds in egg glass. He likes only two perches in cage—no long perch along the bottom, and likes them best without either paint or whitewash. The birds, perhaps, do not look so well, but he pointed out we did not sell them in the cages. The door should be large, and work easily. In buying stock, get the best your money can buy—few and good, rather than a lot of ordinary birds. Go into your birdroom quietly, so as not to startle your birds, and try to get them settled down to your presence before starting breeding. He would not advise a novice to go and buy a big show bird, for no doubt he would be disappointed with the result. He thought that by continually breeding with show birds the size would deteriorate. A successful exhibitor should have, besides his show birds, some good stock birds. He does not believe in pairing till April. If you have not been giving any mixed seed during winter, start now, and give them a bit to get them into condition. You cannot give a bath too often, if the light is good. To make egg cake, steep bread in water, then squeeze out as dry as possible, rub egg through sieve, mix together, add a pinch of salt, cayenne, and a little meal; don't overdo the egg food. Keep all glasses scrupulously clean; the earthenware nest-pan is better than the old-fashioned soap-box style. It is no good breeding from weakly stock; have some good, healthy stock, then if you breed a good one it will have stamina enough to stand the show season. Try to breed big stock, even if they are a bit rough. Over-slim birds are generally snaky in neck. When breeding, disturb as little as possible; have a peep to see if all is well when the hen is off feeding. He prefers a double-breeding cage for each hen. Generally speaking, take the young ones away when they are three weeks old, and give egg-food a bit sloppy for two days. Clean cage out each day, and put some crushed seed in bottom with sand. If a hen is feeding badly, tempt it with different kinds of food. After the lecture, questions were freely asked, and ably answered. A hearty vote of thanks was given Mr. Halliday. We give an invitation to all fanciers to join us; meetings first Saturday in each month.—A. Firth, Sec.

HYSON GREEN C.B.S.

Meeting held Feb. 3, headquarters. There was a goodly number present, and much business was got through in a fancier-like spirit. Decided to add novice classes to all shows of the society, and with schemes afoot to ensure a valuable list of specials for competion, we appeal in confidence to old and new fanciers to join us. Application may be made to any of the officers, viz., Mr. Hodgkinson, hon. sec.; Mr. Wolfe, chairman; Mr. Barnes, vice; Messrs. White, Cottingham, Royce, Sharpe, Willis, and Robinson, committee.; W. Bown and A. E. Moult, hon. secs.—A. E. Moult.

NORWICH P.C.

Norwich Plainhead Club annual dinner was held in the spacious White Horse Restaurant, Preston, on Feb. 7. About 40 people sat down to a really well-served dinner. Genial Mr. Tom Dent was at the head of the table. Among the ladies present we noticed Mrs. Tringove, Mrs Jude, Hayhurst, Mrs. Tom Seed and friend, Mrs. Wilson, and others. After the Royal toasts a well-arranged concert programme was enjoyed by the members. Mr. F. Cunliffe, the Secretary, tendered his annual report. He dealt exhaustively with the club's ups and downs from 1910, and gave the average entries at the five patronage shows. He expressed his hopes for the further success of the club, sentiments which all reciprocated. After a song by Mr. Wilson Mr. Dent distributed the prizes. They were so many that it seemed as if everyone had one to draw. First came the trophy winner, Mr. Joe Thomas. The Chairman read a letter from him explaining his absence owing to the Palace Show. Next on the list was Mr. Sam Cook, who, on rising to receive his prize, was called upon for a speech. After some moments' hesitation he laughingly promised them a response next year. Mr. Luke Granger won 3rd prize, but was absent through sickness. Fourth place was filled by Mr. Jude Hayhurst, the popular chairman of Burnley Society. Mr. W. Wrigley won 5th, and Mr. Vardy 6th, most points. The gold medal for best in the champion section at the club show was won by Mr. J. E. Davies with his well-known clear buff; best novice, Mr. J. Edmundson. Messrs. T. Blease and Son won the handsome cup in the novice classes, and it speaks well for their stock when it is known that most of their points were won in the open classes. Mr. W. Vardy, jun., won 2nd place, with Mr. J. Nickson 3rd; 4th place was won by Mr. Cottam. Mr. H. Hitchen won 5th, most points. All these novices are now in the champions, and it is hoped they will be as successful in those classes. After all the prizes were given we had musical items from the artistes, amongst which was an ably-rendered violin solo by Mr. Turner. Mr. Dent proposed the toast of the N.P.C., and coupled with it the name of Mr. T. Johnson, who suitably replied. Votes of thanks by Mr. Jude Hayhurst and Mr. A. Hirst to the artistes, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Simpson, Mr. Rollinson, Mr. Hind, and Mr. Black, brought a pleasant evening to a close.—T. Johnson.

EAST HAM C.B.S.

Pair show held Council Offices, Wakefield Street, Jan. 31. Owing to a misunderstanding on the part of the Town Clerk, I was unable to inform all members of the change of address, which was formerly decided at the Town Hall. However, there was a good display of 71 exhibits, which were very cosily staged by the stewards, Messrs. Potten, Taylor, Ferridge, and Daws, and the awards of the judges, Messrs. A. J. A. Marley and C. H. A. Bennett seem to have given entire satisfaction. Mr. E. Oakes paid us a visit with his band of fanciers rather late in the evening, having been very interested in some "birds" at the Town Hall.

NEWCASTLE-ON-TYNE C.B.S.

Annual meeting Feb. 5. Mr. T. C. Crawhall in chair. Mr. T. Hall (Benwell) elected a member. Balance-sheet showing a cash balance of £3 10s 11d., assets £17 4s. 6d., and a reserve fund of £6 18s. 7d. was read and adopted. Election of officers for 1914 took place: Pres., A. J. Haggie, J.P.; vice, Ald. A. Scott, J.P., Coun. D. Adams, J.P., Messrs. Ford, Maling, Parrish, Reid, Henderson, Welford, J.P., Currah, Taylor, Tindall, Wilson, Anderson, Todd, Ellis, Anderson, Shepherd, Chapman, Murton, Stephenson, Cochran, and Carr; chairman, M. C. Potts; vice, T. C. Crawhall; auditors, Messrs. Topping and Cossar; show manager, W. Curry; committee, Messrs. Tindall, W. Mackenzie, J. Mackenzie, Young, Maddison, Curry, Wyndham, Smith, Hope, Irving, Holden, Wellsbury, Greason, Laidlow, Farrer, Peterson, Dix, Smith, Lumley McGuire, Johnston, Montgomery, Espie, and Greenwell; sec. and treas., J. W. Reed, 218, Ladypark Road, Benwell, Newcastle. sec., Mr. J. Craig, Newcastle. Mr. Crawhall, chairman, outlined a scheme for the Northern Specialist Societies to hold their meetings the same night as ours, and hold table shows in conjunction with our society, and asked the members present who were members of these specialist societies, to bring the question before their next meetings. Mr. Crawhall was accorded a very hearty vote of thanks for his services as chairman during the past two year, he feelingly replied, and said he hoped the society would have a record year.—D. W. Reed.

First annual whist drive and dance in aid of open show funds, on Feb. 2, Central Hall, 156 sitting down for whist, and 80 came in for dancing. The stewards for whist were Messrs. T. Starkey, E. Tebbutt, H. Lowther, W. Ratcliff, timekeeper, T. W. Twilley, our worthy chairman. Prize-winners were: Ladies, 1, Mrs. Ryder; 2, Mrs. Barnes; 3, Miss A. Darnell; 4, Mrs. Batty; lucky numbers, Mrs. Healy. Gentlemen, 1, Mr. Kitchener; 2, Mr. Offord; 3, Mr. Tinycross; 4, Mr. Goodley; lucky number, Mr. Short. This drive proved a great success, and our funds have benefited to the amount of about £3, which with what we have in hand will enable us to think seriously about running open show next November. M.C.'s for the dance: Messrs. T. Starkey, H. Lowther, E. Bond.—H. Lowther, Hon. Sec.

GLASGOW (West End) C.B.C.

Fourth annual general meeting held Co-operative Hall, St. George's Cross, Jan. 29, Mr. C. Campbell presiding over a fair attendance. Points specials for annual show, 1913, were paid out to Messrs. D. Lunn and J. Campbell. Balance-sheet for 1913, same having been previously posted to each member, was now gone over. Auditors reported to meeting that they found accounts and other documents in the most complete and satisfactory condition. The balance-sheet was considered very satisfactory, and passed unanimously. The hand-some balance of £19 17s. 10½d. was left on hand. This is very encouraging to the office-bearers and members alike, and ought to be a very pleasing conclusion of their labours for the past year; but we are looking forward to greater things. Decided to keep part of balance in bank, and remainder to be divided in prize money among the members. President C. Campbell, on vacating the chair, was accorded a very hearty vote of thanks for his services to the club. Office-bearers for year elected as follows: Pres., Archibald Handry; vice-pres., Peter Allan and Arthur Symington; sec. and treas., Mr. W. Proudfoot. Committee: Messrs. C. Campbell, D. Lunn, A. Gilbespie, J. Campbell, G. McGown, D. Law, and C. Newgreen. Auditors, Mr. G. G. Henderson and Mr. Peter Allan. Rules were passed as read. Meetings will be held on the second Friday of every month at 8, in Co-operative Hall, St. George's Cross, and it is to be hoped that members will turn up in full force. Monthly table show will be held as formerly, Feb. 13, March 13, April 10; F.F. show July 11; annual members' show Nov. 20. No syllabus will be printed this year, but post cards will be used instead to notify members as to date, etc., of next meeting. New members nominated, viz., J. Booth, Jno. Glass, G. Hislop, and Thos. Mackay. All intending members please note that this club caters for Canaries, Mules, British and Foreign birds. Annual subs. 4s., in two instalments if desired. All particulars can be had from W. Proudfoot, Sec. and Treas., 145, Henderson-street, Glasgow.

CUMNOCK C.B.S.

Annual general meeting held Auchinleck Lesser Town Hall, Feb. 7, with a good attendance. Last financial year started with a balance of £9 14s. 6½d., and the incoming year with a much better balance of £15 0s. 5d. Members have to be congratulated on the financial success. Income for the year, including the balance from previous year, was £38 11s. 8d., with an expenditure of £23 11s. 3d. On the retirement of Mr. Kinnear, chairman, Mr. J. Hainey, Annbank, was elected. Mr. T. Findlay and Mr. A. Tannock re-elected vice-pres., also the sec. and treas. Mr. A. Wyper and Mr. Nutt were re-elected, and a large working committee. Judges for ensuing year were nominated, and it was left with secretary to write same. A judge for each section will be tried this year. Two unflighted classes have been added in the Norwich section, and other additions made. Mr. A. Wyper, Market Place, Auchinleck, will be very glad for any fancier to send him his name. Membership stands at 37, an increase from last year, and with the three new classes added our club show classification is increased to 41. This should encourage fanciers to join us and make the show still a greater success.—J. Nutt, treas.

READING C.B.S.

Usual monthly meeting, Feb. 4, Palmer Hall, before a good attendance. Four new members elected, viz., Messrs. F. Prior, J. Edgington (Guildford), H. Wilkins (Reading), P. Chalker (Hurst). Correspondence was read from Mr. Robson agreeing to judge pair show on March 4 and annual show on Nov. 11, also from Mr. C. C. Hawes offering to give a lecture on Yorkshires, which was accepted with great pleasure. Sec. mentioned that Mr. P. F. M. Galloway had offered to conduct a party of members on a ramble through the woods on the second Wednesday in June. Again accepted with pleasure. Classes for pair show were arranged as last year, with extra class for small foreign, making 12 classes altogether. Young bird show was decided for July 15, and Mr. T. Yates kindly consented to judge same. The novices essay competition is between Mules, Borders, Norwich, Yorks, and British. Mr. Acton being unavoidably absent left foreign unrepresented. Each competitor had got his paper up well, and was very interesting. When the result of voting was announced it was found that Mules and Norwich had tied for first place, with Yorks second, and Brit. third, so two prizes were given instead of one. This was such a success that another will be organised later on. Any fancier wishing for particulars of pair show and lecture please write W. H. Pike, Hon. Sec.

NOTE.—If an answer is required concerning the proper mating, etc., of Norwich, Yorkshires, Crests, Cinnamons, Greens, Borders, Lizards, Scotch or any other variety of the Canary family, we shall, should the querist desire us to do so, be pleased to submit his questions for answer to some leading specialist of the day on the variety concerned.

CANARY QUERIES

Answered by CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

WHITE SPECK ON EYES (D. M. W.).—Sorry, but the bird is blind from cataract, and nothing whatever you can do for it will be of the least avail in curing it. If you keep it in a moderate sized cage, with the perches conveniently arranged, it will live happily enough in its way.

SAWDUST v. SAND (Beginner).—Where the expense of good clean gritty sand is a consideration, it may be greatly economised by using clean coarse pine sawdust in cages and flights during the winter and early spring months, and placing a small shallow receptacle filled with the sand in one corner on the cage floor, or a zinc drinker may be hung on the cross-stay inside cage, and grit kept in that. Renew supply as often as necessary. Sawdust makes a very clean and warm "bedding" for cage floors when used in this way out of the breeding season.

BATHING (M. D. R.). Certainly any normally healthy bird may be allowed to bathe as freely as it desires during the winter, but it is best to offer the bath in the early part of the day, or soon after midday at latest, to ensure the birds having the plumage well dried before settling down to roost. At the same time if any birds do not seem disposed to bathe freely, there is no need whatever to worry about it. All birds are not equally fond of bathing, and many seem to get along very well indeed with a bath only at rare intervals during the colder months. Such birds, if not required for show, you may very well allow to please themselves, beyond placing the opportunity in their way once or twice a week.

CANARY QUERISTS

should consult St. John's "Canary Breeding for Beginners" (7d.); House's "Canary Manual" (1/2); Battye's "Yorkshire Canaries" (1/1½); House's "Norwich Canaries" (1/1); Weston's "Stock Book" (7d.); Dr. Clarke's "Septic or Bird Fever" (7d.); Dr. Creswell's "Hygiene of Bird-keeping" (1/1); Narman's "Aviaries, Bird rooms, and Cages" (2/3); Ramsden's "Colour feeding" (3½d.); "Seeds and Foods for Cage Birds" (1/2); or the "Nutshell" booklets (2½d. each): No. 5 "The Pet Canary," No. 6 "Ailing Birds and How to Cure Them," No. 9 "The Disinfection of Cages, Bird-rooms, etc.," No. 10 "The Roller," No. 23 "The Border Fancy," No. 24 "Green Canaries." All thoroughly practical and instructive. Prices quoted are post free, from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

HOARSENESS (Iredale).—In addition to the usual diet, give a morsel of bread and milk, with two drops of cod liver oil emulsion on it every third day for two or three weeks, and add to the water 20 drops of whisky, five each of oxymel of squills, and ipecac. wine, and two of eucalyptus oil, well shaken together, every second day for a fortnight. The hoarseness will probably disappear after a time.

OVERGROWN CLAWS (L. W. H.). Yes, it is often necessary to cut back the claws of a caged bird, and particularly soon after the moult, during which time they seem to grow more quickly than at other times. Also, some birds' claws grow more rapidly than others. Catch the bird and wash the feet clean in warm water, then dry, and hold each claw separately in front of a strong light, by placing bird on its back in the palm of your left hand, with its head towards the wrist; close second, third and fourth fingers over its breast, and hold it firmly, then place one of the feet between the tips of thumb and fore-finger, with one claw at a time projecting. When held up to light, a tiny pink streak will be seen extending some distance down the centre of claw. That is the vein. Nip off end of claw, with a sharp pair of nail scissors for preference, just a little short of the end of that vein, and no more harm will be done than by cutting your finger nails. If the claws grow abnormally fast, glue a small piece of fine sandpaper, about an inch wide, round one end of one of the perches that the bird frequently uses, for a week or two now and again.

HEN HAVING FITS (Reggie).—The bird suffers from epileptic attacks. Such specimens are almost invariably weakly anæmic subjects, which are never likely to be anything but a constant worry and disappointment, and if they do succeed in rearing young, which is rare, are very apt to transmit their weaknesses to their progeny, so that altogether the best treatment is a merciful dose of chloroform. If you wish to try any other treatment, give a plain and wholesome diet, with a little egg food, crushed biscuit, or bread and milk once a week, in addition to the seed diet, a spray of watercress or morsel of banana, when green food is out of season twice a week, and keep bowels regular, either by increasing or decreasing the supply of salad as may be indicated, or by adding an aperient to the water for a day or two when required. Reduce sufficient bromide of potassium to fine powder to cover a sixpence and well mix in a teaspoonful of pure honey. Each time a fit occurs, give a morsel of bread and milk, squeezed rather dry, with two drops of this honey mixed in it, and sprinkled on top with maw seed. Give this for three consecutive days, and also dissolve a crystal of the bromide the size of a hemp seed in each tablespoonful of drinking water daily for a week.

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES AND HYBRIDS.

Answered by H. NORMAN.

WHEN TO BREED (Tom).—I would advise you to try for early young ones in preference to waiting until after your holidays in July. There will be plenty of time to have one, if not two nests before then, whereas if you wait until after July the hen will probably drop into moult, if there should happen to be a sudden change of weather, and then your season would be lost. With careful feeding you should be able to put them together at the end of March, and I think with ordinary luck you should get two nests doing for themselves before you go. It is the Finch you will want to manage; just watch his beak, and see how it is clearing. Do not force him any more than you can help, but bring him along with plenty of dandelion and sow-thistle leaves as soon as you can get some. These are sure to be obtainable in favoured localities.

TWO BULLIES NESTING (Shoer).—You made the mistake last year of leaving the two hen Bullies together, consequently they fussed about with each other and wasted time, taking no notice of the cock birds. I would advise you to try the cock Canary and a Bullfinch hen in a cage, and let the other two pairs fly about the room. You could try the experiment of keeping the cage in the same room if you liked, but if you saw the other hen Bullie continually at the wires, you would have to remove it to another room. You will want to make a rough kind of nest at one end of the cage for the captive Bullie, and keep plenty of moss and sawdust on the bottom of the cage, when she is expected to lay, as she may not lay in the nest.

BREEDING WITH CHAFFINCH (H. E. S.).—I fear the Chaffinch would hardly be a suitable bird for you to try to breed with. Hybrids from it have been produced both with the Greenfinch and the Brambling, but then this has been done by fanciers who have had years of experience, and not by a beginner. If you would like to make a start, why not try for some of the Canary Hybrids first, and see how you progress. Get a cock Linnet or Greenfinch and mate him with a hen Canary, and then the following year you could try your hand with a couple of British birds. (2) Perhaps you are not treating your Chaffinch correctly as regards cage room, bathing and food supply. Read the direction given in this issue to C.L.C. If you follow it out I fancy your bird will soon pull himself together; there cannot be much the matter with him if he sings.

OUTDOOR BIRD ROOM (J. Butler).—For your information I may say that I keep my own birds in an outside house all the year round, without any artificial heat whatever, and they are as healthy as possible, but if yours have been kept inside, I would not advise you to put them out until the beginning of April, as you live rather far North. Down here we could do it in March. I presume you would have the birds in cages (you do not say if that is so), therefore you would be able to have three tiers along one side, and the end; that would give you about eighteen 2ft. cages, room for twelve breeding pairs, and spare cages for young ones. (2) Do you think your Bramble is a young bird? I fear it would be waste of time trying to breed from him if he has once mated with his own kind. If you think so, by all means keep him over the moult, and try during the coming summer to hand-rear a nest of young Chaffinches, or procure what you require in some other way. But be sure you have young birds. (3) Birds are colour fed in the autumn, and you commence to give them the feed just before they moult, about the middle of July. Directions for mixing are usually printed on the tin.

TAMING A CHAFFINCH (C. L. C.).—There is no royal road to the taming of wild birds. One simply wants to be patient and careful. Handle the cages as much as you possibly can, and whenever you approach the bird, offer him some tit-bit that he is particularly fond of. When cleaning out, let him run through the door into another cage. This does not frighten him so much as leaving him in the cage while cleaning it. In fact, the running from one cage to the other assists a lot in keeping him steady. When he is hanging in his usual position, do not put him up high; have him so that you are able to look down on him, rather than look up. About breast high is quite high enough. When he is ready, let him have a fair size cage for stock purposes, one about eighteen or twenty inches high. Feed on the following: Canary and good teazle, 4 parts each; rape and linseed, 1 part each, this will be his stock food. Give sunflower daily, say, a dozen seeds, a little hemp once a week, and occasionally, smash up a walnut or other nut. He should also have insects, a couple of mealworms a day just now, but later on you will be able to obtain flies, earwigs, spiders, caterpillars, etc., all of which are relished, and help to keep him in condition. You should offer him some greenfood, although Chaffinches are not particularly keen on it, but sometimes it has a few maggots or insects among it, which are appreciated. Keep in a cool place, and let him have a bath frequently. With this treatment and careful attention, he should be fit for anything.

NEW BEGINNER (E. W. E.). You will find your outdoor aviary give you no end of pleasure and amusement. Do not overcrowd it, as the birds do not do so well ,and the place soon gets dirty. I gather from your letter that you have put in 8 birds, all cocks excepting one, and I am afraid you will have trouble. You must either take out the hen, or introduce partners for the other birds, and have one pair of each. Respecting the Hawfinch, I have not found him particularly pugnacious, but I would not answer for him if he was the odd cock in an aviary with matched pairs.

BIRDS DYING (A. Novice).—I have carefully read your letter, and am afraid there is either something wrong with your management, or you have disease among the birds. Have you introduced a fresh one lately? One can easily understand a fancier losing a bird occasionally, but not in the manner you have been doing. I would suggest that you send one, together with the fee, to Mr. Yates for examination. You will then have a much better idea how to proceed. In any case, whatever you do, do not turn in your Canaries, and be careful not to take any food or feeding vessel from the infected aviary to the bird room. I would also advise you to attend to the Canaries first when you go your usual round in the morning. Are you using good sound seed? There is a lot of cheap stuff now on the market that is not fit to give birds. Is your greenstuff quite free from frost? These matters are of vital importance. You do not say when you turned the birds outside; it would hardly be wise to do it just previous to cold weather setting in. Doing so might lower their vitality, and make them very susceptible to disease.

HYBRID BREEDING IN THE COUNTRY (C. H. Edwards).—I think your suggestion a good one, and a nice way of making use of the building. I do not know that living in the country is an advantage, as far as Hybrid breeding is concerned, for frequently the hen bird gets upset by a stray cock of the same species perching outside, and calling to her, just as she has settled down on a clutch of eggs. On the other hand you have every opportunity of getting plenty of wild food for them, which is of great assistance. I think you would possibly do better if you could divide your place up into several small aviaries, and allow a pair in each. Several pairs flying loose in the same place do not always work out quite so nicely as one would like. They do not always keep to themselves, and frequently interfere with each other's nests. Still, some have succeeded, and why not you? You can only try. Cover the opening with half-inch wire netting—do not have it larger. It is a shade more expensive than three-quarters, but infinitely better. You should hand-rear some of those Bullies and Goldies that nest in the garden; they would be invaluable for future operations. For this year, try a couple of cock Goldies, a Siskin and Linnet, and the following hens—a Bullie, Greenfinch, Redpoll, and, say, a couple of Canaries. Do not have more than one of the same species of British hens in unless it is two Greenfinches, and then keep your eye on them, also on the two cock Goldies. If you see them fussing about with each other, and taking no notice of the other birds, fetch one of them out. If you can get your birds at once and cage them off in pairs, until you turn them out, it will be an advantage. Shall be pleased to assist you further if you require it.

BREEDING IN INDOOR AVIARY (W. O. P.).—I think you propose having rather too many birds in your aviary to have much hope of success. The Bullies, the Greenies, and the Linnet would, of course, pair off together, and I suppose your intention is for one of the Goldies to pair off with the odd Greenfinch hen, and one with the Siskin, and any of them with the Canaries. I think you would do better not to put in the odd hen Greenfinch, as she would only interfere with the other hen, and you would no doubt have them constantly fighting. I also think that possibly one Canary hen would be sufficient, as you will probably have to remove one of the cock Goldies. But if you find they are acting as they should do, you could then run another hen in. (2) Turn the hens in now, and hang the cock birds up in cages close handy, or if the cages are large enough, let them run together in pairs during this month. (3) When the birds are all turned in, and you are anxious for them to go to nest, you had better feed them on a mixture of two parts canary, one of teazle, and one of summer rape, a spoonful of mixed seeds to each bird every other day, and in between a spoonful of a good wild seed mixture. Let them have sunflower every day, and facilities for bathing. Collect plenty of dandelion and other wild food for them, which you can hang up in bunches, removing the stale ones each day. Nest boxes and small wicker cages should be placed in suitable positions, and you should be liberal with nesting material. Go out into the country and collect old nests, moss, rootlets and branches of short grass, wool and cow-hair.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

FOR INDOOR AVIARY (G. Ledge-Sheffield).—If British species, or foreign of similar size, only 5 pairs, but you could put in 9 pairs of the small ornamental Foreign Finches. I will give you three series: (1) Orange-cheek, Gold-breasted, and St. Helena Waxbills, Avadavats, Cordon Bleus, Grey Singing Finches, Bib and Zebra Finches and Silverbills, a pair of each. (2) A pair each of Goldfinches, Bullfinches, Redpolls, Green Singing Finches, Linnets and Bronze Mannikins. (3) A pair each of Long-tailed Grassfinches, Ruficauda and Zebra Finches, Cape Canaries, Silverbills and Bib Finches. You would find "Foreign Birds for Beginners," 1s. 1½d. post free, from our Manager, very helpful in indicating the requirements of the above species.

CONDENSATION IN BIRD-ROOM (E. Turrell).—All outdoor buildings are liable to a greater or lesser degree to sweat during rapid weather changes. The best course is to use sufficient heat so as not to let the temperature fall below a given point, so that in very bad weather only a little extra heating power is needed. You appear to have sufficient ventilation, but probably a louvre ventilator at the highest corner of roof might improve matters, but whenever the temperature is allowed to go really low, and then is suddenly raised by artificial means, condensation is sure to ensue. Once I find it necessary to put on the small stove in my bird lobby, it is kept going day and night till the weather no longer calls for its use, and I regulate the temperature on mild days by ventilation, and I am able to keep the trouble you complain of down to a minimum.

CONSERVATORY SHELTER (C. E. B.).—So long as the atmosphere is not too moist, and you are able to secure adequate ventilation without draught, the occupants of your conservatory should do well—the one thing against a glass house, as a home for birds, is the variability of temperature, but if you can command a little heat so as to keep things as even as possible, the birds should be quite comfortable. When you have got your outside flight up, you will have to be careful that their means of egress and ingress does not create a draught in the inside compartment. I think you will get quite average success by having all your birds together in the aviary. Some of the birds you name are shy breeders, but some will certainly breed; Zebra Finches are pretty, perky little birds, and almost certain breeders. When you put up the flight, make it high enough, if possible, so that when you have to go inside the birds will have a little space in which to fly above your head. I should plant the outside flight with common (broad-leaved) Laurel, Berberis, and Euonymus, also wild clematis and rambler roses; this will make it look picturesque—grass and herbage can grow amid the evergreens. Seed-eaters are great disbudders, and do not give deciduous bushes a chance to live long.

A YOUNG FESTIVE AMAZON (H. R. Titswell).—As a purchaser, you should always ascertain how a bird has been fed, and continue this method for a time, even if it has been wrongly fed; the change to a wholesome dietary should not be a sudden one. Seed mixture: One quart each canary and white millet; one pint each oats, hemp and wheat; half pint each crushed maize, dari, sunflower and shelled nuts—the whole to be well mixed; you can leave out one or two of the smaller seeds if the bird persistently refuses them, but must not allow it to live entirely upon sunflower and hemp. Also supply ripe fruit, any kind it will take, plain biscuit, plain cake, stale crust, and green food; the following must also be continually in the cage, in fact treated as part of the dietary; grit, cuttlebone, water, also pieces of wood. Some Amazons like boiled maize, and if a young bird is thin it should get it daily—for an adult twice weekly will be sufficient—prepare it so, boil till soft, drain off all water, dust with flowers of sulphur, and when cool supply to the bird; it only keeps fresh one day. If your bird is plump and eating heartily of the dry seed mixture, then there is no need to commence giving boiled maize. Water is best given chilled during the winter season. The cage can be placed where it can get light and air and yet be free from draught.

PULLING OUT ITS FEATHERS (W. G. Spear).—You are not troubling, except by not giving sufficient details for us to give you a thoroughly helpful answer; but, from what you do state I fear your bird is quite hopeless; it appears to be quite confirmed in the habit, and when this stage is reached a cure is scarcely ever reached. Your bird is not a Grey Parrot, but a Rose-breasted Cockatoo. I can only say confine its dietary to seed mixture, fruit, nuts, plain biscuits and stale crusts; this should be ample variety, but the following must be continually in the cage: grit, cuttlebone and wood, the latter for it to cut up. Spray the bird twice weekly with warm water containing a little essence of quassia, but guard against a chill till its plumage is dry. Give one teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia in the drinking water twice a week; if the voidings should become watery loose, then only give the magnesia once a week. If the bird gets at all thin owing to the above regime, you had better write again at once, with full details.

BREEDING IN C.P. CAGE (A Beginner).—These cages are usually divided up into three divisions, and you had better leave it so, and put one pair of birds in each division. Cover the domes with curtain muslin, so as to make them fairly secluded, and fix at the top of each a large sized rush nest, and supply hay and moss as building material. Choose your birds from the following: Zebra, Bib, Ribbon and Saffron Finches, White Java Sparrows, Bengalese, Silverbills, and Grey Singing Finches. "Foreign Birds for Beginners," 1s. 1½d. post free from our manager, would help you. Re the outdoor aviary, if this is provided with a shelter or partly roofed in, it will do admirably for Budgerigars, and you could keep three pairs in it. Get Nutshell No. 18, 2½d. post free, from our Manager, and it will tell you just what to do.

BUDGERIGARS (Jelf).—As these birds have come from a warm shop, it would be better if they were kept in a warmer room till the cold weather has passed; but the Budgie is a restless, active bird, and an open wire cage, 9 inches by 16 by 16 inches gives them no chance; their cage should be at least double that size! In addition to Canary and Millet, give them a few oats, also greenfood, or a piece of sweet apple to nibble at, and do not omit grit and cuttlebone. When obtainable free from frost, a small turf, similar to those given to Larks, will be greatly appreciated, and if it be watered from a rose before putting in, the birds will take a bath by rolling in it. Give them a millet spray; this will find them something to do picking them clean. Give them one teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia in the drinking water as often as may be required to keep the bowels moving quite freely, and on other days put half-a-teaspoonful of syrup of phosphates in the drinking water for at least a month. You should get our Nutshell No. 18, 2½d. post free from our Manager, it would help you. A fly round the room would do these birds a world of good.

SOFTBILL IN INDIA (Sindhi).—I have several friends out in India, who do get food ingredients for insectile mixtures, and who successfully keep them, and I think they would help you, but I cannot give their names and addresses in the columns of a public paper. My difficulty is that I do not know what ingredients are procurable in your district: it is a fact that one aviculturist in the Punjab does get mealworms sent out to him from this country, and he gets on fairly well, but has some mishaps occasionally. Another Indian friend, who lived in Calcutta, fed his birds, such as Babblers, Sivas, Mesias, etc., on a mixture of pea meal and refined butter, into which was incorporated every other day a little raw, finely minced liver or kidney, but of course birds must first be meated off mostly with live insects, and must have the stock mixture supplemented by these regularly—fruit also is a valuable addition. Maggots (larvæ of blow flies) are usually procurable in any country; live fresh water shrimps are also favoured by many species. Mr. D. Ezra, of Calcutta, would probably be able to assist you, and also W. Rutledge, a dealer in India, whose address I do not know, possibly he could help you. Sorry I am compelled to be somewhat indefinite.

WILL THEY AGREE? (Bird Man).—I consider your aviary would be fully stocked with pairs each of Rosellas, Cockatiels, Golden-crowned Conures, Black-cheeked Love Birds, and 3 pairs of Budgerigars, and I should anticipate they would agree fairly well together, but one cannot say definitely with Parrakeets, though I do not think you need anticipate trouble. As regards breeding, they should breed, and most of them undoubtedly will, but the Conures for instance may try your patience considerably before attempting to nest. The Bishops will not interfere with the accommodation of the other birds, and I expect they will be gradually killed off by the mischievousness of the Budgerigars.

BUDGERIGAR ILL (K. K.).—If this is case of egg-binding, as appears probable, this answer will, I fear, be too late for you, but if she still lives, try the dry heat treatment (see article in this issue). It is possible that the temperature of the conservatory has been too variable, and also too moist for her. Bring her into a warmish living room, where she will be free from draught, yet have light and air. A temperature of 80 deg. F. would do her no harm for a couple of days, so long as she has air to breathe, and after that gradually "harden her off." Keep the bowels moving freely by an occasional drop of Cde oil, and give her a little syrup of phosphates in the drinking water. As regards diet, canary, white and spray millet, green food, and a few oats will suffice, but grit, cuttlebone and water must be regularly supplied. Should like to hear how the bird progresses.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. G. Yates, M.R.C.V.S., 1, College Road, Harrow, Middlesex, will examine and report upon dead cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to Mr. Yates, with the fee, this and any accompanying letter being kept from contact with the dead bird. Send by letter-post; it is cheaper and quicker than parcel post. Any bodies sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

R. C.—The presence of the lice was favoured by the bird's low condition. It was a chronic case of liver disease, of which there was no hope of remedy. The intestines suffered as the result, with consequent alteration in consistency of evacuations. Pneumonia was also present, accounting for abnormal breathing; the pneumonia was of a septic character, owing to absorption of poisonous products generated in the system. It may have had its origin some time ago in the partaking of poisonous or toxic substances in the food.

Mrs. J. Bairstow.—Death resulted from cerebral apoplexy, following a fit probably induced by fright. The bird was otherwise quite healthy.

O. J. Taylor.—Acute inflammation of the bowels.

F. M. Littledale.—Enteritis. The whole length of the intestine was very inflamed, as though due to the action of an acute irritant poison. I should certainly advise removal of your birds to another room, as it most probably originates from contamination by rats. I can fully endorse your description of the bird, it was certainly the finest specimen of its kind I have yet seen; you have experienced an irreparable loss.

M. Bousfield.—Death resulted from a fit as the result of fright consequent upon transit.

GENERAL.

Answered by THE EDITOR.

F. Hallas.—Your letter is good, but the subject is hardly suitable for our columns.

J. Wadsworth.—Your "argument" is surely a very poor one. If one accepts it, then it must follow that because many human beings suffer from various ailments the human race as a whole is unhappy. We are feeling particularly "chirpy" at the moment, thank you, so this point of view fails to appeal to us.

F. H. Marhoff, W. Towns, W. D. King, T. Akers, and Others.—We have received six or seven letters dealing with visits paid to the Crystal Palace Show, and unfortunately cannot possibly publish them all.

G. Strachan.—A nice letter, but we should prefer one dealing with the practical side of bird-keeping.

Club Notices (A. E. P.).—No charge is made for inserting Club Notices of reasonable length, and we are sending you a parcel of Club Notice cards.

H. Whitney.—We think the questions asked in your letter are somewhat ungenerous ones. What can it matter so long as the awards were correctly made?

W. P.—Your liability is the same as that of any other member, viz., a proportion of the deficit, the latter being divided amongst the whole of the members.

A FEW REPLIES UNAVOIDABLY HELD OVER.

Seeds and Foods for Fanciers.

How a World-renowned Firm Caters Specially for Bird-keepers.

AN OFFER OF HELPFUL HANDBOOKS.

PROBABLY the greatest help that any firm can possibly render the bird-keeper is to study his wishes in the matter of the foods of his birds, and to place before him the exact thing he requires at a reasonable cost consistent with quality. For it must not be forgotten that the wishes of the up-to-date bird-keeper in this matter are also the "wishes" of his birds, as the fancier of to-day not only studies his own birds' likes and dislikes, but is able to profit by the experiences of a wide circle of fellow fanciers freely given in CAGE BIRDS. Thus he knows what his birds want.

In short, the fancier of to-day no longer tolerates the one solitary packet mixture, which not so long ago was sold as being suitable for practically everything in the bird line that could crack a seed. He looks for mixtures varied to suit the needs of the various species of birds. And if he cannot find them, he perforce mixes up his own seeds.

A Real Help.

But there are wide-awake firms, thank goodness, who move with the times, and are out not only to sell to the bird-keeper, but to study the actual needs of the birds also, and so sell him precisely what he wants. This is a tremendous help to all lovers of birds. They are saved the trouble and time incidental to the obtaining of seeds separately; they need never worry as to the quality, or lack of it, of any particular kind; their seed is always perfectly clean and free from dust or must, and sold to them by the cleanest possible method. Above all, they enjoy all these advantages at prices which benefit the pocket.

A World-renowned Firm.

Of all the wide-awake and up-to-date firms who cater for bird-keepers on the lines indicated above, probably the most widely renowned is Messrs. Spratts Patent, Ltd. Their fame is world-wide, and their foods and specialities are to be obtained of every store and seed shop and corn dealer.

Messrs. Spratts not only cater thoroughly and excellently for every kind of bird, but they publish two splendid handbooks crammed with knowledge of the highest value to the owners of birds.

One is entitled "British Bird Culture," and it spages are filled with practical hints on the management of the Goldfinch, Linnet, Hawfinch, and all the popular seed-eaters, the Song Thrush, Blackbird, Skylark, Woodlark, Nightingale, Redstart, and other popular softbills, while there is a chapter on Foreign Birds and one on Doves. Further, instruction is given on Hybrid Breeding and on Colour-feeding and Exhibiting.

The other book is called "The Commonsense of Canary and Hybrid-Canary Culture," and perusal shows it to be well worthy of its title. Every breed of Canary has a chapter devoted to it; the feeding, breeding, and general management are exhaustively dealt with; treatment is advised for ailments and accidents; colour-feeding explained; and Mule breeding helpfully dealt with.

Each handbook has a lovely cover printed in colours. The price of each is sixpence. By arrangement with Messrs. Spratts, however, we are able to offer to send a copy of either to any reader of CAGE BIRDS who forwards three penny stamps to us (address, 154, Fleet St., London), or a sixpenny postal order if both booklets are desired. If only one, state clearly which—British Birds, or Canaries.

Messrs. Spratts Patent Ltd. would be pleased to send price lists and particulars of their foods, etc., to enquirers (address, 24, Fenchurch St., London, E.C.). Mention CAGE BIRDS when writing to them.

Mr. D. Kerr, of Forfar, writes:—We have decided to hold our open show on Nov. 14th. I am going to receive assistance this year, as my work often takes me away from home. It will now be carried on in joint sec. under the names of Kerr and Robertson (13, Green Street).

I was agreeably surprised, on opening CAGE BIRDS of this week, to find my Greenie depicted, the first time shown he won 2nd Portsmouth and Southern Counties C.B.S., and he has taken several honours since. The drawing is a credit to the artist. I thank you for the honour, and wish CAGE BIRDS every success.—O. A. RUSSELL.

Messrs. A. Holden, J. Stewart, J. Robson, G. Brown, and J. F. Dewar have been elected to judge at Newcastle annual open show, Oct. 23 and 24. Will secretaries also note that we have not taken any other society's date, as we always have our show the last but one Friday and Saturday in October.—J. W. Reed.

OBITUARY.

Mr. D. Pearson, Glasgow.

It is my sorrowful duty, writes Mr. W. Proudfoot, sec. and treas., Glasgow West-End C.B.C., to have to inform you of the death of our highly respected honorary president, Douglas Pearson, Esq.; after a short and painful illness he passed away on Friday, Feb. 6, at 8.30 a.m. He has been associated with our club since it was founded in 1910. He was exceedingly popular and took a very active interest in all the doings and welfare of our club, and his valuable assistance and advice will be very sadly missed. I am sure all our office-bearers and fellow-members will extend their most sincere and deepest sympathy to Mrs. Pearson and Master Pearson at this time of their sad bereavement.

I am getting numerous applications for my Cinnamons, writes Mr. Dan Hamilton (Hamilton). I sold this season three 1st prize winning Cinnamons to one man, including both 1st Cinnamon classes at Gateshead, 1st Bradford National. In fact my young yellow cock won for me four 1sts, including City of Glasgow and spl. for best green or cinnamon, 1st Muirkirk, 1st Hamilton, 1st Cowdenbeath, 2nd Arbroath, when I sold him to that prominent English exhibitor, for whom he has won 1st Sale, Bradford National, Gateshead, and 3rd Scottish National, only times shown; not bad for a youngster.

White Moorhen for the Zoo

A white Moorhen was caught alive by a gamekeeper in Stoke Woods, near Exeter, on Feb. 5. The bird has been sent to the Zoo.

The Yorksbire Fancy in Wales.

The South Wales and Monmouth Yorkshire C.C. has now a fairly good list of new members, and Mr. Webster, 6, Upper Park St., Llanelly, hon. sec., a native of Yorkshire, who has been located in South Wales some years, and practically the introducer of the club, desires all fanciers in South Wales and Monmouth and district, who are interested in Yorkshires, to join the Club. Already the Club has made itself felt, and the increase in high-class Yorkshires is very noticeable.

Birkenhead Canary F.A.

In the report of the Birkenhead Canary Fanciers' Show, writes Mr. G. Morton, I omitted to mention that the handsome eight-day clock presented by Mr. W. Cooper for most points Novice, was won by Mr. J. Walton, Mr. Browse being runner up. Special for best Yorks, presented by Mr. T. Edwards, and sp. best Nor. Buff, presented by Mr. N. Jones, were both won by Mr. J. Stott, sp. for best Norwich Yellow, presented by Mr. E. R. Gayland, by Mr. W. Howlett.

New Society for Port Glasgow and Distric

A meeting was held in the Co-operative Halls, Port Glasgow, Jan. 7, for the purpose of forming a Cage Bird Club. There were something like 30 members to make a start, mostly young members just starting in the hobby, and with well known and trained fanciers behind them. The club is to be called the Port Glasgow and District O.S. The following office bearers were elected:—Pres., D. Black; vice pres., S. McKay, J. McGarrie; sec., T. Adair; treas., J. McGaw; committee, Messrs. Boyle, F. M. Montgomery, Gemmil, W. Montgomery, Wilson, J. Montgomery, London, W. Montgomery. Next meeting will be held Jan. 28, 7.30, in abovenamed halls, and we shall be glad to welcome any other fanciers who would like to become members.—W. J. Forrester, assist. sec.

Preston Forging Ahead.

Preston O.S. seem to be blessed with a very energetic secretary in Mr. W. H. Cottam. The society had a very nice balance in hand on last year's working and excellent prizes are being provided for every monthly meeting during the year.

"Our Canaries."

"Our Canaries" trebles your chance of profit from breeding and rearing Canaries, writes Mr. C. W. Knowles, Blyth. I have learned more from "Our Canaries" than from any other book about bird-keeping. It is certainly the best book going. In this largest book on Canaries novices will get their best money's worth.

Young Blackbirds in Scotland.

A friend of mine while out visiting Mr. McPhait (Liberton) was astonished to see a Blackbird's nest containing young ones, writes Mr. George Brown, of Leith. No doubt this is due to the very mild weather we have had since the year came in, and especially for this part of Scotland. We think it is a record.

The Roberts Cup Points.

Kindly mention, writes Mr. J. Tyson, sec. of the Crested Canary Club, that the points in the Roberts cup competition for 1913 resulted as follows: Messrs. Evins Bros. 169, Mr. F. G. Bale 110, Mr. A. J. Smith 68, Mr. T. J. King 61. This is the third time in succession that Messrs. Evins Bros. have won it with most points.

A Wail from Aintree.

The committee have decided to wind up Aintree and Dis. Society owing to the meagre support given to them in their efforts by the members. Members shows, lectures, rambles, and other interesting events have all alike been failures, so that it is considered unwise to continue further for the present, until more enthusiasm is shown by the cage bird fanciers in this district and an honest desire for a society to further promote their interests.—J. A. Anderson, hon. sec.

Mr. Fred Hammond's Impending Retirement from the Fancy.

Mr. Fred Hammond (Bradford) writes:—I am indeed pleased to hear from Mr. Hill that it is the present intention of Mrs. Carl and yourself to be present at our annual gathering on March 7, and I sincerely trust nothing will intervene to cause you to alter your arrangements. Much as I regret it, I am compelled by circumstances to regard that date as my retirement from the Fancy, at any rate, so far as any official connection is concerned. I am detained at business so much owing to the enormous increase of business between the United States and this country, that it is seldom I can spend any time with my birds, and, moreover, my duties being of a somewhat exacting nature you will readily understand, I am sure, how great a task it seems to be to commence again with clerical work when I get home. I must say, however, that I trust my severance from a hobby which has given me so much genuine pleasure will be only temporary, and with all due regard to good trade I am hoping that things will "ease off" a bit before very long. One can have too much even of a good thing."

[All who know Mr. Hammond and his many good qualities as a fancier will join with us in hoping that his retirement will be (as he himself wishes) of a temporary nature. —Editor, "C.B."]

"Please thank all who replied to my advt., I had so many replies I could not answer all." W. LIDGETT (Newark).

"I have had a good sale with my advertisement of canaries. Have sent them all over England."—NELLY THOMAS.

"Please thank the numerous applicants for my Grey African Parrot, which was sold to a lady at Cheltenham. CAGE BIRDS must have a record circulation, judging from replies received."—H. SMITH (Connah's Quay).

Shows Clashing in Wales.

We are very sorry to see Upper Rhondda clash with us, seeing that our date had been out in your columns a fortnight before their date appeared. I would like to bring this to their notice.—F. Sweeting, hon. sec., Abersychan C.B.S.

A New Society for Sutton, Surrey.

A society has been formed in Sutton, District Fanciers' Society. The radius is to be ten miles. The society will cater for poultry, pigeons, rabbits, and cage bird fanciers, and the committee will be pleased to welcome any fancier who would like to join. The committee think there is a good opening for a society in the district, and will do their best to make it go with a bang. Fanciers should send along their names to the hon. secretary, Mr. Brown, The Bungalow, Lee Place, Sutton. He will be pleased to answer enquiries. Next meeting at the Station Hotel on Feb. 16th at 8.30 p.m. sharp, when it is hoped there will be a large attendance. Annual subscription 2s. 6d., entry fee to those joining during 1914.—G. W. SAUNDERS.

GOSSIP FROM THE PALACE SHOW.

Putting the Spots on.

Another fair visitor looking at the Jazards with a companion was heard to say: "I wonder how they put the spots on? How exceedingly clever."

The Manager's Smile.

In spite of the anxiety and worry incidental to running a big show, Mr. Ramsden was in a particularly good humour on the closing day. We happened to buttonhole him just as that £35 Crest was claimed, and his smile was quite angelic.

All Alive Oh!

The remarks made by the fair sex who are not related to fanciers were very interesting. For instance, one observed to a companion, "The birds are all alive, aren't they?" We wonder if she expected to find a few dead ones!

The Old Love.

During the show we met many old-time fanciers. Although they have left the Fancy (some of them for many years), they still have a lingering fondness for the birdies, and do the Palace regularly, year after year.

Aged Workers.

We heard that every man on the staff, both in the office and in attendance on the birds, was over 70 years of age. What price being too old at 40? No one could possibly have done the work better or more conscientiously.

Will They Take On?

We heard many enquiries for pairs of Green Borders for stock purposes. The Norwich and Yorkshire Greens are almost an unknown quantity down south, but if the Borders lead the way, perhaps the others will follow. Who knows?

Very Sporting.

One of the exhibitors in the Frilled Canary class came all the way from Paris with his birds. We are afraid he had rather a dull time, as so few fanciers were able to converse with him. We thought it very sporty of him to visit the Great National show.

Sensational Novice Norwich.

Although the champion Norwich received their due share of notice, we honestly believe the novice birds were one of the sensations of the show. Some of the leaders were so good that they would have made many of the champions "sit up" had they been beside them.

Why do they do it?

Perhaps the greatest puzzle to the outside visitors is the interest taken in the Hybrids. Why anyone should want to pair together and breed with different species is quite beyond them. One actually went so far as to say that it must be cruel, and should be put a stop to!

Still on Top.

It may interest British Bird exhibitors to hear that the winning Hawfinch was at the top of his class at the last Palace Show in the novice section. He then belonged to Mr. Oliver, of East Ham. He was claimed at the last Horticultural Hall Show. We hear Mr. O. has another good one in the making.

What was the Brand?

All day on Monday the friends of a certain well-known Crest fancier (who shall be nameless) were going about with long faces, and voices full of sympathy. Their particular pal had had his watch and valuables stolen at a certain hotel. The said watch was found on the Tuesday in his overcoat pocket. Now unkind people are advising him to change the brand he particularly patronises.

Canterbury Pilgrims.

A small party of keen fanciers came up from the Cathedral city on the Monday. Among them was the Rev. Sales, who won the almost historic special at Canterbury show, for doing which he received no end of chaff. The brewers, however, were sporty enough to send him the cash instead of the barrel of ale. He told us that this is gradually finding its way into the tills of the seed merchants.

Not Out in the Cold.

While the L.C.B.A. and other societies were enjoying their dinner on Monday night at Frascati's Restaurant, Mr. Ramsden's staff of feeders and attendants were enjoying their supper in the Palace show, an enthusiastic fancier (Mr. Pearce) having sent them a huge pork pie! This is an annual custom, Mr. Pearce having sent a pie for the workers at the National Show for some years past. Although three of the "old stagers" on the staff are 70 years of age, they ate the pie like two-year-olds!

How it was Done.

The judging for CAGE BIRDS big prizes was particularly interesting. The best bird from each section was brought up, and the whole of them made into a class. The judges then handed in a slip, and the points were totted up, the bird gaining the most being the winner. In this champion section Mr. Smith's clear body dark Crest came out an easy winner with 23 points, the runner-up being Mrs. Middleton's Chaffinch-Greenfinch Hybrid with 16 points. In the novice section the Hybrids turned the tables on the Crest. Mr. Levick's four-pointed Goldie-Canary just getting home in front of Mr. Hawkes' Green Crest, the actual points scored being 27, and 25 respectively. In the final Mr. Smith's grand Crest carried too much weight, for Mr. Levick's charming Hybrid, and "knocked him out," thus winning the 10-guinea cup.

"R.P." CANARIES.

Object Lesson in the Strange Virtues of Pepper.

Salt has the place of honour in poetic vocabulary, and mustard is made into plasters: but pepper is one of the least dignified of our condiments. It had, however, its great revenge to-day, not in a restaurant, but at a bird show.

At the Crystal Palace, where the song of multitudinous Canaries falls like a cascade of silver music from unseen height, the symphony of colour is almost as great as the symphony of sound.

Golden as buttercups, saffron like crocuses; yellow, with harmonies of red and brown hidden under it. But everywhere on the catalogue opposite the numbers of these glowing, singing little prodigies were the initials "R.P."

A reference to the first page shows that "R.P." means Ramsden's Pure Pepper, that the birds have been fed on pepper, and that the lovely colours of the feathers are due to the uses of this condiment when they are moulting.

One of the judges told an "Evening News" representative that the exhibitor who first discovered by accident that pepper coloured the feathers had a high time, winning prizes all over the country, but gave an infinite amount of trouble to those who were convinced that such tints were the result of fraudulent painting.—London "Evening News," February 6th.

MODERN CRESTS AND CRESTBREDS FOR THE NOVICE.

By THOMAS LANE (Barnstable.)

A FEW remarks on the above variety may interest the novice, who, like myself, when I began breeding them, will probably be very eager to know how to produce the noble Crests and Crestbreds to be seen on the show benches today. I say noble since to my way of thinking there is no variety in the Canary Fancy which commands more respect and attention from visitors and fanciers alike when exhibited at our leading shows.

What looks more charming than a well-matched pair of Crests staged in the pair class! Look at the winning pair! Note the clear body and dark crest of the cock! It is of good size, round and drooping, densely packed, and with a neat centre. His crest feather is not quite so leafy as we could wish, perhaps, but still he is good enough and, as the local historian would say, is a perfect dandy.

Now note the Green Crestbred hen chosen as his mate. How refined and lady-like she looks in the show cage. Her spouse, although himself a "knut," does not approve of her being a "flapper." You will notice she has a nice round head—the head feather is dense and long, and very wide besides being somewhat veiny in character.

This denotes plenty of good blood a valuable asset to the Crest breeder who wishes to produce feather of good texture. Both birds, it will be seen, have good Bullfinch type bodies—a point I value highly, especially in the hens (see drawing). I do not care for the Lancashire type of body that turns up sometimes even in the best strains. However, I would not discard a bird with this failing provided it possessed a good large head of the correct shape. The chief point of the Crests and Crestbreds is the head. Naturally, it follows that the body is of secondary consideration only, but a good head and a good body make a combination that the novice should strive to attain.

An Interesting Question.

We will now pass on to an interesting question. Can a working-man—a beginner with a limited purse—become a successful breeder and exhibitor of the Crestbred Canary? I say "Yes," emphatically. It has been said that the Crested Canary is a working-man's luxury. Personally I have not found it more expensive than any other variety of the Fancy. The show birds cost a lot of money, but so do show specimens of other varieties. I read in CAGE BIRDS than a fancier refused £18 for a Norwich cock, and that a pair of Scotch Fancies were priced at £100! Novices will see, therefore, that tip-top specimens of any variety have to be paid for. Good birds are scarce—hence the high price. But these large figures should not dishearten the beginner. He should plod on and he will certainly meet with success. Let your motto be that of the Caistor heroes, one of whom when asked if they had returned without effecting a rescue, replied, "Caistor life-boatmen never turn back." This is a sound motto, and should be adopted by all.

My Own Experience.

Now for my own experience. It is now nearly ten years since I started breeding the Crested Canary; the value of my stock at that time would have made most fanciers smile. However, they bred me a good number of youngsters, and, encouraged by this, I sold them out. With the proceeds I bought a couple of good stock birds. From their matings I obtained several birds quite equal to their parents; but, of course, not show birds. Having selected the best, I sold out the remainder and purchased a couple of stock birds from a well-known breeder. The following season I again bought some very nice birds.

About this time I found my stock was greatly improving, equally as regards size, quality, and feather. Among the youngsters was a very fine clear buff Crestbred hen, a great favourite of mine, which used to ride around the room on my finger, and which we named "Buffy." This hen won for me 1st and special at Exeter in the novice class.

This was a great day for me. My first success. Which of my readers who has had a like experience will ever forget it? It ranks (if you are a married man) next to your wedding day. Well, my next venture was to try her at our Barnstaple Show. Here she won the 2nd prize in the open hen class. The following season, not being in a position just then to buy a £15 show bird to pair her with I did the next best thing—I paired her to the best stock bird I had, viz., a Green Crested cock, and her own half-brother.

From this I produced some grand stock which included a couple of show birds.

THE SENSATION OF THE PALACE SHOW.

Mr. A. J. Smith's clear body dark Crest, winner of "Cage Birds" £10 10s. Championship Trophy, £10 10s. cash champion prize, the L. and P.O.S. challenge cup, and many other valuable specials. Photographed in its show-cage by the Topical Press Agency.

One, a fine Crested hen, I kept at home; the other turned out to be my champion Green Crestbred hen, 1st and special at Plymouth, 1st at Barnstaple. This hen was considered by many fanciers who saw her to be one of the most typical hens living.

I had many tempting offers for these hens which ran into many pounds, but I did not part with them. Unfortunately, I lost them both in the second breeding season of their career. I attribute this to the fact that I let them stay on the nest, with the result that during the hot weather their heavy body feather caused them to get hot and faint. I would here advise the tyro if he has a pair or more of good Crests to put their eggs under common feeders, and to let the hens have a good fly in the flight. This for about a week or ten days during the hot weather. By so doing they will be kept in better condition and there will be a larger chance of your getting fertile eggs. During the first round in April they may be left to sit on dummies, as the heat then is not intense.

But to continue my story—I felt keenly the loss of these two hens. Such a misfortune would have caused many young beginners to give in. But I was not of that mind. I decided there and then that I would do my very utmost to replace them, not by purchase, but by breeding. I had several of their brothers and sisters and cousins to go on with. By systematic breeding I have again produced several show birds which won in very good competitions during the last two seasons. This season I hope to do better still. Having introduced fresh blood from two well-known breeders I am trusting my luck to be, so to speak, "in at the kill." But remember, a high position cannot be maintained unless you go in for real hard work, i.e., systematic breeding. After you have worked your stock up sufficiently in value you may, of course, purchase a big winner from the proceeds of your sales, but bear in mind that there is more honour in winning 2nd and 3rd prizes with birds you have bred yourself than in all the "glibh and spatter" that may acclaim your acquired champion. So, having given you a brief insight into my own experiences on the working-up of stock I think I have given sufficient proof that the Crested Canary is within the reach of all, ranging as it does from 10s. to £20 the pair. I began with a 10s. pair and have never regretted it.

The Bird Room.

We will suppose (the novice having decided to enter the Fancy) that he has a suitable bird-room. I would recommend him, if he has the room entirely at his disposal, to fit it up exclusively for the breeding and exhibition of his pets. It should be light and airy, i.e., well ventilated, free from draughts, and should, if possible, have a southern aspect. This, however, is not absolutely necessary. Many fanciers prefer their rooms to face north or north-east — any direction, in short, provided it be out of the sun. For my own part I prefer the first-mentioned aspect. My own bird-room looks toward the south-west, and I find this admirable in every way. It is a great pleasure to me to see my birds sunning themselves on a bright spring day. Some will be down on one side and expand a wing, while others sit on the cross-rail near the pot-hole after having enjoyed a good ducking. By this I mean a wash in the drinker, after indulging in which they finish themselves off with a sun bath.

Now, the latter is good for them. We humans revel in the sun at the sea-side and in the country why not the birds also? I do not, of course, mean that the sun should be permitted to blaze upon them all day, but that an hour or so in the spring time on a suitable day will do them no harm. On the contrary, it will do them much good, and will "warm the cockles of their hearts."

The Rack and Cages.

Our attention next must be devoted to the rack and cages. Let us take the rack first. My own is made with four uprights 1½in. square and 6ft. high. The cross-bars to rest the cages on are composed of roof battens let into the supports at intervals of 20ins. My rack is made to hold four tiers of cages. The rack may be made any length according to the size of your room and the distance between the cross-bars to suit the height of your cages (I will give drawing). I recommend fanciers to raise their first tier of cages 1ft. or 1ft. 6ins. from the floor. By doing so floor draughts, a deadly enemy to valuable stock, are avoided. You will be surprised in all probability on putting your hand on the floor to feel a current of air coming goodness knows whence. I think it is often due to the window and door being in a direct line. To avoid this as much as possible I suggest the hanging up of a curtain either inside or outside the doorway. This simple precaution will greatly minimise the chance of your stock taking cold. In my own bird-room I have found this plan quite satisfactory. Touching the cages, I like to have them as large as possible. Some fanciers seem afraid to give their birds any head-room. It stands to reason that if we wish to keep our birds in good condition we must give them ample space for exercise.

Illustrated Ideas

Every "Illustrated Idea" used in this column will entitle the sender thereof to a postal order for two shillings and sixpence.

No. 635.
Sent by George Warrillon, 42, Furnace Road, Normacott, Stoke-on-Trent.

Herewith I send you a sketch of a cheap and novel heater for a small bird room. It consists of 6½d. paraffin lamp, and two pieces of tin: the first piece I cut out top and bottom as shown, which allows air, and prevents smell when encircling the lamp: the other piece is simply placed on top. My outside room is 7ft. by 5, and 9ft. high, and when I have the lamp in use it keeps the room at 50 degs. in the worst of weather. I hope that this may be of some use to you.

No. 636.
A Self-closing Door.
Sent by A. W. Howarth, 57, Calvert Road, Attercliffe, Sheffield.

The sketch shows my method of preventing the flight cage door from being left open. To make the spring, procure a piece of 6-strand twisted wire, about one foot long, and bend as in Fig. 1. Then fasten to door and upright, as in Fig. 2 at A, the small marks across spring show position of staples. The catches at B prevent door being forced inside the cage by the spring.

Why Some Norwich Plainhead Canary Breeders Fail.

A FEW "STRAIGHT TIPS" BY Mr. E. W. ALLSOPP (Cardiff).

SOMEHOW the Editor has formed the opinion that I could say a good deal more upon the ever interesting subject of Norwich Plainheads than I have hitherto accomplished, and particularly in the direction of the why and wherefore of my own successes and failings, and also perhaps where other breeders fail in their desires and results. Candidly, I cannot attribute my own fair measure of success to any specific rule, method, or procedure, for I realise that after all the happy result is merely due to a conglomeration of fortunate circumstances and perhaps accomplishments, and these when well balanced cannot but end in success.

Were it possible to hand any fortunate fancier to an analytical chemist for his close attention, he would find him as a whole a wonderful collection of many virtues. Patience, perseverance, grit, tact, generosity, and sympathy are a few readily isolated, whilst the right temperament must not be forgotten.

How the Wife Helps.

Environment and employment must also not be overlooked, as each plays a prominent part, particularly the former. I cannot imagine any common sphere in life which need prevent one enjoying the hobby to the full, but nevertheless, how can a would-be fancier do so, when it so happens that his good wife is not in harmony with his doings? Such a one may unfortunately only enjoy a lesser degree of success and happiness, because the helping hands, intelligent interest, encouragement and sympathy are absent, and his career is therefore usually short and without lasting lustre.

Employment I regard in a very large measure as only a bogie in the part it plays in the Fancy generally. Some failures say, "Oh, yes, I could do as well if I had a nice clean job, and did not go work before nine o'clock like Mr. So-and-So. Look at the spare time he has to devote to his birds, to say nothing of his screw!" Well, "Fiddlesticks!" is my reply to such critics. Allow me to tell you, as an individual who entered the Fancy with little more of this world's goods, than when I entered the world, without a shirt to my back, and moreover worked for some years from 6 a.m. till 5.30 p.m., and oftentime later, at hard, dirty, greasy employment, too, just like other fanciers are doing to-day, that there is nothing in what you say.

Employment No Excuse.

If you want a little more upon this point, well, I know a very successful fancier who is a sweep, and we have also a few in Wales who are coal miners. In the summer months you may see them having a scrub in the tub every day as you wander through the mining districts. If your employment is no worse than those, don't put employment forward as an excuse for failure, for if your hours, either by day or by night (I have worked both) are fairly regular, and you have been in a position to rely upon some little help, it is indeed a lame excuse, which won't help you over the style. Take it from me that if there was anything in it, I should know something about it, as of late years my employment has been very clean, and does not commence until the streets are aired, not to mention a more handsome screw, but in spite of having experienced both sides of the picture, I cannot admit that I am the more happy, or more successful in the Fancy now, as compared with formerly, at least in proportion, seeing that apparently I have now such extraordinary advantages at my disposal, according to these critics.

Mere success upon the show bench is no criterion that the owner is a successful fancier, for after all he may only be a successful exhibitor, happy in the possession of a grand team purchased, and I do not begrudge him any of the pleasure he may experience, but measured with the happiness of the successful fancier, who finds pleasure in all his doings in the Fancy, he is found sadly wanting. Necessary as I admit such exhibitors are in the best interests of the Fancy, how fleeting their pleasures are may be noted in their comparatively short careers.

Nor is the successful fancier indicated by the magnitude of his stud and breeding results, for presently I will endeavour to prove that such a condition of affairs may mitigate against success.

These remarks will apply to the Fancy generally, and I may now proceed to probe matters affecting my own particular branch of the Fancy, i.e., Norwich Plainheads, and endeavour to trace predisposing causes of failure generally.

In many instances, I unhesitatingly declare that failure is due solely to the fancier having "bitten off more than he can chew," to put it vulgarly, but nevertheless to the point. Somehow the beginner gains the impression that if he is going to produce Plainheads of the first water, he must have 10 or 12 or perhaps even 20 pairs of stock, his idea being, I suppose, that the more he can breed, the better his chances. Never was there a greater mistake than this. I ought to know, for I find that during any one of the 11 years I have been a breeder, eight hens upon two occasions have been the limit, and 49 and 17 youngsters my highest and lowest breeding results. Without any boasting, I think that with the exception of the first four years I can honestly claim to be a consistently successful breeder and exhibitor, so mere numbers of stock and number of youngsters bred is not the secret here. No, a comparatively small stud and annual crop is really a dominant factor to the happy result. Modest though both have been I can assure you that they have been as much as I could properly manage, but more upon this point later.

Careful Mating is the Secret.

To the careful mating of stock I attribute the greater part of my success, yet how many breeders ponder over this important matter as they ought? What it really means where 20 pairs are retained I cannot say, but it is quite a problem to tackle six cocks and eight hens, and possibly six youngsters which you have retained to succeed some of your old stock. If you have a thought that I am overdoing it, just set down on paper a phantom stock as the foregoing, some of which you have been breeding with for three, four, or possibly five years, with the consequent result that some of the stock are more or less blood relations. Try the possible number of matings that can be accomplished for a start. Do not forget you have only about 10 cocks and 10 hens from which you require say six cocks and eight hens, and all have some redeeming feature, not to be cast aside lightly.

Get a Stock Book.

If it will assist you, I suggest that you have in your mind and in stud books useful data at your service. If you can settle the matter to your entire satisfaction and confidence within a week, and the results justify your mating, then I congratulate you, for it is a matter never really settled with myself, for though I ultimately pair my stock each season, my thoughts are "What stock shall I require for the next?" In this respect the Plainhead breeder must emulate the chess, draughts, and billiards player, who is not so much concerned with the moment, as with his position a few moves or strokes ahead. Hence the pairing of my stock is a perpetual happy thought, which if definitely ended with any rule of thumb would destroy the main charm in the whole art of Plainhead breeding.

Really when you settle down to seriously turn over in your mind the comparatively inexperienced working breeder tackling 20 pairs and their progeny each season, and remembering the number and importance of the show points required in a representative specimen of the breed, all of which have to be carefully picked up, constantly tended and improved upon, can it be wondered at that no progress is made, and mainly because of what? Haphazard breeding, which I stoutly maintain must be so in a vast majority of cases. Were it not so, then how is it that with the low number of pairs managed by some breeders who consistently produce two, three, or more youngsters of exceptional merit during the season, the breeders with their twenty pairs or more, and a correspondingly larger number of youngsters, do not sweep the classes, as they evidently should do, were I not correct.

The Evils of Overcrowding

Then you want to regard the housing and management of twenty pairs and their youngsters, say 120 birds in all, at the close of the breeding season. What do we find? In the case of the average fancier, three, four, or even more birds are crowded into single breeding cages. These are the promising ones, plucked, dirty, and dishevelled in some instances. In a flight cage or two you may find a collection of youngsters which the breeder in his wisdom dubs the "wasters." Still, with hard work and spare time ungrudgingly thrown in, there appears to be no great neglect. "A bit crowded at present," he says, "but I will weed some out after the moult," and so in a majority of cases the training of the youngsters is not carried out systematically. Time will not permit. The bath cages are hung on at spasmodic intervals, if at all, and to cut an old, old story short, it means that in the end the best youngsters are to be found in the wastrels' cage, too wild to look at where they are, whilst the sight of a show cage fills them with terror. A number of deaths are sadly recorded, and attributed to the laying moult, and altogether what should have been a happy time has been a very worrying experience. A lot of youngsters if it is true may be on view, which, however, are a burden instead of a delight, and are ultimately cleared in the main to a dealer.

To those who have not more spare time than I (and if you listen to some folks I have a good deal), I earnestly say, limit your stud to about six pairs. To manage these and their youngsters, say thirty, or a total of forty-two birds, you will want something larger than the average bathroom for your bird room, and if the youngsters immediately they can peck are paired off two per cage, and the latter not less than twenty-four inches in length, you need not be apprehensive as to plucking. With the bath cages hung on daily from the start, you will be delighted to witness the daily ablutions. Don't be too hasty to sort out the wasters, but train them all from their infancy to run freely and fearlessly in and out of the show cage.

Some Hints for Novices in Canary Breeding.

By O. E. BROOKS.

In whatever variety you decide to have, take particular care to procure birds approaching nearest to the ideal. Good birds are no more expensive to keep than bad ones, and the progeny of the former are likely to be of far greater value, and to repay the breeder for his trouble.

It is useless to procure even first-class birds and expect them to produce good offspring unless they are correctly paired, or rather, matched. Never attempt to breed with two birds each possessing the same conspicuous fault, say, for instance, crossed wings or small in size, as they are certain to reproduce the faults in their offspring. Perfect birds need not necessarily be sought after when purchasing, but it is folly to expect to get good ones from really bad ones.

Don't suddenly start feeding on a very stimulating diet, but do so gradually, or you stand a good chance of seeing your birds drop into moult. I place great faith in gold of pleasure and maw seed for this purpose, and would caution against over-feeding on egg food.

Green food, such as young dandelion leaves and watercress, is also very useful at this period, and niger seed, especially for the hens. Don't be in a hurry, you will usually find that the cocks are slower in coming into condition than the hens, therefore it is wise to pay slightly more attention to bringing them forward.

Managed by Nature.

With birds that are in perfect health, the matter of coming into condition is very easily managed by Nature herself, and they will not as a rule require much urging from the breeder, and are all the better for not being over-fed.

When the cock is singing loudly and the hen hopping restlessly from perch to perch, calling to him, you will not go far wrong if you pair them up, this is providing, of course, that the weather is fairly mild.

The usual formula of removing the first three eggs, I do not think can be easily improved upon, and the taking away of the cock bird, after the hen has begun to sit, has always resulted satisfactorily with me.

Let the hen bath occasionally during incubation, and, whilst on the topic, I might mention that, in the case of buff hens, which soon get very dirty, I make a practice of washing them thoroughly; this, I find, is one way of keeping down and preventing their being troubled with red-mite during incubation.

Invaluable Nestpans.

I always use glazed china (not earthenware) nest pans and the felt linings, and very little nesting material. These china nest pans are invaluable, as they are so easily cleaned, and afford no harbour for insect pests. I have heard it stated that they are too cold; but I have never known this to be of any consequence and for the purpose china is certainly superior to any other material.

As regards after the young are hatched, the best advice I can offer is, do not interfere more than is absolutely necessary. Feed the hen well, and, of course, keep your eye on her in order to see that she does not neglect her maternal duties, but do not allow yourself to be tempted to linger the nest too often, or you will most likely scare the hen, and then good bye to all hopes of the young being properly reared.

As soon as the young birds have left the nest, and are looking after their own feeding arrangements, I take them right away from the old birds and put them in as big a cage as I have by me.

BIRD-ROOM APPLIANCES EXPLAINED.

By H. NORMAN (Carshalton.)

THE cult of the Canary is fortunately carried on without any extraordinary expenses in the way of appliances. Given a suitable room no one need despair of furnishing it in a manner that will enable him to compete on equal terms with the man whose pockets are well lined. Since I commenced the hobby the needs of the Fancy have been looked to by several enterprising makers from whom everything can be obtained at quite a reasonable figure. The time has long passed when one was obliged to construct his own cage and seed-hopper, or make use of one that was quite unsuitable for Canary breeding on anything but the most limited scale.

Now we can purchase cages of uniform dimensions, so that one's bird-room has an orderly appearance that was quite unusual in the old days, not that one wants to be painfully orderly and regular in the bird-room, but cages stacked with some degree of regularity give a workmanlike look to a room that appeals to the orderly instincts of the visitor. I propose in the following article to review the different appliances made use of in the breeding-room, and point out their uses, advantages, and disadvantages, so that novices and new friends in the Fancy may be able to make a choice under some degree of guidance.

Anything Will Not Do.

I once knew a fancier who considered that "Anything would do for a cage," and carried out his doctrine by breeding in sugar and soap boxes with chicken wire fronts of a style that was almost painful to look at. Fortunately for cage makers the generality of fanciers do not think or act this way, they recognise that their hobby is to be one of pleasure, and that anything will not do.

Up in the north the open wire cage is still used for breeding purposes among some of the admirers of the Scotch Fancy Canaries, but in the generality of breeding-rooms the cages with wooden top, back, bottom and sides called the box pattern, are mostly favoured.

We will first consider the single-breeder, this is a cage generally measuring eighteen inches by fourteen, by nine wide, in some cases the width is extended to ten or eleven inches, which, of course, allows more room for the birds and keeps the nest a couple of inches further from the front, thus affording a little more privacy to the sitting hen; to some shy birds this is a serious consideration and one not to be overlooked.

The fittings of the single-breeder consist of a wire front with a door in the centre, a seed box and water glass, at opposite ends, an earthenware egg-drawer, and of course a nest pan. Some cages are made with an extra piece of wood running along the top where the front bars are fixed (as illustrated in Fig. 1); others do not possess this, the bars running right to the top, and fixing to the single width of top board. Although the former has a neat and rather improved appearance, it unfortunately possesses the disadvantage of making another hiding-place for insects.

The question of draw-board (Fig. 2) or turn-rail (Fig. 3) is one that has been much discussed, and there are divided opinions about the matter. The draw-board fits into the bottom of the cage, and when cleaning out time arrives it is supposed to take out with it all the bird's excreta, etc., which has accumulated since the last cleaning out. If these draw-boards are made with a good rim of wood all round they leave very little behind, unless the birds have been unusually active and scattered the sawdust or sand into the corners and against the sides.

An Advantage and a Disadvantage.

The draw-board has another distinct advantage and also a disadvantage. The advantage is, and it is a rather important one, especially where many birds are kept, that it can be removed and occasionally thoroughly scrubbed, dried, and returned, sweetened and made once more as good as new. The disadvantage is that it will frequently stick; and in one's efforts to get it out, one disturbs the sitting hen or a nest of promising youngsters.

The turn-rail is simply a piece of wood (as shown in Fig. 3) that fits in, in place of the draw-board, and is retained in position by means of wire fasteners. When this is opened outwards one is able to scrape the bottom and remove all the rubbish, without disturbing the birds for if they have been used to it from babyhood they take not the slightest notice. The disadvantage is that one is unable to thoroughly clean the bottom except by scraping, and to replenish the floor covering one has to insert the hand into the cage, but this latter objection to the rail is not very serious, as if done gently the birds are not disturbed.

Whether one uses a draw-board or turn-rail, a thoroughly strong well-made scraper is necessary, either made entirely of iron or with an iron scraper and wooden handle (Fig. 4). As a rule the shop-made article is hardly strong enough, but a blacksmith, or even a cycle-maker, would soon put one together for a few pence that would last a lifetime.

Of the double-breeder (Fig. 5) there are many patterns and sizes. It undoubtedly is one of the most useful cages that we have. It can be used either for two breeding hens or a single pair, and the extra compartment may be used to shut off the cock bird when his attentions are not required, or it can be made into a nursery for the young birds as soon as they leave the nest, the cock bird feeding them through the wire partition, while his partner is busy constructing another home.

The one we have depicted is mostly used for this purpose. It will be seen that the compartments are not of equal size. The smaller is for the young, who do nothing but sit on the perch nearest the partition, receive food from the parents, and sleep, until they are weaned, when they require more exercise, and are moved to a larger cage or flight. It will be noticed also that this cage possesses two draw-boards or turn-rails, to enable the fancier to clean out each compartment separately; although we have seen some of these double-breeders made with a single draw-board we do not think they are to be recommended.

The cages made with the compartments of equal size are frequently used as flights after the breeding season and are exceedingly useful for that purpose. Fanciers who go in for the fascinating pursuit of breeding Hybrids will find the one first described the more useful, the smaller compartment being used as a home for the Finch, either when he is quarrelsome with the hen, or when she is about to lay or is incubating.

The Larger Kinds of Cages

In addition to these, there are several other cages which are built on somewhat similar lines, such as the flight cages and the three-compartment one. This latter is generally made with the centre compartment somewhat smaller than those at the sides; it is certainly a very useful cage for running a Finch or Canary with two hens, as he can easily be shut off from either, wire or wooden partitions being run in as required. The only objection to this form of cage is that it is somewhat cumbersome, and takes up rather more room than the ordinary Fancier can spare, the smaller cages fitting into odd nooks are more freely used.

Some Sound Advice for Keepers of Bullfinches.

By F. W. STOWE.

PERMIT me to try to give the inexperienced Bullfinch keeper a little good sound advice. The Bullfinch is my favourite. For many years I have studied the Bullfinch at large and in captivity, and I must candidly admit he is not the easiest of the Finch tribe to catch or get on seed. Now my object in writing this is to teach the novice to buy from the catcher, to get on seed, and to select specimens for exhibition, with a few notes on catching.

To buy your Bullfinches direct from the catcher is a main point to be studied. And I strongly impress on the minds of buyers never to buy Bullfinches till the end of September. You may ask why? The reason is this; In August and September the birds are feeding on the blackberry and honeysuckle; these are nature's colour agents. By the end of September the birds have nearly finished moulting, therefore right through the moult they have been colour-feeding themselves.

Compare a field-moulted specimen with a house-moulted one, which is the finest all round? The field-moulted one, of course. I am fully aware sometimes a fine house-moulted one is the best in colour, and there is a reason for this. The Bullfinch is a late breeder, and nests can be found in August and September. These late youngsters never moult so bright, for by the time they start moulting the colour agents are nearly all gone. What can Bullfinch do for good food—a food to equal the blackberry? There is none; so he feeds on docks, ash-keys, and hedgeside weeds. There is no colour agent in them, so he remains a dull bird till next moult.

How to Successfully Manage Them.

Suppose you have just bought a fine cock Bullfinch at the end of September direct from the catcher's nets. Place him in the store cage as soon as you get him, having previously well sanded the cage and fixed the seed vessels; you will require two seed-pans, one to contain soaked niger, teazle, and crushed hemp, and the other gold of pleasure and linseed, not soaked. Let the Bullfinches have seven days in the store cage. I should not omit to say, never water wild-caught Bullfinches inside the cage—water always outside. Rarely does a fresh-caught specimen recover if it gets wet; they soon puff up in a ball of feathers and fall asleep.

May I just say a word of advice to many readers of CAGE BIRDS in this district of mine—North Oxfordshire. Novices go catching; they catch a few, bring them home, treat them like birds that have been caged for years. Very few struggle through this; the getting on seed must be done in a natural way. Treat as I have mentioned with a little natural food, and wean them off at the end of seven days. I have saved many and many a bird brought to me by the catcher, by the common privet berry alone—a very valuable pick-me-up to a fresh-caught bird.

Suppose now our two cock Bullfinches are on seed, or, rather, the seven days are up with the store cage (we can hardly call it on seed). Next thing to do is, place them in a flight cage, still giving them a little soaked seed, but slowly reduce the hemp and gold of pleasure to one half the amount formerly given; also diminish the soaked seed slowly and gradually increase the supply of hard seed—this usually takes 14 to 18 days. After about a week in the flight cage, place them in the stock cages. This is the process all my birds go through, and I can say I never lose a single bird by it, and they keep in fine condition.

Catching and Selecting the Birds.

To select Bullfinches is a difficult task for the novice, but I am giving the outline of the process. Select the largest, chubby-built birds, with large well-cut caps and good bibs and thick necks; wing carriage must be close and bars well defined; the breast colour to be as rich as possible, without a smoky appearance.

I think many a novice would like to catch his own, but knows no real good way to get to work. I much prefer a large trap-cage or net trap, and a single side net where there is a little flock. Bullfinches as a rule fly in small flocks of five to ten. I have seen as many as two dozen feeding together, but it's a rarity.

Now suppose we come across a little flock feeding on ash-keys; we must set the net so as to fly from the hedge. Set in the usual manner, and, above all, try the net and see if it works properly; if so, place a cock call-bird in the net just at bottom of line pegged down, also a cock dummy is useful, and this must be placed in the net in a position amongst the bait (which must always be good docks) to look as if feeding on them.

Your Bullfinch is calling to a fine cock on the ash-keys; he takes a little persuading to come from his favourite winter food, but at last he ventures; in he goes, and starts feeding, and just perhaps as you are about to pull along comes his partner. She takes no inducing to the net. Your heart beats with delight to see a pair of Bullfinches almost yours. Pull! You get them, and what a fine pair, too. Place the birds in a store cage, and treat them as I have mentioned, and not one in a hundred will die. Keep in a quiet place, and let success be yours.

By WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S.

BY way of introduction, I may be permitted to state that the birds figured on Mr. Goodchild's drawing are not necessarily the more notable, or a tithe of those deserving a similar honour. Far from it. Our choice must perforce be regulated by what we have figured in the near past, and to make the plate as complete a representation as possible of the whole section. In this sense our plate is certainly representative.

The Pileated Jay (Cyanocorax pileatus).

The name Jay is synonymous with mischievousness and curiosity, whatever clime any particular species may hail from. The subject of our drawing is not one whit behind any other member of the Jay family in these attributes, and is indeed a worthy representative of his tribe.

Those who like a knowing, conning, intelligent, quaint, tricky comic feathered kleptomaniac cannot do better than procure a Pileated Jay or some similar representative of his tribe. For, given the worst of characters, he still remains an interesting and entertaining knave. He is one of those interesting individuals of the bird world who do not mind who sinks so long as they swim. He has a supreme indifference almost akin to contempt, for the joys and sorrows of other feathered creatures domesticating within an easy radius of Jay-castle. Whatever happens, the wants of Mr. and Mrs. Jay and family must be satisfied; and they eat their respective meals (eggs, callow young, etc.) without compunction or remorse. All sections of the animal world must suffer so that they go not hungry. I am afraid Mr. and Mrs. Jay come first in all things, for, in captivity, if things are not to their liking, their own tender offspring simply make a toothsome change in their menu. Can I, need I, say more to bring my readers under the thrall of these arch villains of the bird world?

If not clad in glowing colours the Pileated Jay is a handsome fellow, as a glance at our illustration will indicate. He is about the size of our Magpie. As regards diet, he is pretty well omnivorous and can have the table leavings to pick over from any meal. Bread, meat, vegetables, fruit, cake, etc. Also insectile mixture and an abundance of live insects cockroaches, beetles, worms, mealworms, spiders, earwigs, etc. (nothing comes amiss in this line), live and dead mice, and other similar vermin. A little minced raw meat may be given once a week; thus there will be no difficulty in keeping up a varied menu. The Pileated Jay should have a roomy cage, and as it soon becomes tame, it can be allowed out for exercise, both for its own and its owner's amusement.

It is distributed over South America, and is very plentiful in Argentina and Paraguay. A detailed description is not called for—the darker areas on the drawing are dark brown and black, and the light ones white and pale grey. There are patches of blue on the nape and sides of face, and the plumage of the back, wings and tail is more or less glossed with purple. Mr. Sharples' exhibit scored 2nd prize.

The Black-headed Sibia (Malacias capistrata).

A beautiful and striking bird, one of the most pleasing of the Babblers. It is full of character, of a restless and vivacious demeanour, and thrives best when given plenty of room. It is a very fine spectacle to watch a pair of these birds disporting in a large garden aviary. But I have found them liable to periods (not continuous) of bullying the small Finches, etc., in their enclosure, and when I put them (Sibias) among the larger birds they were equally at home, holding their own easily amid a heterogeneous collection of Conures, Parrakeets, Budgerigars, Grass Parrakeets, Starlings and Cardinals. Though not actually tame, they would come to a given whistle and catch mealworms till I tired of their company. They caught insects in the air very adroitly, but flycatcher like, waiting on a perch for meal-worms to be thrown, then returning to the same perch again to devour their captive. Amid this luxurious environment I rest quite late in the year, but did not get as far as eggs. In one or two instances young have been hatched out, but they have not as yet been fully reared in this country.

They do well as cage pets, if given a roomy cage, but under such conditions are apt to be restless if too closely observed—though not really wild. The Sibias moral is—let their cage be a roomy one. I found them easy to cater for fruit, insectile mixture (soft food) and live insects meeting their needs, and in my aviary they partook heartily of the milk sop provided for other species. I have found them quite hardy—a pair lived through a very severe winter in one of my aviaries, but with no proper shelter, only a roof to get under. There was a period of three weeks of continuous frost, assisted by terrific wind and snowstorms, yet they were apparently as cheery and fit as in the summer, taking their bath every morning as soon as the ice was broken. Owing to a change of residence, I parted with them the following spring, and the following season they were winners for their new owner at several important shows. They are birds of the Himalayas, being very plentiful about Darjeeling.

The following sketchy description must close this brief note. The principal body colouring is maroon-rufus; the top of the head, cheeks and ear-coverts glossy black, middle of back brownish-grey; tail broadly banded with black, followed by bluish-grey tips; wings black, with rufus margins and crossed by a bluish and also a white band. The total length is about 8½ inches. Miss Alfreda B. Smyth's handsome pair secured 4th prize.

The Japanese Red Thrasher (Erithacus akahige).

This lovely species is very similar to the English Robin, with all the charming attributes of the latter, which endear him to the whole English race. We have referred to this species in our pages several times since it first appeared in the show bench, at the L.C.B.A. Show in November, 1911, when Mrs. K. L. Miller and Mr. A. Ezra both exhibited fine specimens. The bird staged by Mr. J. Frostick is the same specimen, I think, which Mrs. Miller exhibited in 1911. It was in exquisite condition, and an easy first for its new owner.

The colour areas are about the same as in our indigenous species, but the red is not so bright (carrot-red) and the lower plumage is darker (more grey) with the middle of abdomen sooty. It has a fine song, fearless and confiding demeanour, and is in every way the most charming cage pet one could desire. Alas! pairs have not yet been imported, so one cannot yet speak of its demeanour in the aviary. A good, strong insectile mixture and live insects about meets the needs of this charming and entertaining bird. It is extremely fond of a bath.

The Festive Tanager (Calliste festiva).

Words fail me to eulogise suitably this gorgeous species, although it is rivalled in beauty by over forty species of the same genus. The iridescent hues of its beautifully harmonised garment, flash forth first one shades and then another, as the light strikes it from different angles. The Festive Tanager has been known to the show bench for many years, but has never been plentiful, nor is it an easy species to establish or keep for any lengthy period in really good condition. Miss Bonsfield is certainly to be congratulated on the condition of her bird (a better has certainly never been staged), which has improved greatly since we first saw it this season, on Oct. 29 at Windsor.

I cannot attempt a detailed description of its many-hued garment, in which black, rufus-red, and almost every shade of blue and green, the latter shot with golden yellow, are exquisitely harmonised, shining like silk or satin. A word picture is impossible, even the artist's brush has never yet adequately depicted it. The genus Calliste, to which the Festive and many other well known favourites (Superb, Tri-colour, Black throated, Spotted Emerald, etc.) belong, is not perhaps so robust as others of the Tanagridae, yet all may be kept out of doors from early spring till late October in a suitably arranged aviary. Under such conditions they are unrivalled.

Allow me to congratulate you upon the splendid Birthday Supplement. It contained a mine of useful information to every lover of cage birds; the issue itself was a "humper"; and the two plates were simply splendid, especially "A Study of Cinnamon Blood in Canaries." I think the competition "How would you mate these York shires?" surpasses anything previously. It will make fanciers put on their "thinking caps"—Jos. Wright (St. Anne's-on-Sea).

The Crystal Palace Bird Show.

How it Struck an Outsider.

By ERNEST F. ALLNUTT.

It would be very difficult to say what was the outstanding feature of this year's exhibition of Cage Birds at the Crystal Palace. Opinions would naturally differ according as to whether the person asked happened to be a fancier, or only an interested member of the public. The former would probably be loud in his praise for this or that variety, and would, as might be expected, look at the matter from a strictly professional point of view. He would have the advantage of knowing what points of excellence were possessed by the various breeds, and would be able to estimate at its proper value any new strain.

But the ordinary visitor who is not himself a breeder must, of necessity, look at the birds with a less critical eye. He would perhaps be unable to distinguish a good bird from an indifferent one as far as estimation of its points is concerned. But, if he lacks the fancier's knowledge and nice judgment, he will, at least, be able to say which variety he likes best, and why. He will view the exhibits with strict impartiality, and will be entirely uninfluenced by any of the considerations which naturally determine a breeder's choice. It is from this detached point of view that I write.

Knowing nothing of the bird-fanciers' art I was able to visit the show without any prejudices, and to examine the different breeds merely as one who admires a beautiful production. The reader is, therefore, entitled to smile should I express preferences which savour of heresy.

Let me speak first of the Canaries. I can safely assert that I have never before seen so many together. This being the case it came as a great surprise to me that so many widely differing varieties had been obtained from the original Serinus canarius.

The Super Canary.

I could not avoid a mental comparison between the superb specimens before me, and the miserable faded birds one sometimes sees in suburban house windows. It struck me that, whatever else it may have been, the show was a remarkable illustration of the triumph of artificial selection. Not alone the variety in plumage and tint, but the size and shape of the birds impressed me with a high regard for the skill of the breeder. He may justly pride himself on the attainment of complete success in what is not only a charming art, but a scientific achievement of no mean order. I shall in future look contemptuously on the mere Canary which the live-stock dealer invariably assures us is a Norwich bird in full song.

For who would be content with such a poor specimen of his distinguished kind, when the expenditure of a few pounds, nay, even of a few shillings, would make him the possessor of a super-Canary? I am quite sure that those who have seen such a collection of feathered "Hoits" will go away the victims of an exalted if expensive taste.

I was delighted with the appearance of the crested variety. Their little shock-heads put me in mind of the pictures of Shock-Headed Peter which adorned the literature of our young days. There was also something about them which reminded me of a Skye-terrier—perhaps it was the glimpse of a beady eye behind the carefully barbered locks.

For they were no touzled heads that I saw. On the contrary, each feather seemed to be specially trained and trimmed, so that the dainty little creatures presented the immaculate appearance of a West-End "Knut." Each feather overlapped another with a precision that was positively uncanny—tails were cut with an exactitude and balance that were almost too perfect. The Scotch and frilled fancies also pleased me immense, looking as they did as though a gale of wind had disarranged their toilet. The Lancashire Coppy, and the large Belgian birds, curiously reminiscent of vultures, were also, I thought, very pleasing.

A Solicitous Exhibitor.

I heard the exhibitor of a prize winning Belled Canary he was a voluble Frenchman—fondle by the cage of his champion, and caressingly scold it for "over-exciting itself." The candidate for prizes had to take life easily it would seem. Neither were the variegated kinds by any means wanting in attractiveness. The Lizards, with their golden crowns, the divers green, mottled and speckled varieties, were all worthy rewards for the breeders' pains.

But to express a preference for this or that variety, when every one of them—I say it frankly—has its own particular perfections, is a very difficult matter. I did not see a bird that would not have been an ornament to any room. However, I must confess to a weakness for the paler yellow varieties. I saw some of mustard colour with tail feathers of a beautiful pearly sheen, and for some of the Greens whose dark wing feathers had delicate borders of a yellowish tinge, which gave them the appearance of a lacquered fan. But had I purchased every specimen which took my fancy I should now have a well-stocked aviary, and be in a fair way to become a breeder myself.

It was no difficult matter to gather from whence came a large, if not the major portion, of the exhibits in the Canary section. The broad, pleasant speech of the Yorkshire and Lancashire man betrayed him on every hand, as he pointed out the merits and demerits of a bird to a circle of fellow enthusiasts. One heard also occasionally the excited remarks of our neighbours from across the Channel, and the sober, but trenchant criticism of the London visitor. It was clear to me that my appreciation of the exhibition was fully shared by those who, like myself, were present only as amateurs of the curious and beautiful. So much for the Canaries.

Our Native Birds.

I was particularly gratified to see a select if modest collection of our native British birds. They may not have been as brilliant as their neighbours in the matter of plumage, but it would be a bold statement to say that they were any the less attractive on that account. What sturdy little creatures are the Bullfinches! At the Crystal Palace I realised for the first time what a beautifully marked bird is the common Starling. I am afraid many of us do not appreciate our native varieties of birds. Perhaps we do not see them often enough. Certainly there are scores of Canaries in our cages to every Linnet. We should endeavour to become better acquainted with them for they are one and all as beautiful as their names. I could not, myself, record having seen a Chough before—and on this, my first acquaintance, I found the representative of his species busily engaged in reducing his "prize" label to shreds.

There has been some discussion of late relative to the cruelty of keeping birds in cages. However well-founded the objection may be as concerns some wild birds a visit to the Cage Bird show is quite sufficient to dispel any qualms one might have as regards birds bred in captivity. None could have doubted that the little prisoners were perfectly happy and contented. Nowhere did one see a bird sitting motionless on its perch, or with drooping head. All were as light-hearted as could be. It was very evident from the competition in twittering that the birds were as sound inside as out. It required nothing more than the sound of the organ to tempt every tiny songster to put on his "star" turn.

And what did this happy demeanour prove? Simply, I take it, that proper attention and kindness of treatment are their own reward. That birds, when cared for in a suitable manner show by their lively spirit that they are not repining, can be of the sole justification of keeping them in the confinement of a cage. And this applies to others besides those fortunate enough to be the pampered winners of prizes. The fanciers are to be congratulated in that the condition of their birds affords ample evidence that they devote as much attention to the comfort of their pets as skill in the production of them.

So it was that I went away with very pleasant impressions of "the working man's hobby," for I saw in it not only the evidences of his care and ingenuity, but also those of a real appreciation of the beautiful.

Our Coloured Plate.

Notes on the Goldfinch-Bullfinch Hybrid and Its Breeding.

THE fine coloured plate so skilfully painted by Mr. H. Norman for this Palace Show Number comes at a singularly opportune moment for now the thoughts of all interested in this fascinating branch of our hobby will be turning towards the mating of their birds for the production of Hybrids. There is no more beautiful Hybrid than the Goldie-Bullie, and good specimens are readily saleable at remunerative prices. The parents are the reverse of costly, and easily obtainable. All the fancier needs is sound practical advice on the management. This will be found in our splendid handbook "Cage Bird Hybrids," written by that noted judge and breeder Mr. Chas. Houlton. Every Hybrid breeder should possess a copy of this standard guide; further particulars will be found elsewhere in this issue.

Here are a few extracts from the special chapter devoted to the Goldie-Bullie in Mr. Houlton's work.

"It is now thirty or forty years ago since cage-bird keepers and breeders were first treated to the production of this gorgeous-coloured hybrid. Small and very compact, the colours very bright, the shape good, the feather and condition very fine, it became for these reasons very attractive as a show specimen. It was then considered the 'masterpiece' of productions in cage-bird breeding.

"One (or more) was known on the Show bench, but since then many more have been bred, chiefly in the 'Land o' Cakes' Scotland, to wit. Three exceptionally large and otherwise perfect specimens have graced the Show bench during the last twenty years, all the outcome of Scotch dogged perseverance. Mr. Robert Smellie, of Edinburgh, bred and exhibited one of those three champions; but I don't know the breeder of the one I secured from Mr. Dewar, of Edinburgh, in 1890. It was a real champion in its day, and I still possess it, though now only as a stuffed specimen. The third champion large specimen was first shown by Mr. Cunningham in 1906, and is like unto the other couple in all respects. The stuffed specimen of mine is to-day, as I write these lines, a perfect picture, and a standard type of hybrid beauty to gaze upon.

"Now that I have 'made your mouth water,' to be the possessor of a 'champion' like unto these three, I may say that it will be necessary—if you wish to breed one—to get cock Goldfinches and hen Bullfinches of the very largest sort that can possibly be secured, no matter where they come from. Large indoor flights, or small outdoor aviaries, are the most desirable and most successful places in which to breed these hybrids. I have already given details of such places.

"You must not disturb the birds too much. Follow my instructions as to cautiousness mentioned in detail in this book, and when eggs are secured carefully take them and give them to a reliable Canary to sit on and hatch out. It is not safe to risk leaving the hen Bullfinch to brood, hatch, and rear her own clutch. Only in very rare cases has she been known to go through the ordeal all right. If you have no hen Canary ready to take the eggs you may let the Bullfinch go on sitting for a few days (which most of them will do), but you must transfer the eggs as soon as possible; or you may take the eggs and put them into the egg-keeping box and carefully turn them every day until you have a hen Canary ready to receive them.

A FAVOURITE HYBRID: THE GOLDFINCH-BULLFINCH.

The upper panels depict the parents, the cock Goldfinch and hen Bullfinch, with the Hybrid as it appears when in nestling plumage. In the lower panel are seen the male and female Hybrids in adult plumage after the autumn moult.

Correspondence.

Altrincham Society to be Revived.

Sir,—At the request of numerous fanciers in this district, I have been asked to call a meeting to discuss the advisability of re-forming the defunct Altrincham C.B.S. I may say that everything points to the formation of an extremely successful society, and personally I see no reason why we should not have as good, if not better, society than the previous once popular Altrincham C.B.S. Anyone desirous of joining kindly attend the preliminary meeting to be held on Feb. 16, at 8 p.m., at 4, Shaw's Road, Altrincham.

TOM HARRISON.

Two George Browns in One Town.

Sir,—I take the liberty of writing you re the above. I had intended to ignore the matter, but having received a letter from a party this morning asking me if I was a new comer to the town of Leith, I have decided to send you the following statement, and trust you will give it the same prominence that you gave the other gentleman's epistle. I am a native of Leith, and can trace my peoples' connection with it for nearly 200 years. I have been a breeder of birds for over forty years, and have kept all kinds of creatures, from Canaries to race-horses. I was in business in the city of Edinburgh for many years, having three shops at one time (not bird-shops), and have had dealings with many prominent breeders all over the country. I trust these facts will dispel the idea that I am a new-comer, and thank you in anticipation.

3, Springfield Street. GEORGE BROWN.

A Young Novice and His Yorkshire Canaries.

Sir,—At the age of 15, over a year ago, my father presented me with a pair of Norwich Plainheads, but after visiting a few of the principal shows in Scotland, including the Scottish National, my attention was gradually drawn towards the bird of position, namely, the Yorkshire Canary. At the end of the showing season I found myself the happy possessor of two pairs of Yorkies, procured from two of Scotland's most prominent breeders. With the help of some books on the Yorkshire Canary, and the valuable information gained through CAGE BIRDS, of which I am a constant reader, I launched myself out into the Yorkie. world. I was fortunate enough to rear six young ones, and had the pleasure of winning a medal for the best novice bird at the North-West Glasgow Society's first feather show. I find that the secret of success in Canary breeding lies in keeping your cages scrupulously clean, especially in the height of the breeding season. I earnestly hope to see in the near future the Yorkshire in Scotland becoming as popular as the Norwich Plainhead

JOHN HOUSTON.

Are Specialist Judges a Blessing?

Sir,—Looking over "Twitterings" in "C.B." I noticed the following announcement: Judges at our next annual show, Messrs. So-and-so, all specialists in their several varieties. That set me thinking, and I wondered if specialist judges are as attractive as they might be in drawing an entry. Many years ago now, I was talking over Fancy matters with a friend, and amongst other things this question of specialists came up. I'll tell you what it is, said my friend, I would much sooner exhibit under an all round judge than your specialist. They are faddists, the specialists, and providing you have the bird that excels in the points they are strong on, however good an all over specimen it is, you will have to go down in the list. For a long time now I have thought my late friend was quite right in his statement. You have only to be guided by your own ideas to know that it is so. Put down two or three birds in front of you, and right away you look for one that most nearly fits in with your own particular leanings. Never mind standards; you look for the birds with good head, wings, or whatever it is you prefer. This, I think, sufficiently explains why at some shows you visit some birds well up in the prize list make you wonder however they got there.

The Idle C.B.S. Trophies.

Sir, I saw in your valuable paper that the Idle Society last year had 20 members to start with, and a ten guinea cup from P. Illingworth, Esq., M.P., and a fine shield, and other prizes, which I thought was a splendid start. I have not seen the report of the annual show. I hear that two novices win the cup and shield. If so, why not give their names in CAGE BIRDS. Honour to whom honour is due.

OSCAR THE FANCY.

Roller Society for Ashton-under-Lyne.

Sir,—It has recently come to our notice that there are a number of Roller fanciers around the district anxious to form a society. We cordially invite all those interested to attend a special meeting on Feb. 17th, in the P.S.A. Rooms, Albion Street, Ashton-under-Lyne; chair to be taken at 8 o'clock by Wm. Foxwell, Esq. Business to form a Roller Branch of the society.

Who Bred It?

Sir,—In answer to the letters "Who bred it," and "Is it the same," which have appeared in CAGE BIRDS. The Greenfinch Mule Mr. Parlett has was bred by me in May, 1903, from a Lancashire—Norwich hen given to me by Mr. R. Colton. It won for me fifty first prizes before it was sold to Mr. Parlett. Why Mr. Lunn should say I claimed a bird at Sunderland for £2 2s. I fail to understand, as I have never been there, nor has any one ever claimed a bird for me from there. I should not have entered into this correspondence only that I sold the bird to Mr. Parlett on the distinct understanding that it was bred by me. I wish CAGE BIRDS every success.

How to Procure Winning Goldfinches.

Sir,—Fanciers will see advertised in CAGE BIRDS during the month of August Greypates at 1s. 9d. each, three for 4s. 6d., or six for 8s. Procure three from one man and three from another, and send them a 1s. extra to get them to pick you out ones with good big heads and fine size, for big heads mean big faces. Have a good flight cage ready with plenty of crushed hemp in separate vessel, as much as will last each day only, as it soon turns rancid. Also have your seed hopper well filled with equal parts canary, hemp, and teazle, and a little inga. Water inside and outside. Plenty of sand. Some wild weed seed, thistle preferred. Don't forget the crushed hemp daily, as I find it very nourishing for Greypates. When moulting give plenty of inga and cracked sunflower, also groundsel. These all help to bring out the much-desired hue on the blaze. Get them to bathe daily, which greatly assists the bloom. If any do not moult out satisfactorily keep them for another year and they will improve greatly. In this way I have staged some very fine Goldfinches.

Tips for Tyros.

Sir,—In a few weeks the breeding season will be upon us and readers will be contemplating success. To the novice commencing, the following hints will prove useful. Fix the nests where they get most light. Many advocate between the perches, but what seems more important is, where shall I place them to get the morning sun? I have proved by experience that young birds which get this advantage always mature quicker and are generally more robust than those less fortunate. During incubation avoid disturbing the hen unnecessarily, and don't be tempted to meddle when you hear the faint "chirp"; be advised and leave well alone (except to feed) until the third day—it will pay. Then just glance when the hen is off, and if the young appear fluffy and dry, all's well. Strict attention to these points will minimise considerably your chance of having bad-feeding hens. If your occupation be such as does not necessitate early rising, give a little egg before retiring, and put a sprig of green-food in the water-glass; it will keep fresh and ensure hens feeding immediately at daybreak. Finally, always remember, fresh food, cleanliness, and, above all, quietness are essential to obtain good results.

The Redwing as a Pet.

Sir,—The Redwing is the smallest species of Thrush and when flying is easily recognised by reddish-brown patches under the wings. They migrate from Norway each winter to the British Isles. In captivity they require a large cage, which must be kept very clean. The floor should be covered with clean moss. Give plenty of clean water for bathing and drinking. A good stock food consists of crushed puppy biscuits mixed with water or boiled potatoes. Live food and wild berries make up a nice diet for them. The cage should be hung out of doors in mild dry weather and brought in at night. The Redwing is very handy and makes a good pet, but the song is nothing to boast of.

Random Reflections from a Manse

Sir,—On Feb. 7, 1913, my home and my birds' home was in the great city of Manchester, a place of fog and dull skies—more bricks than birds. For the past eleven months I have been living in the country—three miles from the nearest railway station, three miles from the nearest tramway. Also our house, The Manse stands by itself, away from the main road, fields on every side. There are plenty of birds about and round. Last summer Greenfinches, brown Linnets, Blackbirds, Thrushes and Hedge-sparrows built their nests and had eggs and young in our garden. Oh, it was simply delightful, and in the fields around the Larks nested, and the air was all alive with beautiful song morning, noon and night. "If I had the wings of a Dove" I would not fly away, Mr. Editor. I'm not a young boy, but with a boy's spirit. I've been hoping, and looking, for the white snow. Months since I purchased a sieve (about 20in. diameter) and also procured a length of cord, and I've dreamt of setting my sieve, and getting some good birds.

Do you go Tuttling; have you a good supply of Tuttle sticks? Ah! the language was as Dutch until I got to know the local terms for catching birds with birdlime. I gave a small boy one shilling for a cock "Tolay," and the next few days could have bought any number—the news had spread. The minister at the "Manse" will buy "Tulies" (cock Redpolls) at 1s. We soon undeceived the boys—so one could pick and choose at threepence per bird. Greenfinches are very plentiful. With a trap cage hung at the front of the Manse about shoulder high I have caught scores, only to liberate them, unless a really tip-top specimen was discovered. In this way I think we shall be able to stage some winners in the future.

I take CAGE BIRDS every week, and do so much look forward to Friday mornings. My newsagent lives three miles distant from our village, and now and again he has failed to bring it on Fridays, so that between Friday and Saturday there has SEEMED to be an extra week. Three young men of the village have become enthusiastic bird fanciers. One a year ago had one bird now he has seventeen, and is very keen on breeding this coming season.

In my bird-room the song increases in volume. I have studied the various pairs. I look at the Siskin and Bullfinch pair, and wonder—wonder what? Is there a potential Siskin-Bullfinch Hybrid waiting for June to discover itself? Ah, think of placing a Siskin-Bullfinch Hybrid on the 1914 show bench!

An Amalgamation of Societies at Bedford.

Sir,—The two societies in Bedford are now amalgamated and are working under the name of the Bedford and Bedfordshire United Cage Bird Society. President, G. P. Hargreaves, Esq.; vice-president, The Marquis of Tavistock; chairman, J. Beanland, Esq.; vice-chairman, A. Keech, Esq.; secretary, Arthur Simons, 96, Coventry Road, Bedford, and junior representative Mr. E. Thompson; with a committee of ten members who are elected annually. This amalgamation was by no means through any failure as both societies had a substantial balance in hand after their annual shows last year, but it was the outcome of a common feeling that much better work could be done by one large society. The bird fancy in Bedford is smiling as it looks into the future, and anticipates large shows, good balances, and its secretary intends that all prize money shall be paid out on the day of the annual show as was his method last year. Now, fanciers of Bedford, let me know where you live; let's pull together for a big society and let the United Kingdom know that the Fancy in Bedford is very much alive.

ARTHUR SIMONS, Hon. Sec.

The Need of the Novice.

Sir,—I would like to suggest a scheme for the protection and benefit of the novice when buying stock. I have often felt the loss of expert opinion when making a purchase, and I expect a great number of people are in the same fix. True we have the deposit system, but that does not help us in this matter. Now there are lots of experts in the Fancy well able to value a bird, if we could only get their services. Could not you, Mr. Editor, form some plan to help us by appointing experts in different parts of the country, who for a fee would be willing to value a bird or birds sent to them? I think some such a scheme could be worked with the deposit system, say when the novice is buying, he sends cash and particulars to you. The bird or birds are then sent direct to your expert, who values and sends on to buyer. I should like to have your opinion, and, if you think it worth it, a discussion in our paper, CAGE BIRDS. One with a readier pen than mine could offer some such plan for the benefit of the novice and the good of the Fancy in general. I know this sort of thing can't be worked for nothing, but surely no one would grumble to pay for value received.

NOVICE.

[We are afraid our correspondent does not fully realise the practical difficulties surrounding the working of such a scheme, but we print his letter to give other readers a chance of expressing their views, should they desire so to do.—EDITOR.]

Judges and the Norwich Plainhead Club Standard.

Sir,—At the Palace Show I must say I was very disappointed, after examining the winner in the champion yellow class. One expects to find a Norwich Plainhead in such classes as these (especially the winner) worthy of carrying home in one's eye, to enable one to form some idea of a champion. I think it will soon be time to discard the Norwich as a Plainhead, and enter in the Crest-bred classes, if these sort of birds are to keep on winning. We have a set Standard as to what a fancier is to work to. Does this satisfy? Yes, but only a few judges; for others you must bench a bird as large as possible (never mind if you exceed the limit) as long as there is plenty of colour, and no matter whether browed, so that the bird is almost unable to see. As I am only a novice at the game, I expect I shall get my corns cut over expressing my opinion, but I am quite prepared.

RAW NOVICE.

[In a general way we do not think letters criticising judges' awards serve any useful purpose; as "Raw Novice," however, appears to want to raise a question concerning the Standard of the N.P. Club, we print his communication, but not as any reflection on Mr. Battye's judgment at the Palace.—EDITOR.]

A Warning to the Over-Anxious.

Sir,—My Canaries have sprung into vigour flying from perch to perch, flapping their wings and calling. This state of affairs tempts us to match our birds up without a spring clean of the cages. We cannot resist and will soon have hens sitting. Red mites at once commence business; result, hens leave their nest and eggs, or young. A discouraging start indeed. To the over-anxious I say, wait a while, and give all cages an overhauling inside and out. This is the road to success. Use no paints in the bird room. Give the birds plenty of flight space. Staple food: Best Spanish Canary. Maw, rape, and a few hemp seeds as tit bits. Offer lumps of old mortar liberally. A month hence, should we be favoured with a similar spell of weather as now, match the birds up. Then they have 15 hours' daylight to feed any young instead of 11 hours as now.

The Feeding of British Softbills in Captivity.

Sir,—It is certain that the British Softbill birds are becoming more popular. It is but right that this should be so, for, taking them as a whole they are far more adapted to cage life than many of our Hardbills. With a little patience and perseverance on the part of fanciers I am confident that they would become as popular for hybridising purposes as some of the latter species. But there can be little doubt that it is the feeding of these birds that has proved the chief stumbling-block. It is surprising how many letters of enquiry reach me from time to time respecting my mode of feeding Nightingales in captivity. I am always willing and delighted to supply the want.

After many years study and practical experience I have come to the conclusion that for breeding purposes the Softbills should be divided into two distinct classes, viz., the purely insectivorous and the partially insectivorous. More especially is this division important as concerns the former class if they are to be kept in good health and song. I say this advisedly, for you may rest assured that where Nature has decreed that a bird shall live on insect life no provision will be made for the digestion of more solid matter. I feel sure that it is on this account that so many fail to obtain full vigorous song from our more delicate British birds.

As regards those birds which are only partially insectivorous the thing is totally different, for there are some excellent preparations on the market that are quite suitable for such birds as the Hedge Sparrow, Robin, Skylark, Thrush, Blackbird, Wagtails, Buntings, Tits, Nuthatch, and Wood Pigeons.

All these birds devour a large proportion of sodden seed, grain, or nuts, in one form or another, consequently Nature has provided them with strong digestive organs suitable for that class of diet, and providing they are given plenty of exercise, a good bath, and kept clean they can be kept in even better conditon than you find them in their natural haunts.

But with such birds as the Nightingale, Blackcap, Redstart, Garden Warbler, Wood Wrens, Flycatchers, Grasshoppers, etc., nothing of a solid nature should ever be allowed to pass through their intestines or you are going to impair their general condition. Little or no song, poor plumage, and sore feet, can be traced to this method of feeding.

Now let us consider the class of food these birds devour, viz., insects, most of which are little more than jelly. It is true that the wings and legs of beetles, ants, moths, etc., are more solid matter, but these go to help digestion with such birds, being retained in the crop and used to masticate the other portion of food before being finally ejected in the shape of a pellet. This I take to be the strongest argument against the use of crushed biscuit, pea flour, etc., that you get in some of the foods advertised, and mixed in such a manner that the whole passes through the birds, finally injuring their general health and condition. For many years I have fed my delicate Softbills on a mixture of hard-boiled egg, ant's eggs, dried flies, and boiled potato as a staple diet; with a few mealworms and gentles added; the boiled potato taking the place of fruit of which most of these birds are fond. The result has been so satisfactory that it would take a lot of persuasion to get me to alter it after using it for close upon 20 years.

Cup Running at Shows in Ireland.

Sir,—If your correspondent "Hard Hit" in his complaint under the above heading alludes to the Yorkshire Canary and C.B.S. of Ireland as "The Irish Yorkshire Society" there is no justification for his statement that the novices are neglected. Last winter the above society arranged to have a series of meetings to be held on the first Monday of each month; the object of these meetings being to have lectures and discussions for the benefit of novices and champions alike, but particularly the former, but the attendance was so meagre that they had to be discontinued. It is the writer's experience that the champions of the above society are always willing to render any assistance in their power to any young beginner seeking it, and it is certainly untrue to state that the "long pocket" fancier enjoys a monopoly of their good advice. What does "Hard Hit" want the council to do? To refuse the patronage to societies applying for it surely does not tend to increase entries. The society can hardly compel these people to support their shows; they can only offer them the inducement of a liberal classification, and a special for every class, and careful attention to exhibits. I quite agree with "Hard Hit" that something should be done to avoid clashing of dates, but the Y.C. and C.B.S. of Ireland's cups were competed for at shows which did not clash; this being provided for in the rules of the society regarding cups and patronage. I think "Hard Hit's" suggestion embodied in the latter portion of his hysterical effusion "that we form a working council composed of fanciers residing at distances upwards of three hundred miles apart" would not find favour even with fanciers possessed of the "long pocket" which seems to hit your correspondent so hard. Your correspondent who is so hard hit by the "long pocket" members of the Irish Yorkshire Society, might feel more at home amongst the members of the City of Dublin Cage Bird Society. This society makes (I am informed) a speciality of spoon-feeding novices on preparation of stock for exhibition and as this society is "only for working men in the City of Dublin" the "long-pocket" fanciers will be debarred, and your correspondent will be happy

Affairs of East Ham Fanciers.

Sir, My last letter to you, no doubt, was the cause of us securing several new cage-bird members. I am glad to say that one of our members, Mr. Wadsworth, has kindly promised to give us another cup to replace the one won outright at our annual show: we have also two other cups and two silver medals also promised. We have decided to hold our young stock show Oct. 1, annual show Dec. 2 and 3, lecture and egg competition at Headquarters next meeting (Feb. 13).

Do Breeders Use Egg-food Too Dry?

Sir,—Now that the season for hopes of great things is on the horizon and the houses are being put in order, many will guard against the things that pulled down their "glass houses" of the previous breeding season. The many disappointments that are caused by hens refusing to feed their young can be obviated, for it is chiefly caused by dryness of the food supplied. Having witnessed many egg-food making competitions and seen the sickly mixes prepared, I am surprised that disaster has not been more prevalent. The hens must have a food that is easily regurgitated, and I have noticed in the major portion of the foods where hens have refused to continue feeding, that it has been of so dry a nature that it has been impossible for them to do so. The easiest and cleanest method to my mind is the purchase of a prepared food, obtained ready crushed, and all one has to do is to take half-a-dozen teaspoonfuls of this biscuit food, a number of spoonfuls of water and add your egg that has been pushed through a small hand press, and your food is ready in half-a-minute. It is ever of equal moisture. If it is not sticky, but always uniform, contains sugar, is easily regurgitated, and is cheaper than buying biscuits and crushing them yourself. There is no mess, the birds enjoy it, develop on it, and it is suitable for all varieties of Canaries, and only costs a fraction over 4d. a pound.

Proposed Tribute to Messrs. Jamieson and Richardson

Sir, I am pleased to see the long and faithful services of two of the most trustworthy officers ever club possessed are not likely to go unrewarded. Mr. Martin Jamieson was certainly an ideal secretary, of an obliging nature. If ever any member or non-member happened to be in doubt on anything concerning the club or the wee gems that are sheltered under its wings, he had just to drop Martin a note and back came the reply by return. Mr. J. B. Richardson, our late president, took a very active part in the formation of the Club, and is also one of the right sort, never calling a spade a shovel. As a chairman at the annual meetings, he was one of the best, being always very particular in explaining any motion put forward before calling on the members to note, a very essential qualification. He it was who gave our wee gems their name, "Border Fancy," so you see all lovers of the variety are very much indebted to him for that, if nothing else. I would suggest, as a means of showing our appreciation of their services and of the high esteem in which they are held, that we make both of them honorary life members of our club, and in addition, each member levy himself one shilling and forward it on to Mr. Smart, our secretary, which would enable the committee to get something worthy of our club for two "more worthy" old warriors such as our two late officers, Messrs. Jamieson and Richardson.

James Johnston.

Wallsend-on-Tyne.

Sir,—It is very gratifying and encouraging to read the numerous letters in your valuable paper re the above, and I can endorse all that has been written on the way Mr. Jamieson carried out his onerous duties. It shows the esteem and regard in which he is held. I would like to point out to the members that Mr. Smart, the secretary, and myself, had a conversation on the matter, and we thought it best to wait till Mr. Jamieson had entirely relinquished office. The members can rest assured that no time will be lost in furthering the matter as soon as Mr. Smart takes over the books, and gets into working harness: when we shall welcome any suggestions how best to proceed to make the testimonial an assured success.

Affairs in Abertillery.

Sir,—In answer to "One Interested" (in your issue of the 7th, re A.C.B.S.), I am not at all surprised something of this sort has arisen. In fact, to cut it short, it seems to me there is something wrong, but what it is and where it is I am at a loss to explain, as all those that are acquainted with me know how hard I worked and how interested I am in the hobby in general. As regards election of officers, etc., I may say I am no office seeker, but I must admit that I was disappointed in the way that appreciation was shown for my help. As regards being elected on the committee, well, I will leave that for some one more deserving. I hope this letter will not cause ill-feeling amongst the other members of the A.C.B.S., as I am one that always likes to see things working smoothly. I will try to do my best for them for 1914. I hope to swell their funds to double if I am spared. It won't be for the want of energy, but I maintain that the honours should be shared as well as hard work.

A. E. Moule.

Sir,—Re Abertillery Members' Show announced to be held at the Cwm Assembly Rooms on Feb. 7th. I visited the above place on Saturday and to my surprise found no show and that the members had stopped holding their meetings at that place. Now, I think it would be more business-like if when desiring to hold a show they made sure of a place before announcing the same in the "Twitterings" columns of your valuable paper, as it proved misleading. I know of one fancier (if not more) who came 12 miles.

The Favourite Pet in India.

Sir, The most common pet bird of this part of the world (India) is the Bulbul. I have at the moment of writing ten Bulbuls of different kinds, some of which I have had for over a year, and I find that the following stock mixture is all that can be desired: Boil a sheep's liver until it gets as tough as a bit of leather, grate it on a nutmeg grater and let it dry, then mix it with two parts of gram flour (pea flour would probably do); then make your mixture crumbly moist with clarified butter. Bulbuls will thrive on this with the addition of fruit, such as bananas, and if you wish to give them a treat give them a few dates. Bulbuls must have a good-sized cage, as they are active, restless birds.

The Crystal Palace Show.

A Forty Years' Comparison.

Sir, Comparisons are said to be odious, but at times they are both interesting and instructive. A case in point is the recent great show at the Crystal Palace. Strolling round the benches on the Saturday night of that unique birdy function, my memory went back involuntarily to the late 'sixties when I visited my first show at Sydenham's great glass house. The contrast was stupendous! Then, only a few hundred birds were staged, and the spectators comprised a mere handful of dandies of the period, wearing stove pipe hats, fantastic looking frock coats, and peg top trousers; whilst their lady companions were attired in capacious dresses, the material of which would make half-a-dozen present day costumes. Now, hey presto! Some 2,500 birds were on show, and the vast arena was packed with a keenly critical crowd drawn from all parts of the country. And the birds? Those of the early days of which I speak were mere "wasters" in point of class compared with the elegant specimens of to-day; especially the Norwich and Yorkshires. The great strides made in the Fancy is without doubt directly attributable to such a fine journal as Cage Birds.

A Hero of Many Fights.

Sir,—I was more than delighted to see my winning yellow green Yorkshire on the front page of our friend Cage Birds. Your artist deserves every credit for depicting him so truly, especially the pencilling and jet black flights, which are about perfect. This bird is the hero of many fights. His colour is of a brilliant grass green, and he compares more than favourably with the clear Yorkshires for type. I am very proud of him, and have refused several good offers to part with him.

The Disqualified Border at Bethesda Show.

Sir,—I am very sorry Mr. A. Wellings failed to find "fair play" in his catalogue my easier than I found it at the above show. A Loss to the Isle of Man.

Sir,—It is with regret that I have to announce the death of my noted winning linnet. This bird, which was caught on the island, was a good sample. It won numerous honours under such judges as Messrs. Why Not Classes for Hen Mules?

Sir,—Classes for hen Mules I think would be a step towards popularising Mule breeding, and a great help to Mule breeders; especially those who have the misfortune to have the greater part of their Mules hens, probably with a good specimen or two amongst them. There are classes in the other varieties for hens; why not for Mules?

The Kingfisher and Its Fishing Exploits.

Sir,—It is a wondrous study to watch the Kingfisher. Here is a gentle bend in the river, the haunt of a pair of these birds. The stream is bubbling in the glorious June sunlight; the willows hang in exquisite and graceful lines over the margin of the water. On the old stump on the other side of the stream a Kingfisher takes up its stand. We must be very quiet and keep our eyes well open or the deed will be done before we are aware of it. Watch through your field-glasses at his every movement. Scan those microscopic eyes. He sees every fish that passes, the shoals of silvery minnows, roach, and dace, and speckled trout. Look, he is down. There is a splash, an upward movement and he is off into the bank yonder. In less time than it takes to tell the tale his fledglings are receiving their due portion of the spoils. The bird does not always watch for its prey from the favourite stump, but will flash down stream with the rapidity of thought, then hover almost motionless, and dart down upon its prey. The fish are held crossways in the beak, and the indigestible portions are cast up in the form of pellets, in the same manner as by Owls and other species. These pellets serve for a nest. They are tramped into a cup like structure. The "nest" is in some hole in a bank, but it has been found in the hole of a wall and in the holes of water voles.

A Water Paint that Won't Wash Off.

Sir,—In answer to your correspondents re water paint that won't wash off, in my opinion some do not attach enough importance to the cleansing of the insides of cages before using "Walpamner," or any other water paint. As is well known the interior of most cages are white-washed, or coloured in the usual way, with size added for binding purposes. By putting "Walpamner" or any of the water paints on top of this, providing there should be any trace of size in the undercoat, it is absolutely a waste of time and material, for in a few weeks or less it will chip off and fall to the cage bottom. To prevent this in cases where it cannot be thoroughly washed or scraped off a thin coat of paint should first be applied and allowed to properly dry. Then use either "Walpamner" or "Duresco," which are ideal water paints for the purpose, and you will have a job that will look well and last for a considerable period. G. F. GRIFFIN.

Sir,—In reply to your correspondent, Mason, who asks for a water paint that won't come off, I have always found the Indestructible Paint Co.'s "Wallene" very good. It washes splendidly, lasts for years, and I have never found it rub off. It can be bought in a large range of shades. The address is, King's House, Kingsway, W.C.

A. B. ELLIS.

Sir,—We have used on all our cages and the insides of the large flights and aviaries, Hall's Sanitary Distemper, and it won't rub off when it has dried. It is quite harmless to birds. Have used it for eight years almost every day. PETS SUPPLY CO.

To be a Successful Breeder.

Sir,—All breeders to be successful must see that everything is kept perfectly clean. I find when washing my bird-room floor and also my cages that a few drops of sheep dip in the water will leave your floor and cages free from all red mite or other insects, without doing any harm to the same. Then before I enamel my cages I give them a coat of very thin glue; when dry, they only require one coat of enamel. Give the best seed you can get, fresh water every morning; also plenty of good clean gritty sand and cuttlefish bone. My last appeal is to novices specially: Don't pair your birds up too soon. Have patience, and you will benefit by it. Don't try to breed with birds that are whetzy, or birds not to the full strength, which is wanted when breeding.

JOHN MASSEY, JUNR.

My Magpie.

Sir,—I thought it would probably interest some of your readers to hear about my Magpie. I brought him up from the nest when he was ten days old. He only had a few feathers, and no tail at all. I fed him on scraped raw meat, putting it in his mouth with my fingers, and he used to be so hungry he would try and swallow my fingers too. I had him for three years and could do anything with him. He spoke a few words and chattered and whistled a lot. I had to go away, and though it was a great grief to me I had to give him up, so I asked the Zoo to take care of him. Seven months afterwards I went to see him, not expecting him to know me again. I went to the aviary he was in, and though I couldn't see him I called "Billie, Billie." He at once flew up to me and clung to the wires, and went through all I had taught him, and we were both terribly sorry to part. Surely this is an extraordinary memory for a bird who had never before mixed with other birds.

CONNIE E. BRINKLEY.

The Charm of Canary Breeding.

Sir,—The charm of Canary breeding lies in its uncertainty. In most things you may reckon that one and one make two, or seven and six makes thirteen; but in this hobby you often find two and five make one only; again one and one sometimes makes four; and there you are! One needs lots of patience, and must not be knocked out by the first blow. How often you get the reply "Oh, I've thrown it up, I could do nothing with them," when asking a birdy acquaintance about his birds. Some tire very soon, others last a bit longer but finish up with "I hadn't time to look after my birds, they were too much trouble." Fancy a bird lover talking about too much trouble! Why, he actually makes work; there is always something he can find to do, and even when he is amongst them resting and smoking he is thinking out some plan of improvement. Every season brings its own particular work. Winter, cages repaired, cleaned, painted; spring, birds in condition, and pairing up; summer, helping the tired feeders, and giving the early parents a rest; autumn, moulting out future "Palace" winners, and selling surplus stock. And so the year goes round bringing pleasure, healthful occupation, and remuneration.

I. G. WESTGATE.

Congratulations to a Good Fancier in Ireland.

Sir,—In a recent issue of CAGE BIRDS a letter appeared dealing with Irish shows, from a fancier's point of view, in the Scotch Fancy sections, and counselling us all to try and remedy the errors of the past. This matter I hope to take up a little later, when pressure in your columns is not so severe as at present. The writer of the letter referred to was Mr. Wm. Dunlop, of Ballymoney, a true fancier, one of the right stamp, and before this appears in print the jovial William will have taken unto himself a wife. I got into the know a day or two ago, and am keeping the matter "very private," but think all Irish fanciers would like to join with me in wishing our friend all the pleasure, happiness, and prosperity that is possible, and in a good Irish way say to both, "May your shadows never grow less."

ROBERT TRIMBLE.

To Get Breeding Pairs into Condition.

Sir,—Seeing we are bordering on the breeding season breeders should now begin to get their stock into proper condition by giving occasional tit-bits, a little egg mixture and dandelion leaves, also a little hemp seed, and a few drops of chemical food in the drinking water twice weekly. This I have found most beneficial in bringing forward the stock into that condition every breeder is delighted to see, both cocks and hens bouncing on the perch and flapping their wings, which is a sure sign of health and vigour. Breeders then know it is time to look out their boxes, taking care they are clean before putting breeding pairs in, and seeing that plenty of grit is supplied, and twice a week a little inga seed, which is a sure and safe preventative against egg-binding. Mule and Hybrid, especially Hybrid, breeders would be well advised to put pairs together immediately, keeping them together for six weeks. Then separate them, putting them into a cage with a wire partition in the centre, thus letting them see each other. Keep them in this fashion for another three weeks and then put them back into their breeding-box. They will be surprised with the results derived from these methods.

FINDLAY MCGILLIVRAY.

Why's for the Wise.

Sir, Why has the domestication of our British birds been neglected, when it is obvious that there is as much scope for experiment and scientific culture in each particular "Britisher" as there has been hitherto in the Canary? Look now at the number and variety of "Canarydom," all descended from the little "greenery-yallery" wild Canary.

Why don't some of our enthusiastic aviarists experiment with some "top-notch" British birds? Surely with judicious mating these would, in suitable quarters, breed something as good as the parents, with always the possible chance of something even better. Anyway, these aviary bred birds would probably take to studying the multiplication table in an ordinary breeding cage and so with selection and rejection, progress would begin. How much better also it would be if hybrid experiments could be made with domesticated birds, and the food difficulty be a bogie of the past.

Why do we see or hear of so few Softbill Hybrids? What a field is open here for the fortunate fancier with patience, and opportunity—in the country districts. What lovely hybrids one can imagine from some of these beautiful birds. We townsmen can only hope and wait patiently.

NIL DESPERANDUM.

Wild Caught Hybrids.

Are They Escaped Birds?

Sir,—I enclose you a few particulars of the No. 1 Hybrid, which appeared in your paper, if you care to publish same. The No. 1 bird was caught at Mossley Hill, Liverpool, by Mr. Lonsdale, of Garston, B.B., and I think it is certainly what it is represented to be, a Redpoll-Greenfinch; as I had the bird in my possession nearly a month, and had plenty of time to study its actions. I think it must have escaped from somewhere, as it was so tame, and had the bad habit of twist or twirl, so common in Mules. It calls like a Greenfinch. I have another one, which was caught at Wallasey by a Garston man, but this bird is different altogether; it is like a Green Roller hen, only for its very black legs and dark eyes, and it has a lot of light green on its breast and around the neck. It is very wild in its cage. It was a Siskin that brought it down into the nets. Mr. Cutmore has seen the bird, and says it is similar to the one he had in his possession, only a little larger, which he thinks is an Argentine Seed-eater. If this is so, it seems strange that these two birds should be caught so close to one another, one at Flint, and the other at Wallasey. Perhaps some other reader may have had one of these birds. The question crops up, where did they come from? They must have been brought over and let out, or escaped from an aviary. I do not think that Hybrids are bred wild, but that those we hear of getting caught are bred in aviaries, and either escape or get let out. I think some of the finest places that could be used for Hybrid breeding would be some of the park aviaries, as numerous birds may be seen pairing up in the breeding time. If a little discretion was used in the putting in of different birds, I think there would be quite a number of Hybrids bred, and it would cause a lot more interest to fanciers who visit these places. In Liverpool we have quite a number of members going in for Hybrid breeding. J. LLOYD.

Two Experiences of Hand-Reared Birds.

Sir,—A young hen Greenfinch which I reared from the nest was remarkably tame, and took a delight in perching on my shoulder, and pecking most savagely at my ear. It was a charming little pet and absolutely fearless. It had a great liking for house-flies and always knew when I was catching them. It would wait in its cage with a most knowing look for them, and being offered one would take it from my fingers and eat it with gusto. I believe that this insect food, although the bird was a hardbill, was a prime factor in successfully rearing it.

Two Yellowhammers left out of a nest of three, I was informed, were for disposal. I journeyed to the house of the boy who had them, but as he was out playing I had to seek him elsewhere. Across fields and meadows I went until eventually my search was rewarded. After persuasion he consented to accompany me back. I had grave misgivings when I saw those two poor birds, unable to feed themselves, panting heavily, eyes discharging, and too weak to stand, fed only on bread and hemp seed. For very pity's sake I gave the boy what he asked for them, and took the orphans home, expecting a funeral the next morning. But somehow they survived and were persuaded to take a little for their stomach's sake. From that time they never went back, and progressed until they developed into two fine birds, as perky and impudent as one could well wish.

How to Get Fertile Eggs from Bullfinch Hens.

Winner of our 10/6 prize.

Sir,—Those who are thinking of trying to produce a sensational exhibit for the next show season of the Canary-Bullfinch cross, would do well to adopt the following methods of pairing. Get a Bullfinch hen, one that has laid eggs in confinement preferred, and of good substance. For her mate have a Clear Yellow Norwich cock, one that you know comes from a clear strain. Have him with plenty of substance and of nice type and quality of feather, two-year-olds preferred, as a bird that age is more likely to fertilise than an unflighted one. When building operations commence, get a cock Bullfinch and place him in a position so the hen Bullfinch can see him and hear him "call," and when the hen Bullfinch calls the Norwich cock if in good condition will respond to the invitation. Place the clutch of eggs under a reliable sitting and good feeding hen and await results. You will be more likely to produce fertile eggs by adopting the above methods.

F. C. SIMS.

The Norwich at Banstead and Burgh Heath Show.

Sir,—On December 10 I had two Norwich Canaries at above show, open classes, 1st, yellow cock, cap and eye marked, 2nd, clear buff hen. I dispatched them from Thornton Heath on 9th, the birds arriving at place of show at 6 p.m. same date. I visited show two hours after it was opened, and, to my surprise, I found the yellow cock in the buff class, and the buff hen in the yellow class. No prize cards on either, although I entered them vice versa. This, I allege, was done by someone connected with the show. I called the attention of the secretary to same. I subsequently saw the treasurer, who placed the birds in their right class, and called the judge, Mr. G. Gardner, who gave 2nd prize to the yellow cock, which the treasurer could have done himself, as there were three prizes offered, and there were only two entries in that class. The hen was passed, the judge saying "No colour." What else could he do when he had awarded prizes (limited) to birds in the buff class? I have written two letters to the secretary, also treasurer, who have ignored same, only sending me second prize money five weeks after show, but schedule states prize money guaranteed to be paid within fourteen days in open classes. Is this fair play to exhibitors?

Our Busy Season is at Hand.

Sir,—The present month is the time of the year when the fancier will pay attention to every detail connected with the bird-room. Every spare moment is fully occupied. The stock has been carefully selected, each pair has been judiciously matched, and all surplus birds disposed of—if not, a small advt. in CAGE BIRDS will do the needful. Cages and perches should be thoroughly scrubbed with soap and hot water, to which a few drops of carbolic or other disinfectant has been added. When perfectly dry, distemper them inside; also do likewise to the walls and ceiling of the bird-room. The fronts of the cages and seed boxes should receive one or two coats of black lacquer. Then number each cage, the number of the cage to be the same number as the hen's; hence the hen in Cage No. 1 will be Hen No. 1, and so on. This will save an immense amount of trouble in pedigree breeding. Put each hen in her own cage at least a fortnight before running in the cock, to allow her to settle down in her new surroundings; at the same time tie a piece of string to the front of the cage. This will keep her busily employed.

From now onwards allow each bird a teaspoonful of mixed seed twice a week, and give the cocks a teaspoonful of egg-food each day per bird; also give boiled carrot or any green-food (but be careful it is free from frost). When the cages are cleaned and distempered, wash each bird, as a good "tubbing" before the breeding season puts them in good form for the trying ordeal expected of them in the months to follow. For nesting material give moss, cow-hair, or charpie. Pair up the last week in March if the birds are in condition and the weather favourable, and then give a teaspoonful of egg-food to each pair per day. Let your motto be: Patience, quietness, cleanliness.

JOS. WRIGHT.

Many letters crowded out till next week.

The prize of 10s. 6d. for the best letter goes to F. C. Sims, for letter entitled "How to get Fertile Eggs from Bullfinch Hens."

Some excellent letters had to be passed over on account of them exceeding the stipulated length of 200 words.

The London Cage Bird Association Annual Dinner is very largely attended. A Presentation to Mr. Allen Silver.

The twenty-fifth annual dinner of the London Cage Birds' Association, in conjunction with the National British Bird and Mule Club, and the Foreign Bird Exhibitors' League, was held, on Feb 9, in the Gordon Hall of the Restaurant Frascati. The occasion was signalised by the presentation of an illuminated address, bearing some 60 signatures, to Mr. Allen Silver, F.C.S., in recognition of his valuable services as Hon. Sec. of the Foreign Bird Exhibitors' League.

In making the presentation on behalf of the committee Mr. John Frostick dwelt upon the important part played by Mr. Silver in organising the first exhibition of foreign birds, arranged under the auspices of the League, and emphasised the esteem with which he is regarded by his colleagues. It was pointed out that the exhibition in question was the largest display of foreign birds ever got together in this country, and Mr. Silver, in his brief, but neatly-worded, response announced his intention of seeing that it should not be the last.

Mr. R. L. Crisp, the chairman, in proposing the toast of "The King and Royal Family" made a neat speech, in which he recorded the happy results of the increase in the prestige of the Crown, and further insisted upon the importance of the Royal influence in the affairs of the nation in general. In replying to the toast of "The Fancy," Mr. Robson, of the L.C.B.A., and Mr. Trower, of the N.B.B. and M.C., both expressed their gratification at seeing the organisations representing the Fancy joining forces on the occasion of the annual dinner. Both expressed their conviction that the fortunes and interests of the breeders' art could be rendered only more happy from their close co-operation.

In the course of their speeches the two gentlemen alluded to the recent uneasiness which has shown itself in some quarters with regard to the rearing of birds. They made appeal for more impartiality in the subject, and said that a closer acquaintance with the methods of bird-breeders and fanciers would remove the prejudices of those who believe them to be harsh and unfeeling. Mr. Watts, replying to the same toast on behalf of the F.B.E.L., drew attention to the long life of the other societies as compared with the brief existence of one year which was all the F.B.E.L. could claim. He hoped, however, that the League had already shown sufficient justification for its inauguration, and trusted its day would prove to be no less than those of the kindred associations.

The Chairman, in proposing the toast of "The Press," spoke of the value to the Fancy of the publications which looked after their interests, and were the organs of all who take an interest in bird-keeping. He said that, although they read "contrary to time in the Press matters which did not please them, he believed he was voicing the sentiments of the Fancy when he said that their appreciation of the Fancy journals was profound. Their relation with them were on the whole most [illegible] and he (the Chairman) was not pleased, on behalf of the company and the fancy at large, to welcome the representatives of the Press who were present. In responding to the toast Messrs. Lee and Curl alike expressed their appreciation of the Chairman's remarks, and said that the Press would endeavour to retain the goodwill of all in touch with the Fancy.

On rising to propose the toast of the "Ladies and Visitors," the Chairman said he was glad to see so many visitors present, and hoped they would again be the guests of the Fancy organisations on future occasions.

The Coming of the Lady Fancier.

Referring to the ladies he reminded them that the time may yet come when the proud possessors of the vote, they will do the exhibiting while their husbands stay at home and darn the socks! He thanked them for the pleasure of their company, and the toast was drunk most enthusiastically. Mr. Lewer replied for the ladies, and Mr. H. H. Towers for the visitors.

The serious business of the evening was most agreeably lightened by the entertainment provided by a number of talented artistes. Some excellent songs were interspersed with clever ventriloquial and conjuring turns, the company showing by hearty applause its complete satisfaction with the programme.

In the course of the evening a telegram was read from Mr. J. W. Ramsden, manager of the Cage Bird Show at the Crystal Palace, regretting his unavoidable absence. It was admitted on all hands that the evening was among the most successful ever held by the L.C.B.A., in the twenty-five years of its existence. The thanks of the company were tendered to the dinner committee for the admirable arrangements made, and to Messrs. J. Tyson, and Allen Silver, for their work as the organisers.

Chambers winning judging competition.—E. Norton, Hon. Sec.

PRESTON O.S.

Annual supper and concert, Tokio Cafe, Jan. 29. There was a splendid turn-up of members, and we sat down to a well-served dinner, the society paying one-third of the cost. After we had all satisfied the inner man, we adjourned to the concert room, where Mr. Tom Leeming had got a few artistes to come and give us a musical treat. H. Smith, W. Sheppard, Tom Leeming, Mr. Robinson (humorist), and Mr Lambert contributed to the entertainment. In the interval we had cups of coffee handed round, and while we sat enjoying these Mr Dent distributed the cups that had been won during the past year. Mr. W. H. Cottam was handed the Stanley Cup for best bird shown by a member at Nov. show, the Oshaldeston Cup for most point at our three shows, the Novice Cup and the Charles Blackhurst Cup, also gold medal for best bird shown by a novice at first feather show, a feat never equalled before by a society's member by a first year novice. Mr. Gillead was presented with medal for most points open bow. Mr Kendal's medal for most points in bow. Mr. Jos. Pick Preston O.S. Cup for most points at the three shows, finally Mr. Isaott was presented with silver cup, kindly given by Mr. Grant, for best bird in flight class. The concert was then resumed, and it was a most enjoyable evening, and votes of thanks to the Chairman and artistes, we all sang "Auld Lang Syne," and brought the meeting to a close.—Henry F. Marsh, Asst. Sec., P.O.S.

Stevens judged, and secured usual vote of thanks.—A. Freestone, Sec.

REDCAR AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

Annual meeting, Crown and Anchor, Jan. 17, Mr. Metcalfe (chair). The Sec.'s report on the annual show showed a favourable balance, as did the nine months' working of the society. Following officers elected for 1914: Pres., Dr. D. Leigh; chair, R. Metcalfe; sec. and treas., C. L. Mallory; date of pairs show fixed for Feb. 11, Mr. Metcalfe to judge. Classes as follows: Yorks, yell. cock, buff hen, buff cock and yellow hen, novice, Yorks ditto and Yorks mon'fed; Norwich, same as Yorkshires; Mule or Hybrid pairs; British, Linnet, and A.O.V. Mr. Clarke's special will be awarded to champion gaining most points at this show. It was decided to hold five shows during 1914, viz., Pair show, two nest feather shows, young stock show, and annual show. Sec. moved that prize should be given for 1, 2, 3, most points in each section at these shows, but it was decided to leave this open. Mr. Dixon moved that specials be competed for by starred birds, and it was also decided to leave this over for a larger meeting. It was agreed that we join the Federation, and that Mr. Walburn become a member of this society.—C. L. Mallory, Hon. Sec.

SHEFFIELD O.S. ANNUAL DINNER

The fit bit in the budgerigar world in the Sheffield district last week was the 3rd annual dinner of the Sheffield O.S. a function which is now looked upon by local fanciers as the next of importance to the Great All-England show. The attendance was a record, there being upwards of 120 members and friends present, including a great many fanciers from a distance, amongst whom were Messrs. J. Robson (London), and H. H. Towers (Keighley). Messrs. Stephensons, Exchange Restaurant, was the rendezvous, the headquarters of the club having to be deserted on this occasion in consideration of the ladies, who were present in large numbers. The dinner was a grand one, everything being of the best, and the splendid menu did great credit to the caterers. After the toast of "The King, Queen, and Royal Family," by the chairman, Mr. T. Dawe, Mr. Robson proposed the "Sheffield O.S." He pointed out the great strides this infant had made. Not four years ago the Sheffield O.S. was non-existent, and to-day it was considered one of the premier societies of England, practically coming 5th to the Palace, Scottish National, Bradford National, and L.C.B.A.—a very great achievement for such a young society. But could it be wondered that such headway had been made when they perused the list of officials. He was quite safe in saying there was not another society in the British Isles that had such a keen enthusiastic and tried set of workers as the S.O.S. There was that old veteran, Mr. R. Celtan (who had done battle with the speaker 25 years ago), carrying out the duties of assist. sec; Mr. T. Down, their genial chairman, absolutely the best in the land, and that genial smiling Irishman, Dr. Craig (the honoured treasurer), and others equally good. With such men as the Sheffield O.S. cannot help but prosper, and he ventured to state that the time was not far distant when they would be nearer the top than 5th place. A very important item was the presentation of the silver challenge cups, which have to be won twice. The winners were: Yorks, cup Dr. W. Craig (twice), Norwich Mr. Mathews (a novice member), Crests Mr. J. Evans, British Mr. G. Fletcher, Foreign Mr. G. Fletcher. Dr. Craig responded to the toast, "S.O.S." He pointed out that it was the one aim for the society to be the premier society of the country, and what we had done in the past was nothing to what would be done in the future. We should give a greater number of classes, more valuable specials if possible and full prize money in every class, if only on entry, and he was sure that such generous treatment to exhibitors could not but be appreciated, and he was sure that exhibitors would respond at our next All-England show, Nov. 6 and 7, in far greater number than ever before. The next toast was "Visitors, and Kindred Societies," proposed by the vice-chairman, Mr. J. A. T. Woodall. He point d out what a valuable asset the visitors were to a show like the S.O.S. As a committee they could assure them of the warm welcome of visitors on all occasions. As Mr. Robson had said, at each of the three All-England shows held in the formation of the society, we had had the cream of the Fancy; only at our last mourners' show, Mr. J. H. Pew, when judging Small's of bill British, asked if he could give them all firsts. It was pleasing to them as a committee to see so many present representing other societies in Sheffield; it proved the good friendship that existed between them, and he was sure it would always exist. Mr. H. H. Towers, Keighley, responded for the visitors, pointing out what a splendid reception every one always got when coming to Sheffield. He was glad his visit was not a long one, he was returning in the morning or he was sure he would be killed with kindness. He had never seen a society that catered for and studied their visitors more than the S.O.S., and he hoped it would be his luck to be present at many more dinners, shows, and any other functions held under the auspices of the S.O.S. The concert was a most enjoyable one. It included the cream of Sheffield talent, and was enjoyed by all, and when eleven o'clock arrived it was the regret of all. J. A. T. Woodall, Press Corresp.

WOOLWICH F.S.

Annual general meeting, Mission Hall, Plumstead, Jan. 29, was well supported. Mr. A. Thornton (chair). Balance-sheet showed a successful year's work, having a cash balance in hand of £11 10s. 3d., and assets to the amount of £1 2s. 10d.—total of £24 0s. 3d. Resignation of Mr. C. Reed, hon. sec., accepted with great regret, he having steered the society successfully for past seven years. Eleven new members elected, concluding with election of officers for the ensuing year: Pres., W. Crooks, Esq., M.P.; chair, A. Thornton; treas., C. S. Hilbersay; vice, Messrs. J. Boyce and E. Plummer. Committee: Messrs. Clements, Webber, Breeze, Smith, Brebner, Peters, Hussey, Dyer, Honston, Tulley, Curtis, Mannering, Harris, and W. Hussey. Hon. show sec., G. Boyce; hon. gen. sec., G. Eves, 35, Saunders-road, Plumstead.

LAISTERDYKE.

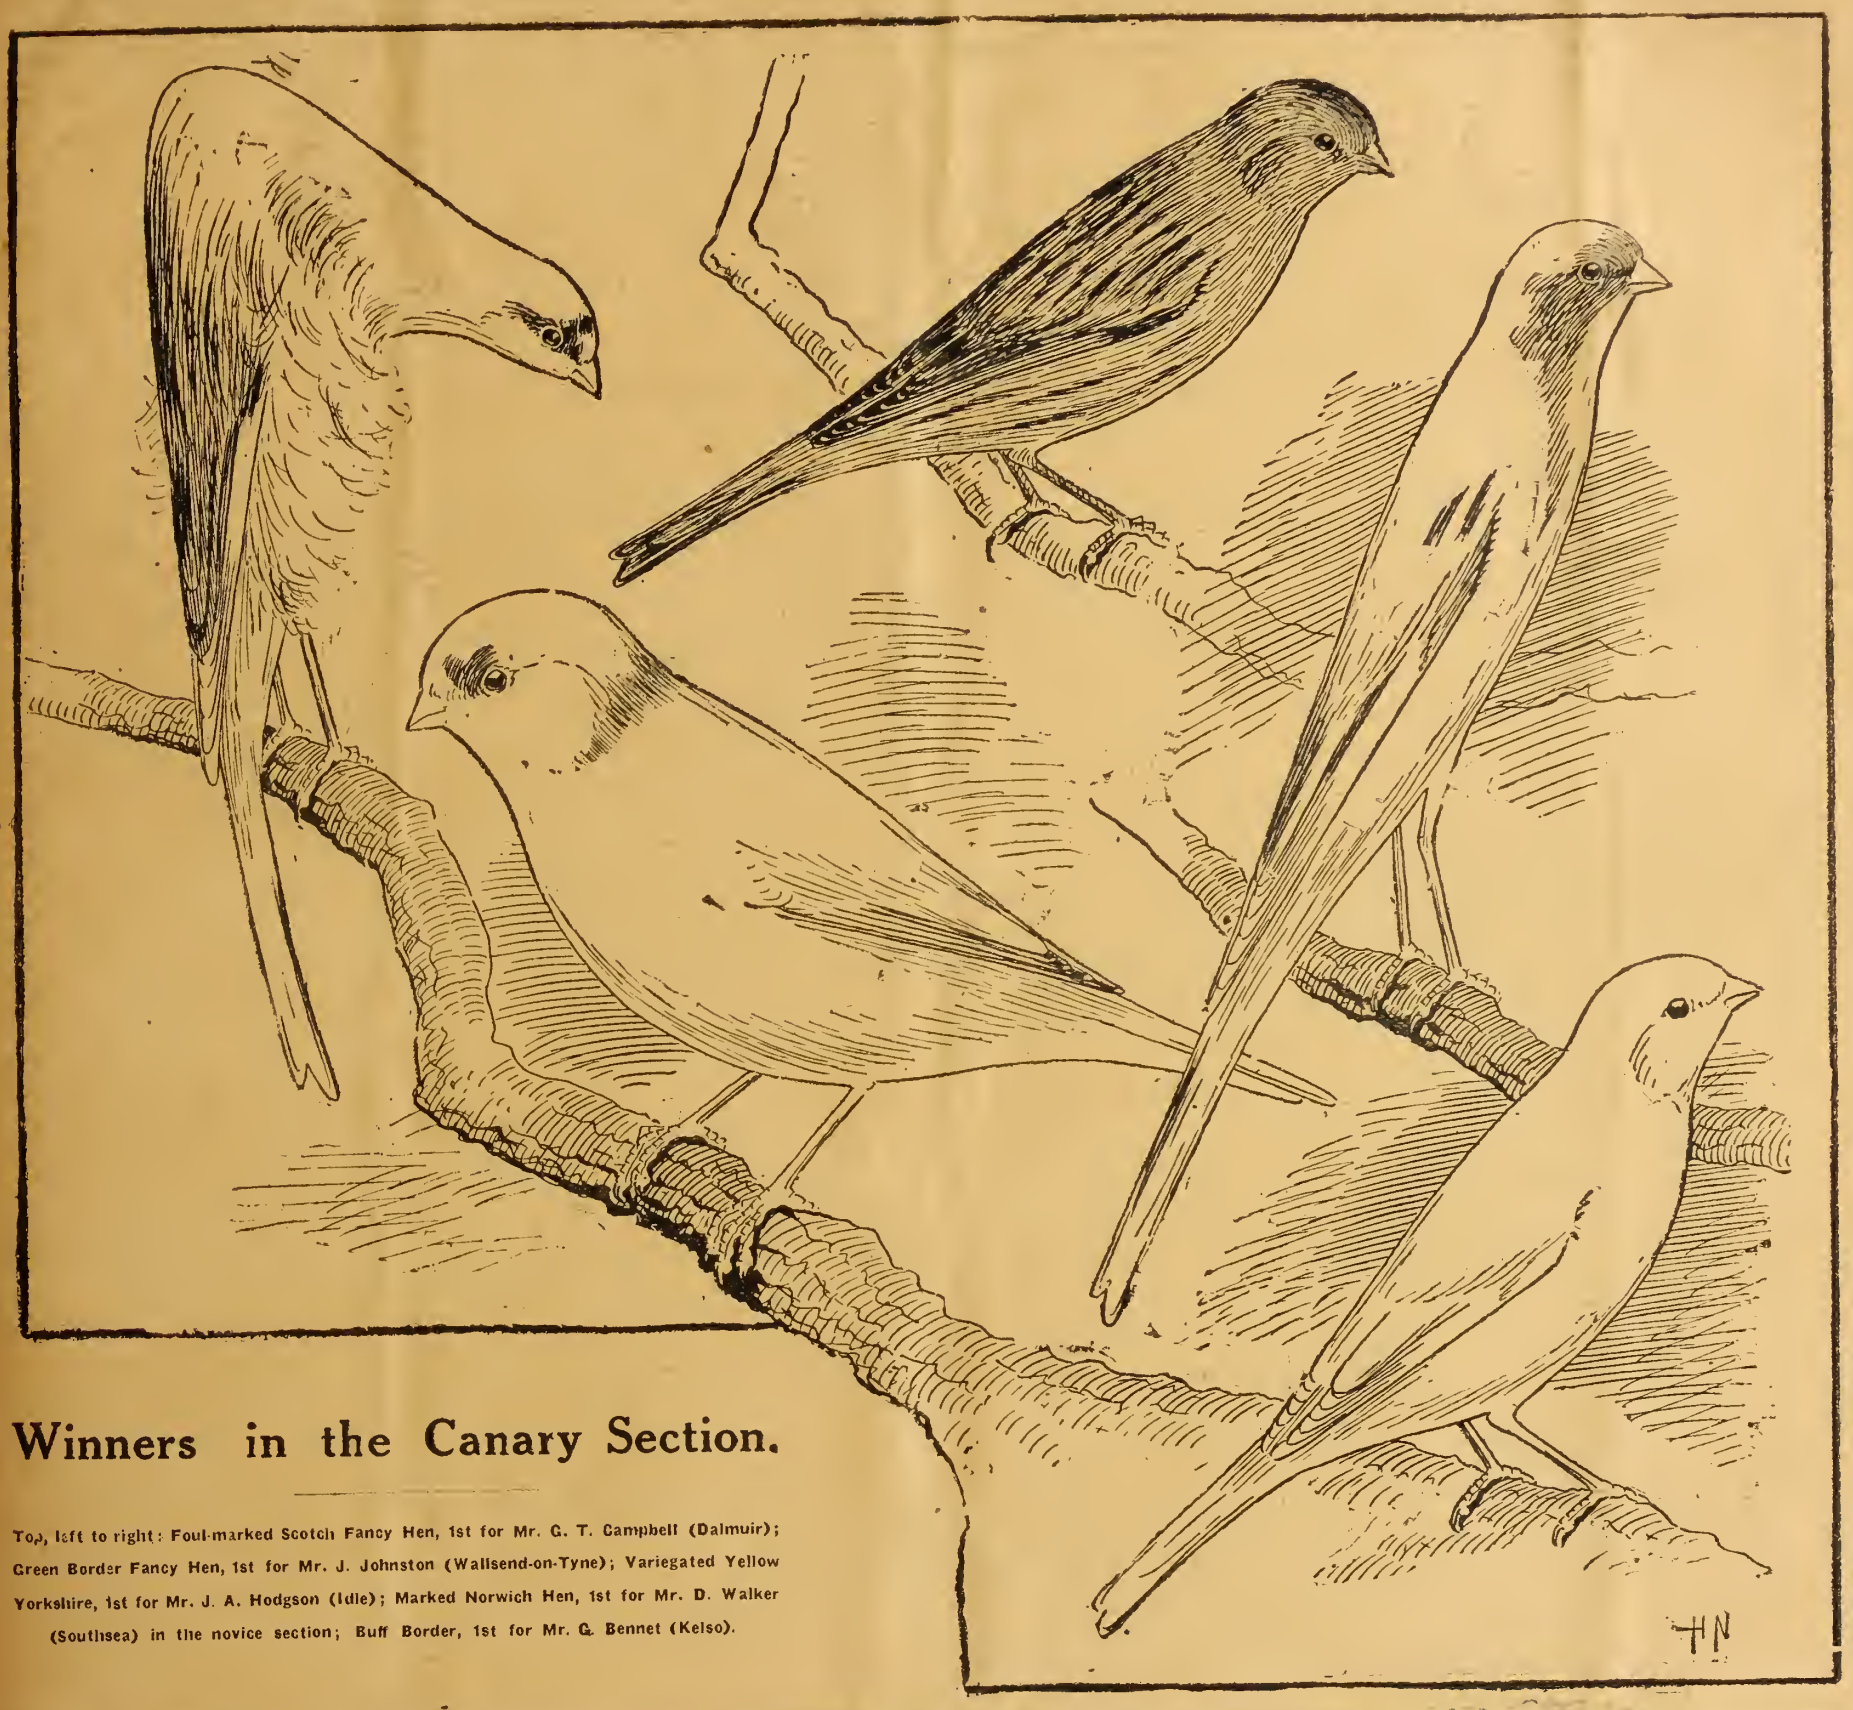
Meeting held Railway Hotel, Laisterdyke, Feb. 4. Classification and judges were dealt with for members' shows for 1914. We decided to hold two first feather, and four old feather shows, as last year, on June 13, July 11, Oct. 10, Oct. 31, Nov., 14, Dec. 12. We had the pleasure of making six new members, of which there are a few Norwich exhibitors, therefore we are desirous of making the Norwich section a success this year. We are having a smoker for the presentation of prizes on the 14th March, at 7 p.m. All fanciers welcome (free).—W. H. Symes, Sec.

STOKE-ON-TRENT C.B.A.

Annual general meeting Feb. 2. Statement of accounts show balance £6 2s. 6d., was considered very satisfactory. After passing a hearty vote of thanks to all retiring, the committee proceeded to elect officers for the coming season. E. Ousman appointed chairman, J. Davis vice, W. Roberts treas. (for the fourth time). The retiring secretary expressed a wish that some other member would take up the office, but the members present would not hear of it. F. W. Alcock again promising to assist. The date of annual show was fixed for Nov. 19; suggested that we have two judges. J. Pritchford.

COLINTON AND CURRIE O.S.

Monthly meeting, held Village Hall, Juniper Green, on Feb. 7, Mr Begbie presiding. New members were admitted: Jas. Downie (Juniper Green), Archibald Fleming (Currie). It was decided to elect our judges at the March meeting, instead of in April as formerly. We decided to hold a nest feather show on July 11. Mr. Steel consented to judge. At the close of the meeting Mr. Steel, of Dalkeith, gave a lecture on nestlings, their feed and feeding, dealing with all the various methods he had tried in his long experience. The lecture proved very interesting both to old and young, and at the close Mr. Steel was granted a very hearty vote of thanks.—Jas. Napier.



Winners in the Canary Section.

CRESTED CANARY CLUB ANNUAL MEETING.

THE NOVICE QUESTION DEALT WITH IN NOVEL FASHION.

The annual general meeting of the C.C.C. took place in the Board Room at the Palace on Saturday, and was somewhat protracted, lasting, in fact, from 2.30 p.m. to well past 6 o'clock. The following members were present: Mr. G. C. Ley (chair), Mrs. Robson, Miss Onslow, Messrs. Heath, Crow, Bale, Broad, Shepherd, Franz, Evins Bros., Jones, Seade, Robson, Barnett, Clarke, Horten, Wallington, and the Hon. Sec., Mr. John Tyson. Mr. Ley, after thanking the members upon his election as president, stated that while it was an office he did not in any way covet, he would do his best in the interest of the club. The minutes of the last general meeting having been confirmed, the Secretary presented his annual report and the balance sheet.

The question of the Roberts Cup was then discussed, and the Secretary stated that it had been won by Messrs. Evins Bros. (Cheers.) Subsequently a discussion arose as to whether the whole of the conditions imposed by the donor of the cup had been carried out during the last few seasons, viz., that it should be competed for at 20 shows each year. Mr. Heath was of opinion that as these terms had been altered he thought that the consent of the previous winners under the original conditions should be obtained as to Messrs. Evins Bros. taking the cup, but personally he hoped that the cup had been won, as it had been a drag upon the club for years. This met with the hearty approval of the meeting, but upon the Secretary stating that he had written to all the previous winners the correspondence was ordered to be read. Mr. Tyson mentioned that all had replied except Mr. King, and all were in favour of the cup going except Mr. Joyce. It was proposed by Mr. Clarke, seconded by Mr. Heath, and carried enthusiastically, that it be published in the Fancy Press that the Roberts cup, the conditions of which had been altered during the last few years, be handed to Messrs. Evins Bros., the winners, unless protested against within 10 days.

Following this, Mr. Franz moved the resolution standing in his name, viz., "All birds must wear the closed ring to enable them to compete for all specials and bowls, and that birds must be bred by exhibitor." Around this resolution the meeting talked for some considerable time, and at times strayed from the subject, but Mr. Ley kept the meeting well in hand, and advised the members to consider the matter very seriously, as in his opinion the compulsion of members to have their birds ring would be detrimental to the interest of the club, as if the members were hemmed in with too many restrictions it might tend to decrease rather than increase the membership. Subsequently Mr. Jones, of Jones and Crest, pointed out that as drawn the motion would bar all but young birds winning the club's specials. The matter was then put, and on a show of hands was lost by 5 to nil. The matter, however, was again taken up by Messrs. Robson and Heath, and eventually the resolution was amended and put as follows:—All current year's birds must wear the closed ring issued by the C.C.C. to enable them to compete for all specials and bowls." Upon this being put to the meeting, it was carried by 10 votes to 4.

Mr. Ley then moved the revision of counting points for the specials so as to give the novice a chance. This was thought to be drastic, and upon being put to the meeting was lost. Shortly, the scheme was to give a greater encouragement to the novices and remove the paucity of entries in the Crest classes.

Mr. Ley said: My idea is to do away with the present system of best birds specials, and to give all members a sporting chance of winning them. Those who have already one or two wins to their credit for the clubs' trophies will still, as though they had won on points, take credit for them. To my thinking this scheme is the only means left to keep specialists clubs in existence. Under present conditions exhibitors, after the first or second show of the season, have a pretty good idea who have the best exhibits, and who are going to gather in the trophies for that year, consequently this makes for scarcity of entries, and loss to shows which come later. My remedy is a startling and drastic one, but I feel confident it is a sure cure, that is, revising the points in such a way that the majority who do not own the champions, stand an even chance with those who do to carry off the club trophies. The champion exhibitors will have the consolation of taking the full points and prizes offered by the show they are exhibiting at, but for the cups, bowls, etc., offered by the club the birds standing in the cards belonging to members will take the largest number of points, namely, first prize, 1 point; 2nd prize, 2 points; 3rd prize, 3 points; 4th prize, 4 points; vhc, 5 points; hc, 6 points; c, 7 points; res., 10 points. Club shows will be assured of at least 8 entries per class from club members, because they are fighting for points, and, all members having an even chance, it will keep the fight open until the end of the season. The eighth honour card, reserve, with 10 points, equals the points taken by the four birds in the money in each class. This is the vital spark, because it will bring entries from those exhibitors who previously could not show with success or any chance of winning the cups and bowls offered by the club. It will throw out of the business those folk who show birds for profit as a business side line. It will check the career of Mr. Money-bags, and bring the best birds within the reach of the working man fancier, which will once again bring a boom into the hobby of breeding and exhibiting cage birds.

Mr. Clarke made a very excellent speech, pointing out that while he was in favour of something being done, and that at once, to benefit the novice, he did not think that the scheme of the President would do so, but he gave that gentleman every credit for his attempt. Mr. Heath, who also agreed with Mr. Clarke's remarks, proposed, and Mr. Broad seconded, that a committee be appointed to investigate the scheme, and, if necessary, to substitute and submit another; this was carried. Messrs. Heath, Clarke, Shepherd, Crisp, Franz, Robson, and Tyson, were appointed as such sub-committee.

The next item read: To discuss ways and means of raising a cup fund, one member having promised £10 if the remaining members would find £40. This, after some discussion, was also referred to the same sub-committee.

After this the discussion was as to the lack of interest by the secretary and members during the last year. Mr. Heath stated he was a little surprised to see this item upon the agenda. They all knew that the secretary had had a great deal of trouble during the last year, and he felt he was expressing the sentiments of the club in saying that they agreed he had always done his work well, and he felt sure he would always do so. A little friendly banter ensued, but this was promptly ended by the President calling the next business. This was the drawing of the £3 3s. specials. Buffs fell to the Plymouth winner, Mr. Bale, while in the yellows the winning ticket was for the L.C.B.A., so that the special fell to Evins Bros.

The last item was quite one of the best pieces of business done, and it was brought forward by Mr. Robson, who moved "That the novice rule be altered, and that the novice period be expanded to three years," pointing out that under the present system of three wins a fancier was placed in the Championship section too early, and the small chance of winning further without any period of experience was very detrimental to a young fancier.

Mr. Jones, of Jones and Crest, moved that in future the status of members be dealt with by the annual meeting, as to whether during the following year they were in the champion or novice class. A great discussion arose. Mr. Heath supported Mr. Jones, but eventually Mr. Clarke hit upon a dividing line between the two, which was enthusiastically received, viz.:—A.—That a novice shall exhibit in this section for a period of three years. B.—That a recently-promoted novice whose birds are not of sufficient merit to compete in open competition, may apply for readmission to novice section. C.—That any novice exhibitor whose birds have not attained sufficient merit for open classes may have an extended period granted him at the discretion of the C.C.C. Committee. D.—Any novice exhibitor showing birds obviously capable of successfully competing in open classes shall be summarily promoted by the C.C.C. Committee. The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the Chairman.

The financial position of the club continues satisfactory, there being a cash balance of £11 10s. 6d. and other assets totalling £33 2s. Mr. Tyson reports that the annual election resulted in the following gentlemen serving on the committee for 1914: Messrs. Heath 43, Barnett 42, Bale 39, Ley 39, Robson 37, Evins T., 37, Tyson 36, Colledge 36, Crisp 34, Rhodes 34, Crabb 31, Dobson 28, Joyce 28, King 28, Clarke 25, Mills 25, Greenwood 25, Broad 24, Franz 24, Brotherton 19, Smith 18. The president elected is Mr. G. C. Ley. Judges: Messrs. Heath 45, Robson 42, Tyson 37, Barnett 34, Colledge 31, Rhodes 30, Ley 28, King 27, Joyce 25, Bale 22, Crisp 17, Dobson, reserve, 15. Auditors: Messrs. Heath 32, Robson 27. Hon. Sec., J. Tyson, 25; Treas., J. Tyson, 21. 54 voting papers returned; 4, unsigned and 2 part irregular.

THE JUDGES' LUNCHEON.

This function is one that is always looked forward to with pleasurable anticipation from year to year as the meeting ground of many old friends, who annually renew associations and gossip of the days that are past. This year all present missed the genial presence of Mr. G. Crabb, who for many years has presided over this the one social function of the Crystal Palace Cage Bird Show. In the absence of the London and Provincial Ornithological Society's popular president, Mr. T. Heath, the founder of the society, took the chair, and he was supported by a company of about sixty, amongst whom we noticed the following: Dr. and Mrs. Anningson, Mr. and Mrs. F. Thynne, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ramsden, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Trower, Madame M. A. Feist Madewell, Messrs. G. A. Harris, G. Ramsden, C. W. Law, F. Carl, Geo. H. Couzens, J. S. Clarke, J. Wones, W. Mundell, H. Norman, J. Robson, F. A. Loach, R. L. Crisp, J. A. Tonks, E. J. Lamb, W. Kiesel, H. W. Battye, F. L. Marriott, Jas. F Dewar, F. Oldroyd, Joe Thomas, C. Roehl, T. Britton, A. Hutton, C. E. Silk, Walter Swaysland, H. J. Fulljames, H. T. Camps, Allen Silver, F. J. Day, F. J. Green, W. A. Lott, R. J. Pretty, H. Parkinson, Geo. E. Russell, J. Houghton, R. Bamber, Wesley T. Page, W. R. Miles, Thos. Burr, F. J. Wickham, J. A. Pughe Morgan, J. Oldaker, T. H. Milsom, Geo. Gardner, R. Newley, G. E. Weston, J. Hodder, H. W. Hobden, and C. A. House.

The speeches, usually commendably brief, were on this occasion more brief than usual. Mr. Heath, on rising, said he would not detain the company long, as he was only going to propose one toast—"The Judges"—but before doing so he wished to say how much he regretted that owing to the indisposition of Mr. Crabb, their esteemed president, he was occupying the chair that day. Mr. Crabb had been ill for about a fortnight, and particularly wished to be with them that day, but his doctor had sternly and definitely forbidden him to do so. He had, however, sent them a telegram, which he would read: "Heartiest congratulations to all; sorry I cannot join you." Another old friend, familiarly known amongst them as "Old Joe," had also sent them a nice letter conveying his heartiest congratulations and wishing them all a happy time.

Speaking to the toast of "The Judges," Mr. Heath said they had a good show again. He had nothing sensational to announce. The show was about the same in the number of its entries—a few more, he thought, than last year—whilst the quality was quite as good as usual. In some sections there might be a bit of a falling off, but it was made up in others which showed improvement. They had a good show, splendid weather, a better day they could not wish for; all that they now wanted was a good gate, and then everything would be all right. Following usual custom, he would ask the two youngest judges to reply—Messrs. E. J. Lamb and R. L. Crisp both of whom were on that occasion making their debut as judges at the Palace.

Mr. R. L. Crisp wished he had not been called upon to respond, for at the moment he felt more like a criminal than a judge. He did not suppose he had given satisfaction to everyone, but he had pleased himself. Possibly had he given all the exhibitors lists he could have satisfied them. He had made his selections, and placed his own views before them somewhat as an autocrat. He could do it there. It was some satisfaction to a married man to be able to say and do as he liked sometimes. He could not always do it at home. Those who were married would appreciate the point. He thanked them for the manner in which the toast had been received. He could say that he had some good birds in the classes he had handled, and he had enjoyed judging them.

Mr. E. J. Lamb replied briefly, and to the point—so briefly that one was led to believe that Mr. Lamb had taken to heart the advice tendered of old to "stand up, speak up, and shut up."

Mr Ramsden rose and asked the favour of the gathering to make a personal explanation. He had been accused in a certain quarter of using boycotting tactics, and the impression was abroad that the L.P.O.S. was boycotting the L.C.B.A. He could assure them that such was not the case. There was no feeling of antagonism in the L.P.O.S. towards the L.C.B.A. There was room for both, and they on their part desired to work with rather than against the L.C.B.A. What had given rise to the idea was the fact that early in the year the L.P.O.S. decided to follow the custom of the Yorkshire Union regarding the rule that no judge should judge the same classes at two Union shows, and came to the decision that no judge should take the same classes at the Palace as he judged at the L.C.B.A.

Mr. W. Swaysland, in proposing "The Chairman," said they were always pleased to see Mr. Heath's smiling face, and pleased to see him in the chair to-day even though they regretted the reason of his being there.

Mr. Heath briefly thanked the company for toasting his health, and said he would convey to Mr. Crabb the meeting's regret and good wishes.

Record Sales AT THE CRYSTAL PALACE . SHOW. .

Splendid Wind-up to the 1913-14 Season.

A Fine Entry, a Fair Attendance, and Plenty of Eager Buyers of Birds.

Full Report by our Staff of Experts.

"Cage Birds" Specials Create Tremendous Excitement.

THE last landmark of the 1913-1914 season was left behind with the close of the Palace Show on Tuesday last. This fixture—the 55th of its kind—held Feb. 6, 7, 9, and 10, proved a worthy addition to the long list of successful exhibitions of cage birds housed in the historic "palace of glass" at Sydenham, and another feather in the cap of the London and Provincial O.S., under whose auspices it was held.

Sections that See-sawed.

The entry was once again really excellent—over 2,500 birds being on view—and the average per class in advance of that obtained last year. There were some rather curious fluctuations, however, in the various sections. Norwich Plainheads, for instance, assembled in great force, but their Crested brethren "slumped" in a manner that must have caused their admirers some concern—even one of the novice classes had to be cancelled. It was good to see the Scots Fancies and Belgians in fair numbers once again; and the Dutch Frills—curious creatures to English eyes—made quite a strong class. The insectivorous British bird section was another that "see-sawed" with a bang in the wrong direction; but the Foreign birds rose to the occasion in fine style and provided most attractive and well-filled classes, a pleasing contrast to the state of things prevailing in 1913.

The weather, that most important factor in the making or marring of the enjoyment of visitors and, to a certain extent, the comfort of the birds, was on something better than mere "best" behaviour. The height of the mercury in the thermometer would have done credit to a day in May. On the opening day the sunshine was glorious, and overcoats became a positive burden. During the Saturday afternoon heavy showers came on, but the air remained warm and the light good. Sightseeing was thus carried out under the pleasantest possible conditions and the birds looked their very best. We heard of no casualties whatever, and hardly a "sick and sorry" specimen needed attention during the live days the show lasted.

Much of the credit for the splendid condition of the exhibits is, of course, due to the excellent food provided, and to the excellent methods followed by those responsible for the feeding. Messrs. Trower and Co.'s noted insectivorous foods and yolk of egg were supplied to the softbill birds, and the seed-eaters were catered for by Messrs. Carter and Co., the renowned seedsmen. The work of feeding was in the hands of an able staff, with Messrs. Small and Grutchfield once more at the head of affairs. These veterans have grown grey in the service of the Palace Company and, incidentally of exhibitors of birds, having a record of over fifty years at C.P. shows!

Something Like a Food Bill.

The thoroughness of Small's methods is evidenced by the following list of foods which he handed to the show manager as being required:—Canary seed (sack), mixed seed (half-sack), hemp seed (do.), white millet (do.), Indian millet (do.), Parrot food, maw seed, small maize, English rape, German rape, spray millet, niger seed, wild seeds, oats, sponge cakes, bananas, oranges, grapes, apples, currants, rice, potatoes, eggs, meat, stale bread, condensed milk, mealworms, pot of honey, a few carrots,, "Cecto," "Softbilo," Lark food.

The management was again superlatively good. Exhibitors, of course, know that this goes without the saying. Their confidence in Mr. J. W. Ramsden, the genial show manager, has been proven over and over again by the splendid entry so consistently accorded him. He is out to do his best for all concerned, and fanciers always get from him a fair and square deal. Whatever promises he makes he performs, and while he keeps a cute eye on the "box office receipts," as every successful manager must, he is ever ready to listen to anything exhibitors or others may have to suggest, and to carry out their ideas if practicable. The latest instance of his consideration was seen in the permission he offered to give to owners of delicate foreign birds to remove their exhibits from the show on the Saturday night, should the weather turn out to be sufficiently severe to cause them any discomfort. So long as J. W. R. remains at the helm, it is a foregone conclusion that the Palace Show will remain a model one, and a credit to our hobby; and exhibitors will not forget the fact. Mr. Ramsden as we have many times had the pleasure of stating, is fortunate in commanding the help of two willing workers in Mrs. Ramsden and Mr. G. Ramsden, jun. The value of their assistance can be adequately appreciated only by those who know the long hours they put in for the "good of the cause," at much personal self-sacrifice.

The usual excellent paid staff of workers had great help rendered them by various members of the C. and P. O.S., prominent amongst them being Mr. and Mrs. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. Huggins, Madame Madewell, and Messrs. R. Bamber, G. H. Couzens, F. J. Day, F. J. Green, W. Kiesel, R. J. Pretty, J. Oldaker, R. A. Newley, and W. Salter. A pleasing feature was the manner in which several outside fanciers "took off their coats." Messrs. Parker Robinson, F. L. Marriott, Hutton, Wilcock and Brittain worked long and well. Mr. Hodder also supervised the packing of the Norwich on their return journey. The show was cleared with the utmost dispatch, and by 10 p.m. on the Tuesday every bird had left the room and was on its way home, where we hope all landed safely.

The attendance was perhaps hardly so good as on the occasion of the 1913 fixture; but it is not easy to judge, as sometimes the fact that an important football match is being held in the Palace grounds swells very considerably the crowd in the show-room. There was a fine sprinkling of provincial fanciers amongst the sightseers, and many old friendships underwent their annual renewal under the happiest of conditions. The signatures in CAGE BIRDS visitors' book, which will be published next week, will evidence the fact that there was no falling away in the attendance of the leading lights of the Fancy. There were many distinguished visitors, too, and we had the pleasure of explaining to Sir E. Ray Lankester, K.C.B., the eminent scientist, the intricacies of the various Hybrids, and the beauties of the breeds of Canaries. Sir Edwin expressed himself as charmed with all he saw.

We shall probably be able to see this show over again, for on the Friday a cinematograph operator was busy filming the scene—including many of the birds in their cages—and if successful the pictures will be shortly thrown on the screen at numerous halls and picture palaces throughout the country. We may have some further information to proffer on this point next week.

Wanderers Return to Their Homes.

No untoward incidents occurred, beyond the lodging of three or four protests against exhibitors in the novice section for alleged infringement of the novice rule. Only two birds escaped, and one—a Bearded Tit—was secured by the aid of a syringe full of water, much laughter being created owing to the dousing of Mr. Rochl's stall by the eager gentleman operating the syringe. A Hybrid got out by way of the waterhole. The owner could hardly believe this, and was inclined to the opinion that someone had negligently opened the door of the cage; the bird, however, was returned by the way in which he made his exit and—well, seeing is believing!

The great sensation of the show was undoubtedly the judging for the £10 10s. trophy, the two £10 10s. cash specials and the £78 in cash specials offered by CAGE BIRDS in the grand finale of our Championship Coupon Competition, which has been so conspicuous and successful a feature at all the leading exhibitions of the country during the past season. The board outside the manager's office, on which the special prize awards are posted, was early besieged by an eager crowd anxious to know what their birds had done, and who had secured the coveted chief prizes. Our office and stall, too, were bombarded with telegrams and letters from competitors seeking similar information. The championship £10 10s. trophy fell to Mr. A. J. Smith's magnificent Crest, which also, of course, secured the £10 10s. for best champion bird, and the £10 10s. for the best novice bird to the lovely even-marked Goldfinch Mule so well staged by Mr. W. Levick, of Tamworth. We heartily congratulate these gentlemen on their success, and feel sure that their brother fanciers will join us in so doing. The section winners are fully detailed in our critique, but, as the awards are subject to scrutiny (as stated in our last issue), we do not propose to publish a final list until our next number.

By the invitation of Mr. Carl, the judges at the show partook of lunch on the Saturday, as some slight recognition of their work on CAGE BIRDS championship scheme at the Palace. They were joined by several representatives of the journal, members of the staff, etc. A jolly hour was spent, and everyone seemed to enjoy the good things provided by the caterers, Messrs. Lyons, an excellent cigar at the finish being a pleasing finale to the other "finale," in which the judges played so well their important part.

We heard very few "grumblers" round the show, and the gentlemen who succeeded in satisfying the exhibitors by their skill in sorting the wheat from the chaff (not that there was much of the latter on the benches), were Messrs. H. W. Battye, H. T. Camps, R. L. Crisp, J. Dewar, H. J. Fulljames, G. Gardner, T. Heath, J. Hodder, C. A. House, E. J. Lamb, W. Mundell, H. Norman, F. Oldroyd, A. Silver, W. Swaysland, G. E. Weston, and J. Wones, with Mr. J. Robson (reserve).

On every hand expressions of sympathy were heard with Mr. G. Crabb, the popular president, at his enforced absence, owing to illness, and the wish of all was that he may speedily and thoroughly recover.

The Money Box.

We believe the sales were a record, over £300 being taken at the office, and, strange to relate, the closing day equalled the amount taken on the Saturday, which is always considered to be the day. The highest priced bird to change hands was Mr. John Broad's grand buff Crested hen, at £35, and high as the price is, we know that popular John B. will be sorry to part with her. Mrs. Gould was the fortunate purchaser. Another notable exchange was Mr. R. L. Crisp's marked yellow Yorkshire, at £16; this bird is the sensational southern exhibit that whacked the best of them up Yorkshire way. Mr. Dykes, of Bradford, took a fancy to it. Many fanciers were looking for good Norwich at low figures, but they were not to be found. Mr. McAndrews' winner was claimed at 7 guineas, and Mr. Litchfield's unflighted buff at £5. The only sale of any note in the novice Norwich section was Messrs. Handley and Sons' grand buff hen, at £3 10/-. Mrs. Litchfield was almost in tears over the loss of her buff Crested hen, which somebody ran away with, leaving a five pound note at the sales office in exchange. In the Yorkshire section we heard that Mr. Binns 'charming unflighted bird had found a new owner at 10 guineas, and Messrs. Haggis's hen for three. Somebody could not resist securing Mr. Atkinson's lovely buff hen, standing second in the novice class; the price paid was £4 10s. A few Borders changed hands, the chief of which was Messrs. Burton Bros.' four-pointed yellow at £2. One of Mons. Anbac's Dutch Frills will not cross the Channel with him; it was secured at the catalogue price of 10 guineas by Mrs. Gould. No end of birds from the Limit and pair classes were claimed at popular prices, a proof of the value of the Palace as a sales ground. Several Hybrids from the Linnet class were picked up, and Mr. Jamieson's Dark Goldie will remain in a well-known Southern room, the figure being 4 guineas; also the 2nd prize dark in the novice section, at £3. The sales in the British bird section were not up to the average, and nothing was bought up at any sensational price, the chief being Mr. May's Waxwing at £3, and Mr. Goodall's Mealy Redpoll at £2. A Chaffinch out of the novice section, exhibited by Mr. James, of Brighton, standing 2nd, was secured for £2 10s. There were a few very nice exchanges in foreign birds, among them being a pair of Rosella Parrakects at £3, a Red-faced Love Bird at £10, Combassou at 3 guineas, Rainbow Buntings at £6, and the handsome Chinese Starling, exhibited by Mrs. Sharples, at 4 guineas. The extra stock class, as usual, was nearly cleared out, birds of every variety changing hands freely.

AMONG THE STALLHOLDERS.

Messrs. Spiller and Baker, Ltd. (Cardiff).—This well-known firm had on view the whole of their various specialities, chief amongst them being the well-known packet seeds and foods so essential to all keeping birds, together with their many medicines and remedies for ailing birds. We were informed that the recent demand has been far in excess of previous seasons, while their seeds were again being selected with that care and attention that have helped to build up the reputation the firm has established, and which every effort is used to maintain.

While hardly coming within the catagory of stalls, there was a very handsome show case holding the various special prizes to be won at Ramsden's Autumn Cage Bird Show, to be held at the Crystal Palace on Oct. 27th, 28th, and 29th next. Also there was a collection of the specials given for birds colour-fed solely on Mr. Ramsden's pure pepper—and very handsome prizes they were, the silver teapots, cigar and cigarette cases, cruets, etc., etc., were well worth winning. We elicited the fact from Mr. Ramsden that thet autumn show is being held to meet the requirements of amateurs and novices (with a guarantee that full prize money of 10/-, 6/-, 4/-, and 2/-, for an entry of 1/6, will be paid). There will be classes for champions, amateurs, and novices, and also £5 limit classes, while a specialist judge will adjudicate in each section. This certainly seems a step in the right direction, and we commend the show to our readers. The colour foods of Mr. Ramsden, for use during the 1914 season, are exceptionally fine.

Trower and Co., 442, Caledonian-rd., London.—At the stall of this well-known firm we were pleased to see that Mr. Trower was in personal attendance, and despite the fact that he was very busy, he had time, or at least made time, for a cheery word with all. Many an old customer came to renew acquaintanceship, while Mr. Trower, with a novice, was always obliging and doing his best by a hint in the right direction as to feeding, to assist by his advice. We carefully looked over the various seeds, canary, rape, millet, hemp, linseed; in fact, seeds of all sorts; they were of the very best, and were there merely for show purposes, for many a bag during the time of the show had to be renewed. The patent foods, "Cecto," "Softbilo," and "Egbisco," Mr. Trower was able to inform us were still in great demand, and as the years roll on are sold in ever-increasing quantities. One word of advice we are asked to convey to readers, and that is, ere long canary seed will have a very sharp rise, and those who are wise will buy now, ere the price is against them. This firm again supplied the food for the insectivorous birds in the show.

J. Carter and Sons, Raynes Park.—This well-known firm ("Good Old Carters") had their usual stall arranged as a huge cage, upon which we saw some excellent food of the right quality. It is almost sufficient to recommend this firm's food anywhere simply to mention again the fact that they were responsible for the seed supplied to the exhibits during the show. It is always a pleasure to inspect the excellent quality of the foods which have made such a name for this firm. Carters stand for "the best" in seeds of all varieties. A P.C. to the above address is all that is necessary to bring their price list along per return.

W. J. Hammond, Catford, manufacturer of a medicinal preparation called "Parmassina," for Canaries and all kinds of cage birds. It is claimed that this preparation prevents and cures asthma, wheezing, diarrhœa, and as a tonic during the moulting season and the winter months is invaluable. It is sold dry, and mixed with the food it is stated that the birds will readily take it, and that the effect after a day or two is to give the ailing bird a new lease of life.

NOTABILITIES OF THE HYBRID AND BRITISH BIRD SECTIONS.

R. A. Newley, Stockwell Green, London.—This well-known manufacturer of cages and appliances of every description had a grand display of his specialities, and we cannot speak too highly of the workmanship—it was really excellent, while the prices charged, seeing the quality, are most reasonable. Show cages were very nicely got up and finished, while the breeding cages were built upon a plan making it very easy for attending to the inmates. Parrot cages, flight cages, stock cages, etc., all were there, and the finish showed that only expert workmanship is employed in the manufacture. "Ranio" Bird Tonic is now being used in large quantities, and Mr. Newley holds testimonials from the leading exhibitors as to its great value.

R. Hyde and Co., Camberwell, London.—This firm had on view many useful appliances, chief amongst which was their famous food hopper and holder, while their well known Iron Tonic Grit, Parrot Food, Aesthetic Seeds for Song Birds, Special Seed, Fruit and Egg Flake Mixture, were all being shown. The Hartz Mountain Bread, we are told, was at present in great demand. The firm was making many new friends; their regular customers are never afraid to recommend them, and are doing so daily. Fanciers with lung trouble amongst their birds cannot do better than give a trial to the famous Lung Drops prepared by this firm; it is in liquid form, and easily administered

W. Baron and Co., Ltd., Bacup.—Manufacturers of "The Kozy Karrier," which is worthy of the notice of all exhibitors of birds. They claim that the greatest drawback to exhibiting is the great risk of exposure to which the birds are liable to and from the shows, and that by the use of the "Karrier" this is eliminated. The boxes are made of vulcanised fibre, and while undoubtedly streets in front of the old wooden box, they cost no more. The cases are extremely light, and thus money is saved in railway charges. Many fanciers saw the wonderful test that the "Karrier" was put to, viz., an empty box was placed upon the ground, and we saw two bulky fellows stand upon it without in any way damaging or injuring it. This is a great point when we remember the liability to rough usage on the railway. A P.C. to the firm at the Yorkshire Street Mills, Bacup, will by return bring fanciers full particulars and prices, which are extremely moderate.

Joe Thomas, Ambler Thorn, Halifax.—At this stall we could not, even had we tried, have failed to be interested, for "Joe," who was in personal attendance, and, let us whisper quietly, highly elated at his success with his show birds, gave us a hearty Yorkshire welcome. The birds for sale which he had on view were really excellent and sound specimens, while the prices asked were most reasonable; the birds were being offered and sold upon his usual guarantee of good faith, viz., seven days' approval at his risk. This is dealing of the correct stamp, and one which commends itself to every fancier, for it shows that Mr. Thomas is always ready and willing to back the birds he sells, viz., that at the price the quality is correct. Under these circumstances sales were, as might be expected, very brisk. If you have not got a catalogue, take our advice and send for one to Mr. Thomas, a P.C. is sufficient, but kindly mention CAGE BIRDS when writing.

Charles Roehl, 400, Edgware Road, London.—There were some excellent Rollers on this stall, and we were very much amused by a query we heard a charming member of the fair sex address to her escort. She enquired whether they were called Rollers after Mr. Roehl! The birds and appliances on view were really splendid, and again the price asked for the exhibits appeared to us quite reasonable, while the appliances for bird-room and aviary were very excellent. Mr. Roehl caters well for Roller fanciers.

THE NORWICH PLAINHEAD CANARIES.

Norwich Plainheads came together in good numbers, in considerable advance on last year's entries. There were some magnificent specimens on view in both the champion and novice classes. Mr. Victor Williams' winning yellow is a nice bird, but we greatly admired Mr. Crawshaw's 2nd prize yellow, also Mr. McAndrew's variegated buff. This bird won CAGE BIRDS £3 coupon special. It was generally admitted that there never has been seen such a grand array of novice Norwich, especially as regards quality. 117 birds were staged in the four classes allotted, and some of them could have won in the champion classes. The winning buff could have won amongst the buffs in the champion class. This bird is a true Norwich, the winning yellow is a lovely specimen, and the unflighted yellow shown by Mr. N. Leese would be hard to find fault with; this bird was shown in grand form, and does its owner great credit for the excellent way in which it was staged. On the whole the Norwich Canary is certainly advancing, and has an ever increasing number of admirers, as was proved by the large numbers gathered around the chubby ones. We had the pleasure of meeting many well-known fanciers, among whom were Mr. E. Baker, Cowes, Mr. Peter Waring, Preston, Messrs. Richardson, Matthes, Crawford, Cole, Byne, Kerr, Steed, Spillman, jun., Gill, Plymouth, Dr. Weeks, Southampton, Richards, Treorchy, and many others.

Mr. H. W. Battye's Classes.

CL. YELL. (15): 1, CAGE BIRDS £1 prize, Victor Williams, well up in size, grand silky feather, deep, rich col., not best of heads; 2, Crawshaw, grand bird all over, good full head, cobby shape, splendid front, deep and well over, as we saw it, our choice; 3, Joe Thomas, bold bird, size all there, neat wings and tail, body well clothed with good silky coat, had moulted few feathers, which probably told against it; 4, Irons, blaze of colour, true wedge shape, tight feather, very compact, carries right wing a little awkwardly at times; vhc, sp., C. W. Silk; hc, Wilson; c, Williams. BUFF (8): 1, Joe Thomas, wonderful size, sound col., nice bloom and frosting, good, well filled in back, most useful for breeding room; 2, C. W. Silk, very deep col., carries splendid texture of feather for a bird of such size, but loses to winner in shape; 3, Houghton, not so large, perhaps, but closer feather, very compact, loses little in size to leaders, but a good bird for all that; 4, Ball, very smart, well across perch, flights splendidly covered with lovely silky coat, good carriage, fails a little in head properties; vhc, Williams; hc, Taylor; c, Pippon. Taking them on the whole, we have seen better buffs at the Palace on former occasions. TED., ETC.

YELL. (13): 1, CAGE BIRDS 10s, champion prize, McAndrew, eye, neck, and wing mkd., nice front, fair shape, blaze of col., feather of the best texture; 2, Houghton, mkd. both wings and eye, sweet bird, like a wedge, feather of the very finest qual., fitting closely, not so large perhaps, but very neat; 3, Rippon, marked head and wing, well-known winner, in good form and well shown, deserves its place; 4, Joe Thomas, nice col. and texture of feather, had apparently moulted several feathers around beak and neck, which probably put it back; vhc, Capt. Collier, very nice bird; hc, sp., Richardson; c, sp., Marsh. BUFF (15): 1, CAGE BIRDS' £3 championship prize and coloured diploma, McAndrew, variegs., grand size, sweetly moulted throughout, very bold specimen, grand idoom, shown in fine form; 2, Williams, another of the right stamp, perhaps larger head than leader, equally as good in feather, but not so massive in build, nor so hot in col., nevertheless, a good 2nd; 3, Houghton, well-known winner, saddle marked, another of those large ones, which carries type and silky texture of feather, hardly in so good form to-day as we have seen it, owing no doubt to strain of show season; 4, Hirst, one of the coobiest, deep, broad chest, grand neck, clean, cut away, teeming with quality, could have stood higher perhaps; vhc, Crawshaw, another charming birds; hc, Hathaway; c, Taylor, a very nice class. HEN, YELL. (12): 1, Joe Thomas, rich, deep colour for a hen, and certainly a large one, carries nice feather, but we preferred 2, Butler, a beautiful hen, sweetly moulded throughout, broad, deep chest, short and compact body, very close feather; 3, Crawshaw, grizzled tailed, very short and smart, lovely plumage, qual. of the finest, best of wing and tail, carriage close up; 4, Pickles, nice big hen, of true Nor. properties, hardly the quality perhaps; vhc, Richardson; hc, Marsh; c, Howard. BUFF (17): 1, Houghton, Horticultural Hall winner, really a grand hen, one of the best of heads, grand shape for such a big one, great depth, hard to find fault with, wins; 2, Baker, another of wonderful size, feathered to perfection, bold front, best of colour, good second; 3, Miles, right stamp, true to type, splendid wing and tail, carriage, loses a little in size and depth; 4, Pickles, broad, well filled back, broad chest, good size, presses hard; vhc, Marsh; hc, Paling; c, Sampson; indeed a wonderful class. UNFLIG. YELL. (21): 1, sp., 4, Joe Thomas, cl., grand shape, stands right across, wings and tail well carried, nice even col., shown in the pink, 4th, ticked back of head, Horticultural Hall winner, one of the best in class, but had moulted several feathers on back, which no doubt told against it; 2, Houghton, better head and col., and rather deeper front as it appears to-day, but loses a little in condition to leader, make a stormer another year; 3, Victor Williams, nice round back and chest, good wings, well clothed with feather of best texture, loses a little in colour, and has moulted few feathers on head; 5, Butler, beautiful head, sweetest shape, nice qual., rather paler in col. than leaders, a nice one for all that; vhc, Foxall, Houghton; hc, Irons; c, Hirst. BUFF (22): 1, CAGE BIRDS £2 prize in champion section, 5, Joe Thomas, fine massive bird, great depth of chest, in fine form, wins, 5th, bird of great size, and subs., but not so compact; 2, Crawshaw, variegated, sweet exhibit, a Norwich all over, very neat head, short, compact body, teeming with qual. and rich in col., not quite so large, but a good second; 3, Lichfield, finely built, broad, deep chest, stands well over, wonderful qual. for bird of such great size, fails a little in head to leaders; 4, McAndrew, another of right sort, nice qual., little slack at thighs when we saw it; vhc, Hathaway, Pickles; he, Butler; c, Sampson.

Mr. J. Hodder's Classes.

NOVICE YELLOW, CL., ETC. (30): 1, CAGE BIRDS Novice Diploma, Stubbs Brothers, neat head, finest shape, nicely rounded body, very compact, finest colour and qual.; 2, Birkenshaw, variegs., another really nice bird, shows himself off to perfection, red hot col., close up; 3, Sheppard, mkd. head, neck and wings, true wedge shape, nice level col., fine bold front, hardly so broad; 4, Handley and Son, very large bird, good head and neck, feather of finest texture, hardly so good in wings and tail as leaders, useful stock bird; ex. 4, Bielby, wing tkd., grandest of heads, lovely shape, quality of feather all to wish for, seems to have moulted several feathers on head, or might easily have been higher up; 5, Burgess, sweet bird, Norwich all over, fails to leaders in col; vhc, Gough and Loach, Sears; hc, Cunduff, Gill; c, sp., Phillips, Brown. BUFF (25): 1, Stubbs Bros., cl., grand bird, wonderful skull, hard to find fault with, an eye opener for a novice, could have won in open; 2, James, shape of the best, close fitting jacket of finest texture, very sound col., very compact, but hardly the subs. of leader; 3, Richards, smooth as glass, beautiful col. and frosting, very neat all through, fails only in subs.; 4, Sheppard, eye mkd., good chubby bird, full broad skull, clean cut, splendid wings and tail, loses little in qual.; 5, Raver, nice shape and qual.; vhc, Brown, Olle; hc, Cunduff, Gough and Loach; c, Phillips, Allen, two very strong classes. HENS A.V. (25): 1, Walker, variegs. yell., broad, full chested hen, good Norwich properties all through, a big one, well shown, wins; 2, Handley and Son, cl. yell., very neat head, fine body shape, stands right across perch, clean cut away behind, useful hen, loses only in size; 3, J. Davies, another of right stamp, charming lady, in grand form, close up; 4, 5, Gough and Loach, mkd. buff leading, sweetly moulded all over close and compact, splendid car., a good fourth, 5th, charming hen, for shape, hardly subs. perhaps; vhc, Scholes, Graham; hc, Allen, Sheppard; c, Phillips, Brown. UNFLIG. (36): 1, Fretz, cl. yell., little gem, a true Norwich it would be hard to find, short, compact bird, lovely front, glorious qual., grand, even col. with just a little more size would hold his own anywhere; 2, Gough and Loach, mkd. buff, grand, thick-set birds, finest feather, richest quality, lovely col. and bloom, loses a little in wing car.; 3, Sears, cl., yell., another of right stamp, sweet bird, light as a Java, well shown, hardly size of leader, still a nice one; 4, Pyman, nice and compact all through, very sweet bird; ex. 4, J. Davies, very nice buff, well modelled, not quite the finish, but a useful bird; 5, Sheppard, another very good buff, splendid even col., just a little slack at thighs, which no doubt told against it; vhc, King, Birkenshaw, Handley and Son; hc, Pyman, Wilford, Paver; c, Scholes, Lacombe. COCK, LIMIT., 30s. (51): 1, Thomas, yell., very nice bird, Norwich all over, quickly claimed; 2, sp., Law, yell., mkd., very cobby, rich qual., and red hot col., won Ramsden's spl.; 3, Bennett, buff, nice bold specimen; 4, Phillips; 5, Martin; vhc, Myles, Parr, Martin, Richardson; hc, Jones Wilson; Axe; c, Johnson, Marsh, A. E. Silk. HEN, 20s. (21): 1, G. Thomas, sweet yell., very short, deep chest, really smart hen, cheap; 2, E. J. Richardson, buff, large hen, correct shape, very nice feather; 3, Battersley, another very sweet hen, hardly size of leaders; 4, Wickham; vhc, Phillips, Miles; hc, Wilson, Silk; c, Parr, Silk. Some very useful birds were staged in these classes.

THE YORKSHIRE CANARIES.

Judge, Mr. W. Mundell.

The Yorkshires were a grand lot, the two unflighted classes taking the cream. The unflighted yellow of Messrs. Amblers' is a real gem, the very best youngster we have seen out. It won special for best Yorks in the show, also Mr. White's 10s. 6d. and Ramsden's colour spl. What a pity such a grand specimen of the Yorkshire variety was not entered in the CAGE BIRDS Championship Competition. It would indeed have made a worthy champion of champions. The unflighted buff was soon claimed at catalogue price, £10 10s. Mr. Binns' old-buff won again for the third time in succession in four seasons; this bird has won one second and three firsts at the Palace, a performance which will make its name long to be remembered in the history of the Yorkshire Fancy.

The two classes of young birds were indeed something wonderful. For general Yorkshire properties we donbt if two classes of higher merit have ever been seen at the Crystal Palace. Good as were the representatives of Messrs. Ambler and Binns, those of Messrs. Ogden Bros., Bennett, Dykes, Kearns, and Smith Bros. ran them hard, so hard in fact that it was quite a toss up as to the relative positions which any of the first half-dozen held. Mr. R. L. Crisp's green-marked young yellow is just a beauty. Proud, indeed, must its genial owner be at having bred such a remarkably fine specimen of the breed, one that did, and could, keep the best of the County of Broad Acres at bay. Beautiful, indeed, were the hens. Merit was to be seen on every hand, and the leaders of Messrs. Ogden Bros., Smith Bros., and Snead had nothing to spare against the lovely and graceful beauties staged by Messrs. Stewart, Sutcliffe and Son, Ambler, Shackleton, Thornton and Bower, and Radley. Very little, indeed, would have turned the tables in several instances. Cinnamon marks, although not what they were, made a good show, and the quality was generally better than expected.

CL. YELL. (16): 1, Snead, rare length, teeming with qual., rich level col., well on leg, long flights, well placed, piped tail, stands like a Guardsman; 2, Bailey, not so long as winner, full of qual., neat round head, clean on breast, grand pos., well placed wings, piped tail, put down in the pink of condition; 3, Crawhall, blaze of col., boxy feather, grand wings and piped tail, pos. A1, neat head; 4, Hartley, rich level col., true to type, grand wings and tail, neat round head, pos.; vhc, Thomas, rare length and pos., rich col., grand flights and tail; vhc, Dykes, blaze of col., full of qual, very stylish; hc, Pyman; c, Ogden Bros. CL. BUFF (16): In this class some good birds were benched, and the competition was very keen. CAGE BIRDS £3 champion prize winner was Mr. Binns' buff, a bird full of quality, grand type, beautiful wings and tail; 2, also Binns, close up to winner, but not so long, full of qual., grand wings and piped tail, good head; 3, Chippendale, true to type, well placed wings, piped tail, good head, full of qual., rich level col.; 4, Sutcliffe and Son, good length, full of qual., well placed wings, neat tail, bit soiled; vhc, Ogden Bros., full of qual., very stylish, rich col., good head; vhc, Matthews, rare length, boxy feather, rich col.; hc, Heggie; c, Hirst. TKD. YELL. (16): 1, Snead, mkd. on wing and thigh, rich col., well on leg, grand wings, well placed, piped tail, full of qual., neat head; 2, 3, Dykes, 2nd, Scottish National, Bradford National, and Sheffield winner, a bird of rare length and teeming with qual., grand wings and tail, pos. A1, a close race; 3rd, cap mkd., pale col., full of qual., long flights and tail, well on leg, grand pos., very steady; 4, Towers, thigh tkd., rich col., boxy feather, very typical, grand wings and tail; vhc, Bailey, very stylish, lovely qual. of feather, rich level col.; vhc, Helliwell, slim and typical, boxy feather, not so long as winners; hc, Clarke; c, Binns. TKD. BUFF (18): 1, and CAGE BIRDS 20s. special, Mason, thigh tkd., very typical, full of qual., well up on leg, neat head, pair of grand wings, and piped tail; 2, hc, Crawhall, cap mkd., rich salmon col., boxy feather, well up on leg, neat round head, very stylish; 3, Dykes, thigh tkd., lovely qual., well braced wings, piped tail, pos. A1, neat head, rich col.; 4, Bennett, thigh tick, rich col., good head and wings, piped tail, full of qual., well up on leg, well put down; vhc, Kearns, true to type, lovely qual. of feather, well on leg, pair of grand wings; vhc, Sutcliffe and Son, full of qual., well-placed wings, piped tail, pos. A1; hc, Dyson; hc, Crawhall; c, Heggie. UNFLIG. YELL. (29): 1, sp. best Yorks., 10s. 6d. sp., also Ramsden sp., Amblers, a gem, feathered like wax, wings perfect, well up on leg, pos. A1, rich deep col., grand tail; 2, Bennett, grand type, rich level col. throughout, well on leg, good head, grand wings and tail, boxy feather; 3, 4, Kearns, 3rd, very slim and stylish, level col., boxy feather, grand wings, and piped tail; 4th, rare length, grand back, good wing carr., piped tail, rich level col., fails a little on head; 5, Dykes, slim, pos. A1, feather like wax, well on leg, good wing carr., piped tail; vhc, Bailey, nice type, lovely feather, wing, and tail, good head; vhc, Dugmore, rich col., well on leg, piped tail, very typical; hc, Crisp; hc, Hirst; c, Thomson; c, Stewart. UNFLIG. BUFF (23): 1, Binns, lovely qual., well on leg, good head, boxy feather, grand wings, well braced to side, piped tail, pos. A1, a gem, soon claimed at £10 10s.; 2, Ogden Bros., rare length, long flights, and piped tail, full of qual., boxy feather, very typical; 3, Dykes, good head and neck, well braced wings, pos., piped tail, rich col., boxy feather; 4, Amblers, rare length, neat head, good wings, piped tail, rich col., very stylish; 5, Smith Bros., lovely feather, grand wings and tail, neat head, rich level col., very erect and steady; vhc, Thomas; vhc, Bonnett; hc, Sutcliffe and Son; hc, Halliday; c, Stewart; c, Shackleton. YELL. HEN (25): 1, Smith Bros., rich col., lovely qual. of feather, well up on leg, good head, grand wings and piped tail, pos. A1, very steady; 2, Stewart, feathered to perfection, neat round head, level col., grand wings, piped tail, very typical; 3, Sutcliffe and Son, pale col., lovely feather, well on leg, neat head, grand wings and piped tail, well benched; 4, Amblers, feathered like wax, rare length, long flights, lacks a little in pos., and not steady when handled; 5, Radley, rich col., boxy feather, neat head, grand wings and tail; vhc, Darlington Bros.; vhc, Ogden Bros.; hc, c, Kearns; hc, Shackleton; c, Lane. BUFF HENS (20): 1, Ogden Bros., cheek tick, lovely qual. of feather, pos. A1, neat head, grand wings and tail, rare length, wins sp. best hen in classes 41 and 42; 2, Shackleton, rich level col., good head, nice pair of wings, well braced to side, piped tail, lovely qual., rare length, pos. Mr. R. L. Crisp's Classes.

The Novice Yorkshire classes were handled by that enthusiastic fancier, Mr. R. L. Crisp, who made his debut as a Palace judge, and acquitted himself well. He had about 130 to sort over in seven classes, not at all a bad average, and the quality was so level that considerable discretion was needed in selection. If the novice continues on the same road as the quality of the birds indicated he is travelling at present, he will, in numerous instances soon have to don the champion's robe. Yellows were very good—there might have been a little too much "size" for some, but the quality was there; so it was in the buffs; and as for the hens—they were A1 at Lloyd's in many cases. In the unflighted classes there were many birds of great promise.

NOV. YORKS. CL. or TKD. YELL. CK. (20): 1, silver medal for best nov. Yorks., Fisher and Dyson, full size, plenty of length, gets up well on its legs, good feather, a nice one; 2, Chew, tkd., all of a dance, good length, nice behind leg, good tone of feather; 3, Croft, a sweet bird, not quite so rich in col. perhaps, or so long, but a smart Yorkie; 4, Atkinson, grand length behind the leg, tail just a trifle wide, but a bird of rare position, feather and nerve; 5, Ramsden's sp. for best fed nov. Yorks., Wood, rare col., nice mover, good feather; vhc, Taylor and Wright, very pretty, stands well; Chew, scarcely so long as some, but quick in action, and typical; hc, Midgeley, smart, hardly so long behind the leg; Russell, similar; c, Naylor, very neat and good; Armstrong, good length, but not quite so fine in quality. BUFF (17): 1, sp. bronze medal, 2nd best novice Yorks., and CAGE BIRDS diploma best novice coupon bird, Marshall Bros., grand type, well positioned bird, nice top end, beautiful feather, very nervy; 2, Sheard, lovely qual., tkd., full of fire, well on the leg, neat head; 3, Jones, plenty of qual., good length, well tapered, nice ramp and tail; 3, Midgeley, very sweet bird, trille flat in col., but very bloomy, good length, travels well, and nicely proportioned; vhc, Knowles, possibly a bit stronger in build, but a grand mover; J. W. Jones, full of qual. and style, gets its wings across, which probably told against it; hc, Knowles, another sweet bird, plenty of life and qual.; c, Wood, lovely feather, stands well, just a wee bit strong in build. MKD. or VARIEG. (14): 1, Hodgson, slashing variegs. yell., grand length and taper, goes up like a rocket, neat head, and well proportioned; 2, Hamlyn, variegs. buff, fine length, plenty of swagger, nicely cut away, gets well on leg; 3, Kirkbright, variegs. yell, stylish, full of go, good quality, rare hind parts, very pretty and typey; 4, H. Jones, variegs. buff, we liked much, moves splendidly, silky feather, nicely cut away, but inclined to spread its tail a trille, yet a smart bird; vhc, Hodgson, wing variegs. of grand length, a racy lengthy bird, well on the leg; hc, sp., Chew, rattling variegs. buff, nice length, feather and pose; c, Butterfield, not the bulk of some, yet very sweet. UNFLIG. YELL. (18): 1, Chew, variegs., beautiful pos., grand length, travels well, nice head and neck, well up on the leg; 2, Rothwell, lovely qual. for the length, darts along its perch in grand style, and goes up like a soldier; 3, Swaine, very nicely moulded, sweet feather, quite an elegant bird, stands well away from its perch; 4, Spencer and Maiden, good length, nice head and neck, well on the leg, might be a trifle cleaner at chest and carry flights a bit more evenly, but a good one; vhc, Messrs. Haggis, capped, good proportions and action; J. W. Jones, a racer, well moulded, nice feather; hc, Wilkinson, beautiful model, hardly the length of some; c, sp., grand qual., nice length, quick action. BUFF (15): 1, Atkinson, grand Yorkie, travels splendidly, full of qual. and breed points; 2, Midgeley, tkd. bird, stands up proudly, swagger sancily, and displays his points to the full; 3, Kirkbright, we liked very much, nice pos., head, feather, and rump, well on the leg and nicely finished; 4, Huggins, tkd., full of qual., very typey, tank up boldly; vhc (3), sp., Sayles, both smart; hc, Hodgson, very neat and stylish, plenty of qual.; c, Watkins, neat shape, nice feather. HENS, YELL. (18): 1, Hamlyn, good length and taper, elegant pos., rare feather, sweet head, a very stylish lady; 2, Luther, almost, if not quite, the equal of first in all the necessary points; 3, Haggis, very shapely, lovely jacket, correct pose, a grand hen; 4, Sanders, another stylish lady, not afraid to deport herself as becomes a York hire damsel, very fine in feather; vhc, Naylor, Hirst, both sweet hens, both typical; hc, Atkinson, nice length, racy, but just a trifle spare in neck; c, Sheard, very pretty lady, that would top the tree in many show. BUFF (20): 1, Fisher and Dyson, such lovely feather—nothing can equal a buff in that respect—lands in stately fashion, full of swagger, very sweet; 2, Atkinson, another topping hen, very stylish, nice length and quick action; 3, Butterfield, very stylish, grand feather, proportionate and good; 4, vhc, Hodgson, junr., both very pretty, nice qual., plenty of breed points, little to choose; vhc, Bamber, rattling good Yorkie that cannot fail to breed good young if properly mated; hc, Hirst, Wood, latter full of qual., cl., well cut away; former very neat and sweet; c, Sanders, neat as needs be; Kirkbright, nice taper, good feather.

THE CRESTS & CREST-BREDS.

Judge, Mr. T. Heath.

Last year it was our pleasure to congratulate the Crest Fancy upon having reached a degree of excellence both in numbers and quality such as the Crystal Palace had not seen for many years. That spurt, for it was nothing more, raised the hopes of many, and it was hoped that the Crest Fancy would take heart from the success and go on to greater and higher things. The hope, however, has proved to be elusive, a mere will o' the wisp. To-day we have to record the fact that Crests at the Palace were a disappointment. There was a drop of about forty per cent. in the entry, and the quality was far from being equal to that of twelve months since. It is not our wish to imply that the Crests and Crest-breds staged this week were a poor lot. They were not, but as a whole they did not fill the eye like the wonderful collection of last year. Crest men will remember how that last year Messrs. Greenwood and Bunson, of Swindon, created a great sensation by capturing all the leading specials with a most wonderful variegated buff hen. On this occasion the crack bird of the section was Mr. A. J. Smith's clear body dark Crest. If we mistake not, this bird was second last year to Mr. F. G. Ball's wonderful dark-tailed bird. This time it turned the tables on its erstwhile conqueror, and then went on from one achievement to another, gathering in all the spoil that crossed its path. Its achievements in the way of special winning were great. It secured the L.P.O.S. challenge cup, a feat it accomplished last year, and as Mr. Smith has now won it three times the cup becomes his own property, and he is to be most heartily congratulated. It then went on to annex the championship diploma for the best Crest, the Victorian Canary Society's special for the best Crest or Crest-bred, and finished by annexing CAGE BIRDS' £3 for the best Crest or Crest-bred, and the Hand-coloured Diploma for the best Champion Coupon Bird, also the £10 10s. CAGE BIRDS cash prize, and the £10 10s. CAGE BIRDS challenge trophy, as the champion of champions amongst the diploma winners. It did more than any Crest had previously done at a Palace show. One most peculiar thing in connection with its winning was the way in which it was talked about on the Friday afternoon. Not once did we hear anyone speak of "Smith's magnificent Crest," or similar remark, but what we did hear over and over again, until in sheer desperation we had to go and see this wonder, was—"Have you seen 244?" "What a wonderful bird that 244 is": and so on. Evidently the bird was so good that it became a popular idol, and all thought of its owner was merged and lost in its own great charm. It is good to see the old names keeping to the front, and a good old one was it that came out on top in the Buff Crested hens—Mr. J. Broad. J. B. has bred many a good one in his time, and he is particularly fond of hens, so his win in this class would be particularly pleasing to him, and it was a good win, too. Mr. Heath placed her second to "the wonderful 244" in CAGE BIRDS' Championship competition. If they had a knock back in the first two classes, those for Buff Crests, the West of England breeders made no mistake in those for Crest-breds. They rattled up 1, 2, 3, in the cocks, and led the way in hens. Messrs. Evins Bros. won in each class with a gem, but evidently their opinion as to the relative merits of their pair did not agree with that of Mr. Heath. We take it, from the fact that the hen was the owner's selection in the CAGE BIRDS' Competition, that they considered her the best, but Mr. Heath preferred the cock, to which he gave the championship for the best C.B. The Buff Crest-bred hen class was one of the strongest last year; on this occasion it was the weakest. It is strange how sections vary from year to year. Amongst the yellows last year's quality was not upheld. We missed the splendid green shown by Mr. Ley, Mrs. Taylor's lovely grey, and that wonderful old champion of Mr. Brotherton's, now, alas! gone the way of all flesh. Twelve months since Mr. Bale was beaten by Mr. Colledge in the class for Crests of the current year, but on this occasion he turned the tables on his then conqueror, whilst in the Crest-breds he further improved on his 1913 performance by taking 1st and 2nd. This trio of youngsters will uphold the reputation of the Devonshire breeders, especially so as Messrs. Evins Bros. slipped in 3rd and 4th in the Crests. Although not reaching the high water mark of 1913, the Crest section contained many most excellent exhibits, and was well up to the average of recent years. It will be memorable for the success of Mr. Smith's Crest, and the fact that the two Devonshire studs put up the following score—3 specials, 5 firsts, 4 seconds, 3 thirds, and 1 fourth in the 8 classes. Evidently there are other good things in "glorious Devon" than cream and cider.

BUFF CRESTED CK. (8): 1, CAGE BIRDS £3 championship prize, £10 10s. cash special, and £10 10s. shield, and coloured diploma, L.P.O.S., silver challenge cup, Victorian C.S. spl. Palace championship diploma, Smith, wonderful cl. body, dark, great spread, beautifully even in radiation, most charming dress, very heavy front, excels in length, width, density and qual. of crest feather, gaudily finished all round, chubby, shapely body, clothed in beautifully silky, but strong feather, staged with the finish that we used years ago to associate with the famous stud of that good fancier G. E. R., of Brierley Hill, looked like last year's second; 2, Bale, cl. body, with dark tail and crest, tremendously dense and heavy in crest feather, rare width of frontal, great spread and radiation, lovely droop, grandly finished back, rare qual. of body feather, the centre was spoilt by a few feathers which rose and twisted, but even with this failing it must have run the winner hard; 3, Memmott, wing and tail mkd., beautifully rounded crest, very neatly and clearly defined in centre, better in this respect than either of the leaders, and from this centre the crest feather radiates beautifully all round, but it just lacked the density and spread seen in them; 4, McLay, green, with pied tail, rare stout body, grand in shape and beautifully feathered, good large crest, but more hairy in texture, and is inclined to lift on the right side; vhc, Woollard, saddle mkd., grand width and spread of crest, capital centre and radiation, not so heavily feathered in headgear, and not so good in body feather; hc, Bewick, wing mkd., very neat, shapely crest, grandly centred and radiated, beautiful qual., birt needs more width and spread, nicely drooped, a graudly modelled headpiece, but not enough of it; c, Todd. BUFF HEN (7): 1, Broad, takes CAGE BIRDS championship £2 prize, heavily mkd., hardly so distinct and clear in centre as we like them, but the feather is very dense and heavy in character, it radiates evenly all round, is beautifully dropped, well finished in front, and at sides and back, a really typical, high-class exhibit, and worthy of her position; 2, Woollard, an almost green hen, very distiuct centre, grand radiation, very dense and heavy in feather, which is of lovely quality, nicely drooped in front and sides, but is a trifle coppy finished, is also long in body and erect in carriage, looks like last year's fourth; 3, Radley and Son, wing mkd., beautifully centred and drooped, very heavy frontal and sides, but is somewhat thin and unfurnished in back, a magnificent bird, but it bore the impression of having done a good season's work; 4, Colledge, heavily mkd., nicely radiated, well drooped, beaten in width of frontal, good qual. and substance of feather, general effect spoilt by a few refractory feathers that would persist in sticking up in the centre; vhc, McLay, might possible have gone a notch higher, not so heavily built in headgear as some of the others, splendid front and droop, not over clear in centre; hc, Mrs. Litchfield; c, Mrs. Gould. C.-B. BUFF CK. (14): 1, and championship, Evins Bros., variegd., great width and subs. of frontal, grand rise of skull, which is of the correct thumb shape and not pinched in front or back, heavily lashed brows, tremendous turn-back both for length and density, capital body shape, a well-finished, graudly shown exhibit, a great credit to its youthful breeders; 2, Bale, green, with pied tail, grand dome-shaped skud, very heavily lashed brows, great width of front, neat beak, skull furnished with a dense mass of broad long feather of rare qual., 3rd heavily variegd., not quite so much width of frontal, but head is covered with a profusion of heavy feather, long, thick, and wide, but yet of nice quality, plenty of browing, tremendous substance and length of body feather, these two birds gave evidence of the judge and exhibitor differing in opinion, as 3rd was Mr. Bale's nomination for CAGE BIRDS championship; 3, Memmott, heavily feathered clr., nice qual. of feather, good shaped skull, hardly so wide in frontal, and not so much substauce of body, shown in nice form; vhc, Broad, variegd., great width of frontal, good dome-shaped skull, heavily feathered on body and back skull, but just a little deficient in front and lash; hc, McLay, lovely qual., rare shaped body, beautifully feathered, not so massive in head, but well modelled; c, Linder. BUFF C.-B. HEN (5): 1, and £1 CAGE BIRDS special, Evins Bros., green, with pied tail, graudly shaped skull of nice width, beautifully lashed, well covered with dense broad long feather of lovely texture, capital body shape and feather, in the pink of condition; 2, 4, Bewick, heavily mkd., grand shaped skull, densely feathered and well lashed, nice width of frontal, very nice body shape and closely and compactly covered with heavy feather, 4th similar shape and markings, not quite so much subs. of skull and hardly so heavily feathered; last year Mr. Bewick undoubtedly lost the chief position owing to the handsome green hen which he exhibited not being well staged, and the same fault was noticeable in these two hens; good birds merit good staging, and should have it; 3, McLay, magnificently bodied gr., wonderful shape and carriage, and well covered with dense, broad, long feather of nice texture, not so wide or stout in skull, nicely lashed; vhc, Holmes, green, with pied wings and tail, very neat and shapely in body, not so wide in skull YELL. CREST (8): 1, Bewick, green, with pied wings and tail, very heavy densely-feathered crest, beautifully radiated and drooped, nice width of frontal, and well finished sides and back, just a wee bit irregular in centre, a really good bird and in grand fettle; 2, Smith, wing and tail mkd., large, well spread crest, great length of feather, but not quite so heavy and dense, more distinct in centre, and nicely finished, wants just a bit more droop; 3, Evins Bros., even mkd., centre rather far back, which makes frontal appear better than it really is, centre is well defined and crest neat in arrangement and droop, lovely col. and qual. of feather, a more than useful sort; 4, Holmes, saddle mkd., lovely qual. crest, beautifully dropped, and neat in front, sides, and back, not quite so neat in centre, and is rather coppy shaped in body; vhc, Taylor, pied tailed gr., very neat and pretty in crest, but not the length, density, or substance, also a bit coppy shaped in body. YELL. C.-B. (8): 1, Evins Bros., green, with pied wings and tail, lovely shape and substance of skull, wide front, very densely feathered, capital turn-back, heavily lashed, very shapely body covered with dense feather of high qual.; 2, Mrs. Litchfield, very massive, grand headed clr, splendid body shape, head and body both profusely covered with broad heavy feather, but not so tight and compact as that of the winner, and a bit slack in wing and tail; 3, Smith, lovely green, pied tail and neck, wonderful qual. of feather, grand shaped skull, not quite so massive or heavily feathered, very grandly shown; 4, Lindner, good useful variegd., rather longer in body, carries a lot of feather, but not quite so nicely put on as others; vhc, Colledge, not quite the sort we associate with this stud, lacking the stout heavy heads that they usually bear, lovely qual. and plenty of feather, but not the frame to carry it; hc, Brothertou, variegd., nice shape and style, good heavy feather, but needs more substance of skull and heavier lashing. 1913 BUFF CREST (5): 1, and 10s. prize in CAGE BIRDS championship competition, Bale, "Empress," heavily mkd., neat centre, grand width of front, nicely finished sides and back, splendid radiation and droop, crest feather very long, broad and dense, splendid body, well covered with grand qual. of feather, a lovely exhibit, and a most promising one to boot; 2, Colledge, even mkd. cock, great spread, very neat centre, almost perfect radiation, nice droop, very large circular headgear of nice qual, beautiful body covered with dense heavy feather; 3, 4, Evins Bros., rare shaped green, immense length of crest feather, but it lacks the width and strength of fibre of the others, very neatly centred, grandly radiated, very neatly finished all round, if with age it strengthens the fibre of its feather it should be a stormer next year, 4th very nice shapely clr. body dark, of lovely qual., very evenly radiated and nice droop, a qual. bird., but lacking substance; vhc, Todd, almost a self green, beautiful qual., neat centre, nice radiation and droop, not the width of frontal. BUFF C.B., 1913 (8): 1, 2, Bale, 2nd nominated for CAGE BIRDS championship competition, 1st magnificent clr., real gem of a bird, wonderful shape, plenty of subs., both of body and skull, grandly lashed brows, splendid turn-back, very heavily feathered right through, 2nd variegd., lovely dome-shaped skull, neat beak, grandly feathered skull, plenty of lashing, capital body, but feather is not quite so long and dense as that of the winner, two lovely birds; 3, Radley and Son, gr., pied tail, very handsome dome-shaped skull, nice width of frontal, well lashed brows, plenty of feather, but it is hardly so heavy and dense as that of the leaders; 4, McLay, variegd., capital body subs. and shape, well clothed with good heavy feather of nice qual., carries a good crop of head feather, but lacks the width of frontal; vhc, Colledge, nice rise of skull, plenty of feather, but not so wide or massive; hc, Smith, rather narrow in frontal, carries plenty of feather; c, Barker. NOV. CREST (6): 1, 4, spl, and CAGE BIRDS novice diploma, Hawkes, gr., with one light feather in crest, very neatly centred, beautifully radiated, nice droop and finish, carries a profusion of body feather, 4th variegd., nice shaped crest, neat clr. centre, not so densely feathered, loses in shape of body, being long and coppy shaped; 2, Bowen, very heavily feathered griz., great length and density of feather, very nicely radiated and drooped, grand shaped body, had it been turned out of hand a little better it would possibly have won; 3, Linden, wing mkd., nice shape and radiation, good centre and droop, but not so heavily feathered; vhc, spl, Lighthourn, even mkd., neat, well defined centre, not so dense in feather, and hardly so wide in frontal. CREST-BREDS Cancelled. Where, oh where are the novices?

THE GREEN CANARY SECTION

The Greens were truly a grand collection, quite a feast for those fanciers who are interested in the birds of colour. As usual the Norwich were not particularly numerous, the classes only filling fairly well. We thought the yell. cocks superior to the buffs both in type and quality, the colour was quite dazzling and carried well through. It was in this class that the winner of CAGE BIRDS £3 special for best Green was found. Mr. Harding's bird is a real good one, nicely proportioned all through and of excellent colour. Yell. hens were a charming lot, not as a rule over large, but full of quality. Yorkshires made a brave show, the two cock classes being well filled, the yellows were difficult to separate some of the leaders being as near perfection as one could wish, a rich tone of colour prevailed all through, and many of them were marked and pencilled to an extraordinary degree.

As far as colour is concerned the Green Border is ahead of his larger rivals. The colour is not only of a dazzling pureness, but carried right through to perfection. In these classes Messrs. Middleton and Johnston were mostly at the top, the noted Wallsend-on-Tyne fancier having winners in both Hen classes. His buffs were particularly admired. Mr. Middleton led in buff cocks, his Scottish National winner taking third in the yellow class.

Mr. H. W. Battye's Classes.

NOR. YELL. (9): 1, CAGE BIRDS £2 special in Coupon Competition, 4, Harding, magnificent exhibit, grand size, very thick set, chubby build, with a lovely well filled head, good bold wide front, grand tone of col. and nicely mkd., in the pink of condition; 2, Handley, bonny self, scarcely so thick set, but grandly cut away, nice bold head, good deep rich col., a wee shade dark, but grandly pencilled, put down in fine fettle; 3, hc, Lawson, bonny bird, similar build, lovely type, very cleanly cut away, nice width of shoulders, grand rich col. perfection in back work, fails in body, put down in A1 cond.; 4, Harding, very fine self, hardly so chubby as winners, but with a grand head, and nice full neck, nice tone of col., beaten in pencilling; vhc, Walker; c, Godfrey. BUFF (12): 1, 2, hc, c, Harding, very fine team, leader not particularly large, but of real rich col. and grandly pencilled, shade long in body, good broad skull, we rather preferred the 2nd, shade larger and thicker, little better head, equally as good in col. and beautifully pencilled, both put down in the pink of condition; 3, 4, Handley, leader rather better type than winner, very compact and neat, though hardly so tight in feather, good sound col., and full of work, 4th shade longer, but a Green all over, very sound in col. and grandly pencilled; vhc, Lawson. YELL. HENS (8): 1, hc, Harding, leader a grand self, very typical and cleanly cut, full head and neck, just inclined to cross wings at times, very richly coloured and in fine fettle; 2, Handley, foul wing and tail, nice style of Nor., compact, with good width of shoulder, clean head, good wing carr., and sound in col. throughout, beautifully pencilled; 3, c, Godfrey, grandly coloured, beautifully typical, wee shade on the small side, but makes up in qual. of feather, pencilling and cond.; 4, Walker, foul tail, lovely tone of col., shade long in barrel, but grandly ligured, neat full head, fine condition. BUFF HEN (12): 1, Winter, cobby, real Nor. type, full head, just a wee shade weak at back, but grand entrance, good col. and pencilling; 2, McLay, shade small, nice carriage, grandly pencilled, nice depth of col., even richer than first bit clean at thighs, little better in head properties, we liked equally as well; 3, 4, vhc, Harding, very cobby, foul chin and flight, not over large, but neat, with nice carr., hardly the richness of col. of 2nd, but still good, fine cond., 4th very neat self, hardly so cobby as winners, but wonderful col., nearly as rich as a yell., grandly pencilled, in the pink; hc, McAndrews; c, Baker.

Mr. T. Heath's Classes.

YORKS. YELL. (16): 1, Robinson, grand length and style, with good head, inclined to cross wings at times, wonderful richness of col., well carried through, nice distinct pencilling, in fine cond.; 2, Heatley, beautifully drawn, fine length, neat style, grandly braced, very well up on leg, deep rich col., shade on the dark side, full of polish; 3, Metcalfe, CAGE BIRDS £3 spl. winner, beauty, perhaps scarcely so nicely drawn, but rather better tone of col., and grandly pencilled, distinct and clear, put down in the best possible; 4, Handley, lovely foul, beautifully cut away, grand pos. and style, nicely pencilled, fine tone of col.; vhc, Jones; hc, Elkins; c, Benson and Young. BUFF (14): 1, 3, Skilling, upstanding, sleek as a bottle, lovely head, shoulders and back, grand wing carr., beautifully coloured and pencilled, A1 cond., 3rd hardly so cleanly cut nor so rich in col., still a real good one, very fine order; 2, vhc, Benson and Young, grand bird, fine tone of rich grassy green, excelling in pencilling, tight as wax, must have pressed winner for premier place, although scarcely so tight in wings; 4, Robinson, rare size and type, fine col. and style, hardly so densely pencilled as winners, but still a good Yorkie, and in fine cond.; hc, Simpson; c, Handley. YELL. HEN (9): 1, 4, Robinson, very smart and racy, foul wing and tail, full of nerve, beautifully drawn, neat head, wonderful depth of col. and beautifully pencilled, in the pink; 2, C.B. 10s. spl. in Coupon Competition, Benson and Young, lovely self gr., nicely balanced, clean cut, good wings and tail, sound rich col. throughout, distinct in pencillings, lovely qual.; 3, vhc, c, Metcalfe, nearly a self, shade dark in col., but lovely type and style, neat head and wing, stands well on on legs, grandly marked, a bonny bird; 4, Robinson, lovely self, shade tone of col., wee shade small, but all good what there is of it, a real Yorkie, very clean cut and smart; hc, Elkins. BUFF HEN (12): 1, Simpson, beautifully drawn, wonderful length, rather broken in pencilling both on body and back, sound in col., inclined to cross wings, good pos.; 2, Cooper, very smart stylish bird, wee shade smaller, but nicely drawn and finished, good head, back and wings, bit more distinct in pencilling than winner and grand tone of col.; 3, c, Metcalfe, beautifully drawn, fine length and style, well up on leg, grand length of wing, sound rich col. and nicely marked, in good order; 4, hc, Benson and Young, nicely drawn bird, of fine type and style, good head, back and wings, capital col. heaten pencilling, neat and well put down; vhc, Heatley.

Mr. J. F. Dewar's Classes.

BORD. GR. YELL. (20): 1, Parker, real topper, magnificent tone of col., rich and full of polish, lovely type, well balanced, best of heads, fine wing carr., full of work; 2, vhc, Johnston, excels in richness of ground col., quite a blaze, as near perfection in type as possible, free mover, full of qual., a very taking exhibit; 3, hc, c, Middleton, stylish, inclined to be a wee bit leggy, but really typical, nicely balanced, handles well, rich grassy green, splendidly pencilled throughout, fantless cond.; 4, CAGE BIRDS £1 spl. in Coupon Competition, Campbell, beauty, lovely type and grand rich col., hardly so distinct in pencilling as winners, still a grand exhibit; hc, c, Little. BUFF (11): 1, c Middleton, real gem for col. and qual. of feather, neat head, nicely rounded front, cleanly cut and grandly mkd., a real swell and well placed; 2, H. Bennet, smart exhibit, beautifully balanced, clean cut and jaunty, capital head and wings, sound rich col. and well mkd.; 3 Campbell, bigger bird, hardly so sweet in type as winners, handles well, grandly pencilled all through, capital tone of col., rare fettle; 4, Allen, typical, grand head, back and wings, neatly cut away, sound and rich in body col., hardly on bright in back as winner, but grandly pencilled; vhc, hc, Johnston. YELL. HEN (8): 1, c, Johnston, very fascinating exhibit, as near perfection as possible, hard to find fault with, grand mover when handled, sound rich col., carried right through, full of work; 2, Campbell, hardly so rich in col. as winner, shade brassy on flanks, but rare type and style, beautifully rounded, grand wing carr., full of polish, staged to the minute; 3, Whitelaw, neater type, equally good in style, richly coloured, scarcely so nicely pencilled, fine drawn, tightly packed wings, in the pink; 4, c, Middleton, nice stylish bird, scarcely so pure in col. as winner, but capital stamp, neat head and wings; vhc, Steel. BUFF (9): 1, 4, Johnston, bonny exhibit, grand type and style, wonderful mover, sound rich col., full of work, in very fine fettle, 4th another charmer, much admired, grand pos. and type, lovely head, beautifully modelled throughout, A1 tone of col., excels in pencilling, we liked better than 2, Lambie, nice style of bird, but hardly so pure in col. or distinct in pencilling, capital head and wings; 3, c, Middleton, smart and stylish, shade thick at waist, grandly pencilled throughout, sound col.; vhc, Little; hc, Philpot.

THE BORDER FANCY CANARIES.

The Borders once more made a bold bid for recognition, and there is no doubt as to the increasing popularity of the breed down south. The entry was rather below last year, and in conversation with southern breeders we found that fear of the northern birds kept many away, not that the southerners consider their birds in any way inferior, but not having exhibited under Mr. Dewar they hardly knew the birds he would go for, and were somewhat diffident about sending. Still, a southern judge does not get the entire northern support, and so it cuts both ways. But anyway Mr. Dewar did not chop and change about, he knew what he was looking for, and when found, followed his ideas out as well as the exhibits would let him. As was expected the northern birds caught his eye most, some of them were beautiful, dainty little specimens, with all the swagger imaginable, clean cut and smart, just a shade thin in neck, according to our southern ideas, but Borders all over. The winning buff hen staged to the minnte by that noted breeder, Mr. Bennet, of Kelso, came in for a lot of attention, but perhaps the bird that took the eye most, and was mostly admired was Mr. Nicholson's 2nd prize 4-ptd. Cinnamon mkd. Being a yellow, its grand colour, marking, and general poise appealed to the majority of fanciers, and envious eyes were frequently on it. The buff cock class was a stormer, twenty-seven real gems, and the judge had to make the most rigid selection to get the leaders. Yellow cocks headed the list in number, thirty-three being staged, and of these a few were as near perfection as possible, but as a class we hardly thought them equal to the buffs. In the Evens, type and quality justly stood before markings, although due consideration was given to the latter point. Some thought the leader a bit heavy, but his superiority in type, put him well on top. While carefully going through the section we thought the chief failings were a certain flatness in back, high shoulders, and fish-like appearance of tail. Breeders should look to these points as they insidiously creep into a strain and are difficult to eradicate.

Mr. J. F. Dewar's Classes.

CL. or TKD. YELL. CK. (33): 1, CAGE BIRDS 10s. spl., G. Bennet, magnificent qual. and cond., a severe critic might say he was a shade thick at waist, but otherwise so beautifully moulded, impossible to pass, staged to the minute; 2, Craig, bit better balance, grand type, with a lovely curve from chin to tail, moves beautifully when handled, shows to perfection, a real topper, but scarcely so full of polish; 3, H. Bennet, lovely head tkd., hard to find fault with, sweet head, good back, wings tightly braced and packed, neat whip tail, handles beautifully, in the pink, greatly admired; 4, Wilson, as good as any for type and style, capital head and wings, nicely modelled, scarcely so rich in col., which undoubtedly told against him; ex. 4, Madagan, grandly typical, free mover and full of swagger, capital wings and tail, hardly so good in head as winner, still a nice one; 5, Pratt, hardly so sound in col. as leaders, otherwise hard to find fault with, put down in grand order; vhc, Jenkins, Welsh, Purves; hc, Sampson, Wilson; c, Haddon, Burton Bros. HEN (19): 1, G. Bennet, staged to perfection, inclined to a little weakness at throat, but a sweet head and the best of wings; 2, CAGE BIRDS £1 spl., Bates, beautifully moulded, good sound col., nice head, face, neck, handles beautifully, fine cond., wings scarcely so tightly packed as some; 3, H. Bennet, beautifully moulded, in best of cond., shade thin in neck, capital head, back and wings, lovely quality; 4, Craig, best of cond., grandly modelled, good head and wings, handles beautifully, well put down; vhc, Jenkins, Wilson; hc, Clark, Purves; c, Sampson. BUFF CK. (27): 1, CAGE BIRDS £2 spl., Craig, tight as wax, handles beautifully, free mover, nice bit of style, lovely head, back and wings, tightly packed, neat tail, not a feather out of place a real gem; 2, Hay, shade smaller, but a lovely model, grand head, back and wings, nicely moulded throughout, with good style, in the pink of cond.; 3, Madagan, difficult to find fault with, lovely head and neck, nicely modelled throughout, capital wings, put down in the pink; 4, Pratt, lovely stylish bird, slim type, nicely moulded, good wings and tail, very fine cond.; 5, H. Bennet, another beauty, lovely type and style; vhc, Purves, G. Bennet; hc, Aitken, Green; c, Beard, Simpson. BUFF HEN (28): 1, 2, G. Bennet, charmers, gems of the first water, as near faultless as possible, staged to the minute, leader takes special for best Border, CAGE BIRDS £3 champ. prize, and coloured diploma, handles and moves well, not a feather out of place, greatly admired; 3, Purves, not a long way behind, sweetly moulded, grand head, back, beautifully packed wings, neat whip tail, scarcely in the faultless condition of winner, still real good one; 4, Arnott, real topper for type and style, hardly the polish of leaders, lovely head and neck, handles beautifully, nicely cut away to a good tail; 5, Simpson, good one for type, but inclined to cross wings when judged, beautifully moulded, grand order; vhc, Bennet, Madagan; hc, Pratt, Jenkins; c, Dansmore, junr., Philpot. EVEN MKD. (13): 1, 3, vhc, Haddow, perfect type, good head and wings, nice pos. and style, beautifully modelled, rather heavy eye marks, capital wings, full of polish; 3rd, lovely Cinn. mkd., very charming, lovely order, scarcely so sweetly typical as leaders, good eyes and wings, lovely qual.; 2, Burton Bros., capital type, sweet head and neck, moves well when handled, nicely balanced eyes and wings, in the pink; 4, Nicholson, grand one for markings, very even on both eyes and wings, but scarcely the type of wings, nor so compact in wing carr., still in lovely order; hc, Hamilton; c, Pearson. UNEVEN (20): 1, Jenkins, lovely Cinn. mkd., well-known winner, grandly modelled, good head, back and wings, neatest of tails, in lovely order, staged as usual; 2, Nicholson, real gem, Cinn. mkd., capital reach, col., lovely type, style and pos., beautifully rounded, staged to perfection, tight as wax; 3, G. Bennet, wee shade on the small side, but a gem for type, beautifully balanced and moulded, lovely neat head, good wings, in the pink; 4, Beard, neat wing and eye mkd., nicely moulded, clean cut, full of curves, capital head and good tight wings, lovely qual.; vhc, Pearson, Arnott, Wilson; hc, Haddow; c, McFarlane, Unwin. CINN. (20): 1, 3, C. Wilson, beauties, leader a real topper for col., sound and rich and carried right through, shade light in build, but still of good type and in the pink of conditiou; 3rd, we liked a shade better, rather nicer moulded, equally good in col., capital head and wings, handles well, in sound cond.; 2, H. Bennet, good one, neat type and style, sound rich col. throughout, good head and wings, nicely packed, lovely condition; 4, Hamilton, beautifully rounded, handles well, good head, nicely filled front, lovely tone of colour, in fine order; vhc (2), Middleton; hc, Short, Haddow; c, Wilson, Johnston.

Mr. H. Norman's Classes.

NOVICE YELL (23): 1, hc, Tallantyre, grand cl., good type, handles and moves well, good head and wings sound rich col., very fine cond.; 2, Simmonds, very typical Cinn., hardly so nicely put down, good style and pos., sound col., wing and eye mkd.; 3, Eston, wing and eye marked, nice type, beautifully moulded, capital head and wings, nice cond.; 4, Preece, good cl., nicely drawn and moulded, good head and back, sound col., frayed wings kept him back; 5, Croft, good 4-ptd., rather light in build, but nicely packed, well braced wings, sound cond.; vhc, Jones, Brunton; hc, Blackhall; c, Hewett, Martin. BUFF (26): 1, Kroczen, sweet type, nicely rounded throughout, neat head and neck, well braced wings, lovely cond.; 2, Wilson, cl., hardly so perfect in type, still a good bird, capital head and back, sound cond.; 3, Gamble, capital type and style, handles well, good wings, hardly so nicely put down as winner; 4, Snook, rather big bird, but good type and nicely moulded, handles well, fine cond.; 5, Warner, good typical gr., capital head and neck, good wings, hardly the finish of winners; vhc, Simmonds, Weir; hc, Preece; c, Bobbett, Hobden.

THE SCOTCH FANCIES AND BELGIANS.

Judge, Mr. C. A. House.

A wonderful increase was seen in the Scots Fancy and Belgian sections, and they made the best display seen at Sydenham for some years. Scots had twenty-six entries against seventeen in 1913, and Belgians twenty-five as against fifteen on the last occasion, whilst the quality was also considerably above the average. The beautiful hen shown by Mr. G. S. Baker, and which headed CAGE BIRDS competition between the two varieties, was a marvel, and quite one of the best we have ever handled. Mr. G. T. Campbell, who won so well in Scots Fancies, fell head over ears in love with this fair maid of Devon, and was making eager inquiries for Mr. Baker. Mr. Campbell's team of Scottics were splendid, one and all being birds of great merit. His yellow pied cock, which won the championship, is quite one of the best ever seen at Sydenham—length, shape, style, action, it had them all, and well balanced too. In the hens the Dalmuir representatives had not such an easy task, the best bird being a wonderful buff shown by that stalwart veteran of the breed, Mr. R. Willson. Had this hen been in better feather condition she must have won.

Belgians were noticeable for three things—improvement in quality, increased entry (the young class on this occasion containing as many birds as all three classes last year), and the presence of some birds from Antwerp. It was with regret mingled with pride that we noticed how far behind our own home-bred birds were the Belgian representatives. They were beaten in shoulder, in length of side, and also in position. Mr. G. S. Baker staged half-a-dozen magnificent birds, and proud he should be of owning such a team. Mr. A. Baker's winning youngster is a bird that should go far. Although the entry was so much improved, and the quality of such a high standard we missed the grand team which Mr. F. Reddihough staged last year. Had these been on view there would have been a battle royal between the representatives of Devon and Yorkshire. The result on this occasion almost makes one wonder if specialist clubs are of the value to the Fancy they are supposed to be. Last year the show was under the patronage and support of the United Kingdom Belgian Canary Association. This year, entirely on its own, it came near to doubling the entry.

SCOTS FANCY CK. (14): 1, 2, championship, and £2 and £1 prizes in CAGE BIRDS championship, Campbell, very fine headed yell., pied, wonderful length and fineness of neck, grand substance and height of shoulder, splendid back, rare wings and tail, good depth through, full of nerve and action, handles splendidly, grips perch firmly, and drives grandly, a model but for its wealth of feather on chest, 2, slashing colour, yell., wonderful neck and shoulders, plenty of nerve, knows what to do with its tail and does it, hardly so quick as its stable companion, but in all other respects a marvellous bird, and fought hard for premier position, 3, Keill, grand bodied buff, plenty of substance everywhere, grips perch well, and brings tail down in the approved style, nicely cleaned out in front, splendid top end, but is not quite so long in neck, and thus lost in drive; 4, vhc, Thompson Bros., very long sided cl. yell., capital shoulders, back, wings and tail, very nervy, and handles nicely, very quick and smart, but does not get head down so well as the leaders; vhc, lovely shaped buff, rare shoulders, very deep through, grand body properties, but also holds his head a bit too high; vhc, spl. best, vhc, Livingstone, very lengthy, grand shaped pied bull, takes perch well, and shows plenty of action, but lost in condition, in good feather this bird would have made the pace warm for the leaders; hc, Todd; c, March. HEN (12): 1, 3, Campbell, leader most handsome pied yell., fine head and neck, great rise and width of shoulders, well made back, grandly carried wings and tail, gets well hold of the perch, and shows splendidly, a really smart hen, full of qual., nerve, and action, 3, very stout buff, great depth through, massive top end, grand head, not so fine and long in neck, but very quick and stylish in action, a rare stock hen; 2, Willison, magnificent shape, length, size and action, fine, sleek head, long racy neck, very massive shoulders, rare shaped back, grand wing and tail carriage, and all the nerve and style that the most fastidious could desire, but she was not in the best of condition, one eye looking a little sore, and her neck being a bit ragged; she had the credit of being the only English representative to touch the money in the two classes; 4, Thompson Bros., very pretty yell., grand shape, nice length and subs. of body, good top end, but needs a trifle more length of neck, very quick and nervy, and handles well; vhc, Keill, long, stylish, quiet handling green, very clever and smart, and given a trifle more substance would be in the first flight; vhc, March, very stout, shapely buff, capital shoulders and back, brings tail well down, needs a bit more length of neck; hc, Smith, grand bodied buff green, nice style and action, good wings and tail, but holds head high, wins the novice diploma in CAGE BIRDS competition.

BELG. CK. (5): 1, 2, G. S. Baker, wonderfully quick actioned yell., jumps into position quickly, great length of leg and side, rare neck, which he gets well down, very high shoulders, but might be better filled, capital back, wings, and tail, very deep through chest, full of nerve and brings tail down like a plummet line, 2, topping yell., not quite the length and reach of his mate, lovely head, grand shaped and well filled shoulders, takes firm hold of his perch and the more he is worked, the better he shows, rare legs and pos.; 3, Horrill, very quick and free in action, fine head and neck, full of nerve, grand pos., rare shower, but not quite the length and subs. of leaders, and not quite so full in shoulders; 4, Butts, shorter and stouter, but handles well, and gets into position very nicely, stands well up on a good pair of legs, and brings tail well down by side of perch; vhc, Madame Verhees, very quiet and nervy, grand head and neck, but not the length of side and subs. of body of the leaders, and does not pull so low. HEN (5): 1, championship, and £3 prize over the Scots Fancy in CAGE BIRDS. championship competition, G.S Baker, one of the most wonderful yell. hens we have ever seen, very fine head, tremendous length and reach of neck, very high, well filled shoulders, splendid back, great length of side, well braced wings and tail, great length of legs, they were well put on, enabling her to grasp the perch firmly, and show for all she was worth, plenty of nerve, a quick actioned bird, but as steady as a Crow, a real gem; 2, Horrill, slashing yellow, rather stouter in build of chest and shoulder, but not quite so long in neck and side, grand wings and tail, and she knows how to use them, full of nerve, and one of the best positioned birds one could wish for, given a wee bit more length of neck and side, and she would be as sensational as the winner; 3, Madame Verhees, tkd. headed buff, beautifully proportioned, fine head and neck, splendid shoulders, back and wings, not quite so long in side, and, although she grasps the perch well, and gets her head nicely down, she does not bring shoulders, side and tail into the approved and much desired straight line, very nervy and quick; 4, G.S. Baker, very long, raking yell., tremendous side, wings and tail, great length and reach of neck, high shoulders, splendid feet and legs, plenty of nerve, but she does not bring her tail down in the same fashion as her stable companion; vhc, Mrs. Holliday, nice shapely tkd. headed buff, good head and neck, stout shoulders, but a bit of a sluggard, and would not show. BRED 1913, a magnificent class of 15: 1, "C.B." 10s. special, vhc, A. Baker, buff, beautifully modelled and grandly proportioned all through, most beautiful feather and style, sweet head and neck, stout, well filled shoulders, good level back, tightly braced wings and tail, smart and quick in action, takes well hold of perch, and brings tail, side and shoulders into a beautiful line, a rare handler, vhc, and sp. best vhc, a long raking yell. of wonderful shape and style, great reach and length of neck, high shoulders, but not so well filled, a bit slack in one wing, full of nerve, and shows well; 2, vhc, G. S. Baker, slashing yell., rare head and neck, grand shoulders, nicely filled back, well braced wings and tail, great length of side, splendid feet and legs, a good shower when worked up, but takes a lot of handling to bring out his good points, possibly due to the fact that he did not seem to be quite so fit as the winner, vhc, rattling good body and position, plenty of nerve, pulls well, but was inclined to get over excited when worked, and spread his tail instead of bracing it; 3, hc, Horrill, very stout yell., grand shoulders and great depth through chest, lovely head, not quite so long, and fine in neck, capital back, wings and tail, plenty of nerve, and handles in rare form; hc, long sided, good legged yell., good top and back, but is inclined to be slow in movement, and does not bring head down low enough; 4, Todd, very long sided yell., tremendous reach of neck, capital wings and tail, very quick and nervy in action, good shoulders and back, but does not get head down so well as it should; vhc, Madame Verhees, a sweet yellow hen, beautifully proportioned, very graceful in action, falling into position quickly, and holding her perch well, a most taking bird, and quite the best of the three Antwerp exhibits, but like them all, compared badly with the home bred birds in length and substance; hc, Butts, nice shapely, nervy tkd. yell.

THE LANCS. AND LIZARDS.

Judge, Mr. C. A. House.

The Lancashires and Lizards had a slightly increased entry, thirty-five, as against thirty in 1913, and quality was well maintained. Although not meeting with the sweeping success he did in the Coppies last year, Mr. F. J. Green had a good day out, as he won first in both the Lancashire classes, and was first and fourth in CAGE BIRDS Championship Competition, took the Palace championship, and also secured the Victorian C.S. special. Although fewer in number, the Coppies were distinctly superior to the Plainheads, as in addition to the leading position in "C.B." championship, Mr. Fittou's second coppy took the third position, whilst the winning Plainhead could only come fourth. Mr. Beattie staged a couple of good lengthy, stylish Plainheads, but they had not the substance of Mr. Green's leader. It was, however, a very close thing, and a little more condition in the Rochdale representatives would, no doubt, have turned the scale. It is difficult to understand why more of the Lancashire men do not support the Palace Show. The number of shows giving them classes are getting less and less, and they have no one else than themselves to blame. What can he done to rouse them from their apathy and lethargy? Is it not possible for the L.L.F.A. and the L.C.A. to put a little more life into the Lancashire and Lizard Fancy?

The "dark 'uns," as our Lancashire friends style the Lizards, were a great improvement on last year, both in numbers and quality, and the competition was exceedingly close. Mr. Bradley put down a capital team, and his representatives won in each class, but they were very closely pressed in each by Mr. Rukin's little lot. Especially was this the case in the Golds, where it was quite a toss up to which won, and it was only that little bit of mooning that made the Rawtenstall beauty play second fiddle. As an example of spangling, we do not remember ever seeing a better than Mr. Rukin's second silver. Its body was practically enveloped in spangle, and had it not been so pale in colour, it would have scored easily. In shape, style, and feather it was all there, but it wanted a little of that which friend Ramsden supplies, and which, according to one of the London dailies, has given us a new breed—"R.P. Canaries." In this section we missed several names, which have in recent years taken high honours in the Lizard classes, and we wondered why. Mr. A. Bradley's winning gold secured the championship was second to the Lancashire in CAGE BIRDS Championship Competition, and also secured Ramsden's silver medal for the best fed Lizard, whilst the vhc gold, also from the same stable, captured the Victorian C.S. special. This, we believe, was Mr. Bradley's first appearance as an exhibitor at the Crystal Palace, and we should say he will not soon forget it. Such an auspicious debut at Sydenham is achieved by few.

LANCASHIRE COPPY (6): 1, 3, vhc, championship, £3 prize in CAGE BIRDS championship competition, and Victorian C.B. spl, Green, very massive buff, grand head, rare spread and finish of coppy, very stout neck and shoulders, grand back, great length of flights and tail, gets well up on perch and shows well; 3, another very heavy-bodied buff, neat, well centred, nicely fronted coppy, but not the width of first, rare style and length; vhc, clinking good tkd. yell., good headpiece, splendid body and style, easily second best if in condition, but it was out of form, and had to pay the penalty; 2, 4, and £1 in CAGE BIRDS championship, Fitton, slashing yell., great length and subs., capital style, neat centre, capital spread and front, gone in neck as the result of the season's work, a grand bird, full of good properties; 4, tkd. buff, plenty of subs., rare neck and shoulders, capital wings and tail, nicely shaped and spread coppy, needs more length of body; hc, Beattie. PLAINHEAD (9): 1, vhc, c, and 10s. prize in CAGE BIRDS championship, Green, immense yell., a regular giant, possesses the substance and massiveness of many a good buff, lengthy body, wings, and tail, very wide and stout in skull, grandly lashed, body covered with a wealth of long, broad feathers, if he would only show himself better could a bird be sound he; vhc very long yell. grand shape, wings and tail, not so massive in body or skull; 2, 3, Beattie, yell., splendid length and style, rare wings and tail, very shapely, well lashed skull, not so massive in body, but a good typical Lancashire; 3, one of the finest qual. buffs one could wish to see, splendid width, shape, and subs. of skull, grandly lashed, shows well, plenty of substance, but needs a bit more length, superbly feathered; 4, hc, Fitton, very long, stylish buff, rare wings and tail, fairly stout in body, well lashed skull, but lacks the width and substance; hc, very stout, good headed buff, but too short in body.

LIZARDS, GOLD (10), a good class, just double last year's figure: 1, 4, vhc, championship, £2 prize in CAGE BIRDS championship competition, Ramsden's spl, and the Victorian C.S. spl, Bradley, very handsome clr. cap, fine, bold, distinct spangle, plenty of it, and well placed, capital shoulders, nicely crecled on sides, good sound wings and tail, fails just a wee bit in feather on cheeks, where it lacks finish; 4, another good clr. cap, grand back, well rowed with bold black spangle, grand shape and size, hardly so well finished on shoulders and sides; vhc, spl, a real gem of a broken cap, but, unfortunately, was a bit soft, and did not show to advantage, had it been thoroughly fit it would have run the winner close; 2, Rukin, really tip-top broken cap, lovely tone of col., plenty of spangle of grand shape and distinctness, well finished shoulders and sides, nice body properties, good style and finish, but slightly mooned; 3, hc, c, Barnes, almost a no-cap, wonderful profusion of spangle, rare shape, size, and style, very close feather, but seems to lack brilliancy, although it had depth of colour. SILVER (10): 1, hc, Bradley, very handsome broken cap, lovely rich clr silvery tone on top of deep sound under col., grandly finished spangling, rare shape and size, in the pink of condition; 2, 3, vhc, Rukin, one of the bonniest broken caps we have ever seen so far as spangle was concerned, its chest and sides were almost as good as its back, in shape, style, and feather it was perfect, somewhat pale in ground col.; 3, very shapely, rich coloured clear cap, capital spangle and col., lovely qual. and style, good wings and tail, shows a slight vacancy over beak, and but for this might have won; vhc, grand bodied broken cap, not so sound in col. of wings and tail, nicely spangled; 4, c, Barnes, broken, capital body, grand qual., sound rich col., not quite so regular in rowing as the leaders.

THE CINNAMON CANARIES.

Judge, Mr. J. Wones.

With two entries in excess of last year's total one is able to say the Cinnamons were in advance of last year, but that is nothing to enthuse over. An average of just over eight per class is not what one should see at the Palace, and it is not what one used to see in the long ago. It is strange that this once popular breed should for so long be in the shades of neglect. As one glanced through the prize list one looked in vain for the names of good old breeders whom we used to see playing so prominent a part in the variety. It is saddening to see the continual dropping out of successful fanciers in such a handsome and pleasing breed. Mr. Proctor held a very strong hand, winning in three out of the four classes with a grand team of rare shaped birds of most excellent colour and feather properties. The winning yellow won the championship for the section, and in addition secured the £3 award in CAGE BIRDS championship competition against the Frills, Whites, and A.O.V. Mr. Proctor's winning buff took our fancy greatly. It is a bird of true Norwich type and full to the brim of sound Cinnamon colour; in this respect the Blackburn team were superexcellent. Mrs. Tweddle staged a grand pair of yellows in the Unflighted class, and they cleverly kept all the others at bay. They excelled in that rich brilliant chocolate hue of which our old friend, the late Joe Bexson, was so fond. This lady ran Mr. Proctor very close in the Hen class, and had her birds possessed the lovely polish of the Blackburn contingent, there is not much doubt further honours would have gone their way. Fanciers are too apt to forget how much depends on careful toileting. Cinnamous were good so far as they went, but they did not go far enough. Canuot the Cinnamon Club rally its forces and put a little more life into this particular Fancy. When one thinks of those days when Northampton, Coventry, Kettering and Leicester were so strong in the variety, and compares them with to-day, one is apt to be despondent, and ask in doubtful tones: Will the cinnamon ever be popular again?

YELL. CK. (6): 1, championship, CAGE BIRDS £3 champion prize, Victoria C.S. spl.; 2, Proctor, nicely shaped skull, good level back, very neat wings and tail, lovely sound col., tight, compact, silky body feather, neat body, very stylish and smart throughout; 2, CAGE BIRDS 10s. championship prize, fine, big, bold, shapely bird, splendid col., good type and style, nice body feather, hardly so compact in wings; 3, Roberts, very high qual., deep rich col., not quite so chubby in shape, and just a trifle horned; 4, Wilson, rare shape and feather, not quite so stout in head, and hardly so rich and deep in col.; vhc, he, Andrews Bros., good in col. and feather, but a shade narrow in skull. BUFF CK. (9): 1, 2, Proctor, the leader takes the Victoria C.S. spl. for best buff, lovely close silky feathered bird, very sound and rich in col., grand shaped head and body, grand wings and tail, in rare form, 2nd slashing big bird of rare shape and style, splendid col., grand head, not quite so silky and compact in feather; 3, Bentley, a gem for shape, style and silkiness of feather, good top col. but runs a bit light at thighs; 4, vhc, Andrews Bros., good deep coloured birds of nice shape and size, hardly so silky and bright; he, Collins, all there in col. and qual., but needs more substance. UNFLI. (9): 1, 2, hc, Mrs. Tweddle, a gem of a yellow, wonderfully sound, rich, deep and bright in col., clothed in a tight close-fitting jacket of the finest silk, rare shape and style, 2nd another topper, grand in all points, and possibly when in tip-top show form a better bird than the winner, but it unfortunately was lame and did not grasp the perch properly, this naturally detracted from its chances; 3, Bentley, not so massive in head or body, but wonderful col. and qual., a little more substance and then ——; 4, Wilson, nice col. and shape, also fails in head, and is not quite so tight in feather; vhc, Proctor, good coloured yell., not so smooth and tight in feather; c, Wagstaff. HENS (11): 1, 4, c, Proctor, rattling good yell., rare shape, nice size, well formed head, capital feather, sound rich col., 4th very shapely and stylish, grand feather, hardly so bright in col., also yell.; 2, 3, Mrs. Tweddle, two very charming hens, full of qual., lovely silky feather, which fits both of them like a glove, very sound, rich, deep col., grand heads and most typical col. bodies, yell. and buff; vhc, Roberts, good shaped, well feathered buff, a shade pale in col.; hc, Bentley, very useful sort so far as feather and col. are concerned, nice body, but not so good in head properties.

THE DUTCH FRILLS, WHITE, AND A.O.V. CANARIES.

Judge, Mr. C. A. House.

Wonderful indeed were the Dutch Frills, quite eclipsing anything we have ever seen at any show in this country, no less than twenty-one birds being staged. In length, shape, size, profusion of feather, they were indeed wonderful. Some confusion was caused in the minds of visitors on the first day by the fact that Mons. J. Couturier's birds were not in the catalogue. The explanation is this: Previous to the entries closing Mons. Couturier wrote to Mr. Ramsden intimating that he intended entering some birds at the show, but not making an entry in the form that "English exhibitors are in that habit of doing. Mr. Ramsden therefore did not catalogue them. On Friday morning Mons. Couturier turned up with his birds, and, as Mr. Ramsden said to the writer: "What could I do? I could not speak French, and he could not speak English. It was not an occasion when one could stick out for strict adherence to rules and regulations, and so I let him stage the birds. They are not in to-day's catalogue, but will be to-morrow. It may not be quite the thing, but one must not treat a foreign visitor as one would an Englishman. There is such a thing as international courtesy." We can only say that we quite endorse Mr. Ramsden's action, and we feed sure all good fanciers and sportsmen will agree that J. R. could not have acted differently under the peculiar circumstances. Mons. Couturier's birds were shown all in one cage, and, owing to this, lost the premier position. His yellow was quite the best in the class, but it had a broken tail. Mons. T. Aubrac had two birds in each of his cages, but only one of each pair was judged.

Although not so numerous as last year, the White Canaries were far superior in tone of colour and silkiness of feather to those seen in previous years. Nothing in the whole show could surpass Mr. McPhail's winner for beauty of plumage; it was spotlessly white, and as tight as a Java. The A.O.V. was one of the poorest classes we ever remember seeing at Sydenham.

DUTCH FRILLS (17): 1, championship, and £2 prize in CAGE BIRDS championship competition, vhc, Brooks, magnificent Buff, plenty of length and substance, very profusely feathered, shown in the pink of condition; 2, 4, c, Couturier, very long Buff, wonderfully frilled on chest, rare flow of mantle, great length of body, wings and tail, but not shown in the same spotless condition as the winner; 4, yell., even better in feather properties than the buff, and had it been shown in a single cage and in the same lovely clean state as the winner, would have simply walked in; 3, vhc, Aubae, varieg. buff, wonderfully feathered, and frilled from the head downwards, great length and style, rare wings and tail, would have looked better if shown singly, and in a cleaner condition; vhc, varieg. yell., again a marvel for feather, but being in a cage with another it could not show properly, and was wild; vhc, hc, Fifield, beautifully shown buff, nicely feathered, but lacks the profusion of frill and mantle shown by the others.

WHITE CANARIES (6): 1, 3, £1 in CAGE BIRDS championship competition, McPhail, real gem, Border type, wonderfully fine and silky in feather, looked almost like a piece of moulded and polished white marble, snowy-white in its purity of colour, beats anything we have previously seen; 3, another beautifully feathered bird of great purity of col., shows traces of darkness in legs; 2, 4, Mrs. Gould, larger and longer, more of the Yorkshire type, very nice colour, not quite so fine and silky in feather; 4, tkd. in neck, grand colour and qual., very showy and stylish; vhc, Goldsmith; absent, 1146, Kiesel.

A.O.V. (5): 1, Ramsden, grandly shaped yell. cinn. with pied tail, lovely col. and qual.; 2, Wilson, smart, stylish yell. Border, lovely col. and qual., nice shape, good wings and tail; 3, Cooper, lovely feathered yell. Border, nice style, not quite so thin; wrong class, 1149, Payne and Son, self-coloured cinnamon; absent, 1150, Millington.

THE ROLLER CANARIES.

Judge, Mr. F. Oldroyd.

In the Rollers a fair number of entries again prevailed, and that popular judge, Mr. F. Oldroyd, once more officiated. His criticism extended over Thursday afternoon and Friday morning, so exhibitors are assured that each bird had a reasonable amount of time devoted to it. Questioned as to the merits of the birds, Mr. Oldroyd said, excepting the winner in the novice young bird class, the remainder were of moderate quality, and gave him a deal of trouble. They were reluctant to sing, and this, in addition to the disconnected style of some singing, caused judging to be a tedious process. The competition was very keen between the first and second in the champion young bird and champion old bird classes. So marked was this in champion old birds, that a re-sing had to he resorted to, before the first prize could be awarded. The decision went for that good old cock of Mr. Hockings, the late property of Mr. Randall, and Dr. Read. We hear that its show career is now over, to be free from the rough passages, which have sometimes been its lot, at the hands of a not over careful member of the railway company's staff. It may be of interest to know that the second prize-winner is the same bird that stood third in this class last year; also that it is now entering upon its third year. The winner in the novice young bird class is a promising youngster, and should be heard of again in the future. The same may be said of the winner in the champion young bird class, as we believe it has only been out twice previously, then winning first and second prizes.

CREST, LIMIT, £3 (10): 1, spl, best in Limit classes, Muscott, nearly gr., large body, good head and frontal crest; 2, Bewick, another green, not quite so well formed crest, good body; 3, Bennett, mixed crest, very thick, fails a trifle back crest; 4, Harrison, clear body, rather thin crest, neat frontal, vhc, Meyhew; hc, Jacklin; c, Calver and Sons, C.B., 30s. (14): 1, spl, 2nd best, hc, Memmott, leader romping hen, good skull, dense and long feather; 2, Taylor, lightly variegd., well lashed, nice entrance; 3, Jacklin, very cheap green hen, rare length of head feather; 4, Evins Bros., heavily variegd., rare back skull, long head feather, trifle pinched at entrance; vhc, Bewick; c, Jacklin. YORKS., 20/- (27): 1, Fawcett, sweet variegd. buff, nice length, taper and action; 2, Hodgson, very smart and racy yell.; 3, Dykes, yell., nice length, good mould; 4, Sutcliffe and Son, buff, good length, hardly enough filling in neck; 5, Hartley, smart yell., stands well up; vhc, Cooper, Spencer, and Marden; hc, Atkinson and Firth, Wilson; c, Snead, Bullen. CAN. OR MULE. 20/- (22): 1, Law, dark buff Goldie-Can., rare shape, nice size, grand face; 2, Adams, fairly good Lancashire Plainhead; 3, Richards, dark Greenie-Goldie, rich col., trifle small; 4, Mrs. Tweddle, foul-tailed buff Cinn., rare qual., rich mealing; 5, Richardson, yell. Nor., grand qual. and shape, a bit small; vhc, Fitton, Edwards; hc, Beard, Smith; c, Mrs. Scholes, Jacklin. PAIR FOR P.H. BREEDING, 35/- (32): 1, Richardson, bonny Nor.; 2, Silk, ditto, the cock fine head and body; 3, Law, ditto, variegd. yell. ck. and rattling buff hen; 4, Atkinson and Firth, good pair of Yorkies; 5, Pitchforth, another cheap pair of Norwich; vhc, Frost and Rogers, Thomas, Midgeley; hc, Follwell, Jones, Hodgson; c, Cooper.

THE HYBRID SECTION.

The Hybrids were an exceptionally fine lot, both in number and quality. Pride of place must be given to Mr. Middleton's Greenfinch-Chaffinch, which was the runner-up for CAGE BIRDS £10 10s. championship—in fact, a great number of fanciers were rather disappointed at it not carrying off this much-coveted award. It was again in splendid fettle, and made a worthy winner in an extra large class. Messrs. Martin and Archer's cl. Linnet Mule Perfection was again at the head of affairs in the class for cl. tkd., and looked in better fettle than we have seen him for some time. The lightly-marked class contained some real gems, Mr. Hart's grand Greenfinch-Canary carrying off the premier honours. Darks were a fine collection, and must have given the judge some difficulty to separate; indeed, the first four birds in each of the classes were of exceptional merit, condition alone separating them. The Canary-Bullies were very fine, Mr. Howick's winner being a bird of exceptional size, and showing very distinct ticking, though rather dark in breast colour, many preferring Mr. Crove's well-known exhibit, a grand bird of equal size, and carrying marvellous colour. Mr. Higham's cinn. Can. Bullie took third place, and came in for a deal of admiration. Mr. Collins's Redpoll was another grand exhibit, showing the parentage well, and was still ahead of the other exhibits of the same variety staged. Mr. Middleton's grand Jonque Sis.-Canary completed the winners in a section that will long be remembered by those fortunate enough to have seen it.

Mr. E. J. Lamb's Classes.

CL. TKD., ETC. (10): 1, £2 prize in "C.B." championship competition, vhc, Martin and Archer, two beautiful exhibits, leader well known cl. Linnet, "Perfection," looking as well as ever, grand exhibit, vhc, equally well known, grizzle mkd. Greenie, very shapely, lovely qual., hardly size or col of 2, Heggie, cl. Greenie, wonderful size, shape and col., slightly frilled in neck, not looking quite as well as we have seen him; 3, Lawrance, cl. Goldie, capital size and shape, good touch of blaze, exquisite col. and qual., as fit as a fiddle; 4, Heron, tkd. Goldfinch, shade pale in col., beautifully modelled, very fine condition; hc, Butler, cl. Goldie, very neat exhibit, capital shape, pale in col., grand condition; c, Collins, four-point yell. Goldie, wonderful depth of col., very shapely, faultless condition. UNEVEN MKD. (15): 1, Hart, lightly var. Greenie, wonderful size and shape, well proportioned, good, even col. throughout, staged in perfect order; 2, 3, Martin and Archer, leader var. Goldie, capital size and shape, grand body col., beautifully modelled, feathered to perfection, a real gem, latter var. Greenie, good size, seemed rather show worn, and listless, looked as if he badly needed a rest; 4, Middleton, Linnet, fair size, nice type and qual., very pale in col.; vhc, c, Collins, well-known Goldie, perfect in feather and condition, beautifully proportioned, gem for qual., latter var. Linnet, again pale in col., seemingly the great failing with the majority of this cross; hc, Gunnell, neat Goldie, nicely proportioned, hardly the subs. of leaders. DK. GOLDF. (16): 1, Crone, grand jonque, very shapely body, good expansive blaze, lovely rich col. and condition, trifle pinched in head, his only fault; 2, Mrs. Middleton, jonque, grand size, exquisite shape and qual., good blaze, hardly the richness of col. of leader; 3, Gilchrist, beautifully coloured jonque, lovely shape, rich blaze, perfect feather and condition; 4, Miss Bousfield, buff shade, smaller than leaders, grand type and qual., mealed to perfection; vhc, Jamieson, good jonque, in lovely order, beaten subs. by leaders; hc, Heron and Nairn, very shapely, grand size and type, loses col.; wrong class, No. 1733, foul-marked tail. GREENF. (10): 1, 2, McQuiston and Paterson, two gems, leader real storming jonque, wonderful size and col., good bold front, beautifully proportioned, not a feather out of place, romps home, latter bth, excellent col. and qual., wonderful subs. and shape; 3, Lawrance, another grand jonque, just a wee bit slimm r than leaders, looked a youngster, should make a real champion with another moult; 4, Parlett, another topper, well known, paid the penalty of arriving late, had not properly settled down when judged, and lost on condition only; vhc, Boy, jonque, neat exhibit, hardly subs. of leader, still a beauty for qual. and condition; hc, Ford, buff, another grand qual. bird, beautiful level tone of col., a trifle too small in such hot company; c, Webster, yell., fair size, hardly col. of leaders, very shapely, and in nice order. DK. LINNET (30): 1, McQuiston and Paterson, good size and col., well proportioned, nicely pencilled throughout, lovely qual. and condition; 2, Mrs. Middleton, very shapely, full of qual., hardly the col. of leader, good size; 3, Crone, a real champion, grand size and shape, beautiful head, good depth of col, may thought an easy winner, 4, c, W. Middleton, two neat exhibits, 4, good size, well proportioned and very shapely, hardly as bright in col. as leader, c, shade smaller, grand polish, lovely shape and qual.; vhc, Dr. Wilson, again rather smaller than leaders, but full of col. and qual.; hc, Bell, shade dark in col., grand con. and qual. DK. SISKIN, ETC. (19): 1, W. Middleton, jonque, Siskin-Can., grand size and shape, beautifully moulded, nicely mkd., a real little swell; 2, Goodall, Redpoll-Can., a wonder for col., size and shape, exquisite polish, grand carriage; 3, Collins, Twite-Can., rich col, laced to perfection, grand size and shape, shining like satin; 4, Johnston, Sis.-Can., last year's Palace winner, good size, col. and qual., seemed over fat, which spoiled his shape; vhc, Buckingham, Redpoll-Can., very pretty little fellow, but not the size or exquisite col. of leader; hc, D. Webster, Twite-Can., excellent size and shape, laced to perfection, duller in col. than leader, as was he, Dr. Wilson, Redpoll-Can.; c, Metcalfe, fine size Sis. Mule, neat flank and eye markings, rather pale in col. A.O.V. CAN HYB. (7): 1, and £1 "C.B." Championship prize, Howick, Can.-Bullie, wonderful size and shape, excellent cap and markings, not quite bright enough in col., his only fault; 2, Crone, Can.-Bullie, equal size and shape, a marvel for col., not the density of cap or markings of leader, must have given the judge some difficulty to separate, both being such grand specimens; 3, Higham, Cinn. Canary-Bullie, nice condition, lovely qual. of feather, not the size of leaders, being only a baby many thought the Cinn. col. gave him a washed-out appearance, it certainly looked very tame compared to the beautiful colouring of leaders; 4, Dr. Wilson, Can.-Bullie, another gem for col., true to type, a shade on the small side, his only fault, as were vhc, Lavery; hc, c, Askham. BULLF. HYB. (except Can.-Bullf.) (12): 1, 10s. prize in "C.B." Competition, Collins, Redpoll-Bullf., real gem for col. and qual., magnificent size, beautifully proportioned, wonderful shape, feathered to perfection; 2, Walsh, Greenf.-Bullf., lovely shape, good cap and wings, in splendid con.; 3, Inman, Goldf.-Bullf., grand blaze, nice size, lovely qual. of feather, wonderful col. throughout; 4, Walsh, Redpoll-Bullie, excellent size and shape, not the richness of col., carried by winner; vhc, Alexander, Linnet-Bullie, grand size and shape, put down in beautiful order; hc, Dr. Wilson, Greenf.-Bullie, good size and shape, loses condition; c, McLean, Goldie-Bullie, good size, rare shape, hardly the depth of col of leader. A.O.V. (28): 1, Mrs. Middleton, Greenf.-Chaff., wins "C.B." £3 prize in Championship Competition, grand exhibit, nice size and shape, beautifully coloured showing, good depth of yellow in wing butts and eye markings, a real gem all round, much admired, runner up for "C.B." £10 10s. Championship; 2, Martin and Archer, well-known Greenf.-Chaffinch, if anything, a shade larger, more of the Chaffinch type than leader, has had a wonderful innings, and looks as well, if not better, than ever; 3, F. Collins, Goldie-Redpoll, good full head and neck, grand blaze, and wing bars, beautifully feathered; 4, Ramsden, Redpoll-Greenie, neat exhibit, grand tone of col. throughout, staged in lovely order; 5, E. Collins, Goldie-Redpoll, shade larger than leader, but has not richness of col.; vhc, McGavin, Mealy Redpoll, Goldf., very shapely and good size, rather sombre hued, lacks the richness of col. of Lesser 'Poll; vhc, Lafbury, Sis.-Redpoll, very sprightly, nice tone of col. throughout, as was he, Muscott, Sis.-Can.; c, Dicks, Goldf.-Greenf. grand blaze, nice col. and qual., rather on the small size for this cross.

Mr. H. Norman's Classes.

There was undoubtedly a very distinct advance in the quality of the Novice Hybrids. The lights were truly a light class, not simply variegated birds, several of them being really good examples of these fascinating birds. It was in this class that the winner of CAGE BIRDS' novice competition was found, and the ten guinea special, secured by Mr. Levick's bird must enhance his value considerably; he is undoubtedly a good specimen, although his slight weakness in head would keep him back in champion company. Many of the other birds were very fine examples, well staged, and fit to compete anywhere, but all beaten in size by the winner. Darks were a very fine class, nearly all the Canary crosses being represented, without any undue proportion of one kind, Captain Evans staged two good ones, the leader a capital Greenie, and a fine bold Linnet. The Captain was rather unfortunate in holding the second bird in the light class, and being the runner up for CAGE BIRDS' Diploma, but we wish him better luck next time. In this class also there was undoubtedly a general tone of better quality than last year, and we would mention the staging was quite in order. In this department the novices are improving immensely.

NOV. LIGHT CAN. HYB.: (8): 1, Levick, CAGE BIRDS nov. ten guinea cash prize, winner, big 4-ptd. Coldie-Can., shapely, put down in best possible cond., bit weak in head, but still a good bird; 2, 4, Evans, lightly mkd. Greenf.-Can., very smart, nicely proportioned, not over large, but good shape, capital qual. of feather, and beautiful tone of col., lovely cond., a good 2nd; 4, nice 4-ptd. Goldie, neither the size nor qual. of winner, but a good one of the cross, very nicely balanced, good col., and in capital order, well put down; 3, Richards, almost equal to winner, but unfortunately with similar head fault, and hardly his size, lovely shape, and staged to perfection; vhc, Carter; hc, Olle; c, Davies. DARK (20): 1, c, Evans, splendid Greenf.-Can., not the largest in the show, but beautifully proportioned, nice full neat head, tightly braced all through, lovely tone of col., and put down in first-class style, a good win; 2, James, nice Yell. Goldie, shade small, capital shape and style, good touch of blaze, densely mkd., full of qual., staged to perfection; 3, Smith, capital Siskin, good size, clean cut proportionate bird, with nice style, well mkd., good tone of col., fine cond.; 4, Shipton, Buff Redpoll-Can., grand size, very stylish and showy, good full head and body, capitally laced, nice rich col.; vhc, c, Haslam; vhc, Mrs. Hartley; hc, Bielby.

THE BRITISH BIRDS

The British birds once again provided one of the most successful sections in the show, and, needless to say, were a centre of interest to the majority of the visitors. The Insectivorous classes held less birds than usual, it is true, but they lacked nothing from the point of view of quality, many uncommon and beautiful species being staged therein. What may be referred to as the "commoner" Finches mustered in great force, the entry in Mr. Weston's classes being a marked increase over that obtained last year, while Mr. Silver's classes were on the whole well patronised. Bramble-finches were scarce (only nine), but the winner of our championship diploma and £3 cash was amongst them, the wonder owned by Mr. A. C. Brotherhood Dr. Wilson's winning Bullie pressed him hard and secured the £2 special. What a fight it would have been had Mr. Hurst composed his Goldfinch! That bird lost a sure £2, and probably £3! The £1 coupon spl. fell to Mr. Crone's excellent Hawfinch, and the 10/- spl. to Mr. Price's Goldfinch.

The Greenlinches were probably the hottest class in the section, and took some sorting out, many good ones having to stand cardless, so level was the quality. The fed birds came off best this year; last show it was the reverse. Colour-fed birds also won in the Siskin, Yellowhammer, Hawfinch, Twite, Linnet and Bullfinch classes! The Goldfinches were a real treat, some of the leaders being grand specimens in fascinating condition. The Linnets did not impress us after, say, the leading half-dozen. English exhibitors, by-the-way, did shockingly badly in these two classes—1st, 4th and 5th out of 11 money prizes! Scotsmen were triumphant in the majority of the Hardbill classes. Wake up, England!

A Change This Year.

The Hawfinch class was a strong one, with 14 entries, and must have given the judge some work. Last year's Palace winner was this time left out of the cards. In some instances the birds were very forward, showing the blue colour on the beak. Yellowhammers, although fairly strong in numbers, did not appear to be up to the quality we have seen in years gone by. Mr. Lloyd James appears to still find the same type of head marks with the clear yellow running well down the back of the head, and the heavy "V" shaped head marks. We remember seeing a remarkably well marked "Hammer" shown by him at the Palace some 10 years ago. The mixed Bunting class contained 7 varieties, including the Meadow Bunting, and the Continental Black-headed Bunting—a bird about the size of a Yellow Bunting, with a black head and cheeks, and a deep yellow breast and under parts. Like the Meadow Bunting, it can scarcely claim eligibility in British classes. A very nice Cirl appeared rather hardly treated by the judge, while the winning Snow Bunting struck many as being a long way off a "flier." The hens (Finch or Bunting) were a really good lot, several good Hawfinches and Bullies being cardless. Several of the Corn Buntings were exceptionally tame and perfection in every way. The Song Thrush and Blackbird class only attracted nine entries, many thinking it uneven competition to mix these species, but quality made up for lack of number, and Mr. Marley's well-known winners had to play 3rd and 4th fiddle to a real topper put down by Mr. Adams. In the Starling class were several beautifully spangled and spotted "Jacobs," headed by a rare sized bird, full of purple and green sheen, and spots. In Mr. Swaysland's classes, one of the finest collections of Chough's that have been seen for a long time on view, not less than half the class being of this species—overgrown beaks were the principal faults. The Magpies, too, were very good, and attracted a good deal of notice. The Nightingale and Blackcap class was not up to the usual mark, either in number or quality. The winning 'Gale drops its wings badly, and is too tame to show itself. Some of the Blackcaps were in song, one singing the greater part of the Saturday afternoon. On the other hand, the Skylark class contained several birds of more than ordinary merit. The well-known exhibitor, Mr. W. A. Lott, secured premier honours (his first, we believe, at the Palace) with a real good bird.

Tits from the Continent.

Five species of Tits pretty well accounted for the mixed class of Pipits, Tits, etc., a nice pair of Continental Long-tailed Tits were left cardless, the judge evidently noticing the larger amount of white on the heads, which is one of the distinctive marks between the Continental and British species. The class also contained a number of Bearded Reedlings and a pretty Crested Tit. The Wagtails, of which three only of the five species were represented, were, after Mr. Teut's very fine yellow, a somewhat moderate lot, although 4th, a yellow, is the winner of 57 first prizes. Mr. Marley's Great Grey Shrike had again to give way to a Waxwing, as was its luck at the recent L.C.B.A. show. The Small Insectivorous class was, as usual, the most interesting in the section, but the awards did not altogether meet with satisfaction. Mr. May's lovely Grasshopper Warbler was lucky to win here over the noted Dartford Warbler, as the Grasshopper has a slightly "hippeil" wing, which is quite noticeable. These two exhibits received respectively 1st and 2nd prizes in the "C.B." championship competition, the Grasshopper Warbler getting sp. for best bird in section, while the Dartford got Mr. Trower's gold medal. The Treecreepers and Redstarts were in very fine order, also the Golderest. Another interesting feature was the Albino class, with the light yellow Yellow Bunting leading. There was also included a curiously Pied Robin, White Blackbirds, Cinnamon Redpoll, Creamy White Goldfinch, and White Hedge Sparrow. A Landrail also put in an appearance, but was "wrong-classed," although coming in for a fair share of curiosity.

Mr. G. E. Weston's Classes.

BULLF. (28): 1, and CAGE BIRDS £2 cash spl., Dr. Wilson, h.m., grand, thick-set, beautifully rounded bird, very perky carriage, wonderfully bold head and neck, ideal cap, breast colour very vivid and sound, condition and polish A1, a charming exhibit; 2, S. Jones, junr., h.m., little larger, very cobby and stylish, beautiful quality plumage, tight as wax, rare good colour all over, hardly so bold as winner in head and neck, and inclined to be fat; 3, Prior, h.m., more the stamp of winner, medium size, lovely cobby type, grand cap, back and wings, very fine breast colour, carries a fascinating sheen, many liked for 2nd place, but a trifle guttered in neck feather; 4, vhc, Woods, two typical, bonny birds, leader h.m. and red bot in col., line, broad, clean-cut cap, rich back, good wings, very neat; 5, G. G. Henderson, magnificent stamp, lovely thick-set body, grand head, loses only in colour; vhc, Palmer, splendid style and colour; vhc, c, Burr, very good all round, not over tight when judged; vhc, Roy, wonderful col. and polish, shade small; hc, Lloyd James, nice hen, lovely condition; hc, Rae; c, Pringle: an exceptionally good class; 1571, Cheney, looked a bonny one except for being rough at waist. GOLDF. (46): 1, spl. for best bird classes 102 to 166, Hurst, the noted winner, in exceptionally fine form, plumage tight and satin-like, colour magnificent, especially the grand expanse of crimson blaze, splendid wings and tanning, pity he is not more cobby in shape, show cage much too narrow, bird unable to show himself properly, we heard many comments on this; 2, Pringle, not so large, but a delightful specimen, marvellous colour and bloom, well staged, extra big wide blaze, clean cut and pure in crimson, lovely buttons and mooning, close on leader's heels; 3, ex 4, vhc, c, Richards, really fine team, a credit to this enthusiast, 3rd rare size and shape, beautiful style, very expansive blaze, failing a trifle in cut underneath, colour and condition absolutely A1, ex 4th very close up, good big face, loses only a shade in polish, vhc very square cut, but smaller; 4, hc, Burr, gem for purity of colour, lovely plumage, tight and well polished, fine expanse of blaze top and bottom, square cut and rich in colour, "gone" a wee bit round eyes; 5, Jeffreys, huge blaze, but dark and somewhat "dirty" in colour, might moult a deeper next year, good shapely body, nicely marked; hc, Portman, very cobby, fine blaze, good colour, vhc, Jones, junr., lovely tan and polish, excellent blaze, "gone" at eye somewhat; vhc, Mr. Blanchon, lovely col. and cond., fine face, not quite so expansive; hc, Prior, wonderful condition, let down by smaller blaze; hc, Brooks, grand face, not quite bold in col.; c, Crompton; c, Long; No. 1612, Pitchford, the celebrated winner (28 firsts), looking right out of condition. LINNET (28): 1, 2, McQuiston and Paterson, a triumph for Scotland, leader the Hortcultural Hall and Scottish National winner, a remarkable bird in some respects, large size, well proportioned, the thick-set Norwich type, very sound and nutty in colour, nicely ticked all over, 2nd carries much heavier pencilling, and is good in colour and style, but lacks the bonny shape of the winner, 3, Richards, good size, nice comes-shaped body, sound, rich colour, very well pencilled, grand wings, shows to best possible advantage; 4, Nicholas, very close up, similar type, equal in colour and polish, full of work all over, put down in splendid trim; 5, vhc, hc, Parlett, leader nice cobby type, good size, fine chest, heavily pencilled, excellent condition; the hc bird a lovely fan. specimen, but inclined to sit "humpy"; vhc, c, Prior, two gems for condition and markings, wee bit slim; vhc, Lloyd James, bonny big bird, grandly marked, trifle out in throat feather; hc, Oldham; c, Park and Son; wrong class, Tampkins, a pied Linnet, claimed at 21s. CHAFF. (25): 1, 2, c, Sykes, leader wins hands down, an all-round gem, splendid size, shape and style, faultless plumage, full colour, in very forward condition, grandly staged, 2nd lacks the finish and colour of winner, but a beauty for size and markings, very taking style; 3, Adams, somewhat slimmer in build, lovely colour, full of bloom, good whites and wing markings, stylish carriage, well shown; 4, Nicholson and Son, grand bold stylish bird, lovely head and chest, nice bright colour, finely mkd., but looking dull and down in condition, which kept him back; 5, Prior, wee bit small, but equal to any except 3rd in colour and bloom, grandly mkd., a possible coming champion; vhc, Lloyd James, grandly set-up specimen, rare style and colour, little out in neck feather; vhc, hc, G. G. Henderson, two good big ones, just lose in quality; hc, Francis; c, Tonks; 1656, Jeffreys, very soft when judged. GREENF. (38): 1, Stuart and Dalling, an old warrior, now getting past his prime, perhaps, wonderful size, extra bold in head and neck, wide, well-rounded chest, tight and polished in plumage, lovely tone of colour, not overdone with pepper, splendid wings, well staged; 2, and Ramsden's spl. hottest fed Hardbill, Lawrance, a wonder for colour and sheen, not quite so huge as the winner, but big and finely proportioned, grand head, best of flights and tail, wax-like in plumage; 3, Lloyd James, non-fed, in shape and build almost equal to the winner, magnificently proportioned and stylish as possible, plenty of gold in wings and tail, would have split the leaders, but was inclined to be down in condition when judged, looked bonny later on; 4, H. James, non-fed, trifle smaller, wonderfully wide head, good shoulders and chest, nice clean grassy colour, excellent wings, lovely tight silky plumage; ex 4, McLean, very big, shapely bull, well fed, rich colour, prettily mealed, fine head and chest, put down in fine form; 5, Portman, very pretty non-fed, the correct tone of col., well built and neat; vhc, spl. best vhc bird, McGregor and Boyd, grand one, bold and stylish, beautiful depth of colour; vhc, Nicholson and Son, non-fed, taking bird, shade smaller; vhc, Sykes, lovely head and col.; hc, Metcalfe, Fairhurst, G. G. Henderson, a fine trio, latter had damaged wing coverts or might have been higher; c, Hart, Robinson, Laurence; Nos. 1687 and 1684, gone at eyes; 1673, Cuss, unsteady, and "twirls" badly.

Mr. A. Silver's Classes.

LESSER REDPOLL (20): 1, Stuart and Dalling, gem for col., rich and even all over, grand head and chest, flanks splendidly pencilled, large, clean-cut bib, excellent size and shape, well staged; 2, Lloyd James, wonderful head and chest, well laced flanks, very big bib, good col. A1, a grand 'Poll, very close up, loses a little in col. across breast; 3, Marlin, another handsome h.m. example, not quite so large, very fine shape and carr., real good bib, fair good lacing, in captivating cond.; 4, Miss Bousfield, again beautifully mkd. and rich in col., but a trifle down in size, staged in very perfect form, grand bib and flank mkgs.; vhc, McQuiston and Paterson, well-known Scottish winner, fine bird, rightly placed here; vhc, Lyall, smart at all points; hc, Ford; hc, Jeffreys, both good ones, little between them; c, Marley, the Horticultural Hall winner; c, Offord, all in the cards were grand 'Polls. TWITE OR MEALY REDPOLL (15): 1, McQuiston and Paterson, the noted Twite, at the top this year (unnoticed last), and in great form, very sleek and tight, wonderful col. and pencilling, bold head, rare width of chest, grand size, wins worthily; 2, Francis, a Mealy, we thought lucky, a very big, thickset bird, truly, with a bold head and splendid bib, but very plain on flanks and back, we like to see some "work"; 3, Heal, another slashing Twite, very little behind the leader, grand size and style, chockful of col. and markings, carries a satin-like gloss; 4, Johnstone, huge Mealy, again a topper for size, wonderful chest and head, nice clean col., but also, like the 2nd, indistinctly mkd.; vhc, Nicholson and Son, charming Twite, for cond. and col., nice size, splendid mkgs.; hc, Goodall, f.m. Mealy, one mass of "work," and carrying a huge bib, grand size, soon claimed at £2; c, Ford, No. 1733, McGavin, we thought another topping f.m. Mealy, 1st at the Scottish National show, while 1724, Campbell, we thought a grand h.m. example, which could have been 2nd, a great winner in Scotland, we understand. SISKIN (24): 1, Calder, bonny, shapely little fellow, grand head and chest, good, sharply defined bib, nice, rich col., judiciously fed, cond. simply lovely, rightly heads a good class; 2, Portman, non-fed, also bold in build, and exceptionally shapely and stylish, splendid bib, dense and clean cut, nice cap and wings, flank lacing somewhat weak, put down in fine trim; 3, Hodgson, beats 2nd in lacing, which is profuse and distinct, but loses in bib, which is faint, grand bird for size, splendid head and col., wings A1, in nice form; 4, Stuart and Dalling, rare cobby little chap, extra good in head, fine col. and polish, let down by a somewhat broken bib; 5, Hope, great size, huge head, rich and well contrasted colours, trifle "gone" in neck feather; vhc, Nicholson and Son, very pretty non-fed, pressed hard on 5th; vhc, McGillivray, grand one, but few quill feathers at throat; hc (2), Prior, two beautiful f.m. birds, should moult good; c, Long. Austen. BRAMBLE. (9): 1, "C.B." champion diploma and £3 cash sp., Brotherhood, an ideal specimen, good at all show points, adds to-day a notable performance to an already remarkable list of wins, put down in perfect cond., a bold, stylish, grandly spangled bird, of wunderful col., and carrying flank facing such as is seldom seen; 2, 3, hc, Sykes, a noted trio, leader quite tip-top, big, thickset, beautifully spangled grand clean-cut hood, rich, solid col., loses to leader in lacing, and a trifle in breast col., 3 also close up at all points, hardly equal in build; 4, Marley, very fine stamp of bird, grand build and markings, loses in intensity of col.; vhc, Francis, another whopper, could win at lots of shows; c, Lawrance.

HAWFINCH (14): 1, and "C.B." £1 sp., Crone, not a feather out of place, massive head, and fine bold chest, rich col. throughout, good cullar, clean cut bib, full of bloom, very shapely, difficult to find a fault; 2, Sykes, another good one, close up, good bib and splendid shaped head, fine texture of feather, carries plenty of bloom on its plumage, very steady; 3, Axe, hot col., capital shaped head, good wing bars, perfect bib, shows well, we liked this bird very much for a higher place; 4, Davis, smaller, and behind the leaders in all points, pale in col., small in head, but good feather and cond.; vhc, Bull, good size and col., perfect feather; hc, Francis, a very nice Finch, good chest, well put down, stands well, not so shapely; c, Marley, very forward in cond., and hut in cul., several good ones cardless, including last year's winner, No. 1780, No. 1785 another real beauty. YELLOW BUNTING (16): 1, Crompton, col.-fed, heavily marked "V" on head, good check marks, nut a great deal of yellow on breast, fine size, very ucarly a champion; 2, hc, Lloyd James, better cap and throat, and richer plumage, guod body pencilling, fine size and in high cund., little or no harm would have been done had it won, hc natural coloured Hammer, very clear yellow cap and throat, the yellow in both goes well over the back of the head; 3, Jones, col.-fed, very steady, but shows sings of age about the legs, good rich col., dense head and check marks, in A1 order; 4, Livingstone, heavily col.-fed, good size and shape, capital check markings, yellow goes well duwn from the throat, in high cond.; vhc, Marley, Cheney, former much the better bird, richer yellow; c, Jeffreys, on the small side. A.O. BRIT. BUNTING (14): 1, Macpherson, very steady Snow, nice size, but not the best of col., shows rather much brown in the plumage, perfect feather and high cund.; 2, Gostling, Cirn Bunting, rare size and capital markings, very steady, rich coloured breast, shapely, high cond.; 3, Marley, Corn, very similar, little to chuose, beaten in markings; 4, Rowe and Richards, real nice Cirl, beautifully mkd. head and thruat, colours well defined, nice size and perfect feather, full of bloom, might have gone up, some thought; vhc, Lloyd James, hen Lapland, small and none too steady; hc, Pearce, Cirl, very nice Cirl, in grand fettle; c, Robinson, Reed, capital Reed Bunting, good Black head and thruat, nice collar, rather unsteady; Meadow Bunting, and Black-headed Bunting, very nice specimens, and quite tame, were also in the class, but these are not in the five species of British Buntings eligible to compete in the class. HEN, FINCH OR BUNTING (19): Good class of well mixed species: 1, Jones, jun., tupping Corn Bunting, rare col. and markings for a lady, big body, and full of bloom, very tame, deserves its place; 2, Mays, clinking Bramble, rare breast col., very shapely, nice pencillings, grand specimen, almost as good as a cock; 3, Jeffreys, bonny Yellow Bunting, splendid shape, fine silky plumage, well polished, very steady; 4, Heal, another Corn, not so large as 1st, and paler, the tamest we ever remember seeing, probably hand-reared, uot such good markings as some; vhc, Burr, Hawfinch, very nice, medium size, but bib not clean cut, Macpherson, shapely Bullic, in nice order; hc, Sykes, Whitney and Son, big Greenie and Reed, both in good order; c, Rowe and Richards, Bramble, Mascall, Bullie; 1825, capital Hawfinch, very hard luck; 1823, fine Bullie. SONG THRUSH OR BLACKBIRD (9): 1, hc, Adams, topping Blackbird leading, very shapely, lustrous plumage, full of sheen, fine crown, bill, and eye cere, shows well, he a rare big Blackie, but not so good a colour, a paler bill and eye cere, scales on its legs want a little attention; 2, Bruce, Song Thrush, the spots run well down, and are very dense, good col. on back, but shade pale on breast; 3, 4, Marley, both bonny Blackies, former a rare size, beautifully polished; vhc, Abbott; c, Ward, well marked Thrush. STARLING (7): 1, Trower's bronze medal, Dell, densely spotted and shining from head downwards, rare size, full of the lovely purple and green sheen; 2, Axe, simply a mass of large spots, rather more "snakey" than former, lovely polish; 3, Oliver, very slim compared with winner, good purple sheen on breast, stands well; 4, hc, Lean and Son, well spotted one, but not such a sheen as leaders; vhc, Lister, good spangling and shows well; c, Robinson, perfect feather, and tame.

Mr. W. Swaysland's Classes.

CHOUGH, ETC. (10): 1, 2, Victor-Williams, capital pair, 1 splendid Chough, rich red beak and legs, plumage full of lustre, perfect feather, slightly overgrown beak, but undoubtedly the best of a good class, 2 bonny Magpie, fine head, well polished and clean cut bib, pure in Whites, lovely green sheen on flights and tail; 3, Sykes, Chough, again in first-class order, very little between this and 1st, very red beak and legs, well polished; 4, Saywards and Monk, another good Magpie, not the subs. of 2, nice white underparts, good shaped head, tight as wax, and every feather of its long tail perfect; vhc, Hingley, Chough, good size and condition; hc, S. Jones, Chough, good col., legs, and bill, latter overgrown at end; c, Baily and Son, Chough. NIGHTINGALE OR BLACKCAP (7): 1, Lomer, large 'Gale, perfect in feather, but drops both wings; 2, Collins, Blackcap, bonny little bird, tight as wax, good cap, well polished plumage, very pretty exhibit; 3, Lean and Son, 'Gale, good size and shape, perfect feather, very tame, well staged; 4, J. and R. Lewis, large Blackcap, damaged its tail, the largest in the class; vhc, Lafbury, nice Blackcap, sang very sweetly whilst we were taking our notes; hc, Miss Bousfield, Blackcap. SKYLARK (9): 1, 3, vhc, Lott, all goed ones, winner a rare bold chested one, with good pencillings, fine texture of feather, 3rd another equally as good, vhc is smaller one, and paler; 2, McSalby, large upstanding bird, rare cond., beautifully mkd., fine bold carr.; 4, Scott, small again, good tone of plumage, nice pencillings, good carr.; hc, Baseley; c, Potts. PIPITS, TITS, WOODLARKS, ETC. (11): 1, and "C.B." novice dipluma, Orauge, good pair of Bearded Reedlings, cock has a lovely coloured head, plumage of both a little pale, cage too small to show them to the best advantage; 2, Erskine, sweet little Crested Tit, beautifully staged, a mixture of grey with black markings, lovely crest; 3, Tout, good Rock Pipit, very steady, splendid cond.; 4, Wade, Crossbill, fine col., pink breast, good size and steady; vhc, Hattersley, cock Bearded Reedling, in nice order; hc, Andrew Bros., Bearded Reedlings; c, Willis, Cole Tit. WAGTAILS (7): Three species out of the five represented: 1, "C.B." £1 championship prize, Tout, topping yellow, led to perfection, perfect feather, splendid shape, takes the perches beautifully,; 2, Drabble, very steady Grey, good white throat and eye marks, rich yellow rump, perfect feather, well staged; 3, vhc, Mays, yellow, pale in col., particularly compared with 1, vhc yellow, small; 4, Collins, col.-fed yellow, catalogued as winner of 57 first prizes, but it too "slim," could never beat the winner here; hc, Clarke, yellow; c, Curtis and Son. WAXWINGS, SHRIKES, ETC. (9): 1, Mays, real guod Waxwing, grand head and very bright wing tips, of red, yellow, and white, rather pater in body col. than some we have seen, beautifully staged, wins 4th "C.B." championship sp.; 2, Marley, noted Great Grey Shrike, very steady, and in fine feather, hardly so well shown as usual for contrast of col.; 3, Levick, Missel Thrush, rare size, beautifully-spotted breast, good rich tint of plumage, shows well; 4, Miss Bousfield, Waxwing, rich body col. and wing tips, splendid head and crest, rather a tight thing for 1st, full of cond.; vhc, Taylor, another Waxwing, smaller, and uot so good in col.; hc, Rowe and Richards, good col. and mkd. Redwing, wants "scales" attended to; c, Austin, Missel Thrush, unsteady; 1904, nice steady Fieldfare, good col. SMALL INSECTIV. (9): Small in entries, but very fine quality, containing Dartford and Grasshopper Warblers, Redstart, and Black Redstart, Whitethroats, Gold Crest, and Treecreeper: 1, "C.B." £3 champion prize, and coloured diploma, 3, Mays, charming Grasshopper Warbler, a gem, with but one noticeable blemish, and that a slightly dropped left wing, faultlessly shown, but lucky to win the "C.B." championship coupon prize in the British section over the Dartford Warbler, in every other respect it is the toss of a coin for the winner, 3 pretty Treecreeper, shown in Mr. May's usual A1 style, red baize lined cage, silvery white underparts, and well marked back; 2, "C.B." £2 champion prize, Frostick, the well-known Dartford Warbler, "Perfection" (and rightly named), perfect feather and condition, very hard luck in the circumstances, wins "C.B." coupon sp. for 2nd best in section, and Trower gold medal; 4, hc, Taylor, very fine Redstart, splendid black cheeks and throat, nice white crescent, grand breast col., one of the best out, wins Trower's silver medal, hc Black Redstart, not in the best cond.; vhc, c, Tout, pretty Gold Crest, faultlessly shown, and a fine Lesser Whitethroat, tight as wax. ALBINO (13): 1, Martin and Archer, charming light yellow Yellowhammer, not a dark feather on it; 2, Mays, White Hedge Sparrow (or rather a "creamy" white), perfect feather, very steady and beautifully staged; 3, Bakes, topping White Blackbird, pink eyes, perfect except frayed tips of flights, well shown, nice shape; 4, Jenner, pretty Pied Rubin, small portion of orange-red on forehead and throat, and remainder of body well pied, tail natural col.; vhc, hc, Wade, almost White Linnet, spotless plumage, creamy white Goldie, mkd. on flights, and trace of col. in blaze; c, Madell, Pied Starling; 1927, ordiuary Landrail; 1206, Creamy Thrush, damaged tail.

FOR. GOLDF. OR BULLF. (Judge, Mr. J. F. Dewar) (11): 1, J. Henderson, very fine Goldie, in lovely cond., extra large blaze, rich and clean in col. and well cut, grand body, chest broad and heavily tanned, neat buttons, splendid flights, wins well; 2, "C.B." 10s. cash sp., Price, another exceptionally good Goldie, magnificent expanse of blaze, pure and deep in col., excellent wings, plenty of tau, in fine order, somewhat slimmer than leader; 3, Bauer, spanking big Bullie, with a glurious head and cap, wide, clean-cut, and jet-black, very bold front of solid crimson, shining like plush, well worth its place; 4, Pringle, Goldf., practically equal to 2nd, hardly so square cut in under blaze, all there for col. and cond., very stylish and taking; vhc, Walsh, another tip-tup Bullie, great size, fine head and breast; hc, Cowan, handsome Goldie, just beaten in size and blaze; c, Madame Madewell, sweetly pretty hen Bullie.

Mr. H. Norman's Classes.

In Novice British Birds the L. and P.O.S. this year made a slight alteration in the classification, to give the novice birds an opportunity of competing against their own species. Instead of the Bullfinch and Goldfinch class, one for each was put on, the result being an increase of seven in the number sent in. A class was provided for Linnets, but the response was not very encouraging compared with other classes, although an entry of 17 is not bad. As regards quality this class was equal to any, some really high class birds facing the judge. Bullfinches also were a very level lot, and of capital qual., one or two were apparently left out for being of foreign extraction, and some left in that were just a wee bit doubtful, but the dividing line is rather faint, and the judge gave the exhibits the benefit. There was a certain levelness in the Goldfinch class, that made it a difficult one to adjudicate upon; the winner turned up in Mr. Hobden's bird, which also won CAGE BIRDS diploma for best in section, he is really a nice, beautifully tanned Finch, but just a shade on the small side, he was grandly staged, and we congratulate his popular owner. The Any Other Species class held some good birds, most varieties being well represented, but in this and the Siskin and Redpoll class the chief failing was want of steadiness, which seriously handicapped otherwise promising exhibits. Our commonest Finch, the Greenbird, was only fairly represented, the two best being Messrs. Beard's and Bond and Son's birds, these were nice examples, and could hold their own in any class for the species. The staging all through was excellent, many of the exhibits helng put down in first-class style, a bad example scarcely showing among the many good exhibits.

NOV., BRIT. BULLF. (23): 1, James, bonny bird, nicely moulded, and filled in, grand cap of good width and size, well filled neck, nice bars, sound rich col., in the pink; 2, Hardie, hot col., shade smaller, but close up, lovely cap, although scarcely so wide as winner, grand wing bars, lovely cond.; 3, Lovell, very cobby, good full head and neck, bold front, sound col., capital wings, hardly the bloom of winner, nice cap; 4, Tapper, all there for type, a real Bullie, rare neck and front, good broad cap, beaten col.; 5, vhc, Fowler, typical, good head, nicely filled back and front, sound rich col., hardly the polish; vhc, Holliday; hc, Dawson, Howe; c, Alexander, Walker. GOLDF. (27): 1, Hobden, little gentleman, neat all over, full of col. and tanning, good expansive blaze, hardly so cleanly cut as some, but fine qual., staged to the minute; 2, Parker, rather small, nice square cut blaze, shapely, good wings, inclined to be a bit light down centre of breast, still a good Finch; 3, Walker, rather bigger, good square cut blaze, hardly so rich in col. as winner, nor so nicely tanned, nice shape and style; 4, Dawson, richly tanned, nice blaze, scarcely so rich as some, good wings, capital cond.; 5, James, good bird, capital blaze, nicely tanned, good wings, hardly put down at his best; vhc, Lovell, Miller; hc, Hartley, Elston; c, Hardie, Owen. LINNET (17): 1, Mrs. Edwards, bonny, capital size and shape, not the richest col. in the class, but put down in faultless cond., nice full head, bold front and back, full of work; 2, Fowler, lovely col., very shapely, but not over big, nicely proportioned, splendidly laced, hardly so nicely put down as winner; 3, James, rare bold big bird, shows himself well, full head and neck, not very heavily mkd., but in grand order; 4, vhc, Lockett, shapely, good rich col., sound wings, good style, when handled, fails a bit in lacing, still a good bird; vhc, Walker; hc, Street; c, Lewis. SISKIN, ETC. (24): 1, Lovell, lovely Siskin, capital size and type, good wide densely black cap, grand wings, beautifully laced, sound rich col., in the pink; 2, c, James, very fine Lesser Redpoll, cobby shape, full of col. throughout, good bold bib, nicely laced, in fine order; 3, Walker, lovely Twite, good size and shape, nice full head and front, full of work throughout, fine cond.; 4, Sadler, good Siskin, little gentleman for shape and style, neat cap, nicely laced, tight as wax, sound col.; 5, Theobald, good Lesser, but hardly the finish of winner, capital size; vhc, Mrs. Edwards, Cooper; hc, Hartley, Dawson; c, Lewis. A.O.S. (24): 1, Lovell, grand Hawfinch, capital size, good bold head, sound rich col. throughout, nicely packed and filled in, put down in the pink of condition; 2, Orange, very fine Yell. Bunting, grand size, and shape, beautifully mkd., nicely spangled, sound rich col., in very fine order; 3, James, not the biggest Chaffinch in the show, but a gem for col., grand cap, nice bold front, good wings; 4, c, Cooper, very fine house-moulted Crossbill, capital size, guod col., and well put down; 5, hc, Walker, lovely rich col. Bramble, capital size and style, good cap, nicely spangled, full of poise, c, Bond.

LIMIT (25): 1, Jenner, fine bold Siberian Bullie, grand depth of col. and good wide cap, well polished; 2, Rowe and Richards, nice English Goldie, well up in col.; 3, Lawrence, bold Hawfinch, grand size, wide skull; 4, Parker, another good Bullie; 5, vhc, Wren, a capital Goldie; vhc, hc, Hawkes; hc, Goodall; c, Francis.

THE FOREIGN BIRDS.

The foreign section showed considerable improvement on recent years, containing, as it did, 116 exhibits, of which 43 were in the Parrot section, and 73 in the remaining standing classes, one class, that for Sunbirds, etc., failing to fill—a great disappointment, considering the large number of eligible birds now in the hands of foreign bird lovers. The length of time covered by the show had probably something to do with this, together with the prospect of wintry weather. But one would have thought that the clause especially providing that the more delicate birds could be removed before the close of the show if inclement weather prevailed, would have dispelled any fears of untoward happenings. Three of the classes each had an entry of 20 birds, and the task of the judges in sorting these was not at all an easy one. Messrs. Camps and Fulljames seem, however, to have acquitted themselves with discretion, for we heard no adverse comments on the awards in either section.

In the class for Parrots, Mr. Camps was faced with two new introductions, a pair of Ruppell's Parrots and a Salle's Amazon, and also an Aubrey's Parrot, which, although we have seen it before, remains, we believe, the only one of its kind yet exhibited. Neither of the three exhibits was quite in show cond., and first prize consequently went to our old friend, Bessie, the Rev. Raynur's well-kuowu hen Meyer's Parrot.

The 20 exhibits in the class for common species and Waxbills, etc., presented a teaser for the judge, practically every exhibit being in perfect condition. It was generally conceded, however, that Mrs. Lougden's lovely pair of tiny African Fire Finches were rightly placed at the top. The class as a whole attracted the attention of the visitors as much as auy in the show, and expressions of admiration and surprise at the fascinating beauty of these exquisite miniatures of bird life were continuous.

Another lot of 20 appeared in the class for the less common Waxbills, sundry Finches, Whydahs, etc., but here the fight for premier position was quickly narrowed to a contest between a Crimson-throated Whydah (Mr. Chadwick), and a beautiful Ruddy Waxbill (Mr. Frostick). The Whydah got the best of the struggle, and the result met with general approval. A number of Melba Finches appeared in the class, and 3rd prize went to Mr. Beaty with certainly the best of the lot. Miss Bousfield's pair of Black-headed Gouldian Finches meritoriously won the 5th prize, which fell to their lot—a perfect pair indeed, and more admired by the general public than anything in the class.

True Finches, etc., numbered 17, and were a nice lot. The judge could not go beyoud the Sepoy Finch for 1st, as it was not only the rarest bird in the class, but was absolutely perfect in plumage and steadiness. The Olive Finches (2nd) were a very perfect pair of these uucommon birds, and the 3rd prize, Rainbow Bunting, was about the best of its kind we remember seeing. Mr. J. A. E. Smyth's Mexican Hawfinches were a taking pair, but a bit too nervous to show themselves to advantage. Of the remaining four classes, one had to be cancelled, and the other three produced only 16 in all, there being nothing very wonderful in either class. Six birds were entered in the class for Tanagers, four of them by Miss Bousfield, and one of these, a White-capped, arrived ill, and was not benched. Miss Bousfield won 1st, 3rd, and vhc, and took with the winner a beautiful Festive, 1st in C.B. competition, and the L. and P.O.S. challenge cup, which now becomes the exhibitor's own property. The winner for best in foreign classes, however, was in the next class, Mr. Frostiek's lovely Japanese Robin, one of the only two in Europe, we believe. A pair of hybrids appeared for competition, but were of course wrong classed. The section as a whole presented most attraction of any to the general public, and among the interested visitors was the distinguished scientist, Sir Ray Lankester, K.C.B., who was shown round the section by Mr. Fulljames.

Mr. H. T. T. Camps' Classes.

BUDGERIGARS, ETC. (12): 1, 3, c, Silver, leaders beautifully plumaged pair Green Budgerigars, the hen one of the best we have seen for a long time, just a wee bit wild, or would be a perfect pair of show birds, 3 nice pair of Madagascar Love Birds, will improve with keeping, not yet quite at home in England; 2, vhc, Shipton, 2 lovely pair of yellow Budgerigars, feather perfect, and very tame, we certainly liked these for 1st, not only because a good Yellow generally beats a good Green, hut because they were ever so much steadier, the very nice Green Budgerigars; 4, Fletcher, nice Green Budgerigars, not showing sex distinction so clearly as the others; hc, Mrs. Frostick. OTHER PARRAKEETS, ETC. (20): A fine class, which must have taken a bit of sorting out: 1, Mrs. Longden, takes trophy for best Australasian bird, and 3rd in "C.B." competition, Red-naped Lory, shown in absolute perfection of plumage, beautifully steady; 2, hc, Miss Clare, pair of Queen Alexandra Parrakeets. The hen bird could possibly have won by herself, but the cock was decidedly down in plumage, a bit of bad ... meant missing the valuable Pair trophy, ... the L. and P.O.S. championship diploma ... foreign (were in the running also for the Abraham memorial for rarest foreign), 3, 5, vhc, hc, ..., five out of a grand team of eight shown by Miss A. B. Smyth, 3 Purple-capped Lories, marvellously deep alizarine crimsun plumage, tail feathers just a bit frayed at ends, otherwise without a fault, 5 very nice Forsten's Lorikeet, shining better than satin; 4, Jamesun and Johnson, beautiful Ceram Lory, superb polish; ex. 5, Young; vhc, Wilson, Frostick; hc, Wade; c, Harrison, Hawkins; 211, Smith, Ceram Lory, we thought might have been well up in the cards, just showing a few pen feathers here and there, but a lovely bird of its kind. A.O.S. PARROTS, ETC. (11): 1, vhc, hc, Rev. Raynor, winner hen Meyer's Parrot, the old favourite, "Bessie," has now had twenty years at least of cage bird life, and looks good for another twenty, certainly looking better than ever before, and wins meritoriously, the vhc Red-vented Parrot, the hc an Aubrey's, both a bit down in condition; 2, Miss A. B. Smyth, catalogued as Ruppell's Parrots, looked rather like two cock Meyer's Parrots, but the two species are so closely alike to render identification difficult without comparing them together; 3, Leavers, good Senegal Parrot, won on condition of plumage over 4, Moore, Salle's Amazon, a first appearance of the species on the show bench, not yet in exhibition conditiun, or would have gone higher up in the prize list; ex. 4, Miss Gollan, very fine Leadbeater's Cockatoo, in perfect plumage; vhc, Ditchfield, Blue-fronted Amazon; c, Muscott.

Mr. H. J. Fulljames's Classes.

AVADAVATS AND OTHER NAMED COMMON SPECIES (20): A very nice class: 1, Mrs. Longden, pair of African Fire Finches, differing materially from the well-known type of the same name, considerably smaller, not larger, indeed, than the familiar Golden-breasted Waxbill, a lovely little pair, shown in exquisite condition; 2, vhc, hc, Silver, leaders an absolutely perfect pair of Lavender Finches, lovely condition and beautifully staged in a double cage, the partition ingeniously masked with sprays of millet, quickly claimed at catalogue price; 3, Mrs. Thynne, the most perfect pair of St. Helena Waxbills that it has ever been our pleasure to see, nothing could exceed them in beauty of plumage and markings; 4, vhc, Watts, lovely pair of White-headed Mannikins, and a very nice couple of Green Avadavats, in perfect condition; hc, c, Beaty, beautiful Combassou, in shining plumage, and a nice African Fire Finch; c, Miss Bousfield. A good pair of White Javas, Madam Madewell, would have been in the cards, but for imperfect washing. OTHER WAXBILLS, ETC. (20): A most interesting class of the less common among the small foreign seedeaters: 1, Chadwick, very nice Crimson-throated Whydah, not Red-collared, as catalogued, winner of 2nd cash prize in "C.B." competition, in full breeding plumage, with nice tail feathers, dense black body col., and well mkd. wings, crimson throat band might be deeper in col., just breaking into the out of season plumage, a week later would have been too late; 2, Frestick, very fine Ruddy Waxbill, a rare bird, in perfect plumage, and beautifully steady, close run for 1st prize; 3, Beaty, Melba Finch, in utmost perfection of col. and plumage, beautifully spangled underneath; and lovely col. of face crimson; 4, hc, Hawkins, nice pair Melba Finches, cock considerably behind 3 in colouration, and heu just a bit soft; 5, vhc, Miss Bousfield, very perfect pair of Black-headed Gouldians, in shining condition, a living picture of loveliness, impossible to imagine a better pair of these charming birds; vhc, Mrs. Longden; hc, Miss J. A. E. Smyth; c, Miss Thynne, Pin-tailed Whydah, would have been higher but rather wild. TRUE FINCHES, ETC. (17): 1, Hathaway, fine specimen of the rare Sepoy Finch, in lovely cond., steady, and shows well; 2, Beaty, lovely pair of Olive Finches, perfect feather, and well shown; 3, Almond, Rainbow Bunting, in unsurpassable plumage, a lovely exhibit, wins 4th in "C.B." cash prizes; 4, Miss J. A. E. Smyth, very nice pair of Mexican Hawfinches, just a bit unsteady, nice condition, and markings well defined; vhc (2), Fordred, Pileated Finch and Virginian Cardinal, both in perfect plumage, and well shown; hc, Gunnell, American Pine Siskin, an interesting exhibit; c, Oliver. TANAGERS (6): A small class, but it held the winner of 1st in "C.B." cash competition among couponed foreign birds, this being Miss Bousfield's lovely Festive Tanager, which won also the L. and P.O.S. silver challenge cup, the cup now becoming the property of Miss Bousfield, it being her third win, the bird is not quite perfect in the claws of its left foot, and this very slight defect told against it in the ultimate competition for the ten-guinea "C.B." special for the best bird in the show; 3, vhc, also Miss Bonsfield, good pair of Necklace Tanagers, just a bit off in cond., and a nice superb; 2, Arnott, lovely Tri-coloured, in nice plumage; 4, Miss A. B. Smyth, good Palm Tanager. A.O.S. SMALL (7): 1, Frostick, beautiful Japanese Robin, one of the rarities of the show, lovely plumage, and very tame, wins L. and P.O.S. championship diploma for best foreign bird, and Crystal Palace Co.'s silver medal, bad luck it was not "couponed," or it must have won the £3 first prize in foreign birds, and would have had a better chance than the Festive Tanager in the ultimate competition for the ten-guinea champion prize, and the ten-guinea challenge shield; 2, Sharples, Chinese Starling, wins Abraham's trophy for rarest foreign bird, a most difficult prize to award, for there were other foreign birds shown for the first time, notably the Salle's Amazon, and the Ruppell's Parrots, but only one could have it, and the Starling won on condition; 3, 4, Miss A. B. Smyth, 3 Shamah, in perfection of plumage, tame and beautifully shown, 4 pair of Black-headed Sibias, in lovely condition, but very unsteady, might have been 2nd if they had shown themselves properly; vhc, hc, Fordred, both Pekin Robins, singing merrily throughout the show; wrong class, Miss A. B. Smyth, nice pair of hybrids. A.O.S. LARGE (3): A disappointing class: 1, A. B. Smyth, nice Yellow-headed Troupial; 2, Sharples, Pileated Jay, in lovely plumage; 3, Andrews Bros., very perfect Glossy Starling.

The Appliances Class

1, 3, And. Wilson, "The Perfect" Atmospheric Drying Cage leading, the heat is obtained from a lamp acting on a tray of water or wet sand, very excellent, and we hear has been used with success, 3rd a novel arrangement for giving asthmatical subjects a vapour bath, the only heat required is a night light, well made and looks useful; 2, Baron and Co., two now well-known Kozy Karriers, one for two Yorksbires and one for two Norwich, too well-kuown to need description; vhc, Tams and Sons, double breeding cages, very completely fitted with nest pans, egg drawers, and everything necessary to the successful rearing of sturdy youngsters, except the food to be provided for themselves and their parents. The value is very full at the prices charged; hc, Pitchford, nice lot of pottery and glass, comprising nest pans, egg drawers, food and water vessels, everything up-to-date and easily cleaned.

Quality the Best
Price Most Reasonable
Value Greatest

It is not what bought up birds at absurdly high prices have done that matters to you, even if led to believe that they are not so procured. What you want to know is where you can get the greatest value for money. I sell the Winners, and can easily save you money, and at the same time give you birds that others would reserve. I have for those wanting to improve length of body and leg, the right thing.

The present stock comprises winners that will be sold at stock bird prices. This is a fact that will take some beating. Have on approval, and be convinced. Don't take my word without you like. Cocks, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 15/-, 20/-, 30/-. Hens, 3/-, 3/6, 4/6, 6/6, 8/6. THE CHAMPION STRAIN!

Read following from 216, Wellingboro'-rd., Northampton. Feb. 8, 1914. You will be pleased to hear that I have won five firsts, four seconds, four thirds this season, and several specials, all with birds bred from your strain.—A. E. Dunkley. My winnings for the past five seasons cannot be approached by any other exhibitor, again winning the Green Marked Yorkshire ten guinea trophy, and gold medal for 1913-1914; also the Yorkshire Canary Club Challenge Cup, 1913-14; 2nd in Yorkshire Union Competition, etc., etc., and diplomas for best Yorkshire at Sunderland, Scottish National, etc., etc., and over 70 firsts, and numerous spls. this season at all the leading shows. In addition to above, I have bred and sold over 100 winners to my customers, so if you want the best blood in the Fancy, place your orders with the old reliable breeder, who breeds his own winners, and can therefore give you the best satisfaction. I still have a fine collection of high-class Yorkshires for sale, including several recent winners, that for length, type and quality cannot be beaten, and at prices to suit all. Pairs, carefully selected to breed the best, not haphazard. This is where pedigree tells its own tale afterwards, as blood is bound to tell, at 8/6, 10/6, 12/6 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 60/- per pair; Yorkshire cocks, any colour, at 6/- 7/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- each upwards; hens, feathered like wax, at 4/-, 5/-, 6/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/- each upwards. Travelling cages, 3d. extra; all cocks on full song, and cold room bred and kept, and in the pink of condition; inspection invited at any time, or I will send any bird on seven days' approval at my risk; cash or deposit, with Editor; easy payments arranged with genuine fanciers. Please state wants. Price list post free: L. Dykes, Reliable Aviaries, Shann-st., Bolton Woods, Bradford. (1322)

HONEST DEALINGS
Fair value, is what I give with my Yorkshires. I have twice won the N.Y.C.C. points competition, the Newcastle Nest Feather Cup, and have got a 2nd, 3rd, and hc, at Palace. I have a few really good birds left, and for quick sale offer at following low prices: Yellow cocks 10/-, 12/6, 20/-, 30/-; buff cocks, 12/6, 15/-, 30/-; hens 5/- to 30/-; a few of my show birds for sale also: Crawhall, Chemist, 121, St. George's-terr., Newcastle-on-Tyne. (1310)

SEE PALACE REPORT.
Having selected my pair for breeding, I find I have no room for the following first-class birds: Three clear yellow cocks, stylish and well up on leg, at 10/-, 12/-, and 15/- each; two clear buff cocks (brothers to my bronze medal winner at the Crystal Palace Show last week), winners of several 1sts, 25/- each; one variegated buff cock (2nd Holborn Hall, 1913), over seven inches long, magnificent stock bird, 21/-, honestly worth treble. All in full song and pink of condition. My birds have won this season, silver challenge cup, three medals, "Cage Birds" Diploma, and three other 10/- cash specials: H. L. Huggins, 130, Myddleton-rd., Bowes Park, London. (1307)

KNIGHT'S YORKSHIRE AVIARIES
Important to novices, amatcurs, and Yorkshire breeders generally. Age and present health condition decides me in offering for immediate sale the whole contents of two of my bird rooms, including over 100 birds, with cages and fittings. My past 35 years' experience in the breeding and keeping of Yorkshire varieties only is proof sufficient, without further comment, that purchasing clients for future stock are assured of securing style and quality in progeny, also at prices probably half that usually charged by professional exhibitors and dealers for class birds. Unrelated pairs, selected and suitably matched as for own breeding, from 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-; single specimens proportionately; also few exhibition specimens, equally cheap; all approval, cash or deposit; for detailed particulars, etc., address: Jonas Knight, Allerton, Bradford, Yorkshire. (1190)

WALSH'S CHAMPION YORKS.

REPEATING OF ADVERTISEMENTS

Owing to the number of announcements received we cannot guarantee to repeat advertisements unless the previous Issue, Page, and Column are stated by the advertiser. ADVT. MANAGER, "CAGE BIRDS."

The increasing popularity of SPRATT'S Foods for Canaries and other Cage Birds is due entirely to their superiority.

¶ Whether you keep your Birds as pets, as songsters, or for profit, always remember that it is in your best interests to give them only those foods which are sold in Spratt's original packets—packets upon which the name is plainly printed—the name which guarantees quality—SPRATT'S.

¶ Only the choicest seeds are used in the various mixtures which we supply for Cage Birds, and these are carefully blended and entirely free from dust, being treated by a special process to secure absolute purity. Further, all our manufactured foods are also of the highest quality and every ingredient entering into their composition specially selected.

Therefore always specify

Use DITCHFIELD'S Famous Bird Medicines as supplied to the London Zoo.

Ditchfield's Bird Medicines have been used for over six years by most leading fanciers, and have been proved to be the most reliable. We have over 2,000 testimonials, and are receiving letters every day from fanciers, telling us of the marvellous results of our Bird Medicines. The proof of the value of these Medicines is given in the repeat orders and ever-increasing sales. In 1911 we sold nearly 1,000 bottles; in 1912 over 3,000 bottles, during 1913 we sold over 5,000 bottles. Fanciers we want a trial; we have confidence we can give you satisfaction. Every order is given prompt and personal attention. We do not send you one medicine to cure all diseases, but give every customer our careful attention, and where an extra bottle or Powders are required, we enclose them free. Our Medicines are perfectly safe, and can be given with confidence to all classes of cage birds.

SPECIAL OFFER.—If you have any birds you are relying upon for the coming breeding season that are not singing, or have gone into the soft moult, we guarantee you a perfect cure. We have the grandest medicine ever introduced for bringing birds into breeding condition. Ditchfield's Tonic Drops are a guaranteed cure for soft moult, not singing, going light, feather plucking, diarrœa, and inflammation of the bowels. In 7d., 1/1, 2/-, and 5/- bottles. We guarantee every customer perfect satisfaction, or return full money. For Bronchitis, Wheezing, and Hoarseness, get Ditchfield's special Lung Tonic. It is the grandest Medicine ever offered for chest and lung affections in cage birds. Also in 7d., 1/1, and 2/- bottles. For cases of Constitutional Weakness and Debility get Ditchfield's Famous Revivo. There is nothing to equal it for giving new life and vigour to the birds. As a pick-me-up for birds before and after showing, Revivo is absolutely unequalled. In 7d., and 1/1 bottles. Special Notice.—All our Medicines can be given in the drinking water, and the birds take them freely with marvellous results. When ordering Medicine, kindly mention for what complaint, as in some cases an extra bottle is required, which we enclose free. As an advertisement, we will send two 7d. bottles of any of the above medicines for 1/-, three for 1/6, or two 1/1 bottles any kind for 1/9, three for 2/6. All medicines are sent, post free, per return. All bottles broken in transit replaced. Also two valuable Seed Recipes: How to Feed Linnets and Rollers for Song, given free to all Purchasers of our Medicines. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed. (1322)

HULL'S LEADING SPECIALIST AND JUDGE

Gentlemen, if you want good honest value, place your orders with the right man. I delivered a large consignment of birds to East Park on Monday last, this being my second order there. I supply numerous parks and aviaries. I guarantee all birds as described, and, moreover, send them all out on seven days' approval for cash or deposit. I have been advertising many years now, so there is a reputation behind everything I sell, and I mean to keep that reputation. Look! Giant Waxwings! I can sell cheaper than other dealers because I get them direct. Price 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/6 each. Grossbeaks, 5/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6; Siberian Goldfinches, gems, 4/6, 5/6, winners 7/6; Yellow cock Siskins, with good cap and bibs, 2/6, 3/6; winners, cannot be beaten, 5/6; Siberian Greenfinches, real giants, the real kind for colour and size, 2/-, 2/6, 3/- each; Peartree cock Goldfinches, in full song, 3/6, 4/6, 5/6; not little smoky rubbish: Mealy Redpolls, 2/-; giant cock Bramblefinches, exact in colour and markings, 1/-, 1/6, 2/6 each; hens, 6d., 9d., 1/-; giant muling Linnets, sing anywhere, 2/-, 3/-; muling hen Canaries 2/-, 3/- each. I have bought Mr. Wheldrake's stock of birds, and can offer them at: Yorkshire cocks, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, and 15/6; hens, 3/6, 5/6, 7/6. Now these are class, and are the best in the Fancy. They have won all over, some being claimed at £7. 200 German Rollers, no harsh notes, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, and the best in England 20/-. Pay me a visit. I stock everything in the bird trade, also dog harness, collars, etc. I have the best and oldest establishment in Hull. A visit will prove my honest statement. No waiting. Please state wants. Correspondence a pleasure: Fred. Allen, Direct Importer, Porter-st. Aviaries, Hull. (1355)

HARRY ALLEN, THE ORIGINAL LINNET KING MY BOOK OF SECRETS 1s.

It tells you how to make Linnets sing at one another with their wings down; how to train them for contest singing; how to moult them; how to make Larks, Thrushes, and Blackbirds sing with full loud voice on fine days, also Nightingales, and how to save Goldfinches from dying and make them sing, and the rules under which the champion Linnet of the world won all his contests. I have just got another 4 000 books printed. Muling pairs, birds I have put together are true pairs; beautiful Siberian cock Goldfinch, with a large Russian hen Bullfinch, 10/-; Siberian cock Goldfinch, with a beautiful yellow hen Canary, 8/6 and 10/6; beautiful cock Siskin, with hen Canary, 7/6; large yellow cock Greenfinch and large German hen Bullie, 5/-; large muling Linnets and hen Canary, 5/-; beautiful cock Chaffinch, and hen Bramblefinch, 3/6; large Mealy Redpoll and English hen Bullie, 4/-; yellow cock Greenfinch, with hen Canary, 5/-; the above are properly paired, and in the pink of condition. Winners for the show bench, that can win, Siberian Goldfinch, 7/6, with all the show points, 7/6 and 10/-; English Goldfinches, 5/- and 7/6; Show Linnets, 2/6, 3/6, and 5/-; large muling Goldfinches, singing hard, 4/- each. I hold the world's record for mulers; extra large muling Linnets, 2/6, 3/6 and 5/-; I have the finest stock of singing Larks in the world. Larks, singing, daylight and gaslight, with full loud voice, as steady as rocks, and perfect in feather, a treat to hear them sing, 1/6 and 2/-; a few hand-reared ones, will sing indoors or out, singing with full loud voice, daylight and gaslight, right for contest singing, 3/6 and 4/6; one a real champion, cannot be beaten, 6/-, with cage 7/6, he is a topper. Thrushes and Blackbirds, singing hard, 3/- and 3/6; hand-reared ones, 5/- each, can be heard singing 100 yards away. Linnets, taught by the champion Linnet of the world, will sing anywhere, with new cage and my book of secrets, 3/6 and 4/6. I challenge the world with this class of bird. Linnets from the same place as the champion Linnet of the world, singing a treat, can run as long as German Canaries, they will sing anywhere, only 2/6 each; guaranteed to mule pure Seifert Roller hen Canaries, 3/6 and 5/-; German hen Canaries, 2/6; German hen Bullfinches, 3/-; Russian hen Bullfinches, 4/- and 5/-; English Bullfinches, 2/- and 3/-, all grand birds, all sent out in wicker cages; for aviaries and parks, Chaffinches, Bramblefinches, Greenfinches, Yellowhammers, Redpolls, 2/- a pair; Linnet Mules and Goldfinch Mules, will sing anywhere, 10/-; talking Amazon Parrot; 2 guineas; a pure white cock Lark, singing, with full, loud voice, will sing anywhere, a picture, 7 guineas. Everybody welcome to come and see and hear what they are buying; best meeting place for trippers is Harry Allen's. Bird Stall, Bird Market. I have more Goldfinches, Bullfinches, Linnets, and Larks than any man in the trade; 2,000 birds in stock; no waiting; postcard before birds. Thanking you all for your kind patronage. Send to Harry Allen, The British Bird Champion, City Aviaries, 40, Beckett-st., Leeds. (1356)

JUDGE A. E. SILK, WHITSTABLE.

This Strain of Norwich is the best in United Kingdom. Show reports stand for little. Find out where the winners at the shows originally came from. THAT IS THE GREATEST POINT. Don't be led into buying birds with no blood relation to the winners, and have no real strain in them. Winners can be bought, but winners cannot be bred unless you have the right stock birds. To get the right stock you must Send to the Fountain Head.

Some excellent Match Pairs, properly matched by an expert, from 20/- to 80/-. Grand Hens from 10/- to 40/-. Cocks, 10/- to 40/-. Approval with pleasure. It is to your interest to note carefully the address.

AMONG SO MANY

advertisements it is rather difficult for the intending purchaser to make a final selection. However well off a man may be, he does not like the idea of not getting fullest value, does he? For many years I have publicly stated that the Leipsig Roller, as imported by myself, is far and away better value than any Roller on the market, and have invited all intending purchasers to test the truth of this statement by testing a Leipzig Roller against any other costing up to three times the price, and have repeatedly published letters from persons who have done this. I now hold an enormous stock (over 900) of genuine Weber's Leipzig Roller cocks, all in full song, day and gas light, with long hollow and double rolls, sweet silvery trills, soft roulades, water bubble runs, piccolo trills, jug-jug of Nightingale, bell, harp, gong and flute notes, etc., and guaranteed entirely free from any harsh objectionable notes whatever; price 7/6 and 8/6 each. Special bandmasters, which excel in the deep bass and hollow bell tours, 10/6 and 12/6 each; hens same strain, 2/6 each; 4/6 couple. I also have a splendid lot of loud, free singing Hartz cocks in full vigorous song at 5/6 each; hens 2/- each, 3/6 couple. These Hartz cocks are specially suitable for public bar or coffee house and those who like a noisy songster. Special travelling cages, 3d. extra. Singing box cages, 1/6 each. Special Roller singing cabinet cages, with folding doors and loose fronts, made specially for Rollers, 3/- and 4/- each. Kindly note full name and address, also date of following letters. I have thousands similar, open to inspection at any time:—"Kibworth, Jan. 6.—Sir,—Leipzig Roller arrived today and began singing at once. I am well pleased with him.—Yours, B. Green." "27, Porchkerry-rd., Barry, Jan. 10.—Sir,—Received bird on Tuesday in grand condition, and consider it excellent value.—Yours, M. Gibbs." "Springvale, Ballywater, Ireland, Jan. 9.—Sir,—Birds arrived safe and cock is singing splendidly.—Yours, Alex. McCormick." "10, St. Andrew-st., Dublin, Dec. 29.—Sir,—Please let me know if you have few more of your famous Rollers for friends who have heard the one I had from you four years ago. I have just sold him at double the price, and he is better now than ever.—Yours, T. Henry." "43, Talbot Grove, Notting Hill, London, Jan. 9.—Sir,—Am well pleased with Roller, and thank you very much for sending such a nice bird. He started singing soon as unpacked.—Yours, W. Burt." "24, George-st., Burnbank, Hamilton, Jan. 19.—Sir,—I got a Roller from you seven years ago, and it has just died. It was as good as ever right up to the last. Please send another. P.O. enclosed.—Yours, T. Armstrong." "22, Stafford-st., Stockton-on-Tees.—Sir,—Received Roller on Tuesday, and am highly satisfied. Please send two hens.—Yours, J. Kemp." "20, Park View, Tredegar, Dec. 28.—Sir,—Received Roller safe at 4.30 on 24th; it was singing splendidly up to 12 o'clock same night. I am more than delighted with it.—Yours, R. Lane." "Sunnyside, Whitwell, Mansfield, Dec. 24.—Sir,—Just a line to let you know that both my friend and self are highly satisfied with our Rollers. Thanking you for straightforward and honest dealing.—Yours, S. Wilson." "80, Beaumont Terrace, Westerhope, near Newcastle, Jan. 14.—Sir,—Roller you sent me is singing grand, and I am well pleased.—Yours, W. Henderson." Please note, all birds are sent on full week's trial solely at my own risk during whole time either on receipt of cash or "Cage Birds" deposit system, and fullest satisfaction guaranteed or money instantly refunded in full. I am sole importer of Weber's Leipzig Rollers, and all cocks are stamped on wing, "Hans Weber, Leipzig." Among the advantages of the Leipzig Rollers is the fact that they retain their song for life, not merely one season, as is the case with many Rollers. The breeders of Leipzig Rollers have been improving the strain for past 20 years, and the result is round about perfection. I care not how hard a person is to please, I am convinced that I can do so. If any person would like to hear a Leipzig Roller sing and cannot call at my premises to do so, I will willingly send them one on week's approval (even if they have no intention of purchasing). I only ask that they will deposit price of bird with Editor of "Cage Birds." Let me remind you that I am sole importer of this strain, and no other dealer can sell unless he first purchases from me. SILVER CUP,

4 Firsts, 2 Thirds, Etc.

Once again my birds have wound up the show season by securing highest honours at the Great National Show (see report of Palace Show in this issue). That they have won consistently all through the season is shown by the fact that they have secured 76 Specials, 89 Firsts, 74 Seconds, and 60 Thirds This Season, in open champion classes, in hottest competition at all the leading shows. They have also won the N.P.C. Champion Trophy, the O.N.P.C. Champion Trophy, 3rd in Y.C.C. Competition, also several Silver Cups and Bowls, Gold and Silver Medals, Diplomas, and numerous other trophies.

I have also supplied birds that have won highest honours for my clients, including winners of this year's Palace show, in very strong classes. I have letters filed here for anyone to see in proof of this; also a large number of letters from fanciers who have bred winners from stock bred and sold by me.

These are FACTS, needing no comment. They speak for themselves, and they cannot be disputed. I am now offering marvellous value in the following varieties:—

CHAMPION NORWICH, THE BULLDOG STRAIN.

Grand, short, thick-set birds, cocks or hens, at 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-, 60/- each upwards. Matched pairs, personally selected by me for breeding winners, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-, 60/- to 100/- per pair. Blood is sure to tell in the end, and I am prepared to give a written guarantee that the above are bred by me from my noted strain ofwinners. I have also a few real good cobby birds bred from other well-known strains at the following prices: Cocks, in full song, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 17/6, 20/- each. Grand cobby hens, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- each. Matched breeding pairs, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 17/6, 20/-, 25/- per pair.

CHAMPION YORKSHIRES.

Grand, lengthy Yorkshire Cocks, with good position, and in full song, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/- each. Erect, racy hens, feathered to perfection, 3/6, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 10/- each. Matched pairs, personally selected, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/- per pair.

EXHIBITION YORKSHIRES.

I have a few specially good birds, ready for immediate benching, that can easily win their cost in prize-money. Cocks or hens, in clears, ticks, or marked, at 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/- each. Also a few specially matched pairs, bred from the best blood in the Fancy, and personally matched by me for breeding winners, at 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-, 60/- per pair. I have also a few of this season's open winners for sale at a working-man's price. Write for particulars.

CRESTS AND CRESTED-BRED.

I am offering wonderful value in this variety, as follows: Crested Cocks, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/- each. Crested Hens, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- 25/- each. Crest-bred Cocks, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/- each. Crest-bred Hens, 7/6, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/- each. Matched Pairs at 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/- per pair upwards. The above are large, massive, feathery birds, and will give satisfaction anywhere.

PURE SEIFERT ROLLERS.

I have a very large stock of these marvellous songsters, and am in a special position to give satisfaction to all Roller fanciers. Kindly note the following prices: Cocks, thoroughly trained and in full rolling song, with many changes of tours, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 17/6, 20/- each. Genuine Schoolmasters, specially trained for contest singing, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/- each upwards. Hens, guaranteed same pure strain, 3/-, 4/-, 5/-, 7/6 each.

Am also offering a limited number of hens bred from one of the best strains in England, at 7/6 and 10/- each. These are worth treble to any breeder. All B.R.C.C. rung. Full particulars on application.

Grand, healthy, Sib, hens, for muling, 3/-, 3/6, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6 each; Goldfinch Mules, in full song, 7/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/- each; Linnet Mules, in full song, 7/6, 10/-, 12/6 each.

Travelling Cages 3d. extra in all cases.

I have also a splendid selection of Border Fancies, Lancashires, Scotch Fancies, etc., etc.

Kindly remember, I issue an open invitation to all fanciers to call at any time and inspect my stock. You need not announce your visit; come at any time (except Sundays). You will be sure of a hearty welcome and will be shown round my rooms whether desiring to purchase or not.

Any fancier requiring stock is invited to come and make his own selection. To those unable to come I am prepared to send one or more birds to any address in the kingdom at my sole risk. I will send on 7 or 10 days' approval anywhere, and will guarantee absolute satisfaction to every customer or cash returned in full.

EASY PAYMENTS can be arranged to suit the convenience of genuine fanciers who are not in a position to pay cash. Send a postcard for my free illustrated catalogue, containing much useful information concerning the cage bird hobby.

Quality the Best Price Most Reasonable Value Greatest

It is not what bought up birds at absurdly high prices have done that matters to you, even if led to believe that they are not so procured. What you want to know is where you can get the greatest value for money. I sell the Winners, and can easily save you money, and at the same time give you birds that others would reserve. I have for those wanting to improve length of body and leg, the right thing.

The present stock comprises winners that will be sold at stock bird prices. This is a fact that will take some beating. Have on approval, and be convinced. Don't take my word without you like. Cocks, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 15/-, 20/-, 30/-. Hens, 3/-, 3/6, 4/6, 6/6, 8/6. Pairs, matched for breeding, 8/6, 10/6, 15/-, 20/-, 30/-, 40/-. Cages 3d.

Must be Seen to be Believed.

The Great Show at Norwich is at W. Rudd's. Can be seen by appointment—I say, appointment, because mine is not a 6d. bazaar or shop. I employ no Girl or Boy labour, but Men, and they are paid to work. But I shall be pleased to personally see those desiring to inspect with a view to purchase, but have no time to do this for amusement

The following are all special bargains for

AMATEURS and NOVICES

On the look out for something useful, and that will prove profitable to breed from with ordinary luck, should have a pair of any of the following on approval; all scientifically matched to produce best results. Prize-bred Norwich, Yorkshires, Border Fancies, or Hartz Mountain Rollers, 9/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-; all cocks guaranteed on song; Crests 15/-, 20/-, 30/-, 40/-; travelling cages, 3d.; single breeding cages, 2/6; double ditto, 3/6 and 5/- each—all fitted ready for immediate starting, with all utensils complete.

W. RUDD, The Bird Specialist, NORWICH.

KNIGHT'S YORKSHIRE AVIARIES

Important to novices, amateurs, and Yorkshire breeders generally. Age and present health condition decides me in offering for immediate sale the whole contents of two of my bird rooms, including over 100 birds, with cages and fittings. My past 35 years' experience in the breeding and keeping of Yorkshire varieties only is proof sufficient, without further comment, that purchasing clients for future stock are assured of securing style and quality in progeny, also at prices probably half that usually charged by professional exhibitors and dealers for class birds. Unrelated pairs, selected and suitably matched as for own breeding, from 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-; single specimens proportionately; also few exhibition specimens, equally cheap; all approval, cash or deposit; for detailed particulars, etc., address: Jonas Knight, Allerton, Bradford, Yorkshire. (1199)

BRITISH ROLLER C.C.

The club held its second International show, Feb. 6, 7, at Church Institute, Paddington-st., W. No entries were received from Germany this year, as might be expected from the fact that they commence breeding operations earlier than English fanciers, and their birds will now either be in the breeding cage, or in a too forward condition for exhibition. The birds were staged in the same room as last year, as it is an excellent one for the purpose, being warm, and well lighted. The same manner of staging was also again employed, viz., in tiers of three. The class indicators were prominent, pointing out where the different classes could be found. The prize money was very generous for 1/6 fee, being 12/6, 8/-, 6/-, 4/-, and 2/6, in addition to a splendid array of 100 special prizes, including a fine specimen of the confectioner's art, a marzipan cake, covered with various kinds of fruit, the whole surmounted by a life-like specimen of a Roller Canary. It would require a special issue to detail the winners of so many special prizes, and great credit is due to the hard-worked secretary and committee. A reminder to the secretaries of the various Roller societies, previous to the next show being held, would probably augment the number of specials. A special staff would no doubt be forthcoming to deal with them, for it was pleasing to note the goodwill and friendly spirit which predominated throughout the whole of the proceedings. One of the features of this show was prominent at the last one, that beaming smile of "Reggie." He is now about 5ft. 9ins., with every promise of making a splendid specimen of manhood; we wish him the best of good luck. He is a terror to work, nothing is too heavy for him to move, and as a judge's steward he is excellent; he kept the four judges well supplied with birds, and at the close of the show he still bore his cheery smile. A warm and well-lighted room was allocated to each of the judges. No easy task was theirs, for many of the birds were reluctant to sing their full song. In addition, the best Koller-like tours had to be found in Classes 3 and 5, as specials were awarded for them, also to best Glucke-roll in the same classes. Fanciers attended from all parts of the country—Yorkshire, Staffordshire, North, and South Wales, being well represented. We only recollect seeing Mr. Kremner and Mr. Pericles, as representatives of Lancashire, and many familar faces at the first International show were absent this time. Our congratulations go out to Mr. Neugebauer as winner of the cup with four first prizes, Mr. Ives being a close runner-up with three firsts. Mr. Shepley is also to be congratulated on again winning the novice team class. Will exhibitors having catalogues, and especially those competing in novice young bird class, please note that No. 20, through an oversight, was only competing in the novice team, so the extra 4th will now come to the 5th bird, No. 27, the best vhc taking 5th prize, and so on?

In the champion team class Mr. Pericles owns a fine team of birds. Mr. Bird has a very nice singer in his winner of Class 3. Another good bird is Mr. Glockner's Class 2 winner. Mr. Neugebauer's winners in Class 4 are well known. Special mention should be made of Mr. T. G. Thompson's Class 5 winner, and Mr. G. Carruther's winner in Class 8. Mr. Ives' Class 7 winner is too well known to need any comment. A good bird was Mr. Lester's Class 9 winner, and at the price catalogued for this, and the remainder of his entries in Class 9, all of them should have found new homes. The annual meeting took place on Feb. 7; about 70 members attended. Many interesting and not a few humorous discussions took place. The patentee's rights over the present show cage were discussed at some length, and it is likely that a scheme will be commenced enabling fanciers, who so desire, to make their own show cages. It was thought advisable that Bell-Glucke, and Glucke-roll be added to the standard; none of the other tours came up for discussion. A hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Lester for the able manner he had presided, brought the meeting to a close.

EDINBURGH & DISTRICT C.B.S.

Monthly meeting, Cairns Memorial Hall, Jan. 20. A good turnout present. Pres., A. W. Watson, in the chair. Letter from Mr. Bishop as to his showing old birds in young bird classes was discussed. It was ultimately agreed, on the motion of Mr. Ferguson, seconded by Mr. Staines, that we take no action, and at the same time that Mr. Bishop be expelled from the Society. Five new members were admitted into the Society, namely: Messrs. A. Hunter, M. McCowan, D. McPhail, Mr. Bell and Mr. Bowman. With reference to syllabus for 1914 the Sec. then submitted same for approval of members. After a few alterations it was decided as follows: Feb. 17, Election of judges and classification for annual Show. March 21st, Table show, British Bird (open). April and May meeting, lectures, if possible. June and July, no meeting. August 1st, First Feather show. September 15th, lecture. Oct. 20th, late show of Canaries and Mules (open). Nov. 17th, annual show business. Nov. 28, annual show; and Dec. 15th, financial meeting and annual report, etc. Classification for first Table Show was then gone into, and it was agreed to provide for the following classes: Goldfinch (British and Foreign), Linnet, Bunting, Softbill, Siskin, Redpoll or Twite, any variety Finch, any variety hen suitable for hybrid breeding, breeding pairs for Mules and breeding pairs for hybrids, and Mules; 10 classes in all. The Sec. was asked to find judge for Table Show.—J. C. Charlton, Sec.

Under the anspices of the above Society a very successful smoking concert was held in the Union Hotel, Lothian Road, on Saturday, Jan. 24, when between 60 and 70 members and friends were present. The Pres., Mr. A. W. Watson, occupying the chair. Among those present were Mr. Jas. Winter, Pres. of Scottish National; Mr. J. Meikle, Sec. of Scottish National; Mr. G. Brown, Sec. of Leith O.S.; Mr. A. Hoyle, Sec. of Musselburgh O.S.; Mr. S. Hewitt, Sec. of Edinburgh Southern; Mr. J. Stormont, Sec. of Edinburgh Norwich and Mule Breeders' Society; Mr. W. B. Smart, Sec. of B.F.C.C; Mr. C. Sykes, of British Bird fame; also Mr. D. Kinlayside, of Scottish National repute; and Mr. A. Cochrane, of Edinburgh; and a whole host of others too numerous to mention. Mr. A. McPherson officiated at the piano. After a few remarks by the chairman, Mr. Watson then gave the toast of the King, which was heartily responded to. The following gentlemen contributed songs throughout the evening: Messrs. Cunningham, Munroe, Brown, Stormont, Stærmer, Merry, McLaren, Wightman, Harkness, Murray, Lowe and Charlton. Mr. A. Cochrane gave a very fine violin selection, which was followed by a "lament," which was played admirably. The Ragtime songs of Mr. Lowe were very well received, also the comic songs by Mr. Wightman. During the evening Mr. Winter proposed the toast of "The Edinburgh and District C.B.S.," which was heartily responded to, the Sec. replying on behalf of the Society. As time was now drawing to a close the President took occasion to move a hearty vote of thanks to the pianist, also all artistes who had kindly given their services throughout the evening. The company then joined in singing "Auld Lang Syne," which brought a very good night to a close at 10.30.

HARROGATE C.B.S.

Last members' show of the season held Jan. 31. 60 birds were staged. Mr. W. H. Hamlyn put down a strong team which accounted for a good share of the prizes, and won challenge cup, presented by the Bird Shop, scoring 166 points at four shows, the runner up being Mr. G. Cottam 52, Mr. H. Sutcliffe, Shipley, judged, and gave general satisfaction.

NORTH STAFFS. ROLLER C.C.

In consequence of the January meeting being unavoidably abandoned, the first meeting of the year was held Feb. 13, at Evans' Cafe. In spite of the wretched weather, Mr. Leese presided over a fair attendance, including members from Bignall End and Longton. Messrs. Durkin and Cross were elected auditors. After losing 10s. on the members' young bird class, we have a balance in hand of £1 9s.—a creditable performance for the first six months of the club's existence. Decided no change of sec. take place for the current year. Mr. Leese was elected pres.; Messrs. Hickman, Cross and Pettit vice-presidents. For convenience of a portion of the members, decided to hold alternate Thurs. and Sat. evening monthly meetings. Next meeting on a Thurs., date as yet uncertain; please watch for announcement in Club Notices column. Birds promised for this meeting; song tours will be explained. Will members not having already done so kindly send in at once their requirements for the B.R.C.C. rings, as I wish to order same as early as possible. We are agreeably surprised to learn that fanciers in the Bignall End and Audley districts are desirous of forming a society, with headquarters at Audley or Bignall End. We wish them the best of all good wishes in their enterprise, and promise our support. It has been advocated that we have one society with central headquarters for the whole of North Staffs. While personally in favour of this, we must not lose sight of the fact that these smaller societies will get members where a large one would fail. We are so accustomed to having everything on our doorsteps, so to speak, that some are adverse to travelling, while others, for business reasons, cannot make it convenient. We trust that we shall not lose our Bignall End members-friends with the advent of this new society.—J. Tomlinson, Hon. Sec.

Why Some Norwich Plainhead Canary Breeders Fail.

DON'T put off till to-morrow what should be done at once; make time and do it, for this rule, followed out with proper attention, will maintain your stock in perfect condition and gay demeanour, in spite of the trying moult, from which they will emerge with tight and clean plumage. Who then will dispute that the small breeder with the small stud beats the larger breeder in nearly every instance? Why the former's insignificant surplus stock brings in more hard cash than the whole of the latter's, not to mention the real good stock and show birds remaining, only because he has not undertaken more than can be properly managed. Though I realise that some of the larger breeders do devote some considerable time and attention to pedigree and mating, with pleasing results as regards the proportion of good birds bred, I nevertheless say that the full worth of their time and labour is never realised, because their energy and time have not been sufficient to cope with the undertaking, and partial success must be the verdict here.

Strange as it may seem, I can put up some substantial facts to prove that even the slovenly breeder who has some good stock, but sadly neglects them, except in feeding and watering, simply beats us hollow on the show bench sometimes, and their management (or mismanagement) is the predisposing cause. How many keen old hands, and novices, too, have been "sold a pup" thereby? I do not say for one moment that the breeder knew he was selling one. Oh no! He will tell you (and quite believes it): "He is a good bird, that," and oftentimes a first prize in a keen class is in evidence to back his statement.

Here is the secret. Usually his stock is bred in a room suitable but for its lack of daylight and sunlight. The breeding stock are situated as near the only available little window as possible, and the youngsters are caged off almost in darkness. "Keeps them quiet," he says, and in truth it does. There they remain throughout the moult, generally overfed, just sleeping and eating. No baths, just a little disturbance about once a month or so to clean the cage out, and under such treatment they grow large, and fat, and nice chesty Plainheads.

"Plenty of substance there, sir," the breeder says, and he puts the bird in a show cage for you. It is perhaps the first time the bird has seen a show cage, though you do not think so, and you say in all innocence: "Nice and steady. You devote a lot of your time to training, don't you?" "No," is the truthful reply, "my birds never seem to want a lot of show cage work; always nice and steady." And it is as the breeder says, excepting the "nice," for they are steady only because of an apathetic, fat and flabby condition of health, brought about solely by mismanagement. Birds of this stamp, nicely washed and exhibited, have won first prizes under some judges, and no doubt will continue to do so. Purchase one of these birds, and introduce it to a 6ft. flight, in a bright, cheerful atmosphere; spray him daily, should he not bathe (which you will find he won't), and, with rational treatment, in a month you will wonder how it is you bought a winning Norwich, and now find 'tis a Yorkie after all.

Do not imagine I am having a grumble, for I am not built that way. I have been beaten on the show bench many times with birds of this order, and doubtless shall be again, both of which circumstances I accept in a philosophic spirit, which does not detract a little bit from my pleasure. I have only dealt with this condition of affairs, which I know freely exists to-day, as a prelude to the statement which I now make, that the subtle evil influence of mismanaged stock upon the success of Plainhead breeding is hardly ever fully realised. Much water flowed under the bridges, much tobacco was consumed, and possibly a little grey matter developed, ere I successfully isolated this pernicious microbe, and in my next article we will have him under the microscope and endeavour to measure his evil possibilities.

YORKS C.C. OF SCOTLAND.

Meeting and breeding pair show held Temperance Hotel, Ingram Street, Glasgow, Feb. 10, 27 pairs being staged in the three classes. Mr. Cochrane won sp. most points, with 27 points; Mr. Pinnock runner-up, 23. During judging we held a meeting, Mr. Park presiding in place of Mr. Heggie, who was judging. Alterations in rule book were carried out. Specials were allocated as follows: Most points, best 1st pair, best 2nd pair, best 3rd pair, best 4th pair, best 5th pair. Decided to hold F.F. show June 27, at 3, in Nelson's Temperance Hotel, same classification as last year. Judges, Dr. J. C. Syson, J. R. Reid, C. Martin, and G. Crighton get 2s. 6d. worth of hooks each, being equal in points at same show. Mr. Heggie's awards were well received:—YELL. CK., BUFF HEN: 1, Cochrane; 2, sp. 6, Pinnock; 3, 4, sp, Martin; 5, 7, Priest. BUFF CK., YELL. HEN: 1, sp, Cochrane; 2, 3, Pinnock; 4, 7, Park; 5, 6, Martin. A.O.V. PAIRS: 1, 2, Cochrane; 3, sp, Gibb; 4, Pinnock; 5, 7, sp, Park; 6, Priest. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded Mr. Heggie. Agreed that secretary get 500 rings. Member wishing same might kindly let sec. know as soon as possible. All members that have won book specials might send sec. list of books that they want. Meeting closed with a hearty vote of thanks to chair.—Wm. Priest, Hon. Sec.

ALNWICK C.B.S.

Annual general meeting, held Temperance Hotel, Feb. 12; Mr. Straughan, chair. Open show on Nov. 4. Balance sheet was read and commented upon, passed and considered very satisfactory. Appointments for the new season were as follows:—Pres., J. W. Allan; chairman, Wm. Straughan; vice-chairman, D. Scott; committee, Messrs. Nesbit, Dixon, Wake, Miller, Davison, and Swan; treas., J. Rogerson; assist. sec., H. Johnston; hon. sec., W. A. Broadley.—W. A. Broadley, Hon. Sec.

EDINBURGH O.S.

Monthly meeting held Buchanan's Hotel, High-st., Feb. 13. Mr. William Allan presided over a good attendance. The principal business was the fixing of hall and date of annual show. It was agreed to again have show last Saturday in October, in Grindlay-st. Hall. A good number of new members were proposed. Fanciers wishing to join this old society are requested to attend next meeting, same place, Mar. 7, or write to sec. for information.—A. Weston, Sec.

BIRMINGHAM, W. BROMWICH, AND WOLVERHAMPTON.

The results of the inter-club cup competition, 1913, for most points gained with 20 highest awards at each show by each society:—WOLVERHAMPTON: Wolverhampton Show 94, W. Bromwich Show 91¼, Birmingham Show 85, total 271¼; BIRMINGHAM: Wolverhampton 61, W. Bromwich 95, Birmingham 106, total 262; WEST BROMWICH: Wolverhampton 43½, W. Bromwich 62, Birmingham 29, total 134½.—J. H. de Maillet.

LONDON FEDERATION OF C.B.S.

Meeting held Feb. 13 at El Vino, Piccadilly Place. Representatives from the Hackney, Stoke Newington and Dist. F.A. attended to ascertain the advantages that might accrue by affiliation; six affiliated societies were also represented. Resolved to hold next meeting Mar. 27, and invite visitors, at which a discussion will take place as to the keeping of the register of closed rings, the question being, "Should the Fancy Press keep the register?"—J. C. Birch, Hon. Sec.

COCKERMOUTH F.S.

Annual meeting held Feb. 13; attendance good. Mr. Oglethorpe presided. Balance on last year's show was £10, and the society has now £27 5s. 3d. to its credit. Officials for 1914 were appointed as follows, all being re-elected: Pres., Mr. E. L. Waugh; chair, Mr. Geo. Oglethorpe (10th year); vice-chair, Mr. J. Simon; sec., Mr. John Jackson (3rd year); treas., Mr. John Ellwood (3rd year); auditors, Messrs. A. J. Rea and R. Litt. The sec. was voted an honorarium of 3 gns., and, with chairman and treasurer, was cordially thanked for past services. Next show Mar. 28.—Geo. Oglethorpe.

ULSTER O.A.

Annual meeting, Feb. 4, Clarence Place Hall. Mr. Stewart, pres., in chair. Mr. Stewart was unanimously elected pres. for 1914. Mr. Trimble was proposed for re-election as secretary, but regretted, owing to business, he could not act: this is a great loss to the association, as Mr. Trimble was a masterpiece in this position. Mr. T. H. Smyth, 6, Sandymount Street, was elected, and said he would do his best, but he had a great secretary to follow, and that the members need not think he was a Mr. Trimble's. Messrs. W. Connell and J. Thompson were re-elected trustees. Annual show fixed for Nov. 6 and 7. The election of judges was proceeded with, and when the secretary has these arranged, it will be published.—T. H. Smyth, Sec.

WELSH C.B.C.

Cup winners for 1913 are:—D. H. Tedstone, Leach Canary, Nor. cup, Sandiford's, and four medals; Canary nov. medal, A. E. Brown; Brit. champion medal, P. Muscott. The medals have been ordered, and will be presented at annual general meeting, which I hope to call soon. Alterations to rules, as published in the Fancy Press Sept 27 last, will be dealt with at next meeting. Rules published in schedules will also require altering, as we have no Leach British cup, and I suggest that we shall alter the classification for mixed shows. Club show balance sheet, which shows a small profit. Entries turned up very well from the few members who supported the club show, but what was the reason for so many non-supporters of the club show? It has been suggested that we should make the show an open one in future. This matter will receive attention at the annual general meeting. If any member has any suggestion to make which he would like placed before the annual general meeting, will he please communicate with me at once. May I remind all that subs., viz., 3/-, will be due on Mar. 1 next.—A. E. Brown, Hon. Sec.

EDINBURGH WESTERN O.S.

Meeting held Riego-st. Hall, Feb. 5, Mr. Ballantine presiding. Usual business gone into. Mr. Bowman gave interesting lecture on "Scots Fancy."—Chas. Grant, Sec.

CHELTENHAM C.B.S.

Second annual ball, held Oddfellows' Hall, Feb. 9, proved great success. About 140 present. During the evening Mr. L. Short, vice-chairman of the C.B.S., thanked the company for their support, and also the M.C.'s for their arrangements. Everything passed off without a hitch. Mr. Elston was able to hand over five guineas to the funds as a result of the ball.—A. S. Treasure, Hon. Sec.

NOTTINGHAM (Permanent) O.S.

Meeting held Feb. 14 at Grapes Inn, fair attendance of members. Officers elected for 1914. Decided to open society for membership to anybody who wishes to join, distance no object; and we shall be glad if any fanciers wishing to become members of the society will let secretary have their names and addresses.—J. Bunn, Sec., 81, Ena Avenue, Nottingham.

EDINBURGH NORWICH AND MULE BREEDER'S SOCIETY.

Monthly meeting held 142, High-st., with a large turn-out. At the close of usual business we had a table show of breeding pairs; judge, Mr. J. Holmes. NOR.: 1, Stormont. BORD.: 1, Lee. MULING: 1, Stormont. HYB.: 1, Fraser. Mr. Holmes afterwards explained the leading pairs, and everyone was satisfied they had carried away valuable information regarding pairing. Fifteen new members were elected, which was highly satisfactory, and shows the society is in a healthy condition. Decided to add A.O.V. Can. to our classes.—J. Stormont.

DARVEL C.B.C.

Monthly meeting held Town Hall, Feb. 10, Mr. Hopkins chair, before a good turnout. Chief interest was centred in table show. Mr. R. M'Caw, Kilmarnock, judged.

MULE OR HYB.: 1, Anderson; 2, 3, Hopkins. CHAFF OR BRAMBLE: 1, Anderson; 2, Murdoch; 3, Morton. BUNTING: 1, Anderson; 2, Alston. VARIETY BRIT.: 1, Anderson. FOR. GOLDF. OR BULLF.: 1, 3, Hopkins; 2, Beaton and Campbell. FOR.: 1, Hopkins; 2, Beaton and Campbell; 3, Alston.

Mr. M'Caw was accorded a hearty vote of thanks for judging. Next meeting March 10. Classes for table pair show: Nor., Bord., A.O.V. Can., Golf. and Can. muling, A.O.V. Muling, Bullf. Hyb., A.O.V. Hyb. This will be the last winter meeting and table show for this season, and we hope to see a full turnout of members.—J. Robertson, jun., Sec.

NORTHERN BORDER & S.F.C.C.

Monthly meeting and table show for pairs held Feb. 2 at Pillar's Cafe, Pink Lane. Mr. W. Smith chair. Prop. and seconded that an electro-plated rose bowl be bought for competition at next year's table shows, champion section. A pair of horns was presented for competition in the novice section. Mr. Potts and Mr. C. Farrer were selected to make arrangements for the social and distribution of prizes to be held on Mar. 18. The following are the awards at table show: Class 1: 1, 3, vhc, W. Smith; 2, A. Montgomery; 4, C. Farrer. Class 2: 1, 2, A. Montgomery; 3, W. Affleck. Class 3: 1, A. Montgomery; 2, W. Smith. Novice Section—Class 4: 1, M. Cosser; 2, vhc, W. P. Smaith; 3, c, A. Affleck; 4, W. White; vhc, G. Wilson. Class 5: 1, 3, A. Affleck; 2, G. Wilson; 3, W. P. Smaith. A hearty vote of thanks to the judges, Mr. W. Espic and Mr. J. Johnston, brought a splendid meeting to an end.—M. C. Potts, Sec.

COWDENBEATH C.B.S.

Meeting held Smith's Hotel: Mr. J. Sneddon chair. Balance-sheets for open and club shows were submitted and passed. Mr. A. Robertson, 56, Arthur Place, was elected sec., and Mr. A. Harvey, Elgin Road, assist. sec. Decided to hold our open show third Sat. of Nov. Also that we spend £1 5s. to advertise same in CAGE BIRDS. Question was raised as to what constitutes a novice, and after some discussion it was left over till next meeting and table show, in Crown Hotel, a class being provided for British Goldie or Bullie. Mr. A. Beveridge, judge. The following delegates were appointed to attend League meetings: Messrs. A. Robertson, J. Reid, J. Sneddon, and A. Harvey. The following were proposed as members: A. Robertson, jun., T. Kinnell, D. Aitken, R. Anderson, R. Bailey, and J. Winning. A hearty vote of thanks was given the new chairman, sec., and assist. sec.—A. Robertson, Sec.

When sending birds by rail, use our Live Bird Labels, 24 3d., 50 6d., 100 10d., post free.

LEICESTER C.B.S.

Meeting held Feb. 4, Mr. Heighton chair. The decision as to rings was postponed until next meeting. Members please turn up, so that this point can be fully thrashed out. A table show was held, Mr. Heighton judge, to whom the members present tendered a hearty vote of thanks. YELL. HEN: 1, 2, hc, c, Day; 3, Gamble; vhc, Davis. BUFF: 1, 2, Day; vhc, Gamble; hc, c, Davis.—J. Hardbattle, Sec.

VALE OF LEVEN C.B.C.

Annual pair (Canary) show held Village Schoolroom, Feb. 10. There was a good turn-out of members and friends, and a good display of birds. Mr W. B. Gillies secured the honour and silver badge for best pair in show with a nice pair of Borders; Mr. R. Todd runner-up with Norwich. Judges, Messrs. J. McEwan, J. Hannah, and J. Campbell.

NOR.: 1, two spls., 2, 3, Todd; vhc, Canfield; hc, c, McIntyre. CRESTS: 1, sp, Abrahams; 2, Linsey; 3, McDougall; vhc, Ritchie. BORD.: 1, two spls., 2, 3, c, Gillies; vhc, hc, Donaldson. YORKS.: 1, spd. Canfield; 2, Ritchie; 3, Dow; vhc, Cameron. A. H. McLean, Sec.

HENLEY F.S.

Monthly meeting held Oxford Temperance Hotel, Feb. 2; Mr. Bearlove presided. Present: Messrs. O. A. Critchley, E. Machin, H. Cook, A. Lovegrove, P. Macqueen, T. Emmerson, H. Bartlett, —. Payne, G. J. Rutledge, L. Murray (assist. sec.), G. Machin, junr. (hon. sec.), etc. It is very gratifying to the officials to see the society is being well supported; two new vice-presidents and eight new members were elected. Chairman made some very interesting and instructive remarks on Norwich, and several other members followed suit. Decided to hold pair show at headquarters, Mar 2; those interested cordially invited.—G. Machin, jun., Hon. Sec.

AMALGAMATED YORKSHIRE PRIZE DISTRIBUTION.

All who desire to attend the above annual dinner and prize distribution on Saturday, March 7, at the Market Tavern, Bradford, should make an early application for tickets either to the specialist clubs' secretaries or myself, so that full arrangements can be made for catering for the great number of fanciers and friends who patronise this annual event. A concert party has been engaged to provide the musical portion of the programme, and the committee trust that this will prove a marked advance on previous years. Every effort is being made to make the event a bumping success, and visitors can rest assured that they will meet with a hearty welcome from the Yorkshiremen, who look upon this as a fitting wind-up to the season's strenuous work. Mr. H. H. Towers will again officiate as chairman, and behind him he will have a willing committee whose sole aim is to make all feel at home. The social evening, as usual, will be free, so that those attending will be well repaid for any little inconvenience they may have to suffer while the distribution of prizes is going on, as, owing to the big crush in previous years, the committee have been unable to provide seating accommodation for all. Tickets may be obtained from Messrs. J. Chambers, J. Greaves, R. Garnett, F. Hammond, H. Hill, T. H. Inman, and F. Rhodes at 2s. each, children under 14 years half price; so hurry up and make this a record success.—H. Hill, Sec.

CITY OF BIRMINGHAM C.B.S.

Monthly meeting held Crown Hotel, Hill Street, Feb. 4. Mr. W. C. Wells (vice-pres.), chair. Mr. de Maillet informed meeting that Mr. J. H. Jones, hon. sec, had suffered bereavements since late show, and was unable to be present that evening, owing to his ill-health; also that Mr. Lucas, of Coventry, had returned to the society cost of hamper missing, and suggested it be given as a special prize at next open show. Re inter-club cup competition, Mr. de Maillet said that Mr. Gibbons had pointed out errors in his figures for the cup, having included a non-member in Birmingham's totals, the name being the same as Birmingham member, the result being that Wolverhampton ran out winners by 271½ points, against 262 by Birmingham, and 134½ by West Bromwich. Mr. Shirley was elected member; two nominations also received. Decided to hold pair show of Canaries and muling pairs, and also a few classes for British at next meeting, March 4, Mr. G. Baker to judge. Birds to be entered and staged same evening not later than 7, and if possible arrangements to be made for a seasonable lecture, to be given while the birds are being judged. Suggestion was made that we purchase two breeders' cups for best young bird bred by a member (champion and novice) at next open show, all competing to be closed ring, rung and the latter to be purchased through the secretary. After discussion the matter was deferred to a later meeting. With a vote of sympathy to Mr. Jones in his illness, the meeting closed.—J. H. de Maillet.

Cage Birds' Crystal Palace Show report was very fine.—L. J. Sheppard (Bishops Stortford).

In Mr. W. Binn's advt. under Yorkshires in our Feb. 14 issue his address should read: 9, Albert Terrace, Blackpool, N.

My Cage Birds Annual arrived safely. I have just glanced at those life-like drawings. The information in it gets more valuable every year and no fancier should be without it.—A. Wellings.

Mr. F. Macpherson, now of Combie Street, Oban, local hon. sec. to Cage Birds League, writes that, as he is soon changing his address he is compelled to dispose of his stock as advertised.

I shall be pleased if you will publish in your valuable paper that I have taken over the secretary's duties of the Crewe O.S., writes Mr. N. L. Croft, 38, Cemetery Road, Crewe, and all correspondence should be addressed to me accordingly.

Allow me to congratulate you on your magnificent Palace Number. The Coloured Plate is simply lovely, also the winners in the various sections at the Palace, and I think Mr. Norman has fairly excelled himself. I wish Cage Birds every success.—C. Bennet (Kelso).

OBITUARY.

With the deepest regret, writes Mr. W. Connelly, I have to announce the sad bereavement that has befallen Mr. James B. Clark, Ascogbank, Rothesay, a well-known judge, exhibitor and wild seed specialist, in the death of his youngest son at the tender age of only two years. All fanciers who know him will join me in expressing deep sympathy with him in his sad loss.

With great regret (writes Mr. A. G. Cant, Sec. Dulwich and Peckham C.B.S.) I have to inform you of the death of Mr. Franklin, a member of our society for the past two years. Mr. Franklin was a very promising fancier for the Norwich Plainheads, and was very much respected by us all. The members send their heartfelt sympathy with his wife and family in their sad bereavement.

I received result of Palace show promptly, and thank you very much for same.—John Craig (Brechin).

Will members of the Gateshead and Dis. C.B.S. please note that a special meeting will be held Monday, Feb. 23rd, in Lockharts, High Street; very special business; time 8 o'clock.—W. Curry, sec.

Mr. Peter Gentleman, sec., Avonbridge O.S., writes:—"We have decided to hold our annual open show Nov. 14. Judges, Norwich and Borders Mr. J. W. Bruce, Coldstream; Mules and Brit. birds Mr. S. Bell, Bo'ness.

I find, through increased business and my father's illness, I must dispose of my British birds, although I am still retaining my Canaries. I wouldn't give up the Fancy for worlds, as I find it the most enjoyable relaxation after business.—B. Rand (Rayleigh).

Openshaw, Gorton and Dis. C.B.S. is having a lecture by Mr. Robinson. This will be the first lecture for this newly-formed society, writes Mr. A. W. Newton, sec., and I hope all members and intending members will rally round and let us have a record attendance; see club reports.

The six dozen Annuals to hand. You have again upheld the reputation of Cage Birds. To those novices who are looking for information, to champions who require their knowledge sharpening up, and to secretaries who should have the "Whittaker of the Cage Bird Fancy," I can recommend this years Annual.—J. W. Metcalfe (Liverpool).

Early Youngster.

I have a pair of Canaries now feeding one youngster, hatched off on the 6th Feb.; it is doing well. I think it is rather early, but I expect it is the open state of the weather.—J. A. Toyne.

Norwich P.C.'s Patronage.

Societies desiring the patronage of the Norwich Plainhead Club for the next coming show season kindly write to F. Cunliffe, secretary, 18, Lark Street, Burnley.

A January Robin.

Caught by a cat, a fully fledged young Robin, which must have been born in January, was brought into my house last Saturday, Feb. 14, writes Mr. F. S. Riley, of South Croydon, to the "Daily Mail."

An Indictment of the Linnet.

An East Coast naturalist a few months ago wrote concerning the destructiveness of the Linnet. Our naturalist friend stated that it only feeds on noxious weeds. Now the time of the year is coming to put the knowledge to the test. The common Linnet (or Singing Linnet) is a most destructive bird to the market gardener, doing a great amount of damage to the seed and young growths of radish, lettuce, turnip, cabbage, etc. If all the town and county Councils protect the Linnet all the year round in a very few years there would be few of these vegetables left.—R.W. (Yarmouth) in the "Eastern Daily Press."

Cockatoo-Parrot Hybrids.

Mr. R. E. Vincent, of Durban, S. Africa, kindly sends us the following cutting from the "Natal Mercury":—"A curiosity in bird life is possessed by Mrs. Brown, daughter of Col. Wales, in the shape of two hybrids (says 'The Times'). They are a cross between a Sulphur-crested Cockatoo and a Pink-throated White Parrot. The birds are said to be unique. Dr. Warren, B.Sc., Dr. Akerman, and Professor Bews have been much interested in the birds, and photographs have been taken for reproduction in scientific publications. The hybrids are brothers, one being three years of age, and the other three months. A City authority states that Parrots and Cockatoos have never before been known to breed in captivity, which makes the hybrids all the more interesting from a scientific point of view."

1914's First Swallow.

While playing golf at Sandown, I.W., on Friday, February 6, I was astonished to see a Swallow skim across close to us, writes a correspondent to the "Field." I am glad to think that five other players saw the bird also, or I might have been inclined to doubt my own eye-sight. It was no weakling, however, but a fine strong bird evidently in good case, and his fine blue back and white belly shone in the sun as he slanted by. We have had several days of bright sun and warm south wind, exactly suited to a Swallow's requirements if wishing to come to its breeding quarters from Africa, but I incline to think it was more likely to have been a bird that had stayed here through what has been (barring one week) a very mild winter. [The "Field" points out that Swallows have been reported in England in other years as early as February.]

CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE NOTES.

Now that the show season is over, and the great pressure on our space is somewhat relaxed, I hope to be able to obviate the intermittency in my notes which has been unavoidable throughout the past few weeks.

It will be within the knowledge of a great many, if not all, of the members of our League that we have not been idle. No news is sometimes good news, and recent happenings have been all in our favour.

More people than ever before know now that the keeping of cage-birds is not the "acted blasphemy" which the professional "humanitarians" in their own organs are never tired of representing it to be. Great newspapers, such as the London "Times," the "Referee," and others, have published letters on both sides of the question, and in the argument the defenders of rational cage-bird keeping have had the last word. One of my own replies, in answer to statements expressed by the veteran novelist, Mr. Thomas Hardy, has been re-printed in our columns, and I do not wish here to enlarge on my own part in the controversy.

It will be sufficient to express the belief that the impression that cruelty is involved in the pursuit of our hobby has been removed from the minds of many kindly-intentioned people who, for lack of knowledge of the real facts, looked upon all bird-keepers as being beyond the pale of decent society. Some of those who are able to appreciate both sides of a question have now very different views on the subject, and if it were not for that it would be injudicious to lay one's cards on the table in view of the fact that there are still those who are opposed to us as strongly as ever, and who would stop at nothing in their antagonism to bird-keeping. I could say more as to the progress we have made.—H. J. Fulljames, Secretary, 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

Where to Advertise.

"Kindly thank all who replied to my ad. in last issue of CAGE BIRDS. I replied to all who enclosed stamp."—E. MARSH (Pudsey).

"My Green Border advertised in your last issue went to the first cash offer, and as I had so many applications for exchange, etc., perhaps they will accept this as an answer."—J. W. MILLINGTON (12, Crown Street, Cockermouth).

"Kindly thank all your subscribers who answered my advert. in your Birthday Number re Green Yorkshires. I could have sold the lot a dozen times over. As there are far too many for me to reply to individually, I have only answered those who enclosed stamped envelope or who sent money which had to be returned. Wishing CAGE BIRDS every success."—F. CHILDERS (Peckham).

"Please thank all applicants for Amazon Parrot, advertised in last week's CAGE BIRDS. I had offers from all parts too numerous to mention and really could not answer all. I sold her to Mr. Ridge, of Stoke-on-Trent, who was delighted with her."—W. P. CROMPTON (Rochdale).

"I am pleased to say that the results of my small advert. have turned out very satisfactory. I had quite a dozen replies."—C. IREDALE BROWN (Harlesden).

"Kindly thank all those people that have replied to my small advertisement in CAGE BIRDS re Songster Canary for 3 Glucke hens. I have had so many replies from all over the United Kingdom, that I simply can't answer them all."—ANDERTON (Wireless Station, Cawsand).

"Will you kindly reply to all enquiries re my advt. for if I attempt to answer half of the applications I shall require extra help." F. BROADHURST (Macclesfield).

"I have advertised in CAGE BIRDS for over 4 years now and shall continue to do so. I think you can sell or exchange anything through your valuable paper, and I wish you every success."—F. UNDERWOOD (Hulme).

"CAGE BIRDS" CHAMPIONSHIP COMPETITION.

The Winners at the Crystal Palace Show.

Appended will be found a complete list of the winners of cash prizes and hand-coloured diplomas in the finale of our Championship Competition at the Palace Show. We take this opportunity of putting on record our very hearty apreciation of the encouraging manner in which exhibitors supported Cage Birds prize scheme during the past season.

The £10 10s. trophy for best coupon bird in the show, and £10 10s. cash special for best champion coupon bird. Mr. A. J. Smith's (Erdington, Birmingham) Crested Canary, 1st prize in class 13.

The £10 10s. cash special for best novice coupon bird, Mr. W. Levick's (Tamworth) Goldfinch Mule, 1st prize in class 100.

At Doncaster Show, the 10s. cash special for best novice coupon bird goes to Mr. O. E. Naylor, Woodruff House, Amblerthorn, Halifax, the diploma winner in the Yorkshire section. The winner previously announced is not eligible according to our novice rule.

Messrs. Ogden Bros. won 4th in green marked Yorks at the Crystal Palace, not Casey, as reported.

The report of the Palace Show is splendid, and reflects great credit on the staff of Cage Birds.—Wm. Robertson (Kilmarnock).

All prize-money won at Brandon Colliery show is paid, writes Mr C. Reed, sec. Anyone overlooked please refer to above.

Report of the Palace Show gives Phillips, instead of Phipps, in the novice Norwich A.V. hen class; my hen was c, writes Mr. W. H. Phipps (Isleworth).

Cage Birds Crystal Palace Show report was most interesting. I am fond of British and foreign birds, and have never seen better accounts of these. A fine issue.—A. Sandon (Highgate).

Clapham C.B.A. is holding its pair and Finch show Feb. 25, at "The Clock House," Clapham Park Road, a few minutes from Clapham Common Station (City and S.L. Rly.).

I was very pleased to see Mr. Campbell's Scotch Fancy illustrated in Cage Birds last week, writes Mr. James Palmer. I hope this will wake up the Scotch Fancy in Glasgow and about. I have been a reader for ten years, and wish Cage Birds every success.

Mr. A. Nicol (46, High Street, Bathgate, N.B.) hon. sec. Bathgate C.B.S., writes that the judge's name is misprinted in the schedule. It should read P. M'Quiston. Entries are extended to Feb. 25, and, if exhibitors will send birds, the secretary will attach the proper labels to the cages.

Will fanciers and others kindly note, writes Mr. J. Gibbons, that I have been compelled to resign my office as secretary of the Wolverhampton C.B.S. owing to business pressure. All correspondence in future should be addressed to Mr. W. Harrison, Water Works Depot, Darlington St., Wolverhampton.

MODERN CRESTS AND CRESTBREDS FOR THE NOVICE.

By THOMAS LANE (Barnstaple.)

THE size of my cages is 38ins. long by 12ins. wide and 17ins. high, and they are of the box pattern with removable wire fronts. The length allows for two of the latter each 18in. by 12in., with ample provision for a movable wood and wire slide in the centre. I have also recently adopted a few cages 24in. by 18in. by 12in. These I find capital for accommodating a good Crest or Crestbred cock, either for show or stock. I make all the cages myself, and also plane up the wood and paint them inside and out. If you are able to do likewise it will save you a lot of money, and an ardent fancier should not find it a difficult matter. Personally, I find it very pleasant. From time to time articles have appeared in CAGE BIRDS relative to cage making, and reference to back numbers will give the novice all the information he may need. It will not be necessary to repeat details here, but I may mention that I paint my cages inside light green, the colour of the new show cage. The outside and wires I paint either with Brunswick Black or with Black Japan. Both are equally satisfactory. The wires should not be painted too thickly. Thin your Black with a little turpentine, give two coats, and you will have done well.

Selection of Stock.

After the preparation of the cages the next item will be the selection of stock. This is a highly important matter. I would advise the beginner to start with a cock and two hens, or two cocks and three hens, all buffs, as yellow are disappointing until he has gained some experience. The reason I advise this is that if either one of the cocks or one of the hens should fail you have the others to fall back upon. In other words, if No. 1 cock be paired with No. 1 hen and no eggs result, or if all are clear, you may, during the interval, pair him with No. 2 hen. Thus, you should, with luck, have a nest of youngsters hatched and reared despite the failure of No. 1 hen. This would be encouraging, whereas if you had one pair and no brood turned up during the season you might become disheartened and give up in disgust. But remember the adage which observes, "If at first you don't succeed try again."

However, you may have no occasion to try again. Your No. 1 hen may present you with eleven youngsters as mine did when I began. I recall a nest of five which were all reared by the hen. What a time the poor little mites had, especially just previous to leaving the nest. There was one big chap, a Green Crestbred cock which was always on the backs of the others, and they seemed to be continually shuffling and struggling to free themselves of his weight. Since then my highest number has been four, and now I make it a rule to give three only to the feeding hens. We will suppose that you have written or paid a visit to a reputable breeder for a pair or a trio. If the former, you should have them on approval, making use of the CAGE BIRDS Deposit System. This will be fair to both parties. If your knowledge of the breed and its value is limited or if there are no Crest fanciers near enough to get into personal touch with try an old fancier of another variety. You can take it from me his nose will be as keen as a terrier's. He will smell a rat—briefly, he will be able to give you a rough estimate of their face value. Old fanciers visit shows and pick up a lot of valuable hints regarding the chief points of the principal varieties on view. Is it any wonder that the poor judge gets badgered sometimes during his career? The crooks are old hands, and are naturally keen after their quarry.

The birds having arrived and given satisfaction they may be matched by the breeder in the following manner, or as nearly as possible:

No. 1 Matching, Clear Body Dark or Grizzle Crested cock to a Variegated or Green Crestbred hen.

No. 2 Matching, Even Wing-marked Dark Crest cock to a Wing-marked and Capped Crestbred hen.

No. 3 Matching, Green Crested cock to a Clear or Grizzle Ticked Crestbred hen.

No. 4 Matching, Variegated Crested cock to a Variegated Crestbred hen.

No. 5 Matching, Green Crested cock to a Green Crestbred hen.

These pairs can be reversed, i.e., Crested hens can take the place of Crested cocks in colour markings. No. 3 matching is my favourite pair, as all my best birds came from that mating.

A Strain of Your Own.

I may now give the reader some hints which will aid him in forming a strain of his own. I cannot pretend to be a great authority on the breed, but my own experience together with that of others culled from various sources has proved to me that the best birds come from scientific breeding, that is to say, attention must be given to pedigree in combination with external fancy qualities. Good pedigree with outside faults of variation are worthless in my estimation. Some fanciers say that the quickest and most reliable way to breed a good Crest or Crestbred is by selection, i.e., they pair the very best birds together regardless of how they were bred.

THE main difficulty with Tanagers is that they are apt to over-eat when kept in cages, and obesity is fraught with many dangers. But a roomy cage, wise oversight, and regulation of the dietary will secure them a long and contented life. Ripe fruit, varied according to the season, they must have without stint; also insectile mixture (soft food), and one or two mealworms or other insects per day. My Tanagers always have access to milk sop, take liberally of it, and thrive thereon. But this is not really necessary, and it means a cleaner and more wholesome cage (my birds are in the aviary) if it is withheld. Nevertheless, milk sop, well sweetened, will be useful when establishing newly-arrived birds. Many individuals are very fond of sponge cake, both dry and slightly moistened with milk, and it can be given freely either way. Miss Bousfield's bird was an easy first, and was awarded other special honours.

The Pileated Finch (Coryphospingus pileatus).

This is one of the most charming of the South American Buntings, not one of the most gaudy, but a lovely bird in every sense of the word. The upper plumage is dark slate-grey, paler on the lower back; most of the wing feathers have the outer margins blackish-brown; the crown is glossy black with a broad streak of richest carmine running through the centre, and can be raised in the form of a crest; sides of head grey; eyelids white; throat light grey; remainder of underparts grey, paler in the centre of abdomen; beak, upper mandible greyish-horn, lower whitish-horn; legs and feet brownish; irides grey-brown. The female is smaller, and of a more brownish hue generally than her mate; her crest is brown. Pileated Finches are delightful birds, either for cage or aviary; in the latter they have of late years shown a more ready disposition to go to nest; during the past three years they have been successfully bred in more than one Surrey and London aviary.

It thrives on the usual Bunting menu of seeds, green food, and a few live insects; but I always let them have access to insectile mixture (soft food), though only a little is taken; a tin of preserved ants' eggs would, however, fully meet their need in this respect. During the season when ants' cocoons ("eggs") are obtainable fresh, they should be supplied fairly freely to all the Bunting tribe while the supply lasts.

Sallé's Amazon (Chrysotis ventralis).

This species is, so far as I have been able to ascertain, new to the show bench, and was staged by Mr. B. J. Moore, being placed 4th in a strong class, the veteran hen Meyer's two cock Meyer's catalogue as Ruppell's, and Red-vented Parrots being placed above it. It is a handsome species, with plumage of bright grass-green, white frontal band, and black-green ear-coverts; bare skin round white eyes. Its habitat is San Domingo.

It is not generally safe to take liberties with strange Amazons, but this individual appeared to be both tame and fairly steady, as it submitted to a cautious scratch of the poll, and to have its upper mandible rubbed. The species is not sufficiently well known to express an opinion as to its talking capacity, but if pains and patience be expended upon them all Amazons have certainly the power of speech.

This and other Amazons should do well upon a seed mixture of Canary, white millet, hemp, sunflower, oats, and pea-nuts, with ripe fruit, biscuit, plain cake, and stale crusts of household bread; walnut and Brazil nuts are generally appreciated, and form a desirable tit-bit. The other usual essentials are grit, cuttlebone, water, and wood for them to exercise their beaks upon should be treated as part of the menu.

Recollections of Some Birds I Have Kept.

By G. MARGARITIS (Acton).

I WAS quite a small boy when my father made me a present of a Goldfinch which he had purchased from a stall in one of the narrow, dirty streets abounding in Constantinople, and ever since then I have kept birds, both British and Foreign. The majority of [illegible] I believe, have started their hobby with a Turkish Goldfinch, and here I may mention that these birds are a little larger and handsomer than our English birds. Well do I remember how delighted and charmed I was by the beauty of its plumage, and I was never weary of watching him turning and twisting and hopping about in his wicker cage.

The Pekin Robin.

This sprightly and beautiful bird is often called the Pekin Nightingale; why, I do not know, as it certainly does not resemble the Nightingale. In Germany it is called der Sonnenvogel (Sunbird), another curious name; to my idea it is a true Robin. It has the large head, thick neck, sharp pointed bill, and the full black eye of the Robin. These really handsome birds are great favourites of mine, but I am sorry to say that, although I have tended to all their wants, a matter which has involved a considerable amount of trouble, I have never been able to keep them for any length of time; one day they have seemed in the best of health, singing and hopping about, and the next day I would find them dead. Maybe there has been something loose in my management.

My Ring-necked Parrakeet.

I longed once, and once only, to possess one of these birds, and eventually I purchased one from a sailor in Liverpool, but when I got him home to London and placed him in a large bell-shaped Parrot cage my interest in my purchase declined from the moment it commenced shrieking. I can give it no other name than a hideous shriek, and, although it was in my possession for upwards of three years, and moulted out a beautiful specimen, with a tail measuring over ten inches in length, the bird never became docile, in fact, he was untamable, but his shrieking powers increased. Tempted I was many times to silence him for ever. I offered the bird to the Zoological Gardens, but they declined my kind offer with thanks, as they were over stocked, and I eventually gave bird and cage away, to my great relief

Echoes from the Palace Show.

In the Green Section.

CAGE BIRDS Diploma for best novice exhibit in the Green Canary section was won by Mr. W. Robertson, of Kilmarnock, with his v.h.c. yellow green Border Fancy cock.

The Ten Shillings Special in Cinnamons.

The 2nd prize bird in the yellow cinnamon cock class belonged to Mr. A. Bentley, of Great Harwood (not Mr. Proctor, as reported), and this secured the 10s. cash special in CAGE BIRDS championship competition.

Catalogue Errors.

The show manager, Mr. Ramsden, notifies us of two printer's errors in the catalogue. In class 48, Novice Yorkshires, clear or tkd. buff, etc., No. 704 was not 3rd prize, this going to No. 696 (S. Midgley); while No. 703 (W. G. Cooper) should have been marked 4th prize. In class 56, Border Fancy, clear or tkd., etc., the 4th prize was not No. 853 (G. H. Pratt), but No. 863 (J. S. Wilson).

One of the Best.

One of the best and hardest workers at the show was Mr. C. W. Law, the hon. secretary of the L. and P.O.S. He was very busy on each of the four days over which the exhibition lasted. He particularly laid himself out to secure new members, and we hear that his efforts were remarkably successful. Mr. Law lives up to his determination that the L. and P.O.S. shall be worthy of its proud title of the "premier society" so long as he holds the secretarial reins, and his energetic efforts have made him deservedly popular with the members.

A Wonderful Hen.

The L. and P.O.S. silver cup for best members' Yorkshire Canary was won by Messrs. Ogden Bros.' noted neck-ticked hen, which also secured the fourth special (10s. cash) in CAGE BIRDS championship competition. This hen, we hear, has won more prizes this season than any other bird in Yorkshire, her record including 11 firsts.

Somewhat Different.

Our par entitled "Aged Workers"—which read that "all" the staff were over 70, should have read, some of the staff, i.e., the foremen feeders and the sales clerk, have now reached the age of 70, and are as keen as ever. Most of the staff are young men

A Medal Mistake.

Quite a number of applications for medals have been received from winners in half-prize-money classes, writes Mr. J. W. Ramsden. These will have to be ignored, as medals will be sent out after prize-money is paid.

The Exhibitors' Rewards.

Prize and sale monies are now being paid in alphabetical order. Medals and diplomas will be sent out after prize money is paid.

Trower's Specials.

The special prizes presented by Messrs. Trower and Co., the noted seed and food specialists, of Caledonian Road, London, N., for birds fed on their foods, were won as follows:—Gold medal for best Canary, J. R. Houghton (1st prize buff Norwich hen); silver, 2nd best, A. E. Brooks (1st prize Dutch Frill); bronze, 3rd best, J. W. Metcalfe. Gold medal, best foreign bird, Mrs. L. M. Thynne; silver, 2nd best, P. Muscott. Gold medal best Hybrid or British Hardbill, F. Collins (1st prize Redpoll-Bullf.); silver, 2nd best, A. E. Cheney (Yellowhammer); bronze, 3rd best, Mrs. M. H. Askham. Gold medal best Brit. Softbill, J. Frostick (Dartford Warbler); silver, 2nd best, E. Taylor (Redstart); bronze, 3rd best, W. Doll.

The Autumn Palace Show.

In view of the Palace show being run in the coming autumn, by Mr. J. W. Ramsden, with special attractions for novices and amateurs, the London and Provincial O.S. has decided to give up its own autumn fixture and offer the L. and P.O.S. cups and specials at the Palace for competition among its members.

"Cage Birds" Special Prizes.

The cash specials and hand-coloured diplomas won in CAGE BIRDS Championship Competition will be sent out in due course. The work on the diplomas is being pressed forward, and we hope to have them ready for despatching next week end.

The Protests.

We are asked by Mr. Ramsden to announce the result of the protests lodged at the Palace Show. These were all against alleged transgressions of the rule defining a novice. Mrs. G. Edwards (Leominster) and Miss R. J. Cooper (Norwich) were disqualified on the ground that they resided at the same address as a champion exhibitor. Messrs. Stubbs Bros. (Cheltenham) were disqualified on the ground that they had already won more than the specified number of first prizes, but the protest lodged against Mr. W. Tallantyre (Haltwhistle) on the same ground was dismissed, only two wins of first prizes being proven.

CANARY QUERIES

Answered by CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

A SORE HEAD (Bridges).—The bird is suffering from eczema. Keep the cage and perches as clean as possible for the time being. Slightly anoint all bare places every second day with lanocyllin, but do not daub surrounding plumage more than you can help. When the parts are moist, dust them liberally with boric powder after anointing them. Add to drinking water ten drops of lemon juice, and as much sulphate of soda as will cover a sixpence, every second day for a week. If bird is not well in a fortnight, write again, and say how you have been feeding it hitherto.

NOT MOULTED (T. K.).—Continue your efforts towards completely exterminating the mites, and you should soon succeed, and the bird have a much better chance of making a complete recovery. To try and encourage a moult, I would advise you to hand-wash the bird once or twice, as may seem necessary, with an interval of a full week between first and second, and use the water for washing a trifle warmer than usual. At the first washing you may also, with advantage, mix a teaspoonful of creolin in each pint of the first and second water used. If you are not expert at hand-washing, get some friend who is to do this for you. Give a morsel of bread and milk dusted with flour of sulphur every second day for a fortnight, and on the alternate days add five drops of tictur of saffron, and as much chlorate of potash as will cover a threepenny piece, to the drinking water.

EARLY BIRDS (Walter Tibbets).—(1) Certainly, it is very early for you to have a hen already sitting on six eggs, but, frankly, I do not envy you the feat. Such early beginnings are rarely conducive to successful endings. You must not return the cock when the young are hatched. Leave the hen to rear any young that are hatched by herself, and only return the cock when she is ready to begin nesting again, by which time the young will be able to be transferred to a nursery. (2) Your mule query should be sent on a separate sheet for our Mr. Norman to deal with. Briefly, there is no harm in trying; but the hen Canary and cock Bullfinch is certainly a most unpromising cross in the matter of results. I believe it has been successful, but very rarely. Still, nothing venture, nothing win.

SUCKING NOISE (E. A. M.).—I do not think this noise indicates anything at all serious. Give a little crushed sponge cake—allowing about half a teaspoonful per bird—slightly moistened with a few drops of sherry, and sprinkled with maw daily for three or four days, when the noise should disappear. The cocks in the flight chasing each other is only natural just now. There is no real necessity to separate them, and the extra space in the flight for exercise will do them much good. They would, however, sing more if caged up separately, if song is what you need.

A TRIPLET (Novice, Lincolnshire).—(1) First wash the bird's feet clean in warm water. Dry them, then hold each toe, one at a time, between the tips of the thumb and forefinger, with the overgrown claw protruding. Hold up in front of a strong light, and note how far the thin pink vein runs down the centre of the claw, and snip off the claw with a pair of small, sharp scissors a little short of the extreme end of the vein. Nail or embroidery scissors are just the tool for the job. (2) Only a good substitute for the ordinary egg food will fulfil your conditions, and the following is one of the best: Get a pound of maizena wafer biscuits and crush to a coarse powder, or pass through a seed mill, and add half a pound of dessicated yolk of egg of any good brand. Thoroughly mix these together, and store the mixture in air-tight tins ready for use. It will keep good for many weeks in a cool, dry place. To use, take the quantity required, and moisten slightly by stirring in a drop or two of water. (3) If the hut you describe is in a fairly sheltered and healthy position, I see no reason why it should not "pay" as well as "please" if you turned in from four to six hen Canaries and three cock Goldfinches for muling. Put up a dozen or so nesting sites.

ALDERMANIC (A. M. J., Cricklewood).—I assume the two hens have the large cage to themselves. If I am wrong, then put them in a cage by themselves, the larger the better, and treat as follows for a month: Keep cage floor fairly free from waste seed, and limit the seed supply of the two birds to two small teaspoonfuls per day. Do not be afraid of them eating the husks—they will not really do that. One day give two small teaspoonfuls of plain Canary, next day give one spoonful of Canary, and ditto of millet, mixed together; next day one and a half spoonfuls of Canary and half a spoonful of rape, and repeat this over again and again. Give a liberal supply of watercress, or any green salading you may have available, but nothing else in the way of food or tit-bits for a month at least. During the first fortnight add as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence, and ten drops of lemon juice, to the water every second day. Treat the cock similarly, but for a fortnight only, and in his case omit the millet seed, and give the salts in water for one week only. At the end of the fortnight add to his water four drops each of tincture of gentian, tincture of calumba, and aromatic sulphuric acid every second day for a week.

AGE FOR BREEDING (Annie Snow). Your Canaries hatched last May will be quite mature and old enough to breed themselves this season. You may quite safely mate them with, of course, unrelated partners, at the end of March or beginning of April, and you should, as far as possible, select partners over a year old for them.

A BAD COLD (L. J. L.). From your remarks that the bird does not drop many feathers now, I conclude that it really does drop a few at least, and you can scarcely expect it to do much singing whilst these conditions last. You must first of all see that the bird is kept under bright and healthy conditions, in a comfortable, though not necessarily overheated, place, fairly equable, and free from cold draughts. Having carefully carried out these preparatory conditions, give a staple diet of plain Canary only for a month. In addition, give every second day half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod-liver oil emulsion well mixed in it, and sprinkled with maw. On the alternate days give a pinch of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet, and teazle twice a week; and a morsel of watercress three times a week. In the drinking water add ten drops of syrup of buckthorn daily for four days, and afterwards give instead six drops of tincture of gentian and four of tincture of steel every second day until feathers have ceased dropping. Then, if the bird still appears to be suffering from bronchial trouble, go on and give the chlorodyne mixture you mention for a week or two. But remember the alteration of conditions is the most important point.

INDEFINITE (E. M. T.).—I'm afraid your letter is very vague so far as your particular needs are concerned. I might have been much more use to you had you proffered definite questions and described the particular cases. (1) As regards the Roller cock, it would certainly be best to move him from the company of the rest of the birds before the time for mating. You cannot expect him to sing much under present conditions. Cage him alone, and, in addition to staple seed diet, give a morsel of bread and milk with two drops of cod-liver oil emulsion on it, and sprinkled with maw daily for a week or so. Three times a week give a morsel of watercress. (2) I do not think you would find any difficulty whatever in getting Canaries to take quinine for dropping feathers, if you gave it as frequently advised in this column. Dissolve half a drachm of ammoniated citrate of iron and quinine in an ounce of sherry, add a teaspoonful of glycerine, and give 20 drops of this mixture in each drinking vessel when required.

GONE OFF SONG (Cheshire).—Although the bird may be quite free from cold draughts, as you say, I should suspect that, from its position hanging in a window, it will be exposed to extreme fluctuations. Thus if a sunny window it will be very warm at times during the day, and intensely cold by contrast at night. This alone, with the variable weather we have had of late, is sufficient to account for the bird going off song. Try moving it to a comfortable and more equable position, give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cage with four drops of sherry and two of cod-liver oil emulsion mixed in it, daily for a week, and in the drinking water add ten drops each of glycerine and lemon juice daily. This may set matters right. If it does not, write again in a fortnight, and say exactly what you mean by a dark mark at corner of each eye. Is it on the skin, plumage, or in eyelid? I do not quite understand this. Also say if there is a kind of milky-looking spot in centre of eye when you look direct into it. Your feeding is not very good. Get the nutshell booklet on "The Canary."

AS GOOD AS EGG (Hard Boiled).—Really it is impossible to say dogmatically whether the particular food you name, or any other for that matter, is quite as good as freshly boiled eggs in any particular case. So much depends upon the individual. One person will use the food in question with every success as a complete substitute for egg food, after successfully using the orthodox egg-food, or even after failing to secure success with the ordinary egg-food, whilst another under seemingly similar circumstances will fail to secure any degree of success. And the opposite applies in each case. This food as a substitute for fresh egg-food is probably as good as any, but there is little to choose between any of those prepared by reputable firms. With strict attention to details of management, and a sound healthy stock of good feeding hens, I have no doubt you could quite rely upon the food in question.

THEIR PEDIGREE (W. Leah).—I'm afraid there would not be much pedigree in the young birds. You may, of course, mate a yellow Norwich with a buff Yorkshire quite successfully, but the young will be nothing more than crossbreds, and of no value in these days except as singers or feeders. The proper way to name them would be first-cross Yorkshire-Norwich.

OUTDOOR AVIARY (Aspirin).—(1) If the aviary is to be a substantial structure, I would advise you to have a floor of hard concrete laid down, and let it extend a foot or so beyond ground plan of aviary, and before laying concrete spread out a layer of finely broken crock and glass. You need never fear this being penetrated by rats or mice. (2) If you mean flying loose, about 20 the size of a Norwich. If you want them to breed three cocks and nine hens would be sufficient. (3) This question is rather vague. Do you mean the birds being confined in the cages to breed, or the cages merely to hang up for breeding sites? If the latter, the best breeding sites you could make for such a position would be to remove the water-pots, seed boxes, and the short bars from one end of a few of the German wicker travelling cages, such as Rollers, are usually retailed in, and hang up these in various positions for nesting-sites. As a new beginner, you should provide yourself with a copy of "Canary Breeding for Beginners." It will prevent you making many false steps.

DISCHARGE ON HEAD (Novice).—Such cases as you describe are very often of congenital origin, and due to the too frequent mating of Crest to Crest. In such cases you can do nothing to cure for any length of time. Whether this is likely to be the case with your bird I cannot tell, without knowing something of its breeding. You might try anointing the bare places three times a week for, say, a month, with Sanocyllin, and at each anointing when the parts are moist, dust them liberally with boric powder, and let the powder remain on. Do not daub plumage more than you can help. Keep cage and perches as clean as possible. If not well in a month, write again.

MORE EARLY BEGINNERS (W. J. R.).—As I read your letter I cannot feel sure whether you have the birds all together or not. If so, this is wrong. You may keep the hens together in one large flight for exercise, but you should cage the cock by himself, and if he or the hens seemed to be too forward, keep him, if possible, out of sight of them. A diet of plain canary seed would be far better than the mixture you are giving. I certainly do not advise you to put the cock with the hen that has just laid a clutch of eggs. She is not likely to repeat the experiment immediately, so you may now just as well keep them apart and mate them at the proper season, say, the end of March, if weather is favourable. You would do well to get "Canary Breeding for Beginners," from our Manager, post free, 7d., and study its pages for next week or two.

A MISSING TAIL (H. A.).—It is just likely that the tail feathers did not come out when they disappeared, but that the quills were broken one at a time through bird being in small cage, and the major portion of feather dropped, but left the base of the quill in its place on the body. Catch the bird, and blow open the tail covers and see if the stumpy quills are still there. If so, gently remove them with a firm, steady pull. The tail will then be at once reproduced, and should be fully developed in six weeks' time. If the quills are not retained, as I suggest, I am afraid you can only wait and see what Nature will do to remedy the matter next moulting time.

MAKES NO SOUND (Cymro, I.O.U.).—You do not say whether this is a last season's bird, or whether it has sung before. If the former, it is probably only just beginning to "come out," and will develop its voice all right in a few weeks. Try the following for two or three weeks, and if not well, write again, and refer to this reply. In addition to the staple diet, give a morsel of bread and milk, the size of a hazel nut, with two drops of cod liver oil emulsion on it, and sprinkled with maw seed every second day. On the alternate days give a morsel of banana, and a pinch of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, and teazle. In the drinking water add 20 drops of whisky, ten of lemon juice, and as much chlorate of potash as will cover a threepenny-piece daily for a week. After that omit the whisky, and substitute two drops of pure honey, and give every second day for another fortnight or so. Drop honey off end of penholder.

SAMPLES OF CANARY (T. B.).—Sample A is of fair size, but rather thin; hence not the most economical. It is well ripened, sweet, and of very good quality. It contains a rather large proportion of milled grains, however, which suggest the advisability of enquiring into whether the bulk is infested by mice. B is well ripened, sweet, and of very fair quality, but is very small. C is extremely small, and utterly worthless as a food for birds. It is one of the worst samples I ever saw, and may be merely the waste from a seed-cleaning machine. D is of good size, nice and plump, very sweet, and of excellent quality all round.

FOUR IN HAND (W. S. B.).—(1) The sample of canary seed sent is of very good size and excellent quality, so you need not worry about trying to get "the best" any further. There seems a little loose dust in the sample. If this is pronounced in the bulk of the seed it would be as well to sift it. (2) The hen has some digestive derangement. Give her a staple diet of three parts canary to one part summer rape mixed together. In addition to this, give a morsel of bread and milk the size of a hazel nut, sprinkled with soft sugar, and also a pinch of maw every second day. On the intervening days give a pinch of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet, and teazle, and either a morsel of banana or spray of watercress. In the drinking water add six drops of syrup of rhubarb and as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence, every second day for a week, and after this substitute four drops each of tincture of gentian, tincture of calumba, and aromatic sulphuric acid, every second day for another week. Let her bathe as freely as she likes in mild weather. (3) Treat this cock the same as above hen, but give the rhubarb aperient for three consecutive days only, before giving the tonic mixture. Try not to wash tail daily. This matter may right itself on above treatment, but the constant washing will do harm. (4) Not sure that I quite grip this question. Finely chop the egg, or pass it through a grater, note bulk of quantity results, and add double this bulk of bread crumbs, and mix all together. This will then be in the proportion of two parts bread to one part egg. If this is not quite what you mean please write again.

VARIED (H. S.).—(1) Keep in the flat perches, with the sharp edges just planed off, and see they are of a nice soft wood. You might try bathing the feet in a warm solution of extract of wych hazel for a few minutes once a week—a small teaspoonful of the extract in a saucerful of warm water. After bathing, dry carefully, and paint over hind toes right on to foot with a camel-hair pencil dipped in tincture of arnica. It is useless mating him as long as he cannot grip a perch. (2) Only the actual test can prove whether the Linnet and Yorkshire will breed for you or not. Try them, when the proper time arrives. There is no reason why they should not do so. (3) If the wooden house in garden is in a fairly sheltered position, move the birds thereto at the beginning of April. This will be quite soon enough after being kept in kitchen. (4) A mixture of maizena water biscuits and dessicated egg is excellent. Read through replies in this issue, and you will find how to prepare it detailed in one of them.

FITS OF COUGHING (F. H., Sale).—I am afraid that during the period when you kept the bird hung in the window you utterly ruined its constitution. See that it is now in fairly equable place, free from cold draughts, and where the air is fresh and free from dust and fumes. Give a staple diet of plain canary only for a month, and add separately every second day a morsel of bread and milk the size of a hazel nut, with two drops of cod liver oil emulsion on it, and sprinkled with maw seed. On the intervening days give a morsel of banana or a spray of watercress four times a week, and twice a week a pinch of a mixture of equal parts linseed, millet, niger, and teazle. Add a pinch of Epsom salts to the water daily for four days, and afterwards substitute five drops each of oxymel of squills, ipecac. wine, and glycerine.

NOT SINGING (A. R. M.).—The fact of the bird dropping a few feathers every morning is sufficient to account for it keeping off song, and although you seem to think it is quite secure from draughts where it stands beside the window, you would do well to look closely into the matter and make yourself sure the bird is not being exposed to somewhat extreme fluctuations. If this is so, you must at once remedy it. Continue your present staple diet, and in addition give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion well mixed in it, every second day for a fortnight or so. On the alternate days give twice a week a morsel of banana and twice a week a pinch of mixed seeds. In the drinking water give six drops of tincture of gentian and four of tincture of steel every second day until the feathers cease dropping.

SHELLS, SEED, AND LEAVES, ETC. (T. R. W.).—The bird is troubled with digestive derangement. Keep it in bright, healthy surroundings, and its cage strewn with clean, gritty sand regularly. Further than this treat the bird the same as advised to "W. S. B." (2) in this issue, and matters should come right in a week or two. Stop all foods you have been giving that are not mentioned in reply referred to.

BARE ON SHOULDERS (James Carr).—The cause of your bird's condition is practically certain to be due to the irritating effects of red mites. Examine the cage well, particularly about corners, joints, hinges of doors, ends of perches, etc., probing any open joint with a pin if doubtful of it, and you should soon discover the cause. If mites are there place bird temporarily in another cage, and give a bath with a few quassia chips in it daily whilst there, and thoroughly overhaul the vacated cage to destroy the pest. Saturate it with paraffin inside and out, and place in sunny position in open air, and leave until next day. Then repeat the operation, and again on the third day. After this you may wash out cage, and, if necessary, re-paint or distemper, and when thoroughly dry bird may be returned to it. Do not omit to pay scrupulous attention to the place where the cage has been hanging at the same time as cage itself is being dealt with, lest colonies of mites should be there waiting to re-infest it.

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES AND HYBRIDS.

Answered by H. NORMAN.

PIPING BULLFINCH (E. V. Phillips).—The treatment of an English and Foreign Bullfinch, when acclimatised, is practically the same, and if your bird is doing well on the food you are giving him, you cannot do better than continue with it.

GOLDFINCH TWIRLING (A Novice).—The motions you describe that your Goldfinch goes through are simply a habit that many captive birds acquire. I am afraid there is no real cure for it. To give temporary relief, turn him into an aviary or large flight, reduce his quantity of stimulating food, and give plent of greenstuff.

LINNET AND SONG THRUSH (G. H.). You should keep your Linnet in a larger cage than just a little back cage, particularly if he is, as you say, a tame bird. He should have room to exercise in. Feed as directed in the Nutshell booklet. (2) Your Thrush is a Song Thrush, and this you should also feed as directed in No. 4 Nutshell. Perhaps you could obtain Spratt's fine crissel if you tried other shops; if not, write to the makers and ask them for the address of the nearest vendor.

WHAT BIRD? (Puzzled).—There is no reason whatever why a Canary hybrid should not sing like a Canary. If he has been reared under a Canary and heard Canaries sing, he would naturally take their note. Light and marked hybrids are sometimes bred in the same nest as dark ones, and both Canaries and hybrids have been known to be produced from the same brood. If you do not know a fancier who can identify it, if you care to send it to my address, carriage paid, I will do so with pleasure.

SEX OF BLACKBIRD (W. G. Tucker).—A young cock Blackbird at this time of the year should be black excepting for the wings, which are rather brownish; the beak and eye cere should be yellow, and the bird should by now commence to warble. Hens are browner, particularly on the throat and breast, where they are somewhat mottled. Both sexes frequently cackle at sundown just before roosting. By your description, I fancy your bird must be a hen.

SEX OF REDPOLLS (A. B. E.).—From your description I am inclined to think your Redpolls are hens, as by this time they should show some signs of breast and rump colour. If you think of trying for Hybrids, why not procure a good Greenfinch for one of them and a Siskin for the other? They are both nice Hybrids, and worth trying for. You should get your cock birds as early as possible, and turn them in with their partners, each pair in a good 20-inch breeder. They will have time to get used to each other and settle down a bit before the breeding season.

HYBRID QUESTION (W. Needham).—If you do not fancy the hen you have placed with the cock Linnet, I certainly would not breed with her. Why not procure another Norwich hen for her? It seems a pity to disturb the pair of Norwich you have. If you want to breed good dark Linnet-Canaries, you should procure a large Yellow Variegated hen or even a Green, if you can get it. The sooner you get it the better your chances of success. If you use one of the Roller hens, you will find the young ones come rather small, but this would not matter much if you only required them for singing purposes.

TROUBLE WITH CHAFFINCHES (E. C. W.).—You certainly should have taken advice about your bird a long time ago; a two-years' complaint is not cured easily. You say nothing about the treatment of your bird, which I expect is the cause of the trouble. Feed as follows:—Make a mixture of canary and teazle, two parts each; summer rape and linseed, one part each—this as a staple food. Give sunflower seeds daily; a little hemp once a week. Offer a mealworm or two every day, or greenfly, grubs, caterpillars, small beetles, earwigs, or, in fact, any small live food you can lay your hands on. He is also fond of a walnut smashed up, does not care much for green food, but will eat a little, so offer shepherd's purse, groundsel, chickweed, dandelion, etc. Get some radish and turnip seed; put it into a shallow dish and keep damp until it commences to sprout, then cut a square out and place in his cage. He will soon show you how he appreciates it. Let him exercise in a large cage and bathe frequently. With this treatment you should see an improvement in him, but it will possibly take some time.

ANOTHER CHAFFINCH (Novice F.).—It is quite natural for a freshly caught bird to be somewhat wild at first; you must handle him gently, get his confidence, and talk to him while giving a mealworm or other dainty. (1) For treatment, read advice to E. C. W. in this issue. (2) Put your bird with his intended partner when he has become somewhat steady; he would only frighten her if put in now. (3) I have never yet seen a Chaffinch-Canary cross, so am unable to give you any description of what they would be like, but there is no harm in your trying for them if your birds are on good terms with each other. (6) Young Thrushes can be reared upon the following food: Hard-boiled eggs beaten up with a fork and mixed with a couple of Osborne biscuits. When about to feed, make a small portion of it rather sloppy with milk, feed little and often from early morning until sundown. Cut up a mealworm or two and drop them into the open beak. Add a pinch of grit to the food occasionally. Keep the nestlings warm, and perfectly clean. In nestlings I have found the darker birds turn out cocks, but I do not think there is any infallible rule. Keep the most promising until they begin to warble.

PROPOSED AVIARY (Broadrake). I like your arrangement for proposed aviary very well, but I hardly think it advisable to have quite so much glass. Why not board up one end instead? One of the dangers of a lot of glass is that when birds are suddenly frightened they dash against it, frequently injuring themselves, sometimes fatally. Otherwise I think your arrangement admirable. A small shelter at one end might certainly be an improvement, if, as you say, your position is very exposed. Perhaps you could assist matters by planting a few box trees or a privet hedge, a couple of feet or so from the front, to break the force of any very boisterous winds. Have you seen our book on "Aviaries?" It contains many hints that would be useful to you.

SEE OUR BACK PAGE

CAGE FOR BLACKCAP (Scottie).—The question of the most suitable colour for the interior of a show cage is quite a matter of opinion. The two colours that I consider the most suitable are a dead white and a bright green. If the cage is one built so that only a little light gets into the interior, then the former colour is the better, but if otherwise, I prefer the green. There is practically no colour that suits the majority of British birds better than this—it is getting as near to Nature in colouring as we can. If you use green, keep it rather on the light side, and let the shade incline more to yellow than blue. I do not mean an actual yellow green, but one with just a leaning towards the yellow; you will find the blue-grey in the plumage of the bird shows up better than with a darker shade.

LINNET-CANARY (Anxious).—If you mean that you have put your birds together for breeding you are quite a month or more too early. You can let them be until the end of the month, and then it would be as well to part them until both are ready for breeding. You do not tell me what seed you are feeding your Linnet on, so I can hardly say if it is harmful to the Canary, but I expect the only effect it would have on her (if it is the usual Linnet mixture) would possibly be to bring her into condition rather earlier than usual. If there is not a lot of hemp in it I do not think you need trouble. When this is used up, let your staple food be two parts canary and one of summer rape, with a spoonful of mixed seed twice a week, giving a little extra hemp to the Linnet just before your pair them up.

FEEDING LARK (Claude).—Birds as a rule get used to a certain food, and do not care for a sudden change to something different. You should accustom your birds to the new food by giving it to them occasionally; they will soon come to it. (2) Yes, you cannot do better than hang them in the open air for an hour or two upon bright days, but not when it is wet or windy. You will find insectile food advertised in our "Food" column.

LARK WITH BARE PATCH (E. A. P.).—You appear to be treating your birds well as far as feeding is concerned, but I am inclined to think your trouble is caused through insects—either the red mite or grey louse. Thoroughly examine the cracks of the cages for the former, and the birds themselves for the latter. A new and thoroughly clean cage is the best remedy for the red mite and dusting the plumage of the bird for the lice, working it well into the feathers, but be careful not to get any into the eyes. Larks keep themselves clean by dusting, for which purpose they should have plenty of sand in the cage, not merely a dusting, but a good inch of it. Builders' sand or gritty garden mould will do. You do not say how you are mixing your food. You should use scraped carrot and boiled potatoes to make it moist. When you say the top of their wings, do you mean the bend of the wing—the part they are likely to knock if they flutter? Possibly this is the cause. Anyway, search well for the insects, and just smear the bare places with a little fresh lard.

AVIARY FOR BACK YARD (H. R.).—Sketch of your aviary shows a very nice design, and quite suitable for your purpose, and the birds you mention could be turned in sometime next month, when the days are a little longer. There are just one or two little matters connected with it that I would like to point out to you. It looks to me by the drawing that your door is all wire. I think half of this should be boarded up with some light matchboard. As it is, the birds run a risk of being worried by cats, and the rain may possibly drive in. Your roof should also jut out somewhat over the front; this would keep the interior dry; and further, I do not see any provision for cleaning out. How do you propose doing this? If you are going to enter by the door, it should have been at one end, instead of the centre, then you could drive the birds to the opposite end when you wanted to clean them out. These hints may assist you, and suggest some slight alterations before you turn the birds in.

BREEDING MATTERS (A. E. Harding).—If the 1910 hen is quite healthy there is no reason why you should not run her again with the Twite; having bred with him she would probably do so again. You could run one of the Goldfinches with the two young hens; put him with one first, and when she has gone to nest run him with the other. He should be flying with both of them now until March. The other cock Goldie could pair with one of the hen Bullies and a Greenfinch with one, and your young cock Norwich with the other. Try him in with one at once, and see if they agree; if not, put him with the other, as Bullie hens are sometimes difficult to please. That leaves you with several hen Greenfinches; select the tamest and run her in with the Chaffinch, and another with the Siskin—this should be just a shade on the small side, or you may not get fertile eggs. As regards feeding, let all those that will eat sunflower seed have a little every day, and twice a week give a spoonful of wild seed mixture to each bird—this should bring them along quite fast enough, without egg-food, but you should try them with a little good insectile mixture, say, once or twice a week, so as to get them used to it before the breeding season. This, with a little hard-boiled egg, makes a capital food for rearing young hybrids. Next month you should be able to give them dandelion leaves and seed pods—these are invaluable.

MORE HYBRID PAIRS.—Your arrangements for breeding would be very suitable, and if you can get some rough twigs or heather, and push in the boxes, the Bullfinch hen would probably nest in one. You should hang nesting boxes about in other parts of the aviary for the Canaries; you cannot have too many for them to select from. If you do not put any more birds in than you suggest, I think you stand a fair chance of being successful. If your Bullfinch hen goes to nest, you should change the eggs to one of the Canaries, as you would then stand a much better chance of having the young reared if the eggs should prove to be fertile.

MIXED QUESTIONS (Brussels).—(1) There is no difficulty in distinguishing the sexes of Blackcaps; the cock bird alone is possessed with the black cap, the hen bird having a brown one. (2) The bars of a Finch exhibition cage are best painted green, like the interior; if they are black they appear to cut too sharply against the bird, and fail to give a pleasing effect. (3) I can quite understand Larks living on poppy seed, because they are partly seed-eaters, but all the same, I do not consider it by any means an ideal food. To my idea there is a certain amount of cruelty in it—it is somewhat like condemning a man to live on biscuits. The proper staple food for a Lark is soft-food; seeds they should have, but to be eaten when they are inclined to. (4) Charlock is similar to rape—a small dark round seed, found growing on arable land. Teazle is a tall plant, with large prickly heads, which contain the oblong square-sided seeds. Maw is a species of poppy, and surely you know the common dandelion—the flowers are like a round ball of fluff, when these die off the seed pods form; these are collected when ripe, and given to the Finches. You should get the book on "Seeds and Wild Plants," published at this office, 1/2 post free. It gives full descriptions and illustrations.

BULLFINCHES IN AVIARY (Cecil Dawson).—I have never found Bullfinches any trouble in an aviary of mixed birds, unless they have been single unmated birds in with cocks and hens of other species. In your aviary you had better put in a pair if you have several other British birds in there, as they would be sure to seek each other's company, and not trouble much about the others. If you put in a hen she would no doubt be all right, and perhaps pair up with one of the other Finches, but do not put in two of them, as they generally quarrel.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S.

AILING BUDGERIGAR (Mrs. Harding).—Budgerigars do not drink much, but in lieu of the drinking water give her milk, containing, say, five drops of brandy to the fluid ounce of milk—the milk to be first boiled and supplied to the bird when cool. Supply this for three or four days, and then give the water again, putting in it half a teaspoonful of syrup of phosphates daily for the next few weeks. Put the bird's cage in some hot, dry place for a couple of days, and make some arrangement that the warmth shall be retained as far as possible during the night; after this the bird must be kept fairly warm for a few days and then gradually hardened off. Give the bird a drop of castor oil direct to the beak from a quill or small pointed stick, and repeat this daily till the bowels have been fully moved. Do not omit to supply regularly grit and cuttlebone, as well as the usual seeds, and a millet spray might engender more exercise; if the bird will take either, give a little fresh lettuce and a slice of sweet apple. This bird must not go out of doors again till April; shall be interested to hear how the bird progresses.

SCARLET BISHOP (E.M.B.).—Our springs are very treacherous, and I do not consider it safe to put our Foreign Finches out before Easter, and if the season is late, and severe weather prevails, you must wait till this is past. Birds are able to stand our winter in a suitably constructed aviary providing they have been out all the summer; then the various vicissitudes come upon them gradually, and usually entail no hardship. The birds ought to be kept in an unheated room for two or three weeks before being put out of doors.

SILVERBILLS (Crosshaven).—I should say your Silverbills (light fawn) are Africans. The Indian species is a darker and greyer brown above, sides of face almost white, and the rump and upper tail coverts pure white. The sexes are very similar, but the female is slightly smaller, her beak a trifle more wedge-shaped than the male, and she is quieter. The Green Singing Finches are also similar in plumage, but the hen is usually slightly less bright in colour, and her head slightly more rounded than that of the male—the latter sings more lustily, and has a more masculine carriage and appearance generally. It is almost impossible to sex young birds, but birds fully adult may generally be picked out as above with a little observation. The eye needs a little training, and the observation must be close and careful to discriminate, for the distinctions are certainly slight.

GREY PARROT (Alfred).—The bird is evidently suffering from trouble already existing when it came into your possession. Give it three drops of tasteless castor oil direct to the mouth from the end of a quill or small pointed stick, and repeat this in a week or ten days, according to the state of the bowels. Follow this by a course of cod liver oil treatment. Soak half-a-dozen drops into a piece of biscuit, sponge or plain cake, or bread, or anything similar the bird will eat, and give this twice daily for a month. If the bird will permit handling, bathe its legs in hot water (not hot enough for discomfort), dab dry with a soft cloth, and then paint with neat whisky—troublesome, but if the bird will permit I should treat it so daily for a month. Continue the use of the chemical food, supply grit and cuttlebone regularly, also pieces of wood for it to cut up. During genial periods spray the bird with tepid water containing a little essence of quassia and guard carefully against a chill till dry. If the mouth is at all slimy, put a little honey and borax into the mouth from the end of a stick. Parrots, as a rule, are quite ready to suck this off; continue this daily till the mouth is quite clean. Report progress in a few weeks.

SITE FOR AVIARY, ETC. (S. W. Plomer).—The really good position in your garden is for the back of aviary to come at the end of the lawn or back of tool-house, the latter being the better position. As regard apportioning your money, you had better use 25s. for wood, and reserve 15s. for netting and felt, etc. The whole back of the aviary must be wood, ½-inch matching, covered on the outside with roofing felt; half the roof must be boarded in, and also covered with felt, the other half to be wire netting. You must have a shelter at one end, and this must contain a window sufficiently large to well light it. The accommodation to be given must be similar to that given to poultry, with this exception, that the shelter must be light, weather and draught proof, size must depend on the purchasing capacity of the sum named in your locality. The material for the framing should be 2 by 1 inch quartering, ½-inch matching will suffice for boarding, and the felt that does not need tarring for keeping out wind and rain; the netting must be galvanized wire-netting of ½-inch mesh. It had better stretch across the garden, on whichever side you place it, be of lean-to type, and the roof slope from back to front. If you are troubled with rats at all, then you will have to carry wire-netting (½-inch mesh) eighteen to twenty-four inches into the ground all round it. You had better get the aviary up, or partly so, and then write again, give me size you have been able to get, name your county, and I will advise you re furnishing and stocking it.

WILL THEY AGREE? (H. Collins).—You give me no details of your aviary, nor yet do I know your county, but if the latter is not too northern, and you have a suitable shelter attached to your aviary, all the birds you name, except the Wheatear, should do well in it all the year round; it would be well to put a canvas or sack curtain over the front during winter's worst nights. Though I do not think it would do harm, I should advise leaving the Indian Ouzel out of your list in an aviary of the size of yours, which will be fully occupied by a heterogeneous series of all males. Taking into consideration the respective sizes of the birds in your list, I consider the maximum number your aviary will accommodate to be 35 odd males of varied species.

A TAME PET (H. A.).—The question of taming small birds is a matter of your own skill and patience. Observing what is a bird's favourite titbit, withhold it for a time, and then offer it between your fingers, and its eagerness for the dainty bit will usually overcome its reluctance to come to the hand; and, the first step taken, the rest is easy. I have only recently seen Violet-eared Waxbills, also Black-faced Waxbills in a roomy flight, finger-tame, coming to one's hand for a mealworm on entry, but this is rather unusual. The little Tui, Tovi, and White-winged (Canary-winged) Parrakeets are all easily tamed, and a really tame bird of either is a charming pet. Watch our advert. columns, and insist on having the bird on a day or two's approval if it is where you can't personally inspect it.

CHANGE OF COLOUR (W. A. M.).—Should consider it merely a case of lack of condition, and the colour change probably only a temporary one. Your diet is about right, but in addition to what you name it could have walnuts, brazils, nuts, etc., also pieces of stale household bread, plain cake, and biscuit if it will take them; if it will take either of these, it would be well to soak a little cod liver oil into them before offering to the bird for, say, a couple of months. While there must be no appearance of diarrhœa, give a teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia in the drinking water to keep the bowels moving quite freely, and when not giving the magnesia put half a teaspoonful of syrup of phosphates in the water. It would be well to keep this bird in a warmish room in which the temperature keeps as even as possible. You had better keep it on the present high treatment for a few months, and most probably at the next moult it will revert to the normal plumage.

ALEXANDRINE (G. Jones).—Diet this bird on a seed mixture of one quart each canary and white millet seeds, one pint each hemp, oats and dari, half-pint each nuts, sunflower, maize, and wheat; well mix the whole together and keep a constant supply in the cage. Also supply ripe fruit, stale crusts, biscuit, plain cake, also an occasional walnut, or brazil nut. It must have a continuous supply of grit, cuttlebone, and pieces of mortar, the latter to exercise its beak upon. Every fourth day put one teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia in the drinking water so long as the voidings are not watery loose, when the latter occurs only give the laxative once weekly. On the days you are not giving the magnesia put half a teaspoonful of syrup of phosphates in the water, and continue this treatment for some time. Do not give tea, coffee, or milk sops, table scraps, or animal food of any kind whatever. It will take a little time to rectify matters, and you must persevere with the treatment. Report progress in a month.

LOVEBIRD (Mrs. M. S.-B.).—You have not told me what kind of Lovebird it is. If it will not let you handle it you can't do much for it. Fomenting its legs with hot-water (not hot enough for discomfort), drying with a soft cloth, and anointing with neat whisky, should give relief if persisted in daily for some time. Also giving twice daily two drops of cod liver oil direct to the beak; or, if the bird will eat a piece of biscuit or plain cake, then the cod liver oil can be given on that. Also put in the drinking water daily half a teaspoonful of syrup of phosphates, till its strength is renewed again—the above is in addition to the usual dietary. If the voidings are at all hard, I should give two drops of castor oil direct to the beak, before commencing the cod liver oil treatment, repeating the castor oil at intervals till the bowels have been thoroughly relieved. Keep it in some warm, dry position, where the heat can be fairly well maintained day and night.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. G. Yates, M.R.C.V.S., 1, College Road, Harrow, Middlesex, will examine and report upon dead cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to Mr. Yates, with the fee, this and any accompanying letter being kept from contact with the dead bird. Send by letter-post; it is cheaper and quicker than parcel post. Any bodies sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

C.B.—Pneumonia arising from a chill. The bird was in other respects quite sound and well nourished, but, if anything, a trifle overfat.

Wanted: a Cage Bird Society for Donegal.

Sir,—I wish to know if there are many readers of CAGE BIRDS in Donegal, and if so why it is that we have not got a single cage bird society in the said county. Is it for lack of birds of the right type? I think not. Anyone taking a tour through Donegal will find there are good birds of all types as are found anywhere throughout Ireland. I think it is lack of enthusiasm. Anyone visiting the Londonderry C.B. Show held Jan. 15th last could not fail to be impressed with the grand birds of all types shown there; but perhaps not many of the Donegal fanciers had the good luck to know that such a show was being held or perhaps did not even know that such a society as the Londonderry C.B.S. was in existence. This is from want of knowledge, and who is to blame but readers of CAGE BIRDS in the said county. I think any fancier who reads CAGE BIRDS should see that everybody interested in bird-keeping in the district to which they belong should do the same, also post copies to your friends throughout the county; this, and this alone, will bring about what has been my aspiration for a long time. I see no reason (provided we had a sufficient number of fanciers) why we could not have a cage bird society in Donegal. All I want at present is the opinions of others interested.

Yellowhammers Easy to Keep.

Their Simple Requirements.

Sir,—As a reader of your invaluable paper, CAGE BIRDS, I thought it might be of interest to your readers to know how I keep my Yellow Buntings. In the first place, I select a large, well-marked, and young bird. This latter point I take to be the most important, as with care these Buntings increase in size and improve in marking as they grow older. Then this is also an important factor in steadying, as old birds are practically untameable. When I have bought a bird something like this, I put it into a box cage 17½ inches long, 8½ inches wide, and 9 inches high. Inside are three perches, one from end to end, placed so that the bird can easily get at his seed and water, and two more placed halfway up the cage, so that the bird can get a good jump from end to end. Then I place the cage in a quiet corner of the bird room. I feed them on plain canary seed, and mealworms given every other day at first, and afterwards once or twice a week. Very rarely I give mixed seed, and then only for a day at a time. Clean water to drink, a bath daily in summer, and twice or thrice a week in winter, a clean out once a week, plenty of fresh air, and some green food to pick over sometimes, I find is all that is needed to keep these handsome and interesting birds in good condition.

A Day with the Wild Birds at Stapleford Woods.

Sir,—Up a little after seven o'clock, then breakfast, and across my bike, through the villages of Balderton and Coddington. A ride of five miles brings one to the edge of the woods. Almost as soon as I entered I espied a Wren flitting through the bushes. Thrushes and Blackbirds were whistling loudly, tending to make a bird lover's heart rejoice. Getting further into the heart of the wood a lovely Jay is seen, then four beautiful cock Bullfinches. A short cut across a by-path and a large flock of Greenfinches and Chaffinches is seen. I wonder how many winners could be picked out? In the heart of the wood two lovely cock Pheasants are strutting about, and a cock Robin is sending out his challenge to all comers on his preserves. Next a Yellow Bunting is warbling his song in preparation for his courtship. Back again to where the bicycle is left. I mount and ride slowly along the drive. The hedge is simply full of Linnets just come to cover from the field adjoining till the probable danger is past. Now I leave the woods and make for home again, having spent pleasant hours among the birds in their haunts. The weather was all that could be desired, almost a May morning slipped into February.

Nests of Birds, Poultry, etc., should be regularly sprinkled with KEATING'S POWDER, especially when hens are sitting. Don't forget to do this just previous to the eggs hatching, to destroy the Red Mite. Kills all insects. Harmless to everything else.

A Recipe for Making Egg-bread.

Sir,—I am sending you a recipe for making egg-food or egg-bread. Take 1lb. of the finest ground whole wheat meal. Make a stiff dough of it with as many fresh eggs as the meal will absorb. Bake it for three hours. Grate it and dry it in an oven or cut it in slices and grind it in a machine or with a rolling pin. This dry egg-food keeps for years and is always ready for use. Of this egg-food you may give half-a-teaspoonful every day, after having been moistened with a little water. In this egg-food (or egg-bread) are from six to eight eggs per 1lb. of whole meal, according to size of eggs. No water or any other fluid is used when making the dough. This egg-food you may make in the spring when eggs are cheap and fresh. I have used it for many years. I have some now which I made last spring, and it is still sweet and sound.

Clashing of Show Dates in Scotland.

Sir,—I was instructed at our meeting on Thursday last to say that our members very much regret the action of the Buckhaven C.B.S. in taking our date, one held by us (Kirkcaldy C.B.S.) for two years, in face of my making them aware of the fact. Because our date was the 25th October last year, they contend that if we take the 31st October this year we are going a week back. This is utterly absurd, because the 25th last year was the last Saturday of the month, as is the 31st this year. We go by the last Saturday of the month (October). I pointed this out to their secretary, but despite all they have taken our date. We hope, however, that fanciers will stand by us, who have, so far as we are aware, given Buckhaven fanciers no offence whatever at any time. We are very sorry that a society only seven miles from us should clash with us. In their own interests, however, we hope they will see their way to change to another date. As they are on a branch line, while we (Kirkcaldy) are on the main line "East Coast" between London and Aberdeen all fast trains stop at Kirkcaldy. Therefore, we imagine Buckhaven would suffer most in consequence of their clashing with us.

T. ARNOTT.

Some Notes on the Redstart.

Sir,—The Redstart is a bird of a very shy nature, and on this account often escapes attention, but once seen it can never be forgotten. Like the Robin, it is often found in the garden, but it often builds far away from the haunts of men, and in solitude sings its low, soft, sweet song. It is not commonly known that the Redstart is a good mimic. A summer visitor, arriving about the middle of April, he departs for Northern Africa towards the end of August. A characteristic of the bird is that when feeding the young the parent makes a curious hissing noise. He cannot be said to be a great songster; in fact by some his song is said to be monotonous. But to a true lover of birds there cannot be such a thing as monotony in the song of any bird. Already, although the spring is not far advanced, the song of birds is in our ears, and we are all looking forward to the days "when woodland echoes ring."

DOUGLAS MORRISON.

The Crystal Palace Show.

Sir,—Allow me to congratulate you and your able staff on your most excellent report of the Palace Show. It being my first visit there, and being an enthusiastic Yorkshire fancier, I took particulars of the winning birds in that section, and venture to say that the cream of the Fancy was there, and that many grand birds stood cardless. Your report was precise in every detail. I would also express, through your esteemed journal, my gratitude for the excellent condition in which my birds returned from the show; also the way in which they were packed. It was a credit to the management. Even the drinkers were packed in paper. Such treatment is a big inducement to fanciers to send valuable birds. I wish CAGE BIRDS the success it richly deserves.

A Proposed Society at South Moor (Co. Durham).

Sir, We intend to form a cage-bird society at South Moor, open to all bird fanciers in the surrounding districts. Mr. Thomas Oxley, of the South Moor Hotel, has kindly offered us the use of a room, and a meeting will be held there on Saturday, Feb. 28, at 7 p.m., to discuss the formation and elect officers. An invitation is given to all who would like to join.

Seasonable Advice to Beginners at Canary Breeding.

Sir,—Canary breeding is a profitable and delightful hobby, and as the breeding season is close at hand a few hints may be of use to amateurs and beginners. In the first place buy the best birds you can afford—borrow a trifle rather than have rubbish. To commence with healthy stock is necessary at all times. If a beginner Hartz Rollers are, to my mind, the best to commence with, being prolific breeders and generally speaking remunerative. They should now have egg-food twice per week. Staple diet three parts Canary seed, one part German rape. Twice per week a feed of the following mixed seeds should be given: Equal parts teazle, linseed, niga, hemp. Always bear in mind that a change of food is relished, and is attended with beneficial results. Give green-food at least twice per week. Watercress, groundsel, etc., must be free from frost, and not offered if wet. Weather permitting, the last week in March or the first week in April is quite soon enough to commence operations after pairing the birds up. If the hen is ready you can easily tell this by putting a few bits of moss or cow hair in between the bars. If ready the hen will soon avail herself of the opportunity, and will run about with a few pieces in her beak calling to her mate.

An earthenware nest-pan is best to use, the wood boxes harbour the red mite. Before putting the pan into the cage give it a good washing with paraffin into which some salt has been dissolved. Before putting the lining into the pan damp some carbolic soap and well rub with same. A little glue is useful to fasten the lining in with—some hens have a knack of pulling the lining out. Do not feel hurt if they make a nest and pull it to pieces again, they will soon make a fresh one, which probably gives them more satisfaction. Fasten a piece of cardboard on the cage just to hide the nest; the hen likes to feel private, so to speak. Do not give egg-food or mixed seeds during the period of incubation, nor green-food, as it is apt to induce the hen to stay too long off the nest, and the eggs get chilled.

On the evening of the 13th day place some egg-food (yolk only the first three days) ready for the parents to feed the young when they put in an appearance. After the third day add some stale bread crumbs, also the white of the egg, a little castor sugar, maw seed, and green-food. I myself use watercress ad lib. The method of preparing the egg-food is to boil a new-laid egg twenty minutes, then beat it up in a galley pot with a thin tined fork or press through a sieve (make a square box and cover with perforated zinc), add castor sugar, just a small portion, and the maw seed. Give hemp seed in a separate pot. The egg food and green food should be given fresh at least three times per day, and the last thing in the evening ready for feeding in the morning. Great care must be taken to remove any stale food from the cage as it soon turns sour in the warm weather. Always use glass or earthenware pots for the egg-food. As a change offer bread and milk. Boil the milk, pour on to a piece of stale bread, and squeeze out as much of the liquid as possible. Add small portions of sugar and maw seed. The egg-food is ready for use when cold. For those who have no time for making fresh food a good plan is to procure ½lb. sponge or other biscuits. Boil two new-laid eggs 20 minutes, beat up as finely as possible, crush up the biscuits with a bottle or rolling-pin and mix altogether. Place on a dish and put into a slow oven, constantly turning the contents until it is dry. Put into an earthenware jar, and store in a cool place. Slightly damp the necessary quantity before giving to the birds.

Do not meddle with the birds any more than is absolutely essential. The less interference during the breeding season the better. Do not let strangers peer into the cage whilst the bird is sitting. Always buy the best of every kind of food for your birds, you will get better results in every respect. Keep an eye on the hemp seed, break a few seeds open, and if milky-white it is fit for use, if not throw it away. When giving the birds hemp to feed the young with give it whole, do not crush it. It keeps the hen off the nest longer and gives the young more fresh air. Change the water often during the warm weather. Plenty of air is essential and conducive to their health and vigour. A good plan to keep the watercress in good condition when keeping it overnight is to place it under the tap and let the water drip on it all night. It will keep fresh much longer this way. I am always willing to give any advice within my power, most of which I have gained through CAGE BIRDS, and six years' breeding.

The Caging of Birds.

Sir,—You cannot call me a faddist of the opposite ranks, for I am seldom without birds of some species in the house, and have always been more or less of a bird fancier since I was a "nipper." But don't you think the latter portion of Mr. P. F. M. Galloway's letter might encourage the wholesale destruction of singing birds by horticulturists and others, often on suspicion? Such is my impression, and I hope some able and observant reader will take up the birds' defence in your columns for, according to my reading, no birds at all would mean no fruit at all!

J. WADSWORTH.

[We are quite sure that birds require no "defence" in our columns; no one realises better than we do the good that birds accomplish. But Mr. Wadsworth should remember that too many birds (of sorts) mean no fruit just as surely as no birds would mean no fruit.—EDITOR.]

"A Wail from Aintree."

A Cage Bird Member Replies.

Sir,—On reading this week's "Twitterings," I notice an item headed "A Wail from Aintree." As a member of that society, I should like to ask Mr. Anderson, through your most valuable paper, if he is blaming the cage-bird fanciers for the winding up. I think he is giving the birdie men a nasty knock. I must say that the cage-bird members have done their duty to the Society, and if Mr. Anderson was a birdie man, I am sure the tables would be turned. I can say that most of the bird members have forfeited their prize-money for the benefit of the Society, so I think Mr. Anderson has gone a little too far in using the expression "Until more enthusiasm is shown by the cage-bird fanciers of the district." With reference to members' shows, I should like to ask who has supported the said shows. Is it the poultry or rabbit, or cavy men; or is it the cage-bird members? I am a fancier who prefers harmony and likes fair play, with an honest desire to promote the fanciers' interest. It is my desire that this should go through your valuable paper, in justice to the fanciers of this district.

G. A. SKILLING

Borders at Bethesda.

Sir,—Now that Mr. Huxley has signed his name, I have no objection to answering the questions. But they will be answered in the same way as they were at the show. (1) Mr. Huxley says that every fancier knows that colour-fed Borders are not eligible to compete in Border classes under rules, and wants to know why I did not disqualify them in the Border class. May I tell Mr. Huxley that the Border class was not under the rules, it was Border, any variety, without mention of natural colour. If that were not so, the 1st and spl. would not have decorated his cage in the Border class. (2) What makes me think it colour-fed? A little practice and experience makes me think so. (3) Am I prepared to support my decision? I supported my decision in the showroom, after judging, to the satisfaction of those who stood round, when the winners in the natural colour class were taken out and sampled against those left out. These are my answers to the questions asked. Now, Mr. Huxley, may I have a word with you? You refer to short entries, and give one more reason for them. No, no, Mr. Huxley, it is not those who win 1st, 2nd, and spl. which cause short entries. It is those who show five or six times and get nothing that want fair play, and keep their birds at home if they don't get it. That is where the shortage of entries comes from.

A. WELLINGS.

Sir, There was no need for Mr. Wellings to look through the catalogue, he knew perfectly well who the exhibitor was, and which Border was referred to. I am another who did not get fair play at the above show. Mr. Wellings awarded my bird 3rd prize in the Border class but disqualified same in natural colour class, for alleged colour-feeding. I asked him at the show why the bird was not disqualified in both classes: the answer was, because the show was not held under Border Fancy Club rules. I may inform Mr. W. that the bird disqualified by him at Bethesda Show was awarded "Highly Commended" at the recent Palace Show in a class of 21; and please note that the class was for Border Fancy Non-fed. The fact of the matter is, he knows that he has made a mistake.

Ramsden's Autumn Show at the Crystal Palace.

Sir,—In further reply to your correspondents, arrangements have been completed for this show to be held at the Crystal Palace on Oct. 27, 28, 29. It seems to be the desire of most of my correspondents that the show should cater chiefly for the popular varieties of Canaries, with a fair classification for British, Mules, and Foreign birds—and that the show be divided into three sections, viz., champion, amateur, and novice. Opinions differ as regards the status of the amateur. Some ask for three firsts in open competition to be the limit; others ask for five. This point will have to be decided later on. Several correspondents ask me to distinctly state that I provide the prize-money 10s., 6s., 4s., 2s. in full for a 1s. 6d. entry fee. This I, of course, agree to do. They then ask that a prize fund be started and subscriptions invited, the whole of the prize fund to be utilised for fifth and sixth cash prizes. This I also agree to. The Crystal Palace Company have given six of their handsome medals as special prizes, and the London and Provincial O.S., instead of holding an autumn show, will offer their members' cups and specials for competition at this show. Any suggestions made direct, or through your columns, will be carefully considered by

The Giving of Medicines to Birds.

Sir,—I would like to point out to your readers a serious mistake, often made by contributors in regard to giving recipes for bird remedies. I mean the "pennyworth" or the "as much as will lie on a sixpence" method of giving the proportions. In drugs you might get 50 or 100 per cent. more for a penny at a big competitive drug store than you would at a country chemist's. Or, say you went to a specified shop for your drugs, and went for a further supply, say two months later, your pennyworth might be either doubled or halved, owing to drug prices fluctuating so much. Further, I have proved by experiment that the quantity that will lie on a coin can vary as much as 50 per cent. Imagine what such a great difference may mean when giving remedies to such delicate patients as birds. A really good remedy may become, with some highly concentrated drugs, highly dangerous.

The Suggested Presentation to Border Fancy C.C. Officials.

Sir,—I crave a little space to add my appreciation to that of other members who have written of the splendid work done by the late secretary, Mr. Jamieson, and our worthy president, Mr. Richardson. The two of them may be said to have carried on all the work connected with the Club, and I trust that their honest endeavour to place the Club amongst the first flight will not go unrewarded. I fully agree that each member might well spare at least one shilling towards a fund, which would, I think, be best carried out by each district delegate calling on all members, and then sending monies collected to Mr. Smart. The presentation should take place at some central place, where most of the members could attend. Let us have a night of it, and thereby do justice to such a pair of worthy members who have carried on the good work of the Club since the formation, Mr. Richardson being the first president and Mr. Jamieson the secretary, all but a few years, when it was attended to by Mr. Arnot, his partner. I hope our fellow members will loosen their purse strings with a lavish hand, and make the presentation fit the deserving cause of long and faithful service, well and honourably carried out.

J. Patterson.

A Society Suggested for Porth.

Sir,—Kindly announce that a cage-bird club will be formed at Porth, where several are desirous of joining. All fanciers wishing to become members, and living in and around Rhondda valleys, will they kindly give their names in at 66, Pontypridd Road, Porth, on Saturday next, Feb. 21, at 7 p.m. to 8 p.m., when I shall be present to receive the names, and when a place will be decided upon for headquarters for the following week. See notice in Cage Birds when and where meeting will be held on the 28th inst. to elect officers.

John Shephard.

Proposed Society for Scotland Gate, Choppington and District.

Sir,—A meeting will be held on Feb. 21, at the Scotland Gate Social Club, to form a cage-bird society, open to all members of affiliated clubs. All fanciers interested in the above are invited to attend. Meeting to commence at 7.30 p.m.

Lancashires at the Palace Show

Sir,—Being a constant reader of your valuable paper ever since it was first published, I have found the information it contains good, both for the novice and for those who have kept birds all their life. I was looking through the Crystal Palace report, and thought I had never seen a better one in all my life. There was a reference to my yellow Coppy that stood second in its class, and third in Cage Birds Coupon Competition in its own section. This bird is only a young one, and has been washed and shown all this season. It was bred by myself, as I very seldom buy a show bird. I think there is more honour in breeding than in buying one. I sent five birds to the Palace, and four out of the five were young ones; so I consider they did very well, and would have done better had they been kept up solely for the Palace Show. But I have tried to keep the Lancashire classes from being cancelled, as in addition to myself, only Mr. Beattie, of Newhey, has shown all the season to any extent. I think it is not fair to an exhibitor when his birds have been out to other shows, and won diplomas, that another bird should come out and take diplomas and championships for one show.

George Fitton.

Sir,—In the report of the Lancashire and Lizard section at the Palace Show, your reporter deals with the question of small entries, and I am with him in that respect. But what can be done in the matter, No one seems to bother after they have shown once or twice. Of course, that is so in all varieties, but we have such a small number of breeders that our two birds begin to show it very early; hence small classes. Then comes half prize-money, and it is left to two or three to fight it out. For my own part, during about two or three years' absence from the show bench, I have seen the decrease in the number of entries, and in shows giving classes, and in my opinion it behoves all Lancs. fanciers to put their heads together. Let them call a meeting, central for all, and not leave the question alone till they see something for their work. There are societies who will put classes on if they get promises of support. I suggest that instead of cups, etc., for a year or so give this money in specials at certain shows, and put a limit on how many of them exhibitors can win. Further, join with others to see if we cannot get railway charges down a little, as this is one thing that kills; it is a big item. I was pleased to see that although the birds were few in number at the Palace Show, quality was there in its very best, as your report states.

Wm. Adams.

Judges and the Norwich Plainhead Club's Standard.

Sir,—Whether "Raw Novice" will get his corns cut or not, it would be better for all to voice their opinion of the birds with such a lot of brow—what I call half-bred Crestbreds. Take any drawing or picture, and see whether there are any drooping feathers on the head. What is more disappointing to any beginner in the Fancy than to attend the great Palace Show, expecting to see the correct type, only to see such birds as the winners in the clear buffs and yellows facing you. Are they the proper standard of the Norwich Plainhead? If so, they will want their heads trimmed a bit. I stood looking some considerable time at these two specimens, and the only remark I heard was "plenty of brow." There will be a time when they will be discarded and called cross-breds. When the schedule is printed Norwich Plainheads, why not keep to it, so that beginners do not get disheartened so quickly?

H. Olive.

The Need of the Novice.

Sir,—I agree with "Novice" in what he says about the novices buying and getting "done down." It's a good job there are a few exceptions, however. I know of several cases where a new member has joined a club because he has been to a show or two and become infatuated with the birds. This new member was at once pounced upon by the champion member in the particular variety he was going in for, and asked to his room and persuaded to give good prices for just songsters. He does no good first season, nor the next; therefore gets disappointed, and falls out of the Fancy, never to return. What I say is, let the Fancy be a Fancy, not a business. We only do it for a hobby, just to make it pay, and a little to spare. So encourage the novice; give him good birds when he is starting, and you will never regret it, for he will always speak highly of you to other fanciers. I think if this was done we would make hundreds of fanciers yearly, for who does not like a bird? —very few.

"Encourage."

The Value of Spangling in Lizard Canaries.

Sir, I read your report on the Lizard classes at the Palace, and was very pleased to come in for such kind remarks. In my case it has evidently been "so near and yet so far," as I nearly won in both classes. However, I am chiefly concerned in the remarks made in regard to the 2nd prize broken cap silver. Your reporter puts the bird as practically perfect in spangling, breast, and flank markings, and says that with more colour it would have won. Perhaps it never struck your reporter that the bird in question, "Dusky Queen," was a hen, and for a hen she is a good colour, and has had a goodly share of "R.P.," as it and the clear cap gold cocks in gold class were two out of five fed on Ramsden's Pepper. If the bird in question had been any hotter in colour, I should have questioned its sex. In comparison with cocks, it would naturally look poor in colour. I relied chiefly on its spangling, and general Lizard characteristics, to pull it through. Although it did not win, it did extra well, for a hen, to get so high up, and I am well satisfied. I am writing chiefly because our Lizard standard puts a big value on spangling, and, if lacking colour upsets a big pull in spangling, our standard is no use. We allow 15 points for ground col., and I contend the ground colour in above hen is good for a hen, which always lack the brightness of the cocks. I may say this hen is descended from a fairly long line of Palace winners. In 1908 I won 1st and Diploma Palace with a non-cap gold hen. In 1911 both 1sts at the Palace were from this strain, and the gold cock, winner in that year, was sire to the hen 2nd at the Palace last week, and also sire to the silver cock 3rd in the same class. I should like the point raised: Spangle versus colour in Lizards. It should prove interesting. I had not the pleasure of seeing the first prize winning silver, but am pleased to see that Mr. Bradley in his first season has done so well. Just to revert to your reporter's remarks in gold class, where he states the little bit of mooning meant the difference between winning and losing; verily honesty is its own reward!

Amalgamation of Clubs in Pelton Fell.

Sir,—Having been asked by several fanciers in our district to try and bring the local societies together, to run an amalgamated club show, open to the following clubs, Pelton Fell, Chester-le-Street, Birtley, Craghead, Beamish, and Stanley (of which the first three are now in favour), I am calling a meeting, to be held at Mr. Enoch Waugh's, Colliery Inn, Pelton Fell, on Saturday, Feb. 28, at 6.30 p.m. (the headquarters of the Pelton and Dis. C.B.S.). We have tried on several occasions to run open shows in our district, but we cannot make them pay; also they are killing the younger part of the Fancy; as when we run our open show it generally takes all the money to pay for the open classes, and this generally goes out of the district; so the members get no prize-money, only plenty of hard work and the debt to clear off, which is responsible for many fanciers falling out. Now if we amalgamate, we can run a combined show, at about 2s. 6d. per member, second to none in the North, if the fanciers will only pull together. As we have nearly 100 fanciers within our radius, I fully believe we can run a good show, and pay 12s. or 14s. per class for a 6d. entry fee, that is, if the above clubs will only unite, or any other club within six miles of Pelton Fell. Fanciers try and attend this meeting, and see if we cannot come to some conclusion for the uplifting of the Fancy in our district.

How's This for Pedigree Breeding?

Sir,—I was delighted to see my yellow-green Border Fancy hen occupying a place amongst the select in your great twopenny-worth this week. Friend Norman must have made a special effort in portraying my hen, as I knew it was her as soon as my eyes lighted on the page. She comes from a line of Crystal Palace winners. Her mother won last year, her grandmother 2nd 1912, and her great-grandmother, my old champion of champions (as reported in Cage Birds) was first in 1911. So you see that out of the four times there have been classes at the Palace for green Border hens this line has taken three firsts and a second, almost the same thing occurring in the buff-green hen class. The Diploma winner this year is also a son of my old champion, and last year's Diploma winner is a grandson. I think I can lay claim to having the Palace winning strain, and am indebted to nobody for it but Cage Birds, as I have received many a good hint and help in my hobby from its pages.

A Hawfinch in a Class for Softbills.

Sir,—I am a member of the Garston B.B.A., and our members' show was on Dec. 6. I intended showing my Skylarks, as usual, but my money and tickets were returned marked "no competition." The amalgamated show was held twenty-one days later in the same room. Our secretary had charge of it. This show consisted of Liverpool B.B.A., Wallasey C.B.S., Birkenhead C.F.A., Bootle C.B.S., and Garston B.B.A. I entered three Skylarks in class 59, any other variety British softbilled. There was a class (58) for hardbilled British birds, any other variety. I went to the show next day (Saturday) and I saw a Redstart 1st prize, a Wheatear 2nd prize, and a Hawfinch 3rd prize. I thought this a bit off in a softbilled class. I saw the secretary, and protested. He said "You are too late, the judge has gone." I said it made no difference about the judge being gone. The secretary referred me to the delegate, Mr. Lloyd. Mr. Lloyd said "Form a committee; I will have nothing to do with it; it is my bird." Mr. Editor, I have got no satisfaction from secretary or delegate. If this catches the eye of Mr. A. G. Davis, the judge, will he explain how he came to give 3rd prize to a Hawfinch in a softbilled class, when a hardbilled class was provided? I am not asking any favour, I only want fair play for all, and no favour. The reason I have not written before is that I have been waiting to see the result of the amalgamated show in Cage Birds; but it has not been in yet.

Singing Contests.

CASTLEFORD.

Contest, George and Dragon, Bridge-st., Feb. 14. 48 birds for 3 minutes' time singing, and some very good singing was done. J. Brindley's bird did 43 at one break, 59 out of a possible 62 seconds, singing 2 seconds before the call of time. Mr. J. Liversedge's bird did a 43 seconds' break. Winners:—1, Liversedge, 81; 2, Brindley, 76; 3, Nelson, 62; 4, Morley, 60. Feb. 15, 14 birds entered:—1, Morley, 86; 2, 3, Brindley, 55 and 41. Members wishing to nominate birds must do so on Sat. next, Feb. 21.—J. Brindley, Sec.

LEEDS.

Contest, "Skinner's Arms," Buslinthorpe, Feb. 14. 15 birds sang. 1 Ward, 2 Binns, 3 King. Also Feb. 16. 1 Ward, 2 Binns, Tomlinson. Judges, Messrs. C. Clayton, J. Sellars.—C. Clayton, Hon. Sec.

Open contest for quality singing held Albion Inn, Saville Green, Feb. 15. 26 of the best picked birds in Leeds sang for 4 prizes before a crowded house. 1, Sissons; 2, Chippindale; 3, Hardcastle; 4, Hayes. Judges, A. Jennings, Naylor, Mellia. Also a grand Roller contest at night. 16 birds sang for three prizes. 1, Hardcastle; 2, 3, shared by Smith and Parker. Judges, Hayes, Lorriman, Naylor. Members please note that owing to King's Head being closed, the Leeds Linnet and Canary Fanciers' Association now have new headquarters, at the Albion Inn, Saville Green, off York Road, Leeds.—Walter Naylor, Hon. Sec.—(Advt.)

Roller Canary contest held; 24 birds entered for three prizes. Birds came from all round Leeds and district. First was won by Mr. Walter Lipman, with one of the best birds that has been hung for some time; 2nd, Mr. Brabiner, who had a good quality bird but not quite so long as the first; 3rd, Mr. Lipman. The birds sang to a large and appreciative audience.—A. E. Ritchie, Sec. (Please write on one side only of each sheet of paper used. —Ed.)

There was a large muster of birds at the "Prince Albert," Newtown, Leeds, when 23 birds sang for a good money prize:—1, 2, Chippindale; 3, Brabiner. Judges, C. Lorriman and P. Madden.—R. Ridyard, Hon. Sec.

WESTHOUGHTON.

Linnet contest held Grapes Inn, Westhoughton, Feb. 14, for time. Thirty-six birds entered. Six good prizes awarded, and some very good singing was heard by a good company:—1, Knowles, 129; 2, Dijon, 128; 3, Harrison, 101; 4, Fairhurst, 89; 5, 6, Knowles, 84 and 74. Judges, Messrs. Harrison and Hodgkiss; tappers, Jackson and Pool; minutes, J. Fairhurst.—J. Hickman.

ATHERTON.

Linnet contest will be held Hindsford Inn, Hindsford, Feb. 28; open for time. Landlord, J. Eckersley, will give prizes according to entries. First pair in window 2.15 prompt.—(Advt.)—E. Hickman.

BLACKBURN.

Open Linnet contest will be held Feb. 28 for quality, at Empire Hotel, Bolton Road, with several good prizes. This being our first contest of the season, we shall be glad to see old and new faces.—T. Hayhurst, Sec.—(Advt.)

ESH VILLAGE.

Linnet singing held Feb. 14. 30 birds faced the judge, and some good singing was heard. 1, 2, Heslop; 3, Johnson; 4, Maitland. Mr. T. Farrey, Hollinside, judged. We had a good concert after singing, at which the chairman led off with a good song, and others followed. Next meeting Feb. 21, Mr. A. A. Dodds, 1 prompt.—J. Ridley McKenna, Sec.

ROYAL ALFRED (Erith).

On Feb. 8, eight pairs of birds were hung for two prizes:—1, Barnett, 3, score 14; 2, Roper, 3, score 13. This was a good race. Feb. 15, seven pairs of birds were hung for two prizes: 1, Roper, 3, score 17; 2, Barnett, 2, score 19.—J. Baker, Sec.

PONTEFRACT.

Contest held Woodman Inn, Feb. 14. 36 entered for three prizes, and some good singing was done. 1, Beard, 70; 2, Proctor, 68; 3, Smerrick, 64. Open sing, Feb. 15, 45 entered for three good prizes. 1, Proctor, 111; 2, Piper, 97; 3, Nelson, 63.—S. Pugh, Sec.

VALE OF LEVEN C.B.C.

Meeting held Village Schoolroom, Alexandria, Feb. 10; pres., W. B. Gillies, in chair. Mr. Peter McAdam was unanimously elected vice-president. Rules were carefully gone over, and were, with little alteration, adopted. Resolved that all entry money be added to funds instead of pooled. President Gillies intimated a present of three-tier staging, a portion of which, as sample, he had forwarded to be used for pair show. Amid applause, president Gillies was heartily thanked for his generous, useful, and much required gift. Agreed that the classes for Hybrid and Mule pairs at next show be Bullfinch Hyb., A.O.V. Hyb., and one Mule class; Mr. J. Hannah to judge. The judges for pair Canary show, Messrs. J. McEwen, J. Hannah, and J. Campbell, were heartily thanked for services.—A. H. McLean, Sec.

CITY OF BRADFORD O.S.

Meeting held Feb. 14, Flying Dutchman Hotel; a good number present. The election of officers and alteration of rules to the Yorkshire Union were given a lengthy discussion before being put to the vote. A pleasing bit of news was a letter from our esteemed friend, Mr. H. J. Chittenden, to say that there was a slight improvement in his health, and that he hoped to be with us again soon. There was also a pleasant surprise for us in a visit paid by Mr. F. Bowman, late sec. of City of Glasgow O.S., and we hope to make him a member. I am sure that he would be only too pleased to help the young fanciers, and I have great pleasure in offering him a hearty welcome to our next meeting, when we may be able to fix a date for the lecture he so kindly promised he would give us; will he kindly supply me with his address? Members will be sorry to hear that our assist. sec., Mr. J. Horsfield, is ill in bed, and I am only conveying the wishes of our members and self when I hope he will have a speedy recovery.—W. Helliwell, Sec.

MIDLAND COUNTIES Y.C.C.

Annual meeting, Crown Hotel, Birmingham, Feb. 11; Mr. W. G. Audrews, chair. Mr. C. Beckett (Hanley) elected a member. Balance sheet showing a small loss on season's working, was read and adopted, the members present agreeing to make up the deficit. Chairman presented the two premier prizes, silver challenge cup, Messrs. Wells and Clempson; novice challenge cup, Mr. G. A. Smith. Winners who were unable to be present:—P. Lane, 2nd, champ. silver mug, value 40/-; P. V. Williams, 3rd, oil painting, value 21/-; G. Salt, 2nd prize novice, oil painting, value 21/-; R. Ratcliffe, 3rd, gold medal, value 12/6; J. Hinton, 4th, pair china plaques, value 5/-. The chairman remarked that this was indeed a goodly array of prizes, considering we had a membership of under 30, and he was delighted to say that there was every prospect of an even larger prize list for 1914, according to promises sec. had received, and this should be a great inducement for new members to join. Nomination fee 1/-, and annual sub. 2/6. Officers elected for 1914: Pres., G. A. Smith; vice-pres., R. Lane and P. V. Williams, and J. Sheppard; chair, W. G. Andrews; vice-chair, J. Clay; hon. sec. and treas., W. Wells, "Helmside," Erdington, Birmingham; committee, Messrs. J. H. Allen, J. L. Beck, J. Clay, G. A. Steventon, and J. Clempson (Birmingham), J. Gibbons (Wolverhampton), W. H. Raybould (Dudley), R. Ratcliffe and G. Salt (Stoke-on-Trent), A. Philpot (Warwick), and A. W. Austen (Redditch). Chairman gave notice that at next general meeting he will propose that novice classes be limited to £5, as in kindred societies; will members please let me have their opinions as soon as possible? Sec. offers apologies to the South Birmingham O.S. for calling the meeting on same night as theirs—an oversight on his part. Date of next meeting will be notified in due course. Hon. sec. will be pleased to hear from intending members, also present members, who have any propositions to make with a view to increasing the club's popularity.—W. Wells, Hon. Sec.

NORTHERN BRITISH, M. & F.B.C.

Meeting held Jan. 28; Mr. Pettersson presided over a fair attendance. Decided to hold next meeting Sat., Feb. 28, instead of the Wed., to give country members a chance to attend. Table show will be held in conjunction with our meeting:—Linnet, Goldfinch, Bramble, or Chaffie, A.O. Brit. (all F.M.), and Foreign. Decided to appoint judge at the meeting. Decided to have medals the same as last year, except for some members who were present, and decided to have spoon. Table show was held; Mr. Irving judged, and gave every satisfaction. LINNET: 1, Pettersson. A.O. BRIT.: 1, 2, Bertram; 3, Voutt; 4, Pettersson. FOR.: 1, Pettersson; 2, Voutt. Mr. G. Barker, Hamsterley, elected a member. We give a hearty invitation to fanciers to our table show, Lockhart's, near Monument (upstairs), birds staged 7 sharp. Members please note change of meeting.—W. Curry, Sec.

WINDSOR C.B.A.

A whist drive and dance was held in the Town Hall, Feb. 11. Several handsome prizes were given for the whist drive, which was taken part in by 116 players. Mr. W. G. King and Mr. W. G. Clark each gave a Canary and cage, and other prizes were given by Mrs. Turner, Mrs. H. Simms, Mr. A. Jacobs, Mrs. Belcher, and Mrs. Goldsmith. The mayor (Councillor W. Carter), who is president of the association, presided and distributed the prizes at the close. The floor of the large hall was in excellent condition for dancing, which was indulged in until the following morning. Mr. A. Jacobs was an efficient M.C., and a quadrille band under Bandmaster A. Montgomery (Staines) played selections of music. The company altogether numbered about 150. A vote of thanks to the Mayor for his attendance and the interest he took in the association was heartily passed, and the Mayor suitably responded. The successful whist players were:—Ladies: 1, Mrs. Geddes; 2, Mrs. Bampton; first half, Mrs. Hearn; second half, Mrs. Venner. Gentlemen: 1, Mr. Greaves; 2, Mr. A. Harris; first half, Mr. P. Harris; second half, Mr. Akery.—H. Simms, Hon. Sec.

CHESTER-LE-STREET C.B.S.

Meeting held Feb. 9. Following officers were re-elected:—Chair, W. Forster; treas., W. Davison; sec., R. Ward. Decided that we hold no open show this year. Discussion followed on the amalgamation scheme of local societies. After debate, it was decided that as the members of Birtley and Pelton Fell are greatly in favour of amalgamation, we would join in the scheme providing that some suitable method be arrived at as to running an amalgamated show. Meeting will be held in due time at Mr. Waugh's, Colliery Inn, Pelton Fell. Secretaries and members of any local society interested are invited to attend.—R. Ward, Sec.

LAISTERDYKE, BOWLING, AND TONG COMBINATION.

First annual general meeting held Napoleon Hotel, Bowling, Feb. 9, Mr. W. Wharton presiding. Mr. J. E. Hudson was elected secretary, and Mr. C. Atkinson treas. Members are requested to join in and make the combination a great success. It has been only very moderate this last year. To raise a fund to purchase prizes, it was decided that members pay 6d. per annum, and give in their names to the sec. of their respective societies. No points can count before sub. is paid. Any member having shown in open classes at his society in 1913, or having won first novice medal 1914 in novice members' classes, must exhibit in open. Decided to ask the societies to elect sec. and treas. as delegates, and send three delegates inclusive. Mr. L. C. Casey gave special of 5s., A. Gledhill 5s. If any other member was unable to attend, and will promise a special, I shall be glad to be notified.—J. E. Hudson.

WOOD GREEN F.A.

ATTERCLIFFE C.B.S.

Meeting held Feb. 12. Mr. Havenhand (chair). A good number of members put in an appearance, and we made two more new ones, which brings the total addition this year up to seven. A member has offered 5s. for the member who proposes the most new members who are financial at the end of the year, so we should hear of more ere long.—E. Johnson, Sec.

SOUTH BIRMINGHAM O.S.

Annual meeting held headquarters, Marlboro' Hotel, Feb. 11. Chairman Willmott, in presenting the year's balance-sheet, spoke of the great season the society had had; he wished that those members who had moved the spending of such a large amount of money were present to hear the result. Expenditure, including £8 worth of silver cups, gift to sec., and other expenses, including over £2 paid for judging fees, £21; income and cash at bank, £29, so the result was very satisfactory. The books had been passed and found in order by the auditors, Messrs. Rees and Bayliss, and they could face the coming year's work and expenses with a feeling of comfort. This season no cups would have to be purchased. Balance-sheet was unanimously passed. Discussion then took place on ideas and proposals for adding greater interest in the doings of the society until show season commenced, and for the March meeting, Mr. J. Burke kindly consented to give a paper on the Yorkshire Canary from Nest to Show Bench. Other important attractions also agreed to.—J. Sheppard, Sec.

GLASGOW & W. COUNTIES C.B.S.

Annual general meeting, held Good Templars' Hall, Ingram-st., Feb. 7; Peter Pettigrew presided over a moderate attendance. LEEDS ROLLER C.C.

Meeting held Feb. 14, at Lockhart's, Briggate; Mr. Peel, chair. Balance sheet for 1913 was presented, and shows the club to be in a very good position financially, there being a balance in hand of nearly £20 The club has lost a valuable asset in Mr. Davies retirement. The members were greatly disappointed at the late sec.'s unavoidable absence, but his present was much admired, and all were agreed that he had honestly earned it. A long discussion took place with regard to alteration of rules re subs. and judging. Resolved to follow the B.R.C.C. lead. Members promised to bring birds to next meeting; please note, all endeavour to be there.—H. Best, Sec.

BOLTON WOODS C.B.S.

Annual tea and concert, held Feb. 7, at the Victoria Hotel, when nearly 80 members and friends sat down to a good repast provided by Mr. and Mrs. Shepherd. After tea a most enjoyable evening was spent, Mr. H. Fretwell in chair. The following artists contributed to a capital programme:—Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, McCree, Russell, and Penny. During the evening the prizes were distributed by Mr. G. Lambert, who officiated in a masterful manner. Votes of thanks were passed to Mr. and Mrs. Shepherd, to the artists, and all those who had helped to make this function a success.—H. Bryant, Hon. Sec.

Freeman, Sec., 105a, Bolingbroke-grove, Wandsworth Common, S.W.

SOUTHERN NORWICH P.C. ANNUAL MEETING.

Held in the Press Room at the Crystal Palace on Saturday, Feb. 7, 1914, Mr. E. Baker in the chair, and there was quite a large gathering of the members. The chairman congratulated the members upon the large attendance, and the secretary (Mr. Matthes) read the minutes, which were passed. The secretary said the membership of the club remained about the same, and about 90 had paid their subscriptions out of a membership of 108. Mr. Matthes then asked, as treasurer, to be allowed to resign his office, and said that on the previous night he had resigned the secretaryship of the club. It had been thought that he had treated a few members differently to what he had others. This he denied, and he felt it was his duty to resign his office and give someone else a chance to take up the position, so that he should remain a member only. Strong appeals were made to Mr. Matthes to reconsider his decision, and at last he consented, for the present year, at least. (Applause.)

The result of the voting for officers was that Mr. E. Baker was again elected president; Mr. Hodder consented to act as treasurer at the request of Mr. Matthes; the London committee chosen were Messrs. Richardson, Ramsden, Matthes, Robson, Cole, and Crawford; provincial committee, Messrs. Collings, Midgley, Houghton, Gill, Rippon, Ellis, and Kilby; auditors, Messrs. Heath and Robson. The president having returned thanks for his election, and spoken a few words on the general work of the secretary and the club, the report and balance sheet were adopted, on the motion of Mr. Rippon, seconded by Mr. Beavington.

The accounts showed a balance in hand of £5 1s. 9d., with assets £11 11s. The donations to special prize fund had been 13s. The winners of the cups, etc., for 1913 were as follows: Mr. W. Collings, £10 10s. cup and £1 1s. cup; Mr. J. Houghton, 15s. special; Messrs. Gill and Pethick, 10s. special; Mr. J. Hodder, 5s. special; Mr. Rippon, 5s. special; Messrs. Gill and Pethick, 2s. 6d.; Mr. J. Houghton, 2s. 6d. Novice Section.—Mr. Leech, Clapham Show, teapot, vhc, 2s. 6d.; Mr. Tomsett, Clapham Show, hc, 2s. 6d.; Mr. Teasdale, Wimbledon Show, teapot; Mr. Leech, Wimbledon Show, 2s. 6d.; Mr. F. Marshall, Wimbledon Show, vhc, 2s. 6d.; Mr. F. Cole, Wimbledon Show, hc, 2s. 6d.; Mr. F. Cole, Leyton Show, tenpot; Mr. F. Marshall, Leyton Show, vhc, 2s. 6d.; Mr. Leech, Leyton Show, hc, 2s. 6d.; Mr. A. Beavington, L.C.B.A. Show, teapot; Mr. Leech, L.C.B.A. Show, vhc, 2s. 6d.; Mr. F Cole, L.C.B.A. Show, hc, 2s. 6d., and silver-plated cruet for most points.

A lengthy discussion then took place upon the motion by Mr. J. W. Ramsden:—"That no judge be allowed to officiate at more than one club show in a season." This was carried. A second motion was made by Mr. Ramsden, "That the committee be empowered to make the best terms possible with societies that cannot see their way clear to give the club's classification—either in giving a part guarantee or in accepting a modified classification." This was objected to on technical grounds, and was ruled out of order. A motion was moved by Mr. Tomsett, and seconded, "That trophies of the club shall be competed for by birds that have been bred by the exhibitor." This was carried after a brisk discussion; but a second motion by Mr. Tomsett, "That birds shall wear a closed ring," was defeated. The chairman held, and it was agreed to, that this decision, and the vote on Mr. Ramsden's first motion, rendered nugatory the two motions by Mr. Crawford. Mr. Midgley's motion, duly seconded, was carried as follows:—"That from the present time no other challenge cup be put up for competition, but that so soon as the present challenge cup shall have been finally won, an extended system of trophies to be won outright each season by members be inaugurated." A vote of thanks to chairman and retiring officers was given. The meeting then broke up, after sitting for near upon three hours.

BUCKHAVEN C.B.S.

Special prizes will be given for most points at the end of the season, but members must exhibit at three out of the five shows to be eligible. Rule books will be sent out shortly, they are now at the printers. Please rally round and make 1914 a record year.—Irene Kirk-Bullock, Hon. Sec. and Treas.

BOURNEMOUTH C.B.A.

Bournemouth and Dist. C.B.A. has just completed its most successful year, and reports presented at the annual meeting, held at Quadrant Restaurant, Feb. 5, show that the society is in a very flourishing condition. This satisfactory position of affairs reflects great credit on all concerned. Balance sheet showed £48 15s. 5d. to the association's credit. The Earl of Malmesbury was re-elected pres.; a long list of influential vice-presidents was confirmed. Mr. J. A. Crawshaw resigned the post of hon. sec., and Mr. Lionel Hill, Southcliffe, Bournemouth, was appointed. Mr. L. Bousfield was again elected hon. treas.; Mr. F. L. Jermyn, hon. auditor; and the Wilts. and Dorset Banking Co., bankers; G. W. Jones, chairman; Miss Penrice, Miss V. Onslow, vice. Committee: Messrs. S. W. Davis, H. Matthews, W. Briant, —. Goodland, F. W. Fulford, and F. House. Suggestions for 1914 programme were introduced, but discussion and settlement was left to next meeting. Many attractive items will be provided, and there will be much to interest the members at the monthly meetings. Thanks were accorded to all who had assisted. Annual show will be held Nov. 10 and 11.

ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE CHAMPION STRAIN!

Read following from 216, Wellingboro'-rd., Northampton. Feb. 8, 1914. You will be pleased to hear that I have won five firsts, four seconds, four thirds this season, and several specials, all with birds bred from your strain.—A. E. Dunkley. My winnings for the past five seasons cannot be approached by any other exhibitor, again winning the Green Marked Yorkshire ten guinea trophy, and gold medal for 1913-1914; also the Yorkshire Canary Club Challenge Cup, 1913-14; 2nd in Yorkshire Union Competition, etc., etc., and diplomas for best Yorkshire at Sunderland, Scottish National, etc., etc., and over 70 firsts, and numerous spls. this season at all the leading shows. In addition to above, I have bred and sold over 100 winners to my customers, so if you want the best blood in the Fancy, place your orders with the old reliable breeder, who breeds his own winners, and can therefore give you the best satisfaction. I still have a fine collection of high-class Yorkshires for sale, including several recent winners, that for length, type and quality cannot be beaten, and at prices to suit all. Pairs, carefully selected to breed the best, not haphazard. This is where pedigree tells its own tale afterwards, as blood is bound to tell, at 8/6, 10/6, 12/6 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 60/- per pair; Yorkshire cocks, any colour, at 6/- 7/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- each upwards; hens, feathered like wax, at 4/-, 5/-, 6/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/- each upwards. Travelling cages, 3d. extra; all cocks on full song, and cold room bred and kept, and in the pink of condition; inspection invited at any time, or I will send any bird on seven days' approval at my risk; cash or deposit, with Editor; easy payments arranged with genuine fanciers. Please state wants. Price list post free: L. Dykes, Reliable Aviaries, Shann-st., Bolton Woods, Bradford. (1322)

H. H. TOWERS

For business reasons must reduce stock at once; cocks, 6/6 to 10/-, 15/-, 20/-, 30/-, and upwards; hens, similar prices; good matched pairs, from 12/6 upwards; birds suitable for exhibition or stock to suit all; this strain is one of the best in the Fancy, as proved at Manchester, Cardiff, Sheffield, Bradford National, etc.; write at once to: Glusburn, nr. Keighley.

L. C. CASEY

Breeder and Exhibitor of high class Yorkshires; a few for sale at 12/- per pair and upwards; all from my own strain that has won cups and numerous prizes and medals; and I have won at all the leading shows during 1913, so I think I have one of the finest strains in the world; satisfaction guaranteed: 7, Plimsoll-st., East Bowling, Bradford.

G. SNEAD'S

Yorkshires have won over one hundred prizes at open championship shows during season 1913-14. See reports of Bradford National, Scottish National, Crystal Palace, etc. This strain needs no puff, as I won more first prizes at Crystal Palace than any other exhibitor in the Yorkshire section; and remember, every bird I have exhibited absolutely my own breeding. I am now in a position to supply matched pairs, bred from and related to these winners, at 15/-, 20/-, 30/-, 40/-, 60/- upwards; odd cocks and hens proportionately. All birds sent on seven days' approval; satisfaction guaranteed; travelling cases 3d. extra; terms cash or deposit. Address: 133, Arncliffe-terr., Grange-rd., Bradford. (1346)

YORKSHIRE BREEDERS' SOCIETY

Buy from the breeders whose birds are bred from the best strains; cocks from 6/-, hens from 4/-; cash or deposit, seven days' approval; easy terms: Secretary, 15, Dalton-terr., Manningham, Bradford. (1312)

OGDEN BROS.

There is no doubt we have them, again bang at the top, winning the Yorkshire Union Competition, also winning outright the Yorks. challenge trophy, 1913, also winning Carl's competition at Union shows; see Palace reports, 2 1sts, 2 2nds, and championship diploma for best C.M. Yorkshire in show, also winning the Crystal Palace silver cup for best Yorkshire, and other trophies too numerous to mention; our winnings during the past ten years have never been accomplished by any other exhibitor. Note.—The above competitions have been won with birds of our own breeding, so write direct to the most reliable strain in the world for producing winners; for proof read the following, just one out of thousands filed for inspection.—"Feb. 3rd ,1914, Cleveland-ave., Drayeott, Derby.—Dear Sirs,—Birds arrived as usual in splendid condition, and as regards value, I would like to say that I have not purchased for myself, or ever seen any that has been purchased from any other breeder, to touch yours for value. Again thanking you for kindness.—Yours, G. T. Wall." We guarantee same strain as our winners, at 10/6, 15/6, 21/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-, 60/- per pair. Odd cocks or hens proportionately; inspection invited, or birds sent seven days' approval at our risk: Dudley-hill, Bradford.

Don't Take Notice

what I say. Read following:—"Feb. 6th, 1914, Victoria Terrace, Nanpean, St. Austell.—Dear Sir,—Received hen in pink of condition; have had several hens from Bradford fanciers, but never one half as good as this at far more money. Been in the Fancy 15 years, but never seen anything like this; shall be sending again. Again thanking you.—Yours, W. E. Allen to Mr. Bennett." "Jan. 26th, 1914, Fishponds, Bristol.—Bird arrived; far exceeds my expectations. Expected modcrate stock bird, and have received bird that I am sure would win in good company. You can add one more satisfied customer to your already long list. Again thanking you.—Yours, J. A. Greenslade, breeder and exhibitor of high-class Yorkshire Canaries, to Mr. Bennett." See my winnings Crystal Palace, Bradford National, and all leading exhibitions. Winner of more first prizes than any other fancier (with birds own breeding). Every bird my own breeding from the purest, finest, and oldest strain in the Fancy. No bought or claimed winners here. Send for one of my 15/- pair on approval, and compare with any other fancier's 30/- pair. A few left that can win in good company, cheap.—T. BENNETT, 14, Cumberland Road, Lidget Green, Bradford. (1319)

The increasing popularity of

for Canaries and other Cage Birds is due entirely to their superiority.

¶ Whether you keep your Birds as pets, as songsters, or for profit, always remember that it is in your best interests to give them only those foods which are sold in Spratt's original packets—packets upon which the name is plainly printed—the name which guarantees quality—SPRATT'S.

¶ Only the choicest seeds are used in the various mixtures which we supply for Cage Birds, and these are carefully blended and entirely free from dust, being treated by a special process to secure absolute purity. Further, all our manufactured foods are also of the highest quality and every ingredient entering into their composition specially selected.

Therefore always specify

"Spratt's"

when purchasing Foods for your Birds.

PREPAID ADVERTISEMENTS

UNDISPLAYED.—6d. for the first eighteen words. One Halfpenny per Word for each word over eighteen. Name and address to be reckoned. MINIMUM, 18 words 6d.

IMPORTANT NOTE.—Two or more Advertisements coming from the same advertiser, even if sent in different names, are reckoned together, and, after the first Eighteen words, are charged at two words a penny, but no single advertisement, even if accompanied by others, will be charged at less than the minimum price, viz., Sixpence.

Headlines or Footlines, 1/-, 1/6, 2/-, 2/6, according to size.

ADVERTISEMENTS UNACCOMPANIED BY CORRECT REMITTANCE WILL NOT BE INSERTED.

Postal Orders must be sent as far as possible. All moneys should be made payable to F. CARL.

The Proprietor reserves the right to refuse any advertisement, or to cancel any advertisement ordered for a series, at any time, without assigning any reason for so doing.

Advertisements must in all cases bear the bona fide name and address of the advertiser, and no advertisement will be inserted if addressed to a receiving office, or similar place of call.

Small prepaid advertisements of a general nature and not connected in any way with the Cage Bird Trade are inserted at the rate of ½d. per word throughout. Minimum 12 words 6d.

Advertisements close Tuesdays first post in each week, and should be sent to the advertisement Manager, CAGE BIRDS, La, Fleet Street, London. Terms for Display Advertisements on application.

REPEATING ADVERTISEMENTS

Advt. Manager, "Cage Birds."

DEPOSIT SYSTEM.

We are not responsible for the statements made in advertisements, nor of the bona-fides of either buyers or sellers In all transactions the adoption of our Deposit system should be insisted upon

IMPORTANT.

SEND THE FULL COMMISSION.—If the full commission does not accompany the deposit, the vendor will not be notified of its receipt until the amount deficient plus the extra postage incurred, has been paid to us.

HOW TO REMIT.—Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post-dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

RULES.

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchase (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2.—END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained by us until we hear from both parties that the transaction has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3.—AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which we must be advised) is agreed upon by both parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit will be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expiration of three days.

7.—FRESH TRANSACTION.—In case no sale be effected, a deposit is available for purposes of a fresh transaction, provided another deposit fee be paid.

8.—GOODS IN TRANSIT.—Goods in transit are not the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting questions of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.

10.—DISPUTES.—In case of a dispute, the decision of the Editor is final.

NOTICE TO BIRD PURCHASERS.

It is advisable that all newly-purchased birds, especially foreign birds, be kept isolated from established stock for a week or ten days, until by their condition they establish the fact that they are thoroughly healthy.

A USEFUL GIFT FOR YOU.

READ BELOW.

THIS PARAGRAPH TELLS YOU.

There's not a man among the readers of "Cage Birds" but would welcome an increased income—and it is easy to get it if you go the right way to work. If you follow the simple advice of the men who know—the men who are making big incomes out of their canaries to-day. You are as sure of success as you are that a crow isn't a canary.

This priceless knowledge has all been gathered into one compact book and is now offered—together with a valuable gift as described below—at a most favourable price and on really easy terms.

CANARIES

HYBRIDS AND BRITISH BIRDS,

BY

assisted by

LEADING CANARY AND BIRD SPECIALISTS.

IT TELLS YOU EVERYTHING

This work is the most practically useful work ever published on Canary and Cage Bird Rearing. It covers absolutely everything, and a beginner can lay a sure foundation for big successes just as surely as if he were an old hand with many years of experience.

It is the only book the ambitious Canary keeper needs to bring him out a prize and profit winner.

RIGHT ABREAST OF TO-DAY

The work is the standard authority on the Fancy. It has been brought entirely up to date by Mr. S. H. Lewer, of the "Feathered World," and revised to the latest standards required at the leading shows, making the work altogether reliable and trustworthy as representing the latest advances in the art of successful Canary breeding, rearing, and exhibiting.

PICTURES THAT TALK

This work, which is in one splendid volume of 41 intensely practical chapters, has its merit enhanced by its 170 artistic illustrations in colour and black and white. Everything that can be more fully explained by a picture or diagram has one, and the 26 true-to-life colour plates are a delight and an education in "the right thing."

SCIENCE WITH SIMPLICITY

There is nothing on the rearing and keeping of Canaries and Cage Birds that this book cannot tell you.

The keynote of the whole work is right down practicality; its real rock-bottom common sense. But at the same time it is packed full of the scientific side of Canary keeping; so clearly and simply expressed, however, that you understand it first go.

AN EXPENSIVE ANATOMICAL MODEL GIVEN FREE TO EVERY IMMEDIATE PURCHASER.

SIT DOWN NOW AND FILL IN THE FORM.

WHAT THE FREE MODEL IS LIKE.

Neatly bound in a grey cover, this ever useful model unfolds to display every part of the organism of the Canary. The model is in five distinct plates, each one in true to-life colours, and it has 105 numbered and named parts. The plates unfold layer after layer, so as to show first the visible feathered contours, then the bony structure or skeleton is seen, duly numbered and named. Another plate delineates all the blood vessels—arteries and veins—and yet another the internal organs of the canary. A great advantage is that each plate is in actual life colour, and is in exact proportional size as well as being in correct position. Altogether, this graphic and expensive model, with the incidental textual matter, form a source of interest and instruction that will be of life-long use to the canary keeper—a gift well worth accepting.

Use DITCHFIELD'S Famous Bird Medicines as supplied to the London Zoo

Ditchfield's Bird Medicines have been used for over six years by most leading fanciers, and have been proved to be the most reliable. Fanciers, we want a trial; we have confidence we can give you satisfaction. Every order is given prompt and personal attention. We do not send you one medicine to cure all diseases, but give every customer our careful attention, and where an extra bottle or Powders are required, we enclose them free. Our Medicines are perfectly safe, and can be given with confidence to all classes of cage birds. Mr. Hatton, Atherton, writes: "Your Tonic Drops are excellent stuff. They have cured me four birds with soft moult. They are now in full song." Mr. Fletcher, Chademoor: "Have used your Tonic Drops for 18 months, and they have never failed to do as advertised." Mr. Sammons, Southend-on-Sea: "You have got a genuine remedy which no fancier should be without." Mr. A. Eddy, Penzance: "Your Tonic Drops have worked wonders with my birds. The buff cock was so bad I was tempted to destroy him; to see him now is wonderful." A. Steel, Leicester: "Send two 1/- bottles Tonic Drops and Lung Tonic. I consider them to be by far the best medicines advertised." Major B. Horsbrough: "Your medicine is magnificent stuff." Mr. W. Harris, Dorchester: "The effect of your Tonic Drops are marvellous." Mr. W. Reid, Greenock: "Your medicine has been a great success for both my birds are now singing." Mr. B. Hutton, Holbeach: "I shall never be without your Revivo again; it's too valuable. We have thousands of testimonials testifying to the value of our bird medicines. SPECIAL OFFER.—If you have any birds you are relying upon for the coming breeding season that are not singing, or have gone into the soft moult, we guarantee you a perfect cure. We have the grandest medicine ever introduced for bringing birds into breeding condition. Ditchfield's Tonic Drops are a guaranteed cure for soft moult, not singing, going light, feather plucking, diarroea, and inflammation of the bowels. In 7d., 1/1, 2/-, and 5/- bottles. We guarantee every customer perfect satisfaction, or return full money. For Bronchitis, Wheezing, and Hoarseness, get Ditchfield's special Lung Tonic. It is the grandest Medicine ever offered for chest and lung affections in cage birds. Also in 7d., 1/1, and 2/- bottles. For cases of Constitutional Weakness and Debility get Ditchfield's Famous Revivo. There is nothing to equal it for giving new life and vigour to the birds. As a pick-me-up for birds before and after showing. Revivo is absolutely unequalled. In 7d. and 1/1 bottles. In cases of severe Diarrhœa use Ditchfield's Famous Diarrhœa Powder, in 7d. and 1/1 bottles. It is perfectly safe, and can be fully relied upon. Mr. Johnstone, Newcastle-on-Tyne, writes: "Send me one dozen more Powders. I had good results with the last. Special Notice.—All our Medicines can be given in the drinking water, and the birds take them freely with marvellous results. When ordering Medicine, kindly mention for what complaint, as in some cases an extra bottle is required, which we enclose free. As an advertisement, we will send two 7d. bottles of any of the above medicines for 1/-, three for 1/6, or two 1/1 bottles any kind for 1/9, three for 2/6. The 1/1 bottles are treble the size of the 7d. bottles. All medicines are sent, post free, per return. All bottles broken in transit replaced. Also two valuable Seed Recipes: How to Feed Linnets and Rollers for Song, given free to all Purchasers of our Medicines. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed. (1322)

Only honest dealing done with me: Fred Allen, Direct Importer, Porter-st. Aviaries, Hull. (1387)

HARRY ALLEN, THE ORIGINAL LINNET KING THE MOST RELIABLE TO SEND TO

My book of secrets tells you how to make Linnets sing at one another with their wings down; how to train them for contest singing; how to moult them; how to make Larks, Thrushes and Blackbirds sing with full loud voice on fine days, also Nightingales, and how to save Goldfinches from dying and make them sing, and the rules under which the champion Linnet of the world won all his contests. I have just got another 4,000 books printed. Muling pairs, birds I have put together are true pairs; beautiful Siberian cock Goldfinch, with a large Russian hen Bullfinch, 10/-; Siberian cock Goldfinch, with a beautiful yellow hen Canary, 8/6 and 10/6; beautiful cock Siskin, with hen Canary, 7/6; large yellow cock Greenfinch and large German hen Bullfinch, 5/-; large muling Linnets and hen Canary, 5/-; beautiful cock Chaffinch, and hen Bramblefinch, 3/6; large Mealy Redpoll and English hen Bullfinch, 4/-; yellow cock Greenfinch, with hen Canary, 5/-; the above are properly paired, and in the pink of condition. Large muling Goldfinches, singing hard, 4/- each. I hold the world's record for mulers; extra large muling Linnets, 2/6, 3/6, and 5/-; I have the finest stock of singing Larks in the world. Larks, singing, daylight and gaslight, with full loud voice, as steady as rocks, and perfect in feather, a treat to hear them sing, 1/6 and 2/-; a few hand-reared ones, will sing indoors or out, singing with full loud voice, daylight and gaslight, right for contest singing, 3/6 and 4/6; one a real champion, cannot be beaten, 6/-, with cage 7/6, he is a topper. Thrushes and Blackbirds, singing hard, 3/- and 3/6; hand-reared ones, 5/- each, can be heard singing 100 yards away. Linnets, taught by the champion Linnet of the world, will sing anywhere, with new cage and my book of secrets, 3/6 and 4/6. I challenge the world with this class of bird. Linnets from the same place as the champion Linnet of the world, singing a treat, can run as long as German Canaries, they will sing anywhere, only 2/6 each; guaranteed to mule pure Seifert Roller hen Canaries, 3/6 and 5/-; German hen Canaries, 2/6; German hen Bullfinches, 3/-; Russian hen Bullfinches, 4/- and 5/-; English Bullfinches, 2/- and 3/-, all grand birds, all sent out in wicker cages; Linnet Mules and Goldfinch Mules, will sing anywhere, 10/-. Everybody welcome to come and see and hear what they are buying; best meeting place for trippers is Harry Allen's Bird Stall, Bird Market. I have more Goldfinches, Bullfinches, Linnets, and Larks than any man in the trade; 2,400 birds in stock; no waiting; postcard before birds. Thanking you all for your kind patronge. Send to Harry Allen, The British Bird Champion, City Aviaries, 40, Beckett-st., Leeds. (1383)

SILVER CUP,

4 Firsts, 2 Thirds, Etc.

Once again my birds have wound up the show season by securing highest honours at the Great National Show (see report of Palace Show in this issue). That they have won consistently all through the season is shown by the fact that they have secured 76 Specials, 89 Firsts, 74 Seconds, and 60 Thirds This Season, in open champion classes, in hottest competition at all the leading shows. They have also won the N.P.C. Champion Trophy, the O.N.P.C. Champion Trophy, 3rd in Y.C.C. Competition, also several Silver Cups and Bowls, Gold and Silver Medals, Diplomas, and numerous other trophies.

I have also supplied birds that have won highest honours for my clients, including winners of this year's Palace show, in very strong classes. I have letters filed here for anyone to see in proof of this; also a large number of letters from fanciers who have bred winners from stock bred and sold by me.

These are FACTS, needing no comment. They speak for themselves, and they cannot be disputed. I am now offering marvellous value in the following varieties: -

CHAMPION NORWICH, THE BULLDOG STRAIN.

Grand, short, thick-set birds, cocks or hens, at 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-, 60/- each upwards. Matched pairs, personally selected by me for breeding winners, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-, 60/- to 100/- per pair. Blood is sure to tell in the end, and I am prepared to give a written guarantee that the above are bred by me from my noted strain of winners. I have also a few real good cobby birds bred from other well-known strains at the following prices: Cocks, in full song, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 17/6, 20/- each. Grand cobby hens, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- each. Matched breeding pairs, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 17/6, 20/-, 25/- per pair.

CHAMPION YORKSHIRES.

Grand, lengthy Yorkshire Cocks, with good position, and in full song, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/- each. Erect, racy hens, feathered to perfection, 3/6, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 10/- each. Matched pairs, personally selected, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/- per pair.

EXHIBITION YORKSHIRES.

I have a few specially good birds, ready for immediate benching, that can easily win their cost in prize-money. Cocks or hens, in clears, ticks, or marked, at 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/- each. Also a few specially matched pairs, bred from the best blood in the Fancy, and personally matched by me for breeding winners, at 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-, 60/- per pair. I have also a few of this season's open winners for sale at a working-man's price. Write for particulars.

PURE SEIFERT ROLLERS.

I have a very large stock of these marvellous songsters, and am in a special position to give satisfaction to all Roller fanciers. Kindly note the following prices: Cocks, thoroughly trained and in full rolling song, with many changes of tours, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 17/6, 20/- each. Genuine Schoolmasters, specially trained for contest singing, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/- each upwards. Hens, guaranteed same pure strain, 3/-, 4/-, 5/-, 7/6 each.

Am also offering a limited number of hens bred from one of the best strains in England, at 7/6 and 10/- each. These are worth treble to any breeder. All B.R.C.C. ring. Full particulars on application.

Grand, healthy, Sib. hens, for muling, 3/-, 3/6, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6 each; Goldfinch Mules, in full song, 7/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/- each; Linnet Mules, in full song, 7/6, 10/-, 12/6 each; healthy feeding hens, 3/- and 3/6 each. No breeder should be without.

Travelling Cages 3d. extra in all cases.

I have also a splendid selection of Border Fancies, Scotch Fancies, etc., etc.

Kindly remember, I issue an open invitation to all fanciers to call at any time and inspect my stock. You need not announce your visit; come at any time (except Sundays). You will be sure of a hearty welcome and will be shown round my rooms whether desiring to purchase or not.

Any fancier requiring stock is invited to come and make his own selection. To those unable to come I am prepared to send one or more birds to any address in the kingdom at my sole risk. I will send on 7 or 10 days' approval anywhere, and will guarantee absolute satisfaction to every customer or cash returned in full.

EASY PAYMENTS can be arranged to suit the convenience of genuine fanciers who are not in a position to pay cash. Send a postcard for my free illustrated catalogue, containing much useful information concerning the cage bird hobby.

CANADA, Canada; bargains, bargains.—I have a good situation offered me in Toronto, Canada, and sail March 21st, so all my Rollers, selected for my own breeding, are for sale, prices: 1913 cocks, 7/6 each; three schoolmasters, 10/6 each; hens, 3/- each; guaranteed breeders and feeders; all cocks guaranteed full song day and gaslight, with about 14 changes of song, including deep bass rolls, long silvery trills, etc., no harsh notes whatever; and sent on 7 days' approval on receipt of postal order; seen by appointment only; not a bird shop: Wesson, The Roller Breeder, Ada-rd., near Shireland-rd., Smethwick, Worcestershire. (1336)

YOU cannot say you have heard the best breed of Rollers going, unless you have heard a Leipzig Roller. Of course most people own one, but there are still a few that have never heard one. I want those people to allow me to send them one on trial for a week, so that they may hear it in their own home. I do not mind if they have no intention of purchasing, all I ask is that they will deposit price of bird with Editor of "Cage Birds," until bird is returned. Has it never struck you that unless the Leipzig Rollers were all that I claim for them, that it would be sheer folly for me to make such an offer as above? I have just received my last consignment for the season of these Webers Leipzig Rollers, all in full song day and gaslight, with long hollow and double rolls, sweet silvery trills, waterbubble runs, soft ronlades, piccolo trills, jug-jug of Nightingale, bell harp, gong, and flute notes, etc., and guaranteed entirely free from Titlark or any other objectionable notes whatever, price 7/6 and 8/6 each. Special handmasters, which excel in the deep bass and hollow bell rolls, and are very soft and mellow in tone, 10/6 and 12/6 each. Hens, guaranteed exactly same strain, 3/- each, two 5/6; few lond free singing Hartz cocks, in full, vigorous song, 6/- each; Hartz hens, 2/3 each, 4/- couple; travelling cages, 3d. extra in all cases; singing box cages, 1/6 each; special Roller cabinet cages, with loose fronts and folding doors, 3/- each. It will be noticed that I give you full particulars of the notes, which make up the song of the Leipzig Roller. I guarantee this description to be absolutely correct, and send all on full week's trial, either on receipt of cash, or if same is deposited with Editor, and take all risk during whole time. If any person likes to have one on week's trial, and if it is not as I guarantee, or if it does not realise every expectation, it only has to be returned, and the whole of money is promptly return. The following letters (although not a twentieth part of those recently received) plainly prove that the Leipzig Rollers are far in front of ordinary Rollers for singing ability. "20, Acton-rd., Rock Ferry, Birkenhead. Feb. 23. Sir,—Received Roller safely. He is a splendid singer, sang all day following arrival.—Yours, J. Povall." "41, Brooklyn-st., Crewe. Feb. 21st. Sir,—Roller arrived safe, and am well satisfied. He is singing grand.—Yours, P. Jones." "Chemistry Cottages, Wortley, near Sheffield. Feb. 23.—Sir,—Birds arrived safe. Many thanks for such a jewel of a Roller. He is a marvellous songster. He is worth all the money I paid for the three. He is the best I ever heard.—Yours, J. Rolls." "24, George-st., Burnbank. Sir,—I bought a Leipzig Roller from you seven years ago; it lived six years, and was as good when it died as first day I had him. He actually died singing.—Yours, T. Armstrong." "18, Blights Terrace, Rodruth.—Sir,—Hartz cock is quite a gem in every respect, and as you state, grand value for money.—Yours, W. Myners." "47, Goldhey-st., Blackburn.—Sir,—Leipzig Roller I had from you is a grand songster, and I know, because I breed Rollers.—Yours, J. Brown." "14, Queen-st., Shotton Colliery. Sir,—Leipzig Roller I had from you three years ago started singing five minutes after arrival, and is still singing as good as ever.—Yours, A. Steele." "3, Ladham Bank, Galashiels. Sir,—I have a Leipzig Roller that I got from you four years ago, and is now better than ever.—Yours, T. Hislop." "Providence Place, Bath-street, Ilkeston. Sir,—Please send me Leipzig Roller. I had one from you six years ago, and he is singing yet.—Yours, J. Holmes." "156, Bede Burn-rd., Jarrow. Sir,—Please send me Leipzig Roller. I got ono from you three months ago, which is singing lustily. This will be fifth or sixth from you, and all have given utmost satisfaction.—Yours, J. Davison Young." "15, Queen-st., Derby. Sir,—Many thanks for handmaster; he is a grand songster, and old Canary men here are astounded at his lovely song, and say the best ever heard. In fact, many of our shop customers well used to Canaries say never heard ono to approach yours.—Yours, L. Greensmith." Some of the foregoing letters prove conclusively that the Leipzig Rollers do not sing for one year only, but maintain their true song right through life. All birds are stamped on wing, "Hans Weber Leipzig," and as I am solo importer of this strain, no other dealer can sell them, unless he first purchases from me. As this is last consignment, early application is imperative to avoid disappointment: W. Gore, The Importer, Gooch-st., Birmingham. (1385)

Meeting held Feb. 18, Mr. Spencer presiding over a fair number. Officers elected: Mr. G. Whittaker (sec.), H. Spencer (treas.), T. Chadwick (chair), H. Redman (vice-chair). The election of sub-committee was left over till next meeting. Passed that we hold our F.F. Show June 27. The cup to be competed for on same lines as last year. New members elected: J. Broxup and H. Broxup. Next meeting March 4; there is some important business on the agenda. Members who have not paid sub., kindly do so at next meeting. Fanciers wishing to join this, please apply for particulars to Mr. H. Spencer, 858, Athol-st.; or to the Sec., G. Whittaker, 18, Sandhurst-st., Burnley.

LEICESTER (Hand-in-Hand) C.B.S

Meeting held White Swan, Feb. 20; Mr. Gibbous presided over a large attendance. Mr. F. Darlow was made a member. Prizes and specials in connection with the combined show were paid out. Table show held, Mr. J. M'Carter judge. CL. BUFF: 1, 2, Moores; 3, Hulse; vhc, Kilsby. VARIEG.: 1, Freestone; 2, Sturgess; 3, Hulse. NOV., CL. BUFF: 1, hc, Henney; 2, vhc, Herbert; 3, Pole; c, Jolley. VARIEG.: 1, Hughes; 2, Henney; 3, Pole; vhc, Rice. REDPOLL: 1, 3, vhc, Brooks; 2, Wood; hc, Kilsby; c, Butler. Mr. M'Carter also gave an interesting lecture on the Norwich Plainhead dealing with the good and bad points, and giving advice in the selection of breeding stock. Questions were invited, and a good discussion followed. The best thanks of the meeting were accorded him for his much appreciated lecture.—A. Freestone, Sec.

ARDWICK & MANCHESTER C.B.A.

Meeting and table show held Feb. 17, St. Thomas's Schools, Ardwick, Mr. Boothman presiding over a well-attended meeting. The final arrangements for social were gone through. Second of a series of table shows was held for Yorks. and Norwich pairs, Mr. Spencer judging Norwich, and Mr. Dooley Yorks. Yorks. did not come up to expectations, but Norwich came out in grand force, over 20 entries appearing in this class, and Mr. Spencer had a very hard task in selecting the winners, as several old winners put in an appearance. All the same, the judges gave complete satisfaction. YORKS.: 1, 2, 3, 4, Brown. NOV. YORKS.: 1, Moss; 2, Latimer. NOR.: 1, 2, Boothman; 3, 4, Peters; vhc, Booth; hc, c, Thorpe. Next meeting table show of British and Muling and Hybrid Pairs; Mr. W. Fairhurst judge.—R. Booth, Press, Corresp.

WALKLEY C.B.S.

Meeting held headquarters, Feb. 11, Mr. T. Ridal chair. Syllabus was passed, with many interesting things in it: At the March meeting an egg food making competition will be held, 2s. added to a 3d. entry. Please note, the meeting will be on Wed., Mar. 11, instead of Thurs. Nest feather show, June 20; judge, Mr. J. C. Barnes. Ann. show Nov. 4, judge, Mr. J. C. Barnes. Decided that price of novice cups be £1 5s. Eight new members were made. The rest of the evening was taken up by pair show. Mr. Drabble judged Yorks, and Mr Woolhouse Nor. YORKS: 1, 2, 3, 4, Butler. NOR.: 1, 2, 3, Simpson. NOV. YORKS: 1, 2, J Smith; 3, vhc, hc J. Latimer; 4, Chadwick; c, Abbott. NOR.: 1, 4, Abbott; 2, Simson; 3, vhc, Everard, hc, c, Turner.—C. Tomlinson, Sec.

SOUTH COUNTY DUBLIN C.B.A.

Third annual meeting held Court House, Town Hall, Kingstown, Feb. 16. Mr. Sholedice chair, and a fair number present. Balance-sheet showing a credit balance of £4 11s. 11d., as against £1 19s. 3d. carried forward from last year, was considered very satisfactory, and unanimously passed. It is to mentioned here that were it not for the fact that several local gentlemen subscribed towards the expenses of the last show, we should have had a large deficit. Sec.'s report pointed out the benefit derived from running the evening show, both from a financial and instructive point of view. Mr. Sholedice, who acted as judge, gave entire satisfaction, and was ever ready to enlighten the members on any doubtful point. Report suggested that it would be advisable for the new committee to discuss the possibility of running an industrial section as a side issue at the next annual event, owing to the lack of interest on the part of residents in the show. The following were elected officers for 1914: Pres., F. R. Phillips; vice-pres., M. Clery, J. E. Mills, J. B. Mitchell; hon. treas., C. Foster, chair, M. Reilly; committee, Messrs. Carroll, Beggan, Brien, Price, Waters, Sholedice; hon. secs., Messrs. Smyth and Dwyer.—D. Smyth, Hon. Sec.

ARBROATH C.B.S.

Meeting held in Shepherd's Rooms, Millgate, W. Muir (pres.) in chair. Secretary read report of last meeting, which was approved of. Decided to have one judge for every section. Secretary was instructed to write judges nominated for fees, etc., to be approved of at next meeting.—J. Gray, Sec.

LEIGH C.B.S.

Very successful washing competition held Feb. 18. Several members turned up to take part. Washing started at 7.30, and efforts were judged by Mr. W. Hulme, whose awards gave every satisfaction. 1, W. Ordish; 2, R. Charleson; 3, W. Charnock.—R. Charleson, Sec.

WHITBURN C.B.S.

Meeting held in the Baillie Institute, Feb. 21, to appoint judges, and present the Dee cup to the winners, viz., Messrs. Stewart and Dalling; but, after an hour's wait, the winners failed to turn up. Committee are hopeful to have a record show the coming season, as the funds are in a healthy state.—R. Lambie, Sec.

LONDON C.B.A.

Committee meeting held at the "El Vino," Feb. 17. Mr. R. L. Crisp (chair). Decided to hold the annual show at the Royal Horticultural Hall, Dec. 4, 5, and 7. Judges for annual show were elected. Also decided to apply for the patronage of the following specialists' clubs: S.Y.C.C., S.N.P.C., C.C.C., S.B.F.C., B.F.C.C., E. and W.B.F.C., N.B.B. and M.C. F.B.E.L., and G.C.A. Arranged to hold a young bird show, judging to be done by ballot. Exhibits to be placed according to the number of votes recorded. At the annual general meeting, Mar. 10, a discussion on "Mating" will be opened by Mr. J. Robson. A vote of thanks to the chair closed the meeting.—F. Knight, Press Corresp.

BIRKENHEAD C.F.A.

Meeting and breeding pair show held Ablett's Cafe, Feb. 17. Some grand birds were staged in the Yorks. section, and with a bit of luck the breeders ought to be able to have something to send out. Norwich were in excess of previous years, the two classes being well filled, and judging by the grand quality shown, the owners intend doing something next season. In Mules and Hybrids some useful pairs were staged, Mr. Philips being first with a grand house-moulted Goldfinch and good yell. Nor. hen. Sp. winners were: Yorks., both classes, G. Morton; Nor., Yell., J. Stott; Buff, W. Mealor; Muling Pairs, Philips. Geo. Benson judged, and his awards were well received.

YORKS. YELL. CK., BUFF HEN: 1, Greatrex; 2, 3, Morton; vhc, hc, Stott; c, Browse. BUFF CK., YELL. HEN.: 1, c, Stott; 2, 3, vhc, Morton; hc, Greatrex. NOR. YELL. KENT COUNTY C.B.S.

Annual meeting held 28a, Snargate-st., Dover, Feb. 18. Mr. E. C. Rayner chair. Sec.'s report and balance-sheet accepted. Messrs. Austin and Reeves consented to act as scrutineers. An alteration in show rule, proposed by the Rev. H. A. Soames, that members be allowed to enter as many birds for challenge cups as they like, provided each has K.C.C.B.A. after it, was carried by 9 votes to 7. They need not be nominated, but only the two highest of them will count for points. Result of ballot: County committee, Messrs. G. and F. Burton (Lee Green), Messrs. Johnson, F. Pilcher, Pink, and Thompson (Deal), H. E. Taylor (Canterbury). F. J. Wickham (Chatham), Rev. H. A. Soames and Mrs. Soames (Bromley), Mrs. Aitken (Tunbridge Wells), Mr. E. J. Wood (Hythe). Headquarters committee, Messrs. Abbott, Austin, Chapman, Hunt, Lockett, Lewis, Osborne, and Ward. Office-bearers: Pres., A. Birr; vice pres., E. Birch; chair, E. C. Rayner; vice-chair, J. Reeves; hon. sec., H. Wood. Vote of thanks to secretary for services rendered closed a pleasant meeting.—H. Wood, Hon. Sec.

YORKS. AND LANCS. B.B. & M.C.

Meeting held Feb. 21, Market Tavern, Bradford, Mr. W. A. Cowgill in the chair, in the absence of Dr. M. A. Wilson. Present: Messrs. W. A. Cowgill, F. Hammond, P. Jowitt, D. A. Macpherson, J. Lane, J. Isherwood, E. Clegg, S. Dean. We were very sorry that our friend Mr. Chittenden could not be with us, but hope to see him next meeting. Sec.'s action confirmed with regard to all new members made. It was very gratifying to know all were good members from Manchester, Sheffield and Leeds, and that all subs. were paid in excepting about six. Dr. Wilson's cup for three highest birds British and Mules won by Mr. R. D. Parlett, Sheffield. At the nine shows where patronage has been granted there have been 331 birds shown by our members alone. This should stimulate some of the Yorkshire Union shows for patronage another year. Will all members wanting tickets for the annual prize distribution and dinner for March 7th apply to me at once. Tickets 2s. each.—T. H. Inman, Hon. Sec.

ABERTILLERY C.B.S.

Monthly meeting held Feb. 14, Prince of Wales's Hotel; Mr. J. Parlitt, chair, with a fair attendance considering the bad weather. Mr. Jas. Morton and Mr. Fred Selby, Newbridge, Mon., elected members. Schedule for F.F. show approved, there being 14 classes, 2 each for champ. and nov. Nor., 2 each champ. and novice Yorks., 2 Bord., 4 Mules and Brit. Date fixed for June 13, providing that we can get the hall. Mr. J. Parlitt gave a washing exhibition in a masterly manner, explaining every detail as he was going along, and was keenly listened to by all present. Schedule for open show presented by sec., but was left over until next meeting, March 14. I shall be pleased to hear from any intending to join the society, also from present members who have any proposition to make with a view to increasing the society's popularity.—George Broome, Hon. Sec.

EAST HAM F.S.

Meeting held headquarters, Feb. 19. Mr. E. Oakes chair, supported by W. Harwood, vice-chair, and upwards of 80 members. Hon. Sec. stated that Sir John Bethell, M.P., and Alderman Griggs, J.P., E.C.C., had become patrons. Eight new members elected. Members are requested to turn up at the annual concert at Harmonic Hall, Plashet Grove, East Ham, on Thursday next, Mar. 5. His Worship the Mayor of East Ham will take the chair, supported by a host of the leading gentlemen of the district. Next meeting at headquarters will be the first monthly show, March 19. Members are requested to make plenty of entries. Extraordinary general meeting at headquarters Mar 26, to consider removal of headquarters to more suitable quarters; Town Hall, if possible.—W. Kite, Hon. Sec.

Nests of Birds, Poultry, etc., should be regularly sprinkled with KEATING'S POWDER, especially when hens are sitting. Don't forget to do this just previous to the eggs hatching, to destroy the Red Mite. Kills all insects. Harmless to everything else.

NORTH LIVERPOOL C.B.S.

General meeting held at headquarters, Royal Street, Feb. 4, Mr. H. Holden presiding over a moderate attendance. Sec. being indisposed, Mr. A. Wilkins kindly fulfilled his duties. Balance-sheet was passed with acclamation, and showed a net balance of £11 7s. 9d. on the season's working. Officers for 1914 elected: Pres., E. Harrison; vice-presidents, C. T. Taylor, T. Lloyd Hughes, and Wm. Corkhill; chair, H. Holden; vice-chair, E. Battersby; hon. treas., G. Frankham; hon. sec., E. S. Broadhent; show critic, A. Wilkins; auditors, Messrs. A. Smith and E. Battersby; committee, Messrs. Rothwell, McCoy, Wilkins, Rucastle, Aindow, Foxcroft, Hammond, Eaton, and Leadbetter. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to all officers for services rendered. Final arrangements have been made for British and pair show, at headquarters, Mar. 4, Mr. J. W. Metcalfe having very kindly consented to judge. Messrs. Erentz, Davies, Owens, Skilling, and Turner were elected members, and four more were nominated. The subs. is 2s. 6d. per annum, nomination fee 6d. Fanciers desirous of joining can have full particulars from Edgar S. Broadbent, Hon. Sec., 25, Wellfield-road, Walton.

SUNDERLAND C.B.A.

Annual meeting held Feb. 14, Mr. Farrer presiding over a splendid turn-out. Mr. Swan, on behalf of sub-committee appointed last meeting, reported that the proposed social evening was not recommended, as the number of tickets to be sold to make same a financial success, would mean the presence of a large number of outsiders (apart from fanciers and intending fanciers), which was not quite the gathering the members desired. The report was adopted. The balance-sheet was then presented, the balance of £1 10s. 7d. carried forward was considered most satisfactory, after taking into account that no prize drawing was held in connection with the annual show, and that consequently the number of tickets sold was very much down on last year. Officers elected: Pres., Ald. S. Storey, D.L.; vice-pres., Mr. H. Greenwood, M.P., Mr. F. W. Goldstone, M.P., Messrs. J. Cobb, W. Hall, G. Bell, J. Keenlyside, C. Grimshaw, P. Hunter; chair, J. Farrer; vice-chair, C. Waters; treas., G. Davidson; assist.-sec., F. Risehorough; sec., J. Peacock; committee, Messrs. Reid, Machin, Davison, Gray, Smith, Brown, Proctor, Owens. It is most gratifying to our members to know that each of the representatives of Sunderland in the House of Commons are vice-presidents of this association, and real supporters financially and otherwise. After considerable discussion it was decided to extend our radius to eight miles instead of limiting membership to those residing in Sunderland borough. W. Butler was elected to membership. Meeting adjourned to Feb. 28.—J. Peacock, Hon. Sec.

CARDIFF C.B.S.

Meeting held Maskell's Hotel. In the absence of Mr. Whetton, Mr. E. A. Allsopp was elected chairman. Resolved to engage three judges for open show Nov. 18 and 19. Messrs. Thomas, Maggs, Allsopp, Gardiner, Merry, Davies, and Jepson promised various amounts to help pay for the third judge. Sec. was instructed to book the judges. Letter read from Mr. Whetton that he would not be able to accept any office next year through pressure of business. Mr. Allsopp, at the unanimous request of the meeting, consented to fill the position of chairman. Mr. Banks volunteered to act as vice-chairman. Treas. E. J. Davies, sec. and show manager E. Thomas. Nominations for committee will be sent to all members. All papers must be returned to sec. by next meeting, which will be the annual general meeting, when officers will be elected for next year. Messrs. Smith and Ball were elected auditors. Prize money won at members' show will be paid at next meeting. If there are any fanciers in this district who would care to join our society, I should be pleased to supply them with particulars.—E. Thomas, Sec., 48, Craddock-st., Cardiff.

SHETTLESTON C.B.S.

Second annual social held Feb. 14. Members and friends numbering close on 60 gathered round the tables, and did ample justice to the fare provided by the genial hon. pres., Mr. W. Robertson, an admirer of the "Bird o' Circle," who owns some of the best Scots living. After the tables were cleared, Mr. S. F. Wood, chairman, opened the evening's proceedings by proposing the toast of "The King, Queen, and Royal Family," after which a lengthy and capital programme was gone into, and a display of talent capable of entertaining the most fastidious was enjoyed. The following artistes acquitted themselves with great credit: Messrs. Tennant, Gibson, Yuille, Haddow, Chambers, Hay, Ogilvy, and Carrick. The presentation of prizes won at the annual show took place, Mr. Robertson winning cup best old bird, cup best young bird, and also having the runner-up. Mr. Robertson had the largest cup filled to the brim and passed round the company, while they lustily sang "He's a jolly good fellow." Mr. E. Taylor, who took the British bird cup, expressed himself in a few concise remarks, while Mr. Baird, who won the Border cup, seemed as if he still possessed all his youthful bashfulness, and was slow in coming forward to claim the trophy. Toasts to the "Pres., Sec., and Committee," were enthusiastically drank. "Kindred Societies" and "The Press" were proposed and replied to. Mr. Thomas Thomson, representing the City of Glasgow O.A., replied for kindred societies, while R. H. Livingstone, representing CAGE BIRDS, spoke on the best methods of keeping societies to the front. The singing of Auld Lang Syne brought a memorable and delightful gathering to a close.

SPRINGBURN, POSSIL PK. C.B.C.

Monthly meeting and pair show held Reid Hall, Feb. 11. Mr. Sloan presided over a large and enthusiastic meeting. Balance-sheet for 1913 was considered very satisfactory, as we were clear of all debt. There had been considerable outlay, which will not need to be repeated, namely, complete set of new staging, and five challenge cups, so with good prospects of a big increase in membership we look forward to a prosperous season and a nice balance. A special vote of thanks was accorded Mr. McWhaugh for his generous donation, also to Mr. Craig and Mr. McLay for placing the awards. With a view of increasing the membership and interest in Yorks. section, T. Penman offered a cup for best unflig. rung Yorks., bred by a member, which was accepted. Two new members were admitted. Awards:—NOR. YELL. CK., BUFF HEN: 1, 5, Smith; 2, Sloan; 3, Hadley; 4, McMillan. BUFF CK., YELL. HEN: 1, sp, 4, Sloan; 2, Smith; 3, McMillan. CRESTS: 1, 5, McMillan; 2, sp., 3, 4, Lindsay. The awards gave general satisfaction.—T. Penman, Hon. Sec.

SHEFFIELD C.B.S.

Annual social held in the Wentworth Cafe, was again a decided success. Chairman, Mr. F. Jones, presided in his usual cheery manner. He was pleased to see so many ladies present, and thanked the members for supporting him during his last term of office, naming especially such veterans as Mr. Oxley (who has been treasurer to the society for about 25 years), also Mr. Tow, and Mr. Champion, both old and respected members. While being glad to have the old members round him, he was pleased to see the new, and gave them a hearty welcome. In a few words he sketched the policy of the society, which is to help members in every possible way, and give fair play to everyone. The musical arrangements had been left to Messrs. H. Hobson, A. W. Sparks, and E. Sisson, who had got together a splendid array of talent, which included such well-known artistes as Miss Thorpe (piano), the Misses Ansons (duettists), Mrs. Falding (violin), Mr. Sparks (bass), Mr. Pickering (humorist), Mr. Cutting (concertina), Mr. Crookes (coon songs), and Mr. A. Crookes (bass). They one and all acquitted themselves with credit, but perhaps special mention might be made of our member, Mr. Pickering, who fairly brought the house down with his songs. At intervals in the programme the cups and specials were presented to successful members, who are the following: Cup winners: Champ. Yorks, Furniss; champ. Nor., Waters. Nov. Yorks, Carr; Nor., Woolhouse. Champ. Crests, Evans; Brit., Falding. Most points Nov. Brit., Drabble; 2, Richards; 3, Bailey. Best Crest or Crestbred, Evans; most points champ. Yorks, Furniss; most points Canaries, Waters; Nor., Waters; Brit., Falding; gained by a novice, Richards; best nov. Nor., Woolhouse; Yorks, Carr; most birds staged, Falding; most points champ. Yorks at table show, Tomlinson; Nor., Woolhouse; best rung bird cham. Yorks, Furniss; Nor., Woolhouse; nov. Yorks, Carr; Nor., Woolhouse. The Sec., Mr. A. Hobson, proposed a vote of thanks to the artistes and Entertainment Committee, which was ably seconded by Mr. Tow, and carried with acclamation.—J. Woolhouse, Asst.

NORTHERN CREST CLUB.

Annual meeting held Lockhart's Cafe, 65, Grainger-street, Newcastle-on-Tyne, Feb. 18. Mr. F. W. Swan presided over a moderate attendance. Balance-sheet for past year adopted. Mr. Newton said auditors had found everything satisfactory. Sec. gave his report upon the year's working. He was pleased to say that 1913 had been a fairly successful year. We started the year with a cash balance of £2 17s. and 53 members, and had again gone through the ordeal of holding an open show which proved successful, bringing together some of the best birds in the country and enabling us to finish with a balance in hand of £5 10s. He had been rather disappointed at the show not being better supported, which raises the question, "Is an open show for our variety worth the labour it entails?" It was rather a remarkable coincidence that entries were exactly the same as at the previous show, viz., 220. Mr. Smith and Mr. Martin won silver challenge cups and gold medals for best young Crest and C.B. respectively. Mr. Broad won the Ford Maling silver challenge cup and gold medal for best old bird with his Crested hen, which was claimed for a good figure at the Palace. Novice medals were won by Mr. Simpson and Mr. Charlton. Medals given to the Blaydon show were won by Messrs. Dobson, Tate, and Jeffries. Sec. said it was with the deepest regret that he relinquished his duties on behalf of the club. He had held the post for the past six years, but owing to new duties felt it was only right that he should not hold office any longer. He wished his successor a happy and prosperous time in working for a club that has endeavoured to bring the Crested Canary more into prominence. Mr. Hutchinson was pressed to retain his office, but declined, saying that he had viewed the matter from all points before coming to the conclusion he had. Letter read from Mr. T. Robson regretting that, owing to extra work through the Insurance Act, he could not hold the office of chairman any longer. The following were elected officers: Pres., J. Ford Maling; vice-pres., F. W. Barnett, W. F. Swan, Thos. Robson, A. Lister, R. W. Dixon, T. C. Crawhall, and W. J. Taylor; chair, W. F. Swan; vice-chair, Thos. Robson; committee, Messrs. Farrer, Riseborough, Hutchinson, Armstrong, Mole, Bewick, McColl, Coutts, Newton, and Dickinson; hon. sec., Geo. Dobson (163, James-street, Blaydon-on-Tyne). New members made: J. Dobson (Crookhill), Mr. Bale (Barnstaple), J. Morgan (N. Shields), Wm. Forster (Pelton Fell), Wm. Duke (S. Shields). All correspondence to be sent to Mr. Geo. Dobson as above.—J. G. Hutchinson.

CITY AND SUBURBAN A.C.B.

Adjourned meeting held Church Institute, Paddington-st., Feb. 23, Mr. W. A. Shepherd in chair. Mr. V. Wynne, hon treas., and 50 members present. Rules from the re-constructed Federated Society were received. Miss V. Sanders, Messrs. Mound and Williams were elected members, and 3 nominations handed in. Hon. Sec. presented the balance-sheet, which was accepted as correct. Medals won at pair show were presented to Mrs. Hobden, Mrs. L. M. Thyme, and Messrs. Hobden, Sayer, Withers, and Cobb. Mr. J. Robson gave an interesting lecture on, "Is the Fancy Progressing?" He thought that all varieties had improved in a limited groove, and that improvement was due greatly to the action of the various specialist clubs. Exhibitors did not show the sporting spirit they should do; they used to want to see the best bird win, but to-day they only wanted to see their own bird win, and to see an inferior bird win over a better is not "sporty"; such a spirit would check the progress of the Fancy. He then dealt with the present-day type of Crest, Norwich, Yorks, and Border, after which several questions were asked, and drew instructive replies. The question being raised as to what is a "ticked" bird, members were unanimous in agreeing that it was desirable to have one definition throughout the Fancy, instead of, as now, each specialist club making its own definition, and causing confusion both to judges and exhibitors. Mr. Robson was accorded a vote of thanks for his lecture. Vote of thanks to chairman closed the meeting.—Fred Thyme, Asst. Hon. Sec.

FARNWORTH LARK & LINNET C.

Show, Feb. 21, at headquarters, "Waggon and Horses" hotel. Being the first show of the kind in the district, the club having only just started, there was a very encouraging entry list, and some splendid birds faced the judge, Mr. A. Donnelly (Swinton), whose awards seemed to give general satisfaction. LARKS: 1, 2, 3, Jones; vhc, Darlington; hc, Rhodes; c, Thornley. LINNETS: 1, Tate; 2, vhc, Jones; 3, Yates; hc, Jones; c, W. Eddes. The show was well patronised by the general public, and many birds were claimed, which seems to be a good omen for the club. The hostess gave the club a splendid donation towards the prize money.—A. Donnelly, Sec.

HOW TO MAKE A COLLAPSIBLE TRAVELLING CAGE.

THE idea of making a collapsible cage has no doubt occurred to many ingenious fanciers, but it has been left to Mr. F. Thomas, the popular secretary of the Ramsgate and District Cage Bird Society, to bring his ideas into practice, and the result is a very handy cage suitable to take with one when on a possible bird buying expedition. It could, of course, be made of any size or shape; the two submitted by Mr. Thomas are as follows:—Fig. 1, 8½ inches long, 5¼ inches wide, 4¾ inches deep. Fig. 4 is a shade larger, being 10 inches deep. Fig. 1 is constructed of thin pine, and is made in the following manner. A length 8½ inches by 5¼ inches is cut off for the bottom, and two pieces of the same length, but only 4½ inches wide, for the front and back, an opening 2½ inches by 3½ inches is cut in the front and wire bars fixed the usual distance apart. A groove is next cut at the end of both back and front. These grooves are plainly discernible in the sketch, Fig. 2. A strip ½ inch deep is then cut off the back and fastened to the bottom; to this the back is fixed with hinges, shown at B, Fig. 2, the front being also fixed with hinges, as shown in same sketch. Now cut two pieces for the ends, 4¾ inches by 4½ inches; into one cut a hole for the door, and fasten them both on to the top board. As can be seen in sketch, these ends slide into the grooves, and are fastened in place by pins D through the front and back, which run into the top at A. Two more wire pins at E also assist in keeping the cage rigid. When not in use the cage can be folded up by simply withdrawing the pins and lifting the top from the bottom. The two ends fold down on the top, and the two sides on the bottom, wire, constructed to slide up upon the two end wires and through holes in the top. As this cage is a shade longer, it folds up rather more neatly than the one shown in Figs. 1, 2, and 3, but if the first one were made just an inch or so longer it would take up rather less room than Fig. 4, which in a collapsible cage would be a great consideration. H. N.

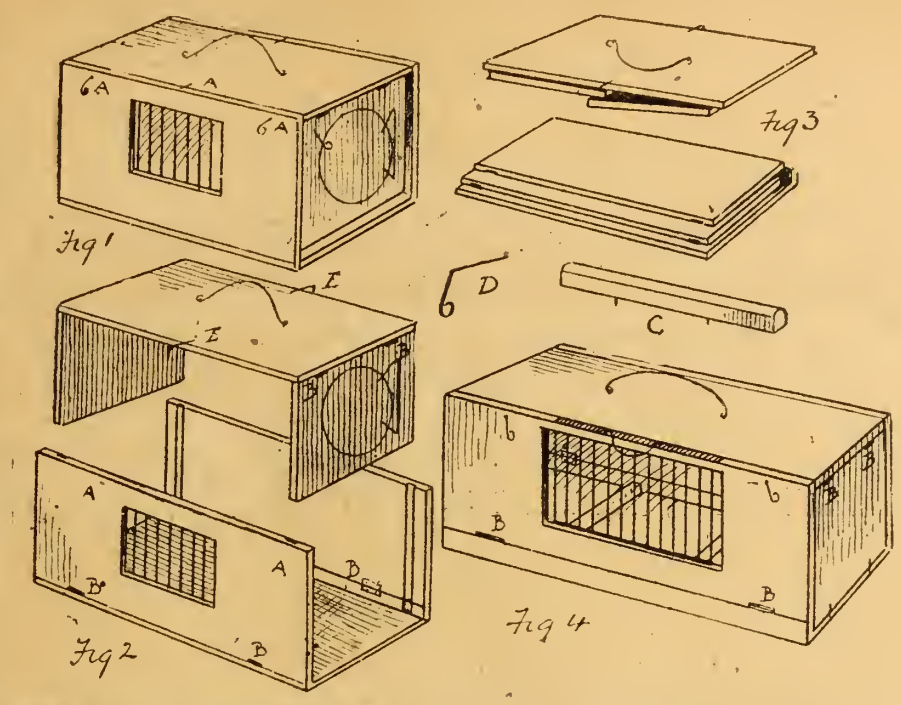

Fig. 3. The perches C are loose, and are simply pressed into the bottom of the cage and kept in position with two spikes made out of ordinary French nails filed to cut into the wood. Fig. 4 shows a cage on similar lines with a larger opening, fixed perches, and no door in the end. The wire part, which is made of punched bars and

HIGHGATE, HAMPSTEAD C.B.S.

Pair show, held Spencer Hall, Feb. 21. Entries 155, exceeded last year's total by 42, quality being good throughout. A. Lovegrove won sp. for best pair with a clinking couple of Norwich, W. J. Staines sp. best pair nov. Nor., S. T. Newcombe best pair nov. Yorks, Messrs. Carrington and Petty sp. most points Muling and Hybrid pairs, W. G. Byne sp. for best Goldf., also for best Linnet. Mr. H. Norman judged, and his awards gave every satisfaction. A good number of fanciers and friends crowded the hall during the evening, and the show proved a success in every way.—J. Hyde, Hon. Sec.

LONG EATON C.B.S.

Pair show, held Sawley Road Council School, Feb. 21. There was a good muster of birds, 38 pairs being entered, and one can see that competition will be very keen as we draw near to the annual show. Mr. J. Lowe judged. NOR. (8): 1, vhc, G. Smith; 2, 4, Stafford; 3, Horwood; hc, C. R. Smith. A.V YORKS (16): 1, c, Baines; 2, vhc, Beers; 3, Frcebury; 4, Bevan; hc, Wall. METROPOLITAN C.B.A.

Very successful pair show held at the Kelvedon Hall, Walham Green, Feb. 19. Entries numbered 74, much in advance of previous years. Yorks., both champion and novice, were well represented, also Borders; British and Hybrids were a nice lot, and it is pleasing to see how rapidly the association is advancing. The show was well patronised, the hall being crowded with visitors. Six new members were nominated for membership. Great credit is due to the hon. sec. for the businesslike way affairs were carried out, prize money being paid prior to close of show. Mr. J. E. Shepherd judged, and gave great satisfaction.

SOUTH LONDON COL. AND F.A

Very successful pair show held Feb. 12, at "The Royal George," Tanner's Hill, Deptford. Although numbers were somewhat down on last year, quality was all there, some very fine pairs being staged, both by champions and novices. Sp. for best went to Mr. H. J. Horton, with a very fine Crest and C.B., the runner-up being Mr. H. W. Tomsett's winning Norwich, which took the sp. for 2nd best pair in show. Other winners of sps.: Messrs. A. J. Clarke, A. G. Sugden, J. Fuller, W. G. Martin, T. Ray, and Burton Bros. Mr. J. Robson judged, and gave general satisfaction.

HASTINGS & ST. LEONARDS C.B.S

Successful pair show, held Feb. 18, Royal Oak Hotel; Mr. C. Douch presided. It was the largest pair show held by a local society for many years, and in Yorks. the display exceeded anything in the memory of old members. In the absence of the judge, Mr. J. Stevens, the following kindly officiated: Nor. and Hyb., Messrs. T. Veness and W. Ellis; Yorks, Mr. C. Douch. There was a splendid attendance both at the show and subsequent lecture by Mr. W. Ellis on "Bird Breeding." Among those present were Mrs. B. A. Greengrass, Mrs. Crofts, and Miss Kirk-Bullock (Hon. Sec. and Treas.), Messrs. C. Douch, W. Turner, H. Pennells, T. Tidy, W. Elliott, G. Dawson, T. Veness, Morris, H. Morris, T. Sherwood, and A. E. Godden. The society obtained another new member. Everyone present greatly enjoyed the lecture, which was both interesting and practical. A warm vote of thanks was given to Mr. Ellis, and to the chairman. As notices will not be sent out for lecture next month by Mr. F. Wraight, will members please look for date in CAGE BIRDS? I hope to see another grand attendance for the lecture on Yorkshires, because Mr. Waight will come from Tunbridge Wells to lecture.—Irene Kirk-Bullock, Hon. Sec.

PAIR SHOW.—NOR.: 1, 2, c, Pennells; 3, vhc, Tidy; hc, Elliott. YORKS: 1, 3, hc, Veness; 2, vhc, Morris and Son; c, Greengrass. HYB.: 1, Miss Dawson; 2, Elliott; 3, Turner.

S.W. LONDON C.B.S.

Pair and British bird show, held Feb. 21, the New Guild Hall, Wandsworth Road, S.W. Mr. J. Robson judged. The birds were staged in the small hall, but this proved to be far too small for the large number of entries and the members and friends who visited the show in the evening. Mr. Freeman did his usual amount of hard work to make the show a success.

CHAMP. NOR: (6): 1, 2, 3, 4, Thomas, a grand team, full of qual., 1st, buff ck., yell. hen, splendid heads and necks, lovely wing carr., should produce real "good uns"; 2nd, buff ck., yell. hen, ran very close, perhaps not quite the finish; vhc, hc, Lilley. YORKS. (8): 1, 2, 3, hc, Hawkins, 1st, yell. ck., buff hen, very well proportioned, run very close by 2nd, buff ck., yell. hen, a trifle smaller; 4, c, McLaughlin; vhc, Lilley. CRESTS (2): 1, 2, Lilley. NOV., NOR. (9): 1, Arkill, fine pair chubby birds, yell. ck., bull hen, fine heads, nice rounded bodies, very compact, fine col. and qual.; 2, 4, vhc, Goymer, buff ck., yell. hen, not the size of the first pair, nor so large in skulls, but a nice pair; 3, hc, c, Broughton. YORKS (14): 1, Rapley, buff ck., yell. hen, very nicely proportioned cock, splendid wing carr., beautiful feather, well up on legs, hen not large enough to be a partner to this grand cock; 2, 3, hc, c, Freeman, both cock, fine birds, would have stood better chances with larger hens; 4, vhc, Lang. BORDS.: 1, 2, Burgess; 3, Rutter; 4, Goymer. MULING: 1, Rutter, Goldf. ck. and Nor. hen; 2, McNaughton, Greenf. ck., Nor. hen; 3, McLaughlin, cock Goldf., hen Can.; first pair cock not possessing such a fine blaze as the 3rd, but had a much better hen for partner, who greatly helped him to win. HYBRIDS (Two British): 1, Isaacs, Goldf. ck., Bullf. hen, very nice Goldfinch, good size, splendid blaze, the hen rather on the small size, but cock helps to win; 2, McNaughton, buff Greenf. ck. and hen Linnet, nice large cock, and well-laced hen, ran 1st very close. BRIT. (Single Birds): 1, McNaughton, buff Siskin, shapely little chap, sharply defined bib, not quite in best trim; 2, Arkill, cock Linnet, nutty brown, with good lacings. MULES: 1, Cumins, Goldf.-Can.; no competition.—H. Freeman, Sec.

EAST ARDSLEY C.B.S.

First Table Show, held Feb. 21, at "Black Swan," when 30 birds were staged. Mr. Storey judged. All went off very well, and awards were received with great satisfaction. We trust this, our first effort, may prove to be the beginning of a very successful society. Several new members were made, and we still invite fanciers to join us. CK. OR HEN: 1, 2, Pyrah; 3, Crossley. BULLF. OR GOLDIE: 1, Pyrah (Goldie); 2, Waind (Goldie); 3, Cockrem (Bullf.); vhc, Burnell; hc, Waind. LINNET: 1, vhc, hc, Burnell; 2, Pyrab; 3, Waind; c, Watson. GREENF.: 1, Kendrew; 2, Crossley; 3, Pyrah; vhc, Summers. REDPOLL, ETC.: 1 (Redpoll), 2 (Twite), Burnell; 3 (Redpoll), Pydah; vhc, Cockrem; hc, Summers; c, Summers. A.O.V. HARDBILL: 1 (Chaffinch), Summers.—H. Cockrem, Sec.

BANBURY F.A.

Twenty-fifth annual show, held Cadbury Memorial Hall, February 10. Messrs. Hazlewood and Carter, hon. secs., arranged the staging, nicely considering the limited space of the five classes. One was cancelled; the remaining four contained forty-nine entries, judged by Mr. G. A. Townsend (Rawdon, Leeds).

NOR. (10): 1, sp., res., Lewin, winner, good, bonny yell., nice feather and con; 2, Hall, very large bodied bird of the Crestbred type; 3, Lees, nice quality yell., very fine feather, nice cobby bird, true Norwich type; vhc, Pargeter; hc, Hall; c, Whitmill. A.O.V. CAN. (9): 1, Davies, nice qual. Yorks., slim in body; 2, Butler, Dark Crest, a useful bird; 3, Vart; res., Hall; vhc, Charles; hc, c, Dinnock. BRITISH SMALL (14): 1, sp., Viggers, very nice quality Bullfinch; 2, Pargeter, good Greenfinch; 3, Whitmill, very nice Nuthatch, well shown; vhc, hc, Wincott; c, Ball and Orme.

BRADFORD EAST O.S.

Pair show held Park Chapel Schools, Feb. 17. Mr. J. Farrar judged. 1, 3, White; 2, Stables; 4, Taylor Bros.; vhc, Stables; hc, c, Wilkinson Bros. Members seem to be mastering the art of pairing, as there were some really good pairs exhibited, both for size and quality. A judging competition followed for three money prizes. A lot of interest was manifested, and the following were the winners:—1, Wroe; 2, White; 3, Wilkinson. Dates and judges arranged for members' shows. One F.F. show and four old birds: June 20, Mr. W. A. Cowgill, judge; Sept. 26, Mr. S. Wilcock; Oct. 20, Mr. A. Cooper; Nov. 17, Mr. C. Casey; Dec. 15, Mr. L. Dykes. Grand list of specials for the members' shows. A gold medal was promised by Mr. J. Taylor for competition in unflighted classes, with four highest birds in both sections. Also specials for most entries at each show. New members specially invited. —[illegible] a year.—W. Cruise, Sec.

Entrance 1s. Annual sub. 5s., payable before July.

This year's CAGE BIRDS' ANNUAL is really splendid. I enjoyed the articles very much, especially the thoughtful and instructive one on "Mistakes Bird Breeders Must Avoid," while the contribution dealing with "Simple Methods of Bird Catching" is just what has been wanted for so long. No bird lover's library is complete without this year's ANNUAL, a wonderful sixpennyworth.—W. B. Townsend (Bradford).

The balance sheet of the City and Suburban A.C.B. is to hand. The various items—Annual show, concert, pair show, young bird show, etc. are set out separately, the net result being that the balance of £7 6s. 7½d. brought forward from 1912 has been added to by £9 10s. 11½d., so that the cash now at Bank, and in hand amounts to £16 17s. 7d. The value of the cups, staging, etc., set down as assets is estimated at £53 8s. 6d., and there is a sum of £6 8s. 4½d. to the credit of the Wynne Memorial Fund, so that the total credit balance amounts to the large sum of £76 14s. 5½d.

Mr. J. Robson will judge the annual show of the Ramsgate C.B.S., Nov. 25-26.

The show of the Bathgate C.B.S. is being held Saturday, Feb. 28, the date of this issue.

In the published list of diploma winners at coupon shows the "Dublin" fixture referred to is South County Dublin (Kingston). We regret this was not made clear.

A great attraction at the Sheffield O.S. meeting on Tuesday will be a lantern lecture by Mr. G. Fletcher: 46 slides, "Birds I have seen in my garden"; 56 slides, "British birds nesting and their habits."

I have been elected secretary of the Northern Crested Club writes Mr. G. Dobson, 103, James Street, Blaydon-on-Tyne, through Mr. Hutchinson resigning. All communications regarding the club should be addressed to me.

In your list of diploma winners at the Palace Show you have put my address Leicester, as winner of novice diploma, Border fancy section, writes Mr. W. Gamble. It should be 42, Blaby Road, South Wigston, near Leicester.

Owing to continued indisposition Mr. H. J. Barratt has been compelled to resign office, and I have taken over the secretaryship of the Coventry O.S. All communications must in future be addressed to me.—A. Green, 56, Arden Street, Earlsdon, Coventry.

OBITUARY.

With deep regret I beg to inform you, writes Mr. W. Dawson, Sec., Farnworth C.B.S., that one of our oldest fanciers, Mr. P. Lawton, of Farnworth, has lost his wife. I am sure all fanciers in surrounding districts, to whom he is well-known, will join me in offering the deepest sympathy to him and his family in their sad loss.

It is with deep regret, writes W. H. Tansey, Asst. Sec. Manchester and N.C.O.S., that I have to announce the death of the youngest son of Mr. Millington, whose death occurred very suddenly after an operation. I am sure our fellow members and friends will extend their deepest sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Millington in their sad bereavement.

Mr. J. Hirst, Skelmanthorpe.

With the deepest regret I have to inform you of the death of Mr. Joseph Hirst, who has been a member of the Skelmanthorpe C.B.S. for the past 16 years. Mr. Hirst was one of the best fanciers in the society, and was very much respected by all. The members send their heartfelt sympathy with his wife and family in their sad bereavement.—F. Hampshire, Sec.

Mr. W. Repson, Barnsley.

With the deepest sympathy writes Mr. E. Toulson, Sec., Barnsley and Dis. C.B.S., I have to inform you of the death of our chairman, Mr. W. Rapson, at the age of 72 years. For the past 50 years he had been a great fancier in Yorks, Norwich, and British. Even at the last Rotherham show he exhibited in Norwich and British classes. The members send their heartfelt sympathy with his wife and children.

The Southern N.P.C. Patronage.

Clubs wishing for the patronage of the Southern Norwich Plainhead Club, writes Mr. F. S. Matthes, hon. sec., 34, Rotherhithe New Road, S.E., must apply early, as rule passed at the general meeting makes it necessary for a different judge at each show.

Medals at the Palace.

Owing to the accidental transposition of a line, the meaning of a paragraph last week relating to the medals at the Palace Show was rendered somewhat obscure. Medals can be had in lieu of prize-money only in classes where full prize-money is being paid.

The L. and P.O.S. President.

The many friends of the popular president of the London and Provincial O.S., Mr. Geo. Crabb, will regret to hear that he is still confined to his room by the indisposition which prevented his attendance at the Palace Show. We wish him a speedy recovery.

A Cinnamon.

I would like to know, writes Mr. G. Dove, if a cinnamon-coloured Linnet has ever been caught before this way (Sutton-in-Ashfield). This one was caught on Jan 7. A friend and myself, having a day off, went to try our luck at catching a Linnet or two. We got seven, the cinnamon one among them.

Palace Show Exhibitors Paid.

All prize and sales monies won at the Palace Show have now been paid, writes Mr. J. W. Ramsden, the show manager. The medal maker promises to deliver the medals this week, and if so they will be at once despatched. If he fails, then they cannot be sent for a fortnight, as I shall be away in the North of England on business at that period.

A CUP DISPUTE IN SCOTLAND.

Points Wrongly Counted at Dysart Show.

A case of peculiar interest to bird fanciers came before Kirkcaldy Sheriff Court on Feb. 18 an action at the instance of Dysart and District Cage Bird Society, against John Hutchison, miner, 15, East Port, Dysart. The society asked the Court to order defender to hand over a silver cup known as the Harris Cup, which was presented to any competitor gaining the most points over the show, and which was to become the property of the successful winner in three years, not necessarily in succession. Defender had won the cup in 1911 and 1912, and at the ninth annual show on 18th October last the assistant secretary made a hasty count of the points, and arrived at the conclusion that the defender had won the cup, which was handed over to him on the night of the show. The secretary afterwards counted up the points and found that Mr. Hutchison had not won the cup, as he had tied for points with Mr. W. Gibson, St. Clair Street, Kirkcaldy, and the question between the parties was whether defender was fourth or six in Class 17.

Defender maintained that he had the largest number of points in the show, and was entitled to the cup which had been handed over to him, and which had not been claimed for some time afterwards. It was also held that William Gibson was not a valid member of the society, he not having been proposed and seconded at one of the society's meetings, and was therefore not eligible to compete for the cup. He also objected to the inclusion in Class 17 of another entrant whose name did not appear in the printed catalogue, and averred that the books of the society did not tally, in the matter of awards with his prize tickets for Class 17.

After evidence had been heard, his lordship said that defender understood that he had won this Harris cup, which was given for the most points over the show. Apparently, however, the assistant secretary had made a mistake in arithmetic, and this was the origin of the dispute. It was found out afterwards that the figures were wrong, and the question was—Who was to get the cup now that the figures had been adjusted? The society met on the 1st November to deliberate upon the matter, and gave their decision. He did not think it was open to doubt that what they decided was that there had been a tie between defender and Gibson, and if it was agreed, then, of course, the defender was bound to hand over the cup.

That seemed to him to be the best solution of the difficulty, but for the defender a defence had been stated that the committee's decision was wrong, and therefore it should not be sustained. He had very grave doubts as to whether it was competent for him to go into that at all, but he was quite willing that the parties should get the benefit of an opinion on the two grounds upon which it was said this Committee's decision was wrong. The first was that Mr. Gibson was not a member of the society. It all turned upon whether it was necessary in this society that each member should be formally proposed and seconded and their election minuted in the minutes of the society. It was proved by defender's own witness that it was the custom as often as not simply to accept the shilling for membership, and never be proposed and seconded, and still be a valid member of the society.

With regard to the extra competitor being added to Class 17 on the day of the show, there again, he thought, it was only necessary to refer to the evidence of defender's witness, Mr. Arnott. It was put to him as an expert, and he said the secretary was not entitled to change a member from one class to another, as was done here. He said that had he been judging he would have been suspicious, and that he would have called the secretary and asked for an explanation. There was no evidence whatever here to show that the judge did not call the secretary, and accordingly on these grounds it seemed to him that the decision of the committee was quite right and pertectly valid. He gave decree against defender for delivery of the cup, and he was afraid in the circumstances he must find the defender liable in expenses.—"Kirkcaldy Free Press."

GAMAGE'S EXHIBITION OF BIRDS AND APPLIANCES.

There seems to be no sport or hobby for which Messrs. Gamage's, Ltd., of Holborn, London, E.C., cannot furnish the necessary material. They have for some years past included a live-stock department within the limits of their premises, and have this year been so enterprising as to devote a large room to an exhibition of cage birds and avicultural appliances. Messrs. Gamage inform us that the show has proved most gratifying from the financial point of view. The Zoo is by no means confined to specimens of the feathered tribe—a most engaging variety of live-stock has been got together—but the birds on view are easily first in point of interest and, judging from the number sold, in popularity. The Canaries shown include many which were exhibited at the Crystal Palace, a good array of Norwich, Yorks. and Rollers, not to mention other varieties, affording prospective purchasers an excellent opportunity of comparing one type with another before making a choice. There is, too, no lack of dainty songsters for those whose purses are slender—even a modest 4s. 6d. will buy a very satisfactory bird. An interesting section of the department is that devoted to the Parrots, Parrakeets, and all the smaller popular kinds of foreign birds, gaily plumaged and in fine condition. In arranging the show-room Messrs. Gamage have not omitted to give suitable prominence to the accessories of bird-keeping. The intending aviculturist has a large assortment of cages awaiting his inspection, among which he can hardly fail to find one to suit both himself and his bird. In addition to the cages there is an adequate display of bird-foods, together with various preparations and appliances useful to whose delights in bird-culture; also of CAGE BIRDS books and booklets. Messrs. Gamage are to be congratulated in having added another attraction of wide appeal to the many that are to be found in their enticing emporium.

"Please thank all those that answered my advt. in CAGE BIRDS re Crest-bred Cock. I had so many replies I could not answer them all."—H. RIDDINGTON (Newmarket).

"Allow me a little space to thank all those who replied to my advert. last week. Am pleased to state I sold all Norwich last Saturday. It behoves one and all to take advantage of your advertising medium."—J. W. CHRISTON (Annfield Plain).

Singing Contests.

SEAHAM HARBOUR.

First Linnet Club singing held Feb. 21, Canterbury Arms. 30 sang for ten prizes. 1, J. Briggs; 2, Armstrong; 3, Galbraith; 4, Reay; 5, Hills; 6, Hartley; 7, Nugent; 8, Nugent; 9, Walker; 10, Briggs. Judge and timekeeper gave every satisfaction. W. Vincent judge; H. Wilson, timekeeper. J. Nugent, Sec.

LEEDS.

Quality contest, held Skinners' Arms, Buslinthorpe, Feb. 21. 19 birds sang. 1, Ward; 2, Binns; 3, Chipindale. Also grand contest, Feb. 22. 27 sang. 1, Ward; 2, Binns; 3, Ward; 4, Hayes. Judges, C. Clayton and J. Jellars.—C. Clayton.

Open contest for quality Linnet singing, held Albion Hotel, Saville Green, York Road, Feb. 21. 24 sang for three prizes. 1, W. Sissons; 2, Hardcastle; 2, Applevard. Judges, Jennings, Naylor, Smith. Feb. 22, 32 sang for four prizes. 1, W. Sissons; 2, Wood; 3, F. Chadwick; 4, P. Johnson. Judges, Naylor, Jennings, Mellia. Also a grand Roller contest at night. 19 birds sang for three prizes. 1, Mitchell; 2, Lacy; 3, shared by Lipman and Wilkinson. Judges, Jennings, Appleyard, and Sellers.—Walter Naylor, Hon. Sec.

CASTLEFORD.

Weekly contest George and Dragon, Bridge-street, for three minutes' time singing, Feb. 21; 40 birds entered. 1, Liversedge; 2, Nelson; 3, Morley; 4, Caddy. Feb. 22, 19 entered. 1, Caddy; 2, Brindley; 3, Wainwright. There will not be a sing Feb. 28, but a general meeting.—J. Brindley, Sec.

PONTEFRACT.

Weekly Linnet contest held Woodman Inn, Feb. 21; 31 birds entered for three prizes, and some good singing was done. Three minutes' time sing: 1, 2, Merrick; 3, Beard. Open sing, Feb. 22; 39 birds entered for three prizes. 1, Piper; 2, Nelson, 3, Jones.—S. Pugh, Sec.

KIPPAX.

Members' sing held headquarters, Commercial Hotel, Feb. 14; 22 birds sang for 3 prizes. 1, 3, Cooper; 2, Liversidge. Members' time sing, Feb. 21; 21 birds sang. 1, A. Cooper, 72 secs.; 2, J. Cooper, 53; 2, tie between above, 45 each.—A. Tomlin, Sec.

The Master Singer of the Canary Tribe

How to keep the Roller Canary in health, to breed for pleasure and profit, and train for exhibition.

I THINK I have made it clear that high-class stock cannot be got for a "mere song"; this applies not only to English bred birds, but also to those imported by the Germans. any instances can be recalled of fanciers visiting Germany who have met with polite refusals when they have wished to purchase classical birds. The Roller is their national variety of Canary, and they are good judges of a bird's song, and although the price they set on the birds may not be so high as it is in England, yet their choice birds are not sent over to us in large numbers, as some people would have us believe.

The fact of the matter is that they do not send us sufficient, for there is always a ready demand for classical stock on arrival, and in some instances orders are booked beforehand for them. This may not read very encouraging to those anxious to obtain high-class stock, and are not blessed with a deep pocket; but, turn to what hobby you will, and you will find that high-class stock will sell for a good price.

Many of the inexperienced become confused by those birds which are often offered and described as Schoolmasters, and contest singers at a price that is little more than the value of a good bred hen. It is impossible for anyone to keep offering either Schoolmasters or contest singers throughout the autumn and winter months at this ridiculously low price. They may be Schoolmasters in their way, but they are not fit to tutor the young birds that are intended to uphold the breeder's reputation at our exhibitions.

Neither are these contest singers meant as the same class of birds as our contest singers, we never see these offers from our breeders, and the reason is not far to seek, we are always open to purchase anything that is really good to cross in with our own birds. Fanciers should safeguard themselves by using the deposit system when dealing with strangers.

At one time it was quite a common occurrence for cocks (?) to be offered at 2s. 6d. each, but thanks to the publicity of the Fancy Press these have been driven into the background. The game is still being played by a few, especially by the hawkers who travel from town to town and stand in a market place offering the birds for sale. The fact of never hearing any of these birds sing on the stall should be enough to arouse anyone's suspicion regarding their sex. It is usual to have a few singing cocks, and if you enquire the price of these they are either "being kept as tutors," or the price is about 7s. 6d. A favourite method with this class of dealer is to lay the bird on its back, blow the feathers from around the vent, and giving it a rapid glance, tell you that from its formation it is a cock bird. If there is any difference in the formation of the vents of the sexes before they come into breeding condition, it has yet to be learned. I have not yet been able to see the difference, even with the aid of a microscope.

I would recommend where it is inconvenient to procure the best at the outset, to commence on the same lines as many have done in the past. By starting with a few inexpensive birds a double purpose will be served. A knowledge is being acquired in the rudiments of Canary keeping and breeding, and the fancier is learning to recognise the difference in the tours, and know them by their respective names. Further, the surplus stock can be sold off at the end of the year, and the proceeds used towards obtaining a better article. Even with the commencement of a few mediocre birds I believe it is better to set out with an object in view, and endeavour to better the song tours.

It may be asked whether the game is worth the candle, seeing that they are only third-raters. I believe in this case that it is, for you will be gaining experience and become accustomed to what will be required when you are purchasing and mating for breeding high-class stock for exhibition purposes, because the same rules will apply in both cases, how to choose your birds, and suitably mate them, with a view to enhancing the value of their progeny.

It must be borne in mind that the hen plays a part equal to that of the cock in the production of our songster, and some fanciers go further than this and say that a good hen and a poor cock will breed better youngsters than a good cock and a poor hen. This is as it should be, for a good class hen is cheaper to purchase than a good class cock, and it is just the thing that we now require. It is a mistake to pick up one hen here, one there, in a haphazard way (unless we are experimenting), just for the simple reason that So-and-so will accept a shilling less than another is asking. The first consideration is certainly not the price, but whether the hen, bred from a song point of view, is suitable to mate with your cock.

As a rule there is not much to pick and choose from in a cheap cock bird, but if one can be found that will sing a nice deep toned tour, and is suitable as regards age and health this would be a fair specimen to begin with. Of course, this cock will be faulty, and though the blood of a good class hen will not be impregnated with so many faulty tours as that of the cheap cock, yet it is not a wise proceeding to obtain a hen that is bred from parents singing different faults to those of the cock it is wished to mate her with. It will be a difficult matter to obtain hens that are bred from parents entirely free from faults, yet it should not be difficult to get them bred from a cock that is singing the same faults as your own cock. If a little consideration is given to this matter in the first place when purchasing your birds, it will save a deal of disappointment, for at the outset you will be setting a foundation for the deep sounding tours that are so much valued in the Roller's song, also endeavouring to keep the objectionable tours at a minimum.

The Construction & Management of an Outdoor Aviary for British Hardbills.

By A. F. BELL (Berkhampstead).

FOR ordinary purposes an aviary of from 10 to 15 feet in length and 6 feet in height will do admirably. This should be composed of an indoor compartment and an outdoor flight. The indoor part should be six feet long with a sloping roof. The slope should be rather steep, about two feet from top to gutter. It goes without saying that the indoor part should have its back against a wall which makes one covered in side, and it is advisable to have at least one other side covered, so that the birds can shelter comfortably even in the worst weather, especially on perches above the gutter.

The floor should be cemented about three inches above ground level and should be covered with sand. The open flight, in which birds always like spending the day-time, should not have a roof, though it is a good plan to have a piece of American cloth ready with which to cover it up in very bad weather to prevent the ground from being swamped. There should be a sliding board to separate the outer and inner parts, as this facilitates cleaning, and each part should have a door.

Feeding utensils have always been a trouble to me, and probably always will be, because a thoroughly satisfactory outside feeder is still to be invented. Moreover, if vessels of food are placed inside the aviary it will not be long before you find the seed bill greatly increasing owing to the fact that the birds will scatter half their food over the floor. However, most aviculturists seem to be quite contented with this method. I myself use a fairly large box with a glass back which is fastened outside the wire of the shelter, and in which I have made two feeding holes, just big enough for the birds to get their heads through.

For water I have one large dish on the ground of the outdoor flight for bathing, as well as a smaller drinking water vessel fastened outside the wire. The flight should be bedded down with clean soil, and this, as well as the sand, must be renewed once a week, while once every six weeks it is a very good thing to scrub out the whole of the indoor shelter, including the cement, with soap and hot water. At the same time the utensils and perches should be thoroughly washed.

It is best to have several bushes in the flight, Box, Elder, and Euonymus are the most cheap and useful, and they will do best planted in large pots. It is a good thing to have two or three of these bushes to spare in the garden, which can be exchanged for the ones in the aviary when they get soiled, and these should be kept out till they have recovered and then re-exchanged, though, of course, this does not apply to the breeding season.

An aviary need not be of expensive construction; mine cost roughly 30s. to make, out of which the wire, which must be half-inch mesh, cost nearly half. The cementing, utensils, and bushes cost 10s. more, making altogether 40s. When the aviary is finished it should be given a coat of green paint, which makes it look neater and also keeps the wood from rotting.

The first thing to say about stocking an aviary is that a bird the size of a Greenfinch can be put in with safety to each square foot of the indoor floor, though I need hardly mention such a well-known fact. I myself think that it is best not to stock quite up to this maximum. The following will be a good assortment for an aviary with indoor flight six feet by three: One pair each Goldfinches, Bullfies, Greenfinches, Chaffinches, Redpolls, Linnets, and Siskins, all thoroughly hardy birds and suitable for a beginner, though, of course, if he does not want such a varied assortment he could easily start with several pairs of his favourite species, or if his wish tends towards Buntings these are quite suitable for keeping in the same aviary with Finches, though the Corn Bunting should be avoided.

I have purposely omitted to mention the Bramble-finch because it is a distinctly unsatisfactory bird for a novice. It is fearfully addicted to fighting, and I know of a case in which one killed two birds, and had to have its wings clipped. Its other drawback is its restlessness at night, for it often moves from perch to perch in the dark, uttering its harsh cry and, of course, disturbing the other birds.

When you have decided on your birds, the next thing, of course, is to get them. There are several ways of doing this, and the most usual is to buy from dealers. Of course, it is possible for the beginner to catch his own birds, though in my opinion it is best for him to buy all his stock straight from a catcher, either directly they are on hard seed, or, better still, before, because it is both interesting and advantageous for him to get his own birds on seed and steady them himself, and this method reduces to a minimum the chance of an infectious disease, such as septic fever, creeping into the aviary.

It is best to buy the birds two at a time, put them in separate cages to get them steady, and introduce them gradually into the aviary. To begin with, put the seed and water inside the cages; the seed should be two parts Canary to one mixed dandelion, teasel, and soaked rape. As well as this a good deal of green food should be given to those which eat it; while to the Chaffinches and those which show a fancy for insects a few mealworms should be given. In a very short time they will begin to get steady, and a little of the green food as well as the dandelion seed can be dispensed with, and thus they get used to the hard seed. Then introduce them into the aviary a pair at a time, till the whole stock is started fair and square.

The ordinary aviary seed should consist of canary, teasel, and a little German summer rape, and a handful of the richer seeds mixed together, such as hemp, sunflower, maw, linseed, and niger, may be given. A little green food, lettuce, watercress, chickweed, shepherd's purse, and groundsel, in season, will do no harm.

MY FIRST EXPERIENCES IN BIRD-KEEPING.

By A. H. MUDGE (Wimbledon).

AS far as I can remember my first attempt at keeping birds was in an outdoor aviary. Two hen Canaries had been given to me and when the spring came I thought I would like to have a garden aviary. So one was built. It was quite a simple affair. It was all open wire-work and was placed against a thick holly hedge. The length of it was about 8½ft., and it was 4ft. high, and also 4ft. wide. Inside were two thick elder bushes and in one corner a shelter was fixed. The seed was supplied in a dish on a shelf, and the water in a flower-pot saucer. The aviary was inhabited by a hen Canary, one cock and two hen Lesser Redpolls, a cock Linnet, a pair of Java Sparrows, and a cock House Sparrow. The birds were fed on plain canary seed, with plenty of green food and clean fresh water. But I do not now advocate such a plain diet.

The aviary was a source of much interest to me, small though it was. I knew little or nothing about breeding; but I put a nest box in one corner of the aviary and also fixed a small sized basket half filled with fine hay, in the shelter. Great was my delight one day when I noticed one of the hen Redpolls carrying some cotton-wool and fine hay into the basket. All went well and she laid four eggs. She sat her full time and hatched one chick which lived to be fully fledged. It was so small that it had to be moved along with it's mother into a single-breeding cage, as it could get through the aviary netting. However, after a few days it managed to drown itself in the drinking vessel. The cock Redpoll did not help the hen to hatch the eggs or rear the chick. The most I ever saw him was to fly out of a bush and remain suspended in mid-air singing his love song all the while.

So much for the Redpolls. Meanwhile, in the nest box in the corner, the hen Canary was sitting on a clutch of four eggs. In due time one Dark Linnet mule made its appearance. It only lived for three days. Whether this was owing to the fact that no egg-food was supplied or whether the mother was a sweater or bad feeder it is difficult to say. The Linnet was a splendid father and most attentive to his mate; he was also a particularly steady bird.

As for the Javas, they were a pair of Greys. Only once did they show any signs of matrimonial thoughts, and that was when the hen was once seen to pick a stick up in her beak and carry it into a bush. When the summer holidays came I had to leave the aviary and its inmates in strange hands. Ere a fortnight had passed the birds were stolen at dawn one morning, so I was told. So ended my first attempt at bird-keeping. I have a larger aviary now, with many more kinds of birds in it, but I still look back with pleasure upon my first aviary. I may say that I think that many birds could live on a plainer diet and in more open places than they do, for I never lost a bird in my old aviary in spite of the plain fare and very exposed conditions, but though open it was perfectly free from draughts. Of course, they were only common birds that I then kept.

Outdoor Aviary for British Hardbills.

As for insects those which the birds can find in the aviary will suffice. On this diet the birds should keep in good health all the year round, and the Greenfinches should turn out a nice yellow colour.

Of all ways of keeping English Finches for show I think the outdoor method is really the best, as when settled down the birds will become tighter feathered than any indoors, and will be healthier, owing to fresh air, exercise, and bathing in cold water. Shortly before showing the birds, however, it will be better to take them in and steady them down again, as, of course, they become nervous in the aviary. In the spring it is not unlikely that some of the steadier birds will go to nest, especially the Greenfinches and Goldfinches, though if breeding is the object in view a far larger aviary or a less number of birds will be necessary.

TWO INTERESTING LITTLE FOREIGNERS.

The Cutthroat and the Black-headed Mannikin

By M. H. S.

The above-named two interesting little foreigners are fairly widely known and kept. The Cutthroat (or Ribbon Finch as it is sometimes called) is a little brown and white speckled bird, a little smaller than a Sparrow. It is named "Cutthroat" because of a red band under the cock's bill which makes the bird look as though someone had been trying to behead it. Then hen is minus this "ornament."

I have heard they breed easily in this country, but I know I placed my pair in a biggish cage with a suitable nesting receptacle, and although they constantly sit in it I am still waiting to see the eggs. My specimens will not bathe, but the cock is very fond of perching on the edge of an enamel dish that serves as a bath for the Mannikins, while one of the latter is splashing inside.

The Black-headed Mannikin is a handsome little bird with a black head and chestnut body and a bluish-white beak. It is a smaller bird than the Cutthroat and more tightly feathered. My pair enjoy a bath very much, and bathing improves their plumage. I find their nails grow very long if not attended to often. The other day when I was attending to the hen she bit the scissors. After I was finished and had released her from my hand she flew to a perch and "swore" at me—very strong birdie language!

The cock's song is very uncanny. It is a weird wail, very difficult to describe, and I have sometimes heard him repeat it as many as eight times running—such a contrast to the Cutthroat's pleasant little warble. The Cutthroats and Mannikins should have canary seed as their staple food, with loose and spray millet as a change. They enjoy fresh chickweed as green food.

Questions and Answers.

DOUBTS AND DIFFICULTIES SOLVED BY SPECIALISTS

Queries will be answered under the following conditions:—

(1)—All questions must be clearly written in ink (or typewritten) on one side of paper, and must conclude with either the correct name of querist or a pseudonym, or initials.

(2)—The proper name and address in full of querist must always be written on a separate sheet of paper, and enclosed with the query. In no case must the address appear on the query.

(3)—Queries intended for different specialists must not be written on the same sheet of paper.

(4)—Queries must not include or be included in orders for books, instructions re advertisements, or any other matter for publication.

(5)—The department to which the queries refer must be stated in bold letters on the left-hand corner of the query.

(6)—If an answer in the same week's issue is desired queries must be posted to reach us by Monday's first post at latest. Queries will be dealt with in the order in which they are received, and only as space permits. The earlier queries are received the better attention they are likely to have.

(7)—Queries relating to illnesses of birds, except enquiries as to cause of death (for which see Post Mortems), will be answered by return of post on receipt of a postal order for sixpence and an addressed stamped envelope. Queries of an ordinary nature will be answered by post, if desired, on receipt of a postal order for one shilling and a stamped addressed envelope.

(8)—All who desire letters of complaint written to advertisers must state grounds for doing so clearly and fully, and enclose a fee of sixpence, otherwise their letters will not receive attention. All the fees received from this source will be handed over in full to the "Referee's" Poor Childrens' Fund (London).

(9)—All queries must be addressed to the Editor, "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C. Only queries so sent will be answered. Postcards are not admissible.

THE following gentlemen represent CAGE BIRDS staff of ADVISORY EXPERTS. Queries must in no case be addressed to any of them individually, but to the Editor.

NOTE.—If no answer is required concerning the proper mating, etc., of Norwich, Yorkshires, Crests, Cinnamons, Greens, Borders, Lizards, Scotch or any other variety of the Canary family, we shall, should the querist desire us to do so, be pleased to submit his questions for answer to some leading specialist of the day on the variety concerned.

CANARY QUERIES

Answered by CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

MIXED SEEDS (M. C. M.).—For use as an occasional change for a week or two, or as an occasional tit-bit in small quantities, there is no risk whatever in giving the seed mixture you name. Indeed, as a tit-bit now and again, a little in addition to the staple diet of canary and rape is wholly beneficial, and helps to keep the bird well up to concert pitch in song. But as the staple diet over an extended period, it is not advisable to use a mixture of this kind. Your usual staple of canary and rape is quite the best for this purpose.

BREEDING QUERIES (A Beginner). (1) No, it would neither be correct to feed the parents entirely on soft food nor largely on hemp when breeding. At this time, as at all others, the staple diet should consist of good sound canary only, with a pinch of summer rape given separately each day. Or you may, if you wish to avoid the separate supply of rape, give a staple mixture of three parts canary to one part rape. A small quantity of egg food once or twice a week when hens are sitting, green food in very small quantity ditto if the weather is warm, is quite sufficient. When young are hatched, then begin to give egg food, in very small quantities at first, fresh at least twice each day. When young are three or four days old, add in like manner small quantities of green food, and when they are ten days old add a little cracked hemp daily. Upon the whole you had better provide yourself with a copy of "Canary Breeding for Beginners," which our Manager would send you, post free, for 7d., which will give you full details on all points. (2) Depends upon the condition of the Linnet whether it would be too early to mate a Canary with it before May. (3) There is no reason at all why you should not take a brood of pure Canaries from each hen before mating with the Linnet. Certainly it would not spoil the latter's chance to do so.

SINGS VERY LITTLE (W. Smith).—Rollers, like all other breeds, vary greatly in their vocal powers, and in quantity or frequency of their performance, as well as in quality, and it may be that your bird is only a moderate performer. The comparative quietude of your home and absence of any other singing bird would in some degree tend to keep such a bird very backward, but as the bird is still young, and the season for vigorous song only just beginning, it is quite possible it may "open out" much more frequently in the course of the next month or so. It would certainly help to incite it to do so if you could have a good lusty singing cock to keep in the same room with it for the next few weeks. Give it a morsel of bread sopped in milk and sprinkled with soft sugar three times a week for a month, and on three other days a pinch of a mixture of equal parts maw, niger, gold of pleasure, and sesame seed. Give a spray of watercress four times a week when available.

FOOD AND MEDICINE (C. Hutchings).—(1) Your feeding is scarcely generous enough to prepare the birds for breeding. In addition to the staple of plain canary seed, give half a teaspoonful per bird of summer rape every second day and a scrap of green food. For the latter, watercress will do if the birds appear to be coming forward nicely, but if they are at all backward get some nice crisp young dandelion leaves and give two of these per bird instead for a fortnight, after which give the same quantity daily until birds have gone to nest. On the alternate days between giving rape, give the cocks half a teaspoonful of egg-food, and a small pinch of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet, teazle, linseed, and broken groats, twice in each week for a fortnight, and afterwards give same quantity of mixed seed or egg food on each occasion. Give the hens the mixed seed only on the alternate days—half teaspoonful each. When nearly ready for mating, feed same as the cocks. (2) It is possible for cock to breed successfully without being in full song, but in such cases there is always a doubt of eggs being fertilised. Full, vigorous song is the best and ideal condition for mating. (3) Why do you ask for good cough medicine? Are the birds you enquire about suffering from coughs? If so, you should endeavour to discover and remove the cause. Having done this, five drops each of oxymel of squills, ipecacuanha wine, and syrup of tolu in the water for a few days should set matters right.

THREE IN ONE (A.C.S.I.—(1) I cannot advise you to cross direct with the cinnamon to increase size of your Norwich Plainheads. You should be able to find lots of suitable material for increasing size without resorting to an outside cross. You omit to say whether the particular bird you desire to mate is a cock or hen, yellow or buff, or how it has been bred, so I can only reply in the most general terms. You cannot do better than introduce among your stock which lacks size one or two pure-bred Plainhead cocks, buffs, as large as you can get them, consistent with keeping good Norwich type, with close, compact, and comparatively short plumage, and especially free from tendency to drop tails, crossed wings, and with short, well carried tails. Select birds with good large frames, stout short beaks, and large heads, full necks, and round chests. In short, get as much substance as you can, and have as much of it as possible in front of the perch. Mate these birds with moderate sized buff hens of good type, and utilise the progeny the following season for mating up in the usual way with your stock, each season endeavouring to keep as much size as possible in the cocks used for stock, but at same time not losing sight of type and quality. (2) Allow them the free use of bath in mild weather. Give a morsel of bread and milk with two drops of cod liver oil emulsion on it every second day, and add six drops of tincture of gentian and three of tincture of steel to water on the alternate days until plumage is tightened up. (3) See last part of reply to "C. Hutchings" is this issue.

DROPPING FEATHERS (W. M. Stone).—It was undoubtedly placing the birds in front of the window which brought on the moulting. Keep them now in a fairly equable temperature, which need not be very high, free from cold draughts, and away from the fumes of burning lights in the evenings. In addition to the staple diet, give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion well mixed in it, and sprinkled with maw seed every second day for two or three weeks, and on the alternate days give a similar quantity of a mixture of equal parts hemp, millet, teazle, and broken groats. Also dissolve half a drachm of ammoniated citrate of iron and quinine in an ounce of sherry, add a teaspoonful of glycerine, and give 20 drops of this mixture in the water two days in every three until the feathers cease dropping.

TRIO OF YORKSHIRES (T.H.W.B.).—(1) The fact that your birds have been bred in an outdoor aviary will in no way whatever diminish your chances of success in breeding with them indoors, especially as you appear to be keeping them in an unheated room, but rather the reverse. (2) The nervousness is only natural in such birds. It will largely pass away as the birds get more accustomed to your attentions to them. They may even grow fairly tame, but of this there is no certainty, as some specimens never quite lose their native distrust. (3) No, the deformity will not necessarily prevent hen breeding successfully. (4) When the first hen has laid her eggs and begun to sit, take away cock and mate him with second hen. When second hen commences to sit, remove cock and cage him alone until hen No. 1 is ready to go to nest again. Then repeat process. Leave both hens to hatch and rear each brood by themselves.

A YORKSHIRE COUPLET (C.W.M.).—(1) It will be quite useless mating this bird until at least two or three weeks after the moulting has been quite stopped. First of all see that the exciting causes—cold draughts, extreme and sudden fluctuations, damp, etc.—are quite eliminated from the conditions under which it is kept. Then treat the same as advised to "W. M. Stone" in this issue. I should advise you to mate it when ready with a ticked or lightly green-marked hen in preference to a cinnamon marked. (2) This cock will be quite old enough for mating at the beginning of April, which will be soon enough to commence breeding, and may safely be mated then if he is in the proper condition for mating. Select as a mate for him, if possible, a dark-eyed clear buff hen, bred from two yellows, as neat and boxy in feather as you can get her, and with a closely and neatly packed pipe-tail.

CANARIES FROM PALERMO (James Boyle).—It is impossible to give any definite opinion about these birds without seeing them. I suspect they are to a great extent a nondescript and primitive type of Canary in comparison with our fancy breeds. If your object is merely to breed singers or birds for pets, Border Fancy mates would be as good as anything for giving you a strain of nice compact birds with a little appearance of "breed." But for the highest class of singing, with rather less aristocratic appearance, Roller mates would be best.

CRACKLING NOISE (Hopeful).—The noise and yawning habit you describe is frequently due to a slight catarrhal cold owing to the birds being exposed to temporary cold draught. See that your birds are in a cosy place, not necessarily very warm, but quite free from cold draughts and dust, and from the fumes of burning lights in the evenings. Keep them in a nice airy place, which is fairly equable. For the next fortnight give in addition to the staple of plain canary seed to each bird half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion mixed in it, and sprinkled with maw seed every second day, and on the alternate days give a similar quantity of summer rape and a spray of watercress. Stop all other foods, etc., you have been giving. In the drinking water add a pinch of Epsom salts for one day only, and afterwards give instead 20 drops of whisky, five each of oxymel of squills, and ipecacuanha wine, and two of eucalyptus oil, well shaken together, two days in every three for a week or so. (2) As regards feeding up for breeding, at end of this treatment, see first part of reply to "C. Hutchings" in this issue.

OUT OF SONG (E. K. South).—The illness and subsequent moulting has doubtless taken a good deal out of the bird, so it is not surprising if it takes some time to resume its song. Continue the staple of plain canary seed, and in addition give every second day half a teaspoonful of summer rape (dry) and a morsel of banana, and on the alternate days give a similar quantity of crushed sponge cake with two drops of cod liver oil emulsion mixed in it, and a spray of watercress. Twice a week give a pinch of the seed mixture advised in first part of reply to "C. Hutchings" in this issue. Stop all other items of food and tit-bits. In the drinking water add 20 drops of Chemical Food every second day for a month. Glad to hear of success so far. Hope it will last.

IN-BREEDING (F. Dawkins).—The right or wrong way of mating close relations such as you suggest is, I am afraid, rather beyond the pale of these queries. If you mean is the practice advisable, or likely to have a detrimental effect upon the progeny then I can say at once that as a general rule it is not advisable, and if carried on to any extent will most certainly produce very detrimental effects upon the progeny. But this close in-breeding is never recommended in a general way, but only when it is deemed essential to obtain or fix any particular point in a strain of birds. Then it is advised as a means to a particular end, and, practically always, the risk is pointed out, and everything made clear that such matings are wholly exceptional in character and not to be persisted in indefinitely. In-breeding is a very useful servant, but a bad task-master. It is sometimes expedient in breeding any kind of pedigree high-class stock. But the morals of it—well, I think we had better leave that point to our theological contemporaries.

WASTES SEEDS AND MOPES (G.S.).—Give a staple diet of a mixture of three parts canary to one part summer rape in the seed-box. In addition give separately every second day a morsel of bread the size of a hazel nut, sopped in cold milk, drained, and sprinkled with soft sugar, and also a small spray of watercress, or a crisp young leaf of dandelion. On the alternate days give a morsel of banana and a pinch of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet, and maw. In the water give six drops of syrup of rhubarb and as much sulphate of soda as will cover a sixpence every second day for a week. After this give instead four drops each of tincture of gentian, tincture of calumba, and aromatic sulphuric acid every second day for a fortnight.

CONSTIPATION (L.W.H., Salford).—Stop giving the cod liver oil food for the present, and give instead a morsel of bread sopped in cold milk and sprinkled with soft sugar twice a week, and give a spray of watercress daily. In case you cannot always get the latter, you may give a grape as a substitute. Break the grape open, drop a pinch of maw on the inner pulp, and fasten berry on end of a perch so that bird may peck it away as she likes. Also add ten drops of syrup of buckthorn to the water every second day for a week. There is no reason why you should not mate her this season. She will probably be all right in a week or so.

FOR BUILDING AVIARIES (J. Hollington).—"Aviaries, Bird Rooms, and Cages," post free, 2s. 3d., from our Manager, is the book you want for advice on the building and planning of outdoor aviaries.

CONSTANTLY PICKING HERSELF (Constant Reader).—From your description I am inclined to think there is nothing at all wrong with the bird, beyond being in a rather forward condition. Does she take a feather or two off her breast, side or flanks in her beak now and again and hop about perch gingerly, as though tripping up herself; and, maybe, end up by trying to place them on the perch, although she has not plucked them out? If this is so, the above suggestion is correct, and there is no need to worry. If the feathers are really dropping out, give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with two drops of cod liver oil emulsion mixed in it and sprinkled with maw seed, every second day for a fortnight, and on the alternate days give a similar quantity of a mixture of equal parts maw, millet, and teazle, and add to the drinking water six drops of tincture of gentian and four of tincture of steel.

PLACE FOR BREEDING (H. R. S.).—It is rarely that the ordinary living room is a very suitable place for breeding Canaries, but still, as you have no other place available, it is some encouragement to know that a great number of small breeders have no other place for the pursuit of their hobby, and yet manage to achieve a fair amount of success. If your living room is of good size, and so arranged that you can set apart a bright, sunny corner, or portion of a wall, for your cages, where they will be quite free from draughts from open doors or windows, and at a fair distance from the fireplace in order to ensure a more equable temperature, and away from burning lights in the evening, I see no reason why you should not be quite successful. The points I have named are the real crux of the matter. Get as near as you can to the conditions mentioned; begin in a small way at first, say, with two pairs or one trio of birds; and with careful management you will doubtless succeed.

A SQUEAKY NORWICH (G. M.).—Really, the best advice I can give you is not to breed at all with this bird. It is quite possible he may breed successfully, but the odds are decidedly against him, and even if he succeeds it will merely be laying up future trouble for your young stock. Keep the bird in an equable and fairly comfortable temperature, but do not overheat him. Give a diet of plain canary, with a free supply of watercress daily, if available, and limit diet strictly to this for a week, during which time add a pinch of Epsom salts to the drinking water every second day. After this time add a pinch of summer rape to diet every second day, and on the alternate days give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with three drops of cod liver oil emulsion mixed in it and sprinkled with maw. In the water add, instead of the salts, twenty drops of whisky, five each of oxymel of squills and ipecac. wine, and two of eucalyptus oil, well shaken together, every second day. Continue the latter part of treatment for three weeks, and if bird is no well in that time, write again, and I will advise you further.

MATE FOR ROLLER (B. C. Twiss).—(1) The ring on the leg of the bird is of no importance whatever. It is simply a numbered marking ring which would be placed there by the breeder to enable him to trace the bird's ancestry by the number it bore on its ring. I take it you wish to breed good songsters, and for this purpose you should mate it with a clear buff Roller hen, preferably one bred from a strain of birds trained to sing the same type of song as the cock. This you cannot tell by simply looking at the hen. Could you not get your expert friend who selected the cock for you to procure you a suitable mate for him? This should be the most satisfactory method. The price, of course, will depend largely upon the vendor. But I should say about 4s. (2) Highly bred Canaries are not necessarily more tame or tractable than common ones, except in so far as they are given more particular care and attention, which naturally results in making them more familiar with their human associates than common birds, which are comparatively neglected. Given the same amount of care and attention, the commonest Canary would be just as tameable as the most highly-bred.

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES AND HYBRIDS.

AVIARY MATTERS (S.).—I think your chances of success would be greater if you could manage your hybrid pairs in large cages, but I quite understand your position, and will help you all I can. Your selection of hens seems to be quite in order, excepting that I think you would do better to take out the Linnet and substitute a cock bird in her place. I do not think so many Redpolls would be an advantage. These birds are so very gregarious that they would be sure to keep to themselves so much that they would be almost useless for pairing purposes. I would therefore advise you to take out a couple of the Mealies. You will then have cock Canaries, the two Siskins (one of which you may have to take out, if they insist upon keeping together, entirely neglecting the hens), the cock Linnet, and two Redpolls. These should be quite sufficient. I am afraid the hen Chaffinch will not be of much use, as I hardly see what she is likely to mate with, but anyway, you could try her, and remove if useless or at all interfering with the others. I do not see any necessity for building your Canary aviary far away from the others, if it is at all inconvenient to do so. (2) I rather fancy your chances of success. I think you would be sure to turn out something, but you cannot depend upon any of the British hens rearing the young. The Greenfinches would be the most likely to do so. (3) I do not think I would add any other birds this first season. You will do better to keep to the Finches. (4) I would advise you to part with the Albino Robins, as I see no advantage in keeping them for breeding purposes. You had better procure two ordinary birds of known sex, and then, if you have any desire to try breeding operations, you will know how to go on. Of the two you mention I would advise the Redstart, as being the nearer related. Be sure to give the birds in the big aviary plenty of nesting material, so as to encourage them to build. You had better put the hens in the Canary aviary about the second week in April, but do not turn in the cocks until you are expecting eggs from the British birds, as they would go to nest almost directly, and you would not have to keep eggs many days waiting for sitting hens.

CHAFFINCH BARE (Pink Pink).—You give me no particulars as to how you treat your bird. You may be feeding it incorrectly. Perhaps a change to correct treatment may improve matters, although it will not be for some time, as you say he has been bare for twelve months. Feed him as follows: Canary and touzle, pint of each; summer rape and linseed, quarter pint of each; mix these together for his staple food. Give him a little sunflower seed every day, and a spoonful of wild seed mixture twice a week. Let him have a couple of mealworms every day, giving other insect life as you are able to obtain it, such as flies, gentles, green fly, small beetles, and caterpillars, live ants' eggs. Procure some radish and turnip seed and place some of it in a shallow dish, keep moist until it begins to sprout, and offer him a little every day. Try him with wild green food, such as chickweed, shepherd's purse, groundsel, and dandelion, both the fresh young leaves and the seed pods. Put the bird in a big cage and let him bathe frequently. A little fresh lard on the bare places will assist the growth of feathers. If you follow out this treatment, there is no reason why the bird should not retain a perfect plumage. Our Nutshell Booklet No. 13 on the Chaffinch would be useful to you.

GOLDFINCH SOFT (A. C. S.).—The seed you are giving him may not quite suit him. I would therefore advise you to give him some sunflower, say half a dozen seeds every day; then see if you can procure some genuine wild seed mixture containing thistle, gold of pleasure, dandelion, sesame, as well as other seeds; if not, try to buy them separate. Get two ounces of each, and the same of lettuce; mix these together, add a little maw seed and niger, and give him a teaspoonful three times a week. You are now able to get fresh dandelion leaves, groundsel, chickweed, sow thistle, etc. For medicine, purchase an ounce of the crystal of citrate of iron, and put as much as will cover a sixpennypiece in his drinking water. Give him this every other day for a week, or even a fortnight, if necessary. Place him in a large cage, and put some other bird with him that will bathe. This may induce him to follow a good example; if not, an occasional spraying will brace him up.

LINNET AND GOLDFINCH (C. E. K.).—Yes, hybrids have been produced between the Linnet and Goldfinch. (2) Goldfinches have been bred in captivity both in an aviary and a large breeding cage. In the latter case they were exceedingly tame hand-reared specimens, but there is no reason why you should not try your bird, if you feel inclined. Feed in the same way as you are now doing for the present. In a month's time you can commence to give them a little extra stimulating seed, also a little chopped hard-boiled egg. Give them a nest box and plenty of building material. They are rather late breeders, so you must have patience. (3) Thirteen to fourteen days. (4) A dozen to fifteen would be quite enough for your aviary. Do not overcrowd.

REARING MAGPIES (Novice).—As you do not enquire about the food, I presume you know what to give them. When hand-rearing British birds I generally put a pinch of fine grit in their soft food every two or three days. Gritty sand is what I generally use or a little scraped cuttlefish. I know many birds have been reared without any at all, but to me it seems quite natural for them to have some. While the old birds are feeding the young, many of the insects and worms they give them must have dirt and grit adhering to them, consequently by giving grit we are only following nature, which is the best we can do.

GOLDFINCH TROUBLE (W. L.).—Your bird may be quite free from red mite, but I am inclined to think he is infested with grey lice. Catch him again and have another look. If you hold him in the hand for a minute or so, you will see them running about. The remedy is to dust him well with insect powder, and when he bathes put a little solution of quassia chips in the water. If you find insects, you will have to repeat the dusting every three or four days until quite clear. You appear to be feeding him correctly, although you make no mention of green food. Some dandelion and sow thistle leaves would do him good. You had better give him a course of Chemical food—a small teaspoonful in the drinking water. Boil the water first, or it will not mix.
